Dear Mel:

It's very good to hear from you again. Enclosed is a copy of Ken Clark's speech. There may be some minor revisions before it is printed, but this is what he delivered to our Annual Meeting. Needless to say, it is a very controversial speech, but I think a courageous one.

Recently, Harvey Friedman came by the office with a member of the Commission. We had arranged for him to speak with several of our staff people. However, it turned into something of a staff meeting and a group therapy session. Please express my regrets to Harvey.

Needless to say, we will be happy to assist you in any way we can in your new job.

Sincerely,

Paul Anthony

Dear Paul:

I have just taken leave of absence from Governmental Affairs Institute to head up the Office of Research for the Kerner Commission.

In general, I will be very glad to receive from you any things that you are grinding out that you think are pertinent to our studies.

In particular, I wonder if you have a copy of Kenneth Clark's speech at your annual dinner. I think he said some things that are extremely important.

You may want to have my phone number at hand: 382-8574. Many, many thanks, Paul, and warmest wishes.

REPORT OF THE NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMISSION ON CIVIL DISORDERS

Summary of Report

INTRODUCTION

The summer of 1967 again brought racial disorders to American cities, and with them shock, fear and bewilderment to the nation.

The worst came during a two-week period in July, first in Newark and then in Detroit. Each set off a chain reaction in neighboring communities.

On July 28, 1967, the President of the United States established this Commission and directed us to answer three basic questions:

What happened?

Why did it happen?

What can be done to prevent it from happening again?

To respond to these questions, we have undertaken a broad range of studies and investigations. We have visited the riot cities; we have heard many witnesses; we have sought the counsel of experts across the country.

This is our basic conclusion: Our nation is moving toward two societies, one black, one white—separate and unequal.

Reaction to last summer's disorders has quickened the movement and deepened the division. Discrimination and segregation have long permeated much of American life; they now threaten the future of every American.

This deepening racial division is not inevitable. The movement apart can be reversed. Choice is still possible. Our principal task is to define that choice and to press for a national resolution.

To pursue our present course will involve the continuing polarization of the American community and, ultimately, the destruction of basic democratic values.

The alternative is not blind repression or capitulation to lawlessness. It is the realization of common opportunities for all within a single society.

This alternative will require a commitment to national action—compassionate, massive and sustained, backed by the resources of the most powerful and the richest nation on this earth. From every American it will require new attitudes, new understanding, and, above all, new will.

The vital needs of the nation must be met; hard choices must be made, and, if necessary, new taxes enacted.

Violence cannot build a better society. Disruption and disorder nourish repression, not justice. They strike at the freedom of every citizen. The community cannot—it will not—tolerate coercion and mob rule.

Violence and destruction must be ended—in the streets of the ghetto and in the lives of people.

Segregation and poverty have created in the racial ghetto a destructive environment totally unknown to most white Americans.

What white Americans have never fully understood—but what the Negro can never forget—is that white society is deeply implicated in the ghetto. White institutions created it, white institutions maintain it, and white society condones it.

It is time now to turn with all the purpose at our command to the major unfinished business of this nation. It is time to adopt strategies for action that will produce quick and visible progress. It is time to make good the promises of American democracy to all citizens—urban and rural, white and black, Spanish-surname, American Indian, and every minority group.

Our recommendations embrace three basic principles:

- To mount programs on a scale equal to the dimension of the problems:
- To aim these programs for high impact in the immediate future in order to close the gap between promise and performance;
- To undertake new initiatives and experiments that can change the system of failure and frustration that now dominates the ghetto and weakens our society.

These programs will require unprecedented levels of funding and performance, but they neither probe deeper nor demand more than the problems which called them forth. There can be no higher priority for national action and no higher claim on the nation's conscience.

We issue this Report now, four months before the date called for by the President. Much remains that can be learned. Continued study is essential.

As Commissioners we have worked together with a sense of the greatest urgency and have sought to compose whatever differences exist among us. Some differences remain. But the gravity of the problem and the pressing need for action are too clear to allow further delay in the issuance of this Report.

PART I—WHAT HAPPENED?

Chapter 1—Profiles of Disorder

The report contains profiles of a selection of the disorders that took place during the summer of 1967. These profiles are designed to indicate how the disorders happened, who participated in them, and how local officials, police forces, and the National Guard responded. Illustrative excerpts follow:

NEWARK

. . . It was decided to attempt to channel the energies of the people into a nonviolent protest. While Lofton promised the crowd that a full investigation would be made of the Smith incident, the other Negro leaders began urging those on the scene to form a line of march toward the city hall.

Some persons joined the line of march. Others milled about in the narrow street. From the dark grounds of the housing project came a barrage of rocks. Some of them fell among the crowd. Others hit persons in the line of march. Many smashed the windows of the police station. The rock throwing, it was believed, was the work of youngsters; approximately 2,500 children lived in the housing project.

Almost at the same time, an old car was set afire in a parking lot. The line of march began to disintegrate. The police, their heads protected by World War I-type helmets, sallied forth to disperse the crowd. A fire engine, arriving on the scene, was pelted with rocks. As police drove people away from the station, they scattered in all directions.

A few minutes later a nearby liquor store was broken into. Some persons, seeing a caravan of cabs appear at city hall to protest Smith's arrest, interpreted this as evidence that the disturbance had been organized, and generated rumors to that effect.

However, only a few stores were looted. Within a short period of time, the disorder appeared to have run its course.

. . . On Saturday, July 15, [Director of Police Dominick] Spina received a report of snipers in a housing project. When he arrived he saw approximately 100 National Guardsmen and police officers crouching behind vehicles, hiding in corners and lying on the ground around the edge of the courtyard.

Since everything appeared quiet and it was broad daylight, Spina walked directly down the middle of the street. Nothing happened. As he came to the last building of the complex, he heard a shot. All around him the troopers jumped, believing themselves to be under sniper fire. A moment later a young Guardsman ran from behind a building.

The Director of Police went over and asked him if he had fired the shot. The soldier said yes, he had fired to scare a man away from a window; that his orders were to keep everyone away from windows.

Spina said he told the soldier: "Do you know what you just did? You have now created a state of hysteria. Every Guardsman up and down this street and every state policeman and every city policeman that is present thinks that somebody just fired a shot and that it is probably a sniper."

A short time later more "gunshots" were heard. Investigating, Spina came upon a Puerto Rican sitting on a wall. In reply to a question as to whether he knew "where the firing is coming from?" the man said:

"That's no firing. That's fireworks. If you look up to the fourth floor, you will see the people who are throwing down these cherry bombs."

By this time four truckloads of National Guardsmen had arrived and troopers and policemen were again crouched everywhere looking for a sniper. The Director of Police remained at the scene for three hours, and the only shot fired was the one by the Guardsman.

Nevertheless, at six o'clock that evening two columns of National Guardsmen and state troopers were directing mass fire at the Hayes Housing Project in response to what they believed were snipers. . . .

DETROIT

. . . A spirit of carefree nihilism was taking hold. To riot and destroy appeared more and more to become ends in themselves. Late Sunday afternoon it appeared to one observer that the young people were "dancing amidst the flames."

A Negro plainclothes officer was standing at an intersection when a man threw a Molotov cocktail into a business establishment at the corner. In the heat of the afternoon, fanned by the 20 to 25 m.p.h. winds of both Sunday and Monday, the fire reached the home next door within minutes. As residents uselessly sprayed the flames with garden hoses, the fire jumped from roof to roof of adjacent two- and three-story buildings. Within the hour the entire block was in flames. The ninth house in the burning row belonged to the arsonist who had thrown the Molotov cocktail. . . .

. . . Employed as a private guard, 55-year-old Julius L. Dorsey, a Negro, was standing in front of a market when accosted by two Negro men and a woman. They demanded he permit them to loot the market. He ignored their demands. They began to berate him. He asked a neighbor to call the police. As the argument grew more heated, Dorsey fired three shots from his pistol into the air.

The police radio reported: "Looters, they have rifles." A patrol car driven by a police officer and carrying three National Guardsmen arrived. As the looters fled, the law enforcement personnel opened fire. When the firing ceased, one person lay dead.

He was Julius L. Dorsey . . .

. . . As the riot alternately waxed and waned, one area of the ghetto remained insulated. On the northeast side the residents of some 150 square blocks inhabited by 21,000 persons had, in 1966, banded together in the Positive Neighborhood Action Committee (PNAC). With professional help from the Institute of Urban Dynamics, they had organized block clubs and made plans for the improvement of the neighborhood. . . .

When the riot broke out, the residents, through the block clubs, were able to organize quickly. Youngsters, agreeing to stay in the neighborhood, participated in detouring traffic. While many persons reportedly sympathized with the idea of a rebellion against the "system," only two small fires were set—one in an empty building.

. . . According to Lt. Gen. Throckmorton and Col. Bolling, the city, at this time, was saturated with fear. The National Guardsmen were afraid, the residents were afraid, and the police were afraid. Numerous persons, the majority of them Negroes, were being injured by gunshots of undetermined origin. The general and his staff felt that the major task of the troops was to reduce the fear and restore an air of normalcy.

In order to accomplish this, every effort was made to establish contact and rapport between the troops and the residents. The soldiers—20 percent of whom were Negro—began helping to clean up the streets, collect garbage, and trace persons who had disappeared in the confusion. Residents in the neighborhoods responded with soup and sandwiches for the troops. In areas where the National Guard tried to establish rapport with the citizens, there was a smaller response.

NEW BRUNSWICK

. . . A short time later, elements of the crowd—an older and rougher one than the night before—appeared in front of the police station. The participants wanted to see the mayor.

Mayor [Patricia] Sheehan went out onto the steps of the station. Using a bullhorn, she talked to the people and asked that she be given an opportunity to correct conditions. The crowd was boisterous. Some persons challenged the mayor. But, finally, the opinion, "She's new! Give her a chance!" prevailed.

A demand was issued by people in the crowd that all persons arrested the previous night be released. Told that this already had been done, the people were suspicious. They asked to be allowed to inspect the jail cells.

It was agreed to permit representatives of the people to look in the cells to satisfy themselves that everyone had been released.

The crowd dispersed. The New Brunswick riot had failed to materialize.

Chapter 2—Patterns of Disorder

The "typical" riot did not take place. The disorders of 1967 were unusual, irregular, complex and unpredictable social processes. Like most human events, they did not unfold in an orderly sequence. However, an analysis of our survey information leads to some conclusions about the riot process.

In general:

- The civil disorders of 1967 involved Negroes acting against local symbols of white American society, authority and property in Negro neighborhoods—rather than against white persons.
- Of 164 disorders reported during the first nine months of 1967, eight (5 percent) were major in terms of violence and damage; 33 (20 percent) were serious but not major; 123 (75 percent) were minor and undoubtedly would not have received national attention as "riots" had the nation not been sensitized by the more serious outbreaks.
- In the 75 disorders studied by a Senate subcommittee, 83 deaths were reported. Eighty-two percent of the deaths and more than half the injuries occurred in Newark and Detroit. About 10 percent of the dead and 38 percent of the injured were public employees, primarily law officers and firemen. The overwhelming majority of the persons killed or injured in all the disorders were Negro civilians.
- Initial damage estimates were greatly exaggerated. In Detroit, newspaper damage estimates at first ranged from $200 million to $500 million; the highest recent estimate is $45 million. In Newark, early estimates ranged from $15 to $25 million. A month later damage was estimated at $10.2 million, over 80 percent in inventory losses.

In the 24 disorders in 23 cities which we surveyed:

- The final incident before the outbreak of disorder, and the initial violence itself, generally took place in the evening or at night at a place in which it was normal for many people to be on the streets.
- Violence usually occurred almost immediately following the occurrence of the final precipitating incident, and then escalated rapidly. With but few exceptions, violence subsided during the day, and flared rapidly again at night. The night-day cycles continued through the early period of the major disorders.
- Disorder generally began with rock and bottle throwing and window breaking. Once store windows were broken, looting usually followed.
- Disorder did not erupt as a result of a single "triggering" or "precipitating" incident. Instead, it was generated out of an increasingly disturbed social atmosphere, in which typically a series of tension-heightening incidents over a period of weeks or months became linked in the minds of many in the Negro community with a reservoir of underlying grievances. At some point in the mounting tension, a further incident—in itself often routine or trivial—became the breaking point and the tension spilled over into violence.
- "Prior" incidents, which increased tensions and ultimately led to violence, were police actions in almost half the cases; police actions were "final" incidents before the outbreak of violence in 12 of the 24 surveyed disorders.
- No particular control tactic was successful in every situation. The varied effectiveness of control techniques emphasizes the need for advance training, planning, adequate intelligence systems, and knowledge of the ghetto community.

- Negotiations between Negroes—including your militants as well as older Negro leaders—and white officials concerning "terms of peace" occurred during virtually all the disorders surveyed. In many cases, these negotiations involved discussion of underlying grievances as well as the handling of the disorder by control authorities.
- The typical rioter was a teenager or young adult, a lifelong resident of the city in which he rioted, a high school dropout; he was, nevertheless, somewhat better educated than his nonrioting Negro neighbor, and was usually underemployed or employed in a menial job. He was proud of his race, extremely hostile to both whites and middle-class Negroes and, although informed about politics, highly distrustful of the political system.
- A Detroit survey revealed that approximately 11 percent of the total residents of two riot areas admitted participation in the rioting, 20 to 25 percent identified themselves as "bystanders," over 16 percent identified themselves as "counter-rioters" who urged rioters to "cool it," and the remaining 48 to 53 percent said they were at home or elsewhere and did not participate. In a survey of Negro males between the ages of 15 and 35 residing in the disturbance area in Newark, about 45 percent identified themselves as rioters, and about 55 percent as "noninvolved."
- Most rioters were young Negro males. Nearly 53 percent of arrestees were between 15 and 24 years of age; nearly 81 percent between 15 and 35.
- In Detroit and Newark about 74 percent of the rioters were brought up in the North. In contrast, of the noninvolved, 36 percent in Detroit and 52 percent in Newark were brought up in the North.
- What the rioters appeared to be seeking was fuller participation in the social order and the material benefits enjoyed by the majority of American citizens. Rather than rejecting the American system, they were anxious to obtain a place for themselves in it.
- Numerous Negro counter-rioters walked the streets urging rioters to "cool it." The typical counter-rioter was better educated and had higher income than either the rioter or the noninvolved.
- The proportion of Negroes in local government was substantially smaller than the Negro proportion of population. Only three of the 20 cities studied had more than one Negro legislator; none had ever had a Negro mayor or city manager. In only four cities did Negroes hold other important policy-making positions or serve as heads of municipal departments.
- Although almost all cities had some sort of formal grievance mechanism for handling citizen complaints, this typically was regarded by Negroes as ineffective and was generally ignored.
- Although specific grievances varied from city to city, at least 12 deeply held grievances can be identified and ranked into three levels of relative intensity:

First Level of Intensity

1. Police practices
2. Unemployment and underemployment
3. Inadequate housing

Second Level of Intensity

4. Inadequate education
5. Poor recreation facilities and programs
6. Ineffectiveness of the political structure and grievance mechanisms

Third Level of Intensity

7. Disrespectful white attitudes
8. Discriminatory administration of justice
9. Inadequacy of federal programs
10. Inadequacy of municipal services
11. Discriminatory consumer and credit practices
12. Inadequate welfare programs

- The results of a three-city survey of various federal programs—manpower, education, housing, welfare and community action—indicate that, despite substantial expenditures, the number of persons assisted constituted only a fraction of those in need.

The background of disorder is often as complex and difficult to analyze as the disorder itself. But we find that certain general conclusions can be drawn:

- Social and economic conditions in the riot cities constituted a clear pattern of severe disadvantage for Negroes compared with whites, whether the Negroes lived in the area where the riot took place or outside it. Negroes had completed fewer years of education and fewer had attended high school. Negroes were twice as likely to be unemployed and three times as likely to be in unskilled and service jobs. Negroes averaged 70 percent of the income earned by whites and were more than twice as likely to be living in poverty. Although housing cost Negroes relatively more, they had worse housing—three times as likely to be overcrowded and substandard. When compared to white suburbs, the relative disadvantage is even more pronounced.

A study of the aftermath of disorder leads to disturbing conclusions. We find that, despite the institution of some post-riot programs:

- Little basic change in the conditions underlying the outbreak of disorder has taken place. Actions to ameliorate Negro grievances have been limited and sporadic; with but few exceptions, they have not significantly reduced tensions.
- In several cities, the principal official response has been to train and equip the police with more sophisticated weapons.
- In several cities, increasing polarization is evident, with continuing breakdown of inter-racial communication, and growth of white segregationist or black separatist groups.

Chapter 3—Organized Activity

The President directed the Commission to investigate "to what extent, if any, there has been planning or organization in any of the riots."

To carry out this part of the President's charge, the Commission established a special investigative staff supplementing the field teams that made the general examination of the riots in 23 cities. The unit examined data collected by federal agencies and congressional committees, including thousands of documents supplied by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, gathered and evaluated information from local and state law enforcement agencies and officials, and conducted its own field investigation in selected cities.

On the basis of all the information collected, the Commission concludes that:

> The urban disorders of the summer of 1967 were not caused by, nor were they the consequence of, any organized plan or "conspiracy."

Specifically, the Commission has found no evidence that all or any of the disorders or the incidents that led to them were planned or directed by any organization or group, international, national or local.

Militant organizations, local and national, and individual agitators, who repeatedly forecast and called for violence, were active in the spring and summer of 1967. We believe that they sought to encourage violence, and that they helped to create an atmosphere that contributed to the outbreak of disorder.

We recognize that the continuation of disorders and the polarization of the races would provide fertile ground for organized exploitation in the future.

Investigations of organized activity are continuing at all levels of government, including committees of Congress. These investigations relate not only to the disorders of 1967 but also to the actions of groups and individuals, particularly in schools and colleges, during this last fall and winter. The Commission has cooperated in these investigations. They should continue.

Part II—Why Did It Happen?

Chapter 4—The Basic Causes

In addressing the question "Why did it happen?" we shift our focus from the local to the national scene, from the particular events of the summer of 1967 to the factors within the society at large that created a mood of violence among many urban Negroes.

These factors are complex and interacting; they vary significantly in their effect from city to city and from year to year; and the consequences of one disorder, generating new grievances and new demands, become the causes of the next. Thus was created the "thicket of tension, conflicting evidence and extreme opinions" cited by the President.

Despite these complexities, certain fundamental matters are clear. Of these, the most fundamental is the racial attitude and behavior of white Americans toward black Americans.

Race prejudice has shaped our history decisively; it now threatens to affect our future.

White racism is essentially responsible for the explosive mixture which has been accumulating in our cities since the end of World War II. Among the ingredients of this mixture are:

- Pervasive discrimination and segregation in employment, education and housing, which have resulted in the continuing exclusion of great numbers of Negroes from the benefits of economic progress.
- Black in-migration and white exodus, which have produced the massive and growing concentrations of impoverished Negroes in our major cities, creating a growing crisis of deteriorating facilities and services and unmet human needs.
- The black ghettos where segregation and poverty converge on the young to destroy opportunity and enforce failure. Crime, drug addiction, dependency on welfare, and bitterness and resentment against society in general and white society in particular are the result.

At the same time, most whites and some Negroes outside the ghetto have prospered to a degree unparalleled in the history of civilization. Through television and other media, this affluence has been flaunted before the eyes of the Negro poor and the jobless ghetto youth.

Yet these facts alone cannot be said to have caused the disorders. Recently, other powerful ingredients have begun to catalyze the mixture:

- Frustrated hopes are the residue of the unfulfilled expectations aroused by the great judicial and legislative victories of the Civil Rights Movement and the dramatic struggle for equal rights in the South.
- A climate that tends toward approval and encouragement of violence as a form of protest has been created by white terrorism directed against nonviolent protest; by the open defiance of law and federal authority by state and local officials resisting desegregation; and by some protest groups engaging in civil disobedience who turn their backs on nonviolence, go beyond the constitutionally protected rights of petition and free assembly, and resort to violence to attempt to compel alteration of laws and policies with which they disagree.

- The frustrations of powerlessness have led some Negroes to the conviction that there is no effective alternative to violence as a means of achieving redress of grievances, and of "moving the system." These frustrations are reflected in alienation and hostility toward the institutions of law and government and the white society which controls them, and in the reach toward racial consciousness and solidarity reflected in the slogan "Black Power."
- A new mood has sprung up among Negroes, particularly among the young, in which self-esteem and enhanced racial pride are replacing apathy and submission to "the system."
- The police are not merely a "spark" factor. To some Negroes police have come to symbolize white power, white racism and white repression. And the fact is that many police do reflect and express these white attitudes. The atmosphere of hostility and cynicism is reinforced by a widespread belief among Negroes in the existence of police brutality and in a "double standard" of justice and protection—one for Negroes and one for whites.

To this point, we have attempted to identify the prime components of the "explosive mixture." In the chapters that follow we seek to analyze them in the perspective of history. Their meaning, however, is clear:

In the summer of 1967, we have seen in our cities a chain reaction of racial violence. If we are heedless, none of us shall escape the consequences.

Chapter 5—Rejection and Protest: An Historical Sketch

The causes of recent racial disorders are embedded in a tangle of issues and circumstances—social, economic, political and psychological—which arise out of the historic pattern of Negro-white relations in America.

In this chapter we trace the pattern, identify the recurrent themes of Negro protest and, most importantly, provide a perspective on the protest activities of the present era.

We describe the Negro's experience in America and the development of slavery as an institution. We show his persistent striving for equality in the face of rigidly maintained social, economic and educational barriers, and repeated mob violence. We portray the ebb and flow of the doctrinal tides—accommodation, separatism, and self-help—and their relationship to the current theme of Black Power. We conclude:

The Black Power advocates of today consciously feel that they are the most militant group in the Negro protest movement. Yet they have retreated from a direct confrontation with American society on the issue of integration and, by preaching separatism, unconsciously function as an accommodation to white racism. Much of their economic program, as well as their interest in Negro history, self-help, racial solidarity and separation, is reminiscent of Booker T. Washington. The rhetoric is different, but the ideas are remarkably similar.

Chapter 6—The Formation Of the Racial Ghettos[1]

Throughout the 20th century the Negro population of the United States has been moving steadily from rural areas to urban and from South to North and West. In 1910, 91 percent of the nation's 9.8 million Negroes lived in the South and only 27 percent of American Negroes lived in cities of 2.500 persons or more. Between 1910 and 1966 the total Negro population more than doubled, reaching 21.5 million, and the number living in metropolitan areas rose more than five-fold (from 2.6 million to 14.8 million). The number outside the South rose eleven-fold (from 880,000 to 9.7 million).

Negro migration from the South has resulted from the expectation of thousands of new and highly paid jobs for unskilled workers in the North and the shift to mechanized farming in the South. However, the Negro migration is small when compared to earlier waves of European immigrants. Even between 1960 and 1966, there were 1.8 million immigrants from abroad compared to the 613,000 Negroes who arrived in the North and West from the South.

As a result of the growing number of Negroes in urban areas, natural increase has replaced migration as the primary source of Negro population increase in the cities. Nevertheless, Negro migration from the South will continue unless economic conditions there change dramatically.

Basic data concerning Negro urbanization trends indicate that:

- Almost all Negro population growth (98 percent from 1950 to 1966) is occurring within metropolitan areas, primarily within central cities.[2]
- The vast majority of white population growth (78 percent from 1960 to 1966) is occurring in suburban portions of metropolitan areas. Since 1960, white central-city population has declined by 1.3 million.

[1] The term "ghetto" as used in this report refers to an area within a city characterized by poverty and acute social disorganization, and inhabited by members of a racial or ethnic group under conditions of involuntary segregation.

[2] A "central city" is the largest city of a standard metropolitan statistical area, that is, a metropolitan area containing at least one city of 50,000 or more inhabitants.

- As a result, central cities are becoming more heavily Negro while the suburban fringes around them remain almost entirely white.
- The twelve largest central cities now contain over two-thirds of the Negro population outside the South, and one-third of the Negro total in the United States.

Within the cities, Negroes have been excluded from white residential areas through discriminatory practices. Just as significant is the withdrawal of white families from, or their refusal to enter, neighborhoods where Negroes are moving or already residing. About 20 percent of the urban population of the United States changes residence every year. The refusal of whites to move into "changing" areas when vacancies occur means that most vacancies eventually are occupied by Negroes.

The result, according to a recent study, is that in 1960 the average segregation index for 207 of the largest United States cities was 86.2. In other words, to create an unsegregated population distribution, an average of over 86 percent of all Negroes would have to change their place of residence within the city.

Chapter 7—Unemployment, Family Structure, and Social Disorganization

Although there have been gains in Negro income nationally, and a decline in the number of Negroes below the "poverty level," the condition of Negroes in the central city remains in a state of crisis. Between 2 and 2.5 million Negroes—16 to 20 percent of the total Negro population of all central cities—live in squalor and deprivation in ghetto neighborhoods.

Employment is a key problem. It not only controls the present for the Negro American but, in a most profound way, it is creating the future as well. Yet, despite continuing economic growth and declining national unemployment rates, the unemployment rate for Negroes in 1967 was more than double that for whites.

Equally important is the undesirable nature of many jobs open to Negroes and other minorities. Negro men are more than three times as likely as white men to be in low-paying, unskilled or service jobs. This concentration of male Negro employment at the lowest end of the occupational scale is the single most important cause of poverty among Negroes.

In one study of low-income neighborhoods, the "subemployment rate," including both unemployment and underemployment, was about 33 percent, or 8.8 times greater than the overall unemployment rate for all United States workers.

Employment problems, aggravated by the constant arrival of new unemployed migrants, many of them from depressed rural areas, create persistent poverty in the ghetto. In 1966, about 11.9 percent of the nation's whites and 40.6 percent of its nonwhites were below the "poverty level" defined by the Social Security Administration (currently $3,335 per year for an urban family of four). Over 40 percent of the nonwhites below the poverty level live in the central cities.

Employment problems have drastic social impact in the ghetto. Men who are chronically unemployed or employed in the lowest status jobs are often unable or unwilling to remain with their families. The handicap imposed on children growing up without fathers in an atmosphere of poverty and deprivation is increased as mothers are forced to work to provide support.

The culture of poverty that results from unemployment and family breakup generates a system of ruthless, exploitative relationships within the ghetto. Prostitution, dope addiction, and crime create an environmental "jungle" characterized by personal insecurity and tension. Children growing up under such conditions are likely participants in civil disorder.

Chapter 8—Conditions of Life In the Racial Ghetto

A striking difference in environment from that of white, middle-class Americans profoundly influences the lives of residents of the ghetto.

Crime rates, consistently higher than in other areas, create a pronounced sense of insecurity. For example, in one city one low-income Negro district had 35 times as many serious crimes against persons as a high-income white district. Unless drastic steps are taken, the crime problems in poverty areas are likely to continue to multiply as the growing youth and rapid urbanization of the population outstrip police resources.

Poor health and sanitation conditions in the ghetto result in higher mortality rates, a higher incidence of major diseases, and lower availability and utilization of medical services. The infant mortality rate for nonwhite babies under the age of one month is 58 percent higher than for whites; for one to 12 months it is almost three times as high. The level of sanitation in the ghetto is far below that in high income areas. Garbage collection is often inadequate. Of an estimated 14,000 cases of rat bite in the United States in 1965, most were in ghetto neighborhoods.

Ghetto residents believe they are "exploited" by local merchants; and evidence substantiates some of these beliefs. A study conducted in one city by the Federal Trade Commission showed that distinctly higher prices were charged for goods sold in ghetto stores than in other areas.

Lack of knowledge regarding credit purchasing creates special pitfalls for the disadvantaged. In many states garnishment practices compound these difficulties by allowing creditors to deprive individuals of their wages without hearing or trial.

Chapter 9—Comparing the Immigrant and Negro Experience

In this chapter, we address ourselves to a fundamental question that many white Americans are asking: why have so many Negroes, unlike the European immigrants, been unable to escape from the ghetto and from poverty. We believe the following factors play a part:

- The Maturing Economy: When the European immigrants arrived, they gained an economic foothold by providing the unskilled labor needed by industry. Unlike the immigrant, the Negro migrant found little opportunity in the city. The economy, by then matured, had little use for the unskilled labor he had to offer.
- The Disability of Race: The structure of discrimination has stringently narrowed opportunities for the Negro and restricted his prospects. European immigrants suffered from discrimination, but never so pervasively.
- Entry into the Political System: The immigrants usually settled in rapidly growing cities with powerful and expanding political machines, which traded economic advantages for political support. Ward-level grievance machinery, as well as personal representation, enabled the immigrant to make his voice heard and his power felt.

  By the time the Negro arrived, these political machines were no longer so powerful or so well equipped to provide jobs or other favors, and in many cases were unwilling to share their influence with Negroes.
- Cultural Factors: Coming from societies with a low standard of living and at a time when job aspirations were low, the immigrants sensed little deprivation in being forced to take the less desirable and poorer-paying jobs. Their large and cohesive families contributed to total income. Their vision of the future—one that led to a life outside of the ghetto—provided the incentive necessary to endure the present.

  Although Negro men worked as hard as the immigrants, they were unable to support their families. The entrepreneurial opportunities had vanished. As a result of slavery and long periods of unemployment, the Negro family structure had become matriarchal; the males played a secondary and marginal family role—one which offered little compensation for their hard and unrewarding labor. Above all, segregation denied Negroes access to good jobs and the opportunity to leave the ghetto. For them, the future seemed to lead only to a dead end.

Today, whites tend to exaggerate how well and quickly they escaped from poverty. The fact is that immigrants who came from rural backgrounds, as many Negroes do, are only now, after three generations, finally beginning to move into the middle class.

By contrast, Negroes began concentrating in the city less than two generations ago, and under much less favorable conditions. Although some Negroes have escaped poverty, few have been able to escape the urban ghetto.

PART III—WHAT CAN BE DONE?

Chapter 10—The Community Response

Our investigation of the 1967 riot cities establishes that virtually every major episode of violence was foreshadowed by an accumulation of unresolved grievances and by widespread dissatisfaction among Negroes with the unwillingness or inability of local government to respond.

Overcoming these conditions is essential for community support of law enforcement and civil order. City governments need new and more vital channels of communication to the residents of the ghetto; they need to improve their capacity to respond effectively to community needs before they become community grievances; and they need to provide opportunity for meaningful involvement of ghetto residents in shaping policies and programs which affect the community.

The Commission recommends that local governments:

- Develop Neighborhood Action Task Forces as joint community-government efforts through which more effective communication can be achieved, and the delivery of city services to ghetto residents improved.
- Establish comprehensive grievance-response mechanisms in order to bring all public agencies under public scrutiny.
- Bring the institutions of local government closer to the people they serve by establishing neighborhood outlets for local, state and federal administrative and public service agencies.
- Expand opportunities for ghetto residents to participate in the formulation of public policy and the implementation of programs affecting them through improved political representation, creation of institutional channels for community action, expansion of legal services, and legislative hearings on ghetto problems.

In this effort, city governments will require state and federal support.

The Commission recommends:

- State and federal financial assistance for mayors and city councils to support the research, consultants, staff and other resources needed to respond effectively to federal program initiatives.

- State cooperation in providing municipalities with the jurisdictional tools needed to deal with their problems; a fuller measure of financial aid to urban areas; and the focusing of the interests of suburban communities on the physical, social and cultural environment of the central city.

Chapter 11—Police and the Community

The abrasive relationship between the police and the minority communities has been a major—and explosive—source of grievance, tension and disorder. The blame must be shared by the total society.

The police are faced with demands for increased protection and service in the ghetto. Yet the aggressive patrol practices thought necessary to meet these demands themselves create tension and hostility. The resulting grievances have been further aggravated by the lack of effective mechanisms for handling complaints against the police. Special programs for bettering police-community relations have been instituted, but these alone are not enough. Police administrators, with the guidance of public officials, and the support of the entire community, must take vigorous action to improve law enforcement and to decrease the potential for disorder.

The Commission recommends that city government and police authorities:

- Review police operations in the ghetto to ensure proper conduct by police officers, and eliminate abrasive practices.
- Provide more adequate police protection to ghetto residents to eliminate their high sense of insecurity, and the belief of many Negro citizens in the existence of a dual standard of law enforcement.
- Establish fair and effective mechanisms for the redress of grievances against the police, and other municipal employees.
- Develop and adopt policy guidelines to assist officers in making critical decisions in areas where police conduct can create tension.
- Develop and use innovative programs to ensure widespread community support for law enforcement.
- Recruit more Negroes into the regular police force, and review promotion policies to ensure fair promotion for Negro officers.
- Establish a "Community Service Officer" program to attract ghetto youths between the ages of 17 and 21 to police work. These junior officers would perform duties in ghetto neighborhoods, but would not have full police authority. The federal government should provide support equal to 90 percent of the costs of employing CSOs on the basis of one for every ten regular officers.

Chapter 12—Control of Disorder

Preserving civil peace is the first responsibility of government. Unless the rule of law prevails, our society will lack not only order but also the environment essential to social and economic progress.

The maintenance of civil order cannot be left to the police alone. The police need guidance, as well as support, from mayors and other public officials. It is the responsibility of public officials to determine proper police policies, support adequate police standards for personnel and performance, and participate in planning for the control of disorders.

To maintain control of incidents which could lead to disorders, the Commission recommends that local officials:

- Assign seasoned, well-trained policemen and supervisory officers to patrol ghetto areas, and to respond to disturbances.
- Develop plans which will quickly muster maximum police manpower and highly qualified senior commanders at the outbreak of disorders.
- Provide special training in the prevention of disorders, and prepare police for riot control and for operation in units, with adequate command and control and field communication for proper discipline and effectiveness.
- Develop guidelines governing the use of control equipment and provide alternatives to the use of lethal weapons. Federal support for research in this area is needed.
- Establish an intelligence system to provide police and other public officials with reliable information that may help to prevent the outbreak of a disorder and to institute effective control measures in the event a riot erupts.
- Develop continuing contacts with ghetto residents to make use of the forces for order which exist within the community.
- Establish machinery for neutralizing rumors, and enabling Negro leaders and residents to obtain the facts. Create special rumor details to collect, evaluate, and dispel rumors that may lead to a civil disorder.

The Commission believes there is a grave danger that some communities may resort to the indiscriminate and excessive use of force. The harmful effects of overreaction are incalculable. The Commission condemns moves to equip police departments with mass destruction weapons, such as automatic rifles, machine guns and tanks. Weapons which are designed to destroy, not to control, have no place in densely populated urban communities.

The Commission recognizes the sound principle of local authority and responsibility in law enforcement, but recommends that the federal government share in the financing of programs for improvement of police forces, both in their normal law enforcement activities as well as in their response to civil disorders.

To assist government authorities in planning their response to civil disorder, this report contains a Supplement on Control of Disorder. It deals with specific problems encountered during riot-control operations, and includes:

- Assessment of the present capabilities of police, National Guard and Army forces to control major riots, and recommendations for improvement;
- Recommended means by which the control operations of those forces may be coordinated with the response of other agencies, such as fire departments, and with the community at large;
- Recommendations for review and revision of federal, state and local laws needed to provide the framework for control efforts and for the call-up and interrelated action of public safety forces.

Chapter 13—The Administration of Justice Under Emergency Conditions

In many of the cities which experienced disorders last summer, there were recurring breakdowns in the mechanisms for processing, prosecuting and protecting arrested persons. These resulted mainly from long-standing structural deficiencies in criminal court systems, and from the failure of communities to anticipate and plan for the emergency demands of civil disorders.

In part, because of this, there were few successful prosecutions for serious crimes committed during the riots. In those cities where mass arrests occurred many arrestees were deprived of basic legal rights.

The Commission recommends that the cities and states:

- Undertake reform of the lower courts so as to improve the quality of justice rendered under normal conditions.
- Plan comprehensive measures by which the criminal justice system may be supplemented during civil disorders so that its deliberative functions are protected, and the quality of justice is maintained.

Such emergency plans require broad community participation and dedicated leadership by the bench and bar. They should include:

- Laws sufficient to deter and punish riot conduct.
- Additional judges, bail and probation officers, and clerical staff.
- Arrangements for volunteer lawyers to help prosecutors and to represent riot defendants at every stage of proceedings.
- Policies to ensure proper and individual bail, arraignment, pretrial, trial and sentencing proceedings.
- Procedures for processing arrested persons, such as summons and release, and release on personal recognizance, which permit separation of minor offenders from those dangerous to the community, in order that serious offenders may be detained and prosecuted effectively.
- Adequate emergency processing and detention facilities.

Chapter 14—Damages: Repair and Compensation

The Commission recommends that the federal government:

- Amend the Federal Disaster Act—which now applies only to natural disasters—to permit federal emergency food and medical assistance to cities during major civil disorders, and provide long-term economic assistance afterwards.
- With the cooperation of the states, create incentives for the private insurance industry to provide more adequate property-insurance coverage in inner-city areas.

The Commission endorses the report of the National Advisory Panel on Insurance in Riot-Affected Areas: "Meeting the Insurance Crisis of our Cities."

Chapter 15—The News Media and the Riots

In his charge to the Commission, the President asked: "What effect do the mass media have on the riots?"

The Commission determined that the answer to the President's question did not lie solely in the performance of the press and broadcasters in reporting the riots. Our analysis had to consider also the overall treatment by the media of the Negro ghettos, community relations, racial attitudes, and poverty—day by day and month by month, year in and year out.

A wide range of interviews with government officials, law enforcement authorities, media personnel and other citizens, including ghetto residents, as well as a quantitative analysis of riot coverage and a special conference with industry representatives, leads us to conclude that:

- Despite instances of sensationalism, inaccuracy and distortion, newspapers, radio and television tried on the whole to give a balanced, factual account of the 1967 disorders.
- Elements of the news media failed to portray accurately the scale and character of the violence that occurred last summer. The overall effect was, we believe, an exaggeration of both mood and event.
- Important segments of the media failed to report adequately on the causes and consequences of civil disorders and on the underlying problems of race relations. They have not communicated to the majority of their audience—which is white—a sense of the degradation, misery and hopelessness of life in the ghetto.

These failings must be corrected, and the improvement must come from within the industry. Freedom of the press is not the issue. Any effort to impose governmental restrictions would be inconsistent with fundamental constitutional precepts.

We have seen evidence that the news media are becoming aware of and concerned about their performance in this field. As that concern grows, coverage will improve. But much more must be done, and it must be done soon.

The Commission recommends that the media:

- Expand coverage of the Negro community and of race problems through permanent assignment of reporters familiar with urban and racial affairs, and through establishment of more and better links with the Negro community.
- Integrate Negroes and Negro activities into all aspects of coverage and content, including newspaper articles and television programming. The news media must publish newspapers and produce programs that recognize the existence and activities of Negroes as a group within the community and as a part of the larger community.
- Recruit more Negroes into journalism and broadcasting and promote those who are qualified to positions of significant responsibility. Recruitment should begin in high schools and continue through college; where necessary, aid for training should be provided.
- Improve coordination with police in reporting riot news through advance planning, and cooperate with the police in the designation of police information officers, establishment of information centers, and development of mutually acceptable guidelines for riot reporting and the conduct of media personnel.
- Accelerate efforts to ensure accurate and responsible reporting of riot and racial news, through adoption by all news gathering organizations of stringent internal staff guidelines.
- Cooperate in the establishment of a privately organized and funded Institute of Urban Communications to train and educate journalists in urban affairs, recruit and train more Negro journalists, develop methods for improving police-press relations, review coverage of riots and racial issues, and support continuing research in the urban field.

Chapter 16—The Future of the Cities

By 1985, the Negro population in central cities is expected to increase by 72 percent to approximately 20.8 million. Coupled with the continued exodus of white families to the suburbs, this growth will produce majority Negro populations in many of the nation's largest cities.

The future of these cities, and of their burgeoning Negro populations, is grim. Most new employment opportunities are being created in suburbs and outlying areas. This trend will continue unless important changes in public policy are made.

In prospect, therefore, is further deterioration of already inadequate municipal tax bases in the face of increasing demands for public services, and continuing unemployment and poverty among the urban Negro population:

Three choices are open to the nation:

- We can maintain present policies, continuing both the proportion of the nation's resources now allocated to programs for the unemployed and the disadvantaged, and the inadequate and failing effort to achieve an integrated society.
- We can adopt a policy of "enrichment" aimed at improving dramatically the quality of ghetto life while abandoning integration as a goal.
- We can pursue integration by combining ghetto "enrichment" with policies which will encourage Negro movement out of central city areas.

The first choice, continuance of present policies, has ominous consequences for our society. The share of the nation's resources now allocated to programs for the disadvantaged is insufficient to arrest the deterioration of life in central city ghettos. Under such conditions, a rising proportion of Negroes may come to see in the deprivation and segregation they experience, a justification for violent protest, or for extending support to now isolated extremists who advocate civil disruption. Large-scale and continuing violence could result, followed by white retaliation, and, ultimately, the separation of the two communities in a garrison state.

Even if violence does not occur, the consequences are unacceptable. Development of a racially integrated society, extraordinarily difficult today, will be virtually impossible when the present black ghetto population of 12.5 million has grown to almost 21 million.

To continue present policies is to make permanent the division of our country into two societies; one, largely Negro and poor, located in the central cities; the other, predominantly white and affluent, located in the suburbs and in outlying areas.

The second choice, ghetto enrichment coupled with abandonment of integration, is also unacceptable. It is another way of choosing a permanently divided country. Moreover, equality cannot be achieved under conditions of nearly complete separation. In a country where the economy, and particularly the resources of employment, are predominantly white, a policy of separation can only relegate Negroes to a permanently inferior economic status.

We believe that the only possible choice for America is the third—a policy which combines ghetto enrichment with programs designed to encourage integration of substantial numbers of Negroes into the society outside the ghetto.

Enrichment must be an important adjunct to integration, for no matter how ambitious or energetic the program, few Negroes now living in central cities can be quickly integrated.

In the meantime, large-scale improvement in the quality of ghetto life is essential.

But this can be no more than an interim strategy. Programs must be developed which will permit substantial Negro movement out of the ghettos. The primary goal must be a single society, in which every citizen will be free to live and work according to his capabilities and desires, not his color.

Chapter 17—Recommendations For National Action

INTRODUCTION

No American—white or black—can escape the consequences of the continuing social and economic decay of our major cities.

Only a commitment to national action on an unprecedented scale can shape a future compatible with the historic ideals of American society.

The great productivity of our economy, and a federal revenue system which is highly responsive to economic growth, can provide the resources.

The major need is to generate new will—the will to tax ourselves to the extent necessary to meet the vital needs of the nation.

We have set forth goals and proposed strategies to reach those goals. We discuss and recommend programs not to commit each of us to specific parts of such programs but to illustrate the type and dimension of action needed.

The major goal is the creation of a true union—a single society and a single American identity. Toward that goal, we propose the following objectives for national action:

- Opening up opportunities to those who are restricted by racial segregation and discrimination, and eliminating all barriers to their choice of jobs, education and housing.
- Removing the frustration of powerlessness among the disadvantaged by providing the means for them to deal with the problems that affect their own lives and by increasing the capacity of our public and private institutions to respond to these problems.
- Increasing communication across racial lines to destroy stereotypes, to halt polarization, end distrust and hostility, and create common ground for efforts toward public order and social justice.

We propose these aims to fulfill our pledge of equality and to meet the fundamental needs of a democratic and civilized society—domestic peace and social justice.

EMPLOYMENT

Pervasive unemployment and underemployment are the most persistent and serious grievances in minority areas. They are inextricably linked to the problem of civil disorder.

Despite growing federal expenditures for manpower development and training programs, and sustained general economic prosperity and increasing demands for skilled workers, about two million—white and nonwhite—are permanently unemployed. About ten million are underemployed, of whom 6.5 million work full time for wages below the poverty line.

The 500,000 "hard-core" unemployed in the central cities who lack a basic education and are unable to hold a steady job are made up in large part of Negro males between the ages of 18 and 25. In the riot cities which we surveyed, Negroes were three times as likely as whites to hold unskilled jobs, which are often part time, seasonal, low-paying and "dead end."

Negro males between the ages of 15 and 25 predominated among the rioters. More than 20 percent of the rioters were unemployed, and many who were employed held intermittent, low status, unskilled jobs which they regarded as below their education and ability.

The Commission recommends that the federal government:

- Undertake joint efforts with cities and states to consolidate existing manpower programs to avoid fragmentation and duplication.
- Take immediate action to create 2,000,000 new jobs over the next three years—one million in the public sector and one million in the private sector—to absorb the hard-core unemployed and materially reduce the level of underemployment for all workers, black and white. We propose 250,000 public sector and 300,000 private sector jobs in the first year.
- Provide on-the-job training by both public and private employers with reimbursement to private employers for the extra costs of training the hard-core unemployed, by contract or by tax credits.
- Provide tax and other incentives to investment in rural as well as urban poverty areas in order to offer to the rural poor an alternative to migration to urban centers.
- Take new and vigorous action to remove artificial barriers to employment and promotion, including not only racial discrimination but, in certain cases, arrest records or lack of a high school diploma. Strengthen those agencies such as the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, charged with eliminating discriminatory practices, and provide full support for Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act allowing federal grant-in-aid funds to be withheld from activities which discriminate on grounds of color or race.

The Commission commends the recent public commitment of the National Council of the Building and Construction Trades Unions, AFL-CIO, to encourage and recruit Negro membership in apprenticeship programs. This commitment should be intensified and implemented.

EDUCATION

Education in a democratic society must equip children to develop their potential and to participate fully in American life. For the community at large, the schools have discharged this responsibility well. But for many minorities, and particularly for the children of the ghetto, the schools have failed to provide the educational experience which could overcome the effects of discrimination and deprivation.

This failure is one of the persistent sources of grievance and resentment within the Negro community. The hostility of Negro parents and students toward the school system is generating increasing conflict and causing disruption within many city school districts. But the most dramatic evidence of the relationship between educational practices and civil disorders lies in the high incidence of riot participation by ghetto youth who have not completed high school.

The bleak record of public education for ghetto children is growing worse. In the critical skills—verbal and reading ability—Negro students are falling further behind whites with each year of school completed. The high unemployment and underemployment rate for Negro youth is evidence, in part, of the growing educational crisis.

We support integration as the priority education strategy; it is essential to the future of American society. In this last summer's disorders we have seen the consequences of racial isolation at all levels, and of attitudes toward race, on both sides, produced by three centuries of myth, ignorance and bias. It is indispensable that opportunities for interaction between the races be expanded.

We recognize that the growing dominance of pupils from disadvantaged minorities in city school populations will not soon be reversed. No matter how great the effort toward desegregation, many children of the ghetto will not, within their school careers, attend integrated schools.

If existing disadvantages are not to be perpetuated, we must drastically improve the quality of ghetto education. Equality of results with all-white schools must be the goal.

To implement these strategies, the Commission recommends:

- Sharply increased efforts to eliminate de facto segregation in our schools through substantial federal aid to school systems seeking to desegregate either within the system or in cooperation with neighboring school systems.

- Elimination of racial discrimination in Northern as well as Southern schools by vigorous application of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.
- Extension of quality early childhood education to every disadvantaged child in the country.
- Efforts to improve dramatically schools serving disadvantaged children through substantial federal funding of year-round compensatory education programs, improved teaching, and expanded experimentation and research.
- Elimination of illiteracy through greater federal support for adult basic education.
- Enlarged opportunities for parent and community participation in the public schools.
- Reoriented vocational education emphasizing work-experience training and the involvement of business and industry.
- Expanded opportunities for higher education through increased federal assistance to disadvantaged students.
- Revision of state aid formulas to assure more per student aid to districts having a high proportion of disadvantaged school-age children.

THE WELFARE SYSTEM

Our present system of public welfare is designed to save money instead of people, and tragically ends up doing neither. This system has two critical deficiencies:

First, it excludes large numbers of persons who are in great need, and who, if provided a decent level of support, might be able to become more productive and self-sufficient. No federal funds are available for millions of men and women who are needy but neither aged, handicapped nor the parents of minor children.

Second, for those included, the system provides assistance well below the minimum necessary for a decent level of existence, and imposes restrictions that encourage continued dependency on welfare and undermine self-respect.

A welter of statutory requirements and administrative practices and regulations operate to remind recipients that they are considered untrustworthy, promiscuous and lazy. Residence requirements prevent assistance to people in need who are newly arrived in the state. Regular searches of recipients' homes violate privacy. Inadequate social services compound the problems.

The Commission recommends that the federal government, acting with state and local governments where necessary, reform the existing welfare system to:

- Establish uniform national standards of assistance at least as high as the annual "poverty level" of income, now set by the Social Security Administration at $3,335 per year for an urban family of four.

- Require that all states receiving federal welfare contributions participate in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children—Unemployed Parents program (AFDC-UP) that permits assistance to families with both father and mother in the home, thus aiding the family while it is still intact.
- Bear a substantially greater portion of all welfare costs—at least 90 percent of total payments.
- Increase incentives for seeking employment and job training, but remove restrictions recently enacted by the Congress that would compel mothers of young children to work.
- Provide more adequate social services through neighborhood centers and family-planning programs.
- Remove the freeze placed by the 1967 welfare amendments on the percentage of children in a state that can be covered by federal assistance.
- Eliminate residence requirements.

As a long-range goal, the Commission recommends that the federal government seek to develop a national system of income supplementation based strictly on need with two broad and basic purposes:

- To provide, for those who can work or who do work, any necessary supplements in such a way as to develop incentives for fuller employment;
- To provide, for those who cannot work and for mothers who decide to remain with their children, a minimum standard of decent living, and to aid in the saving of children from the prison of poverty that has held their parents.

A broad system of supplementation would involve substantially greater federal expenditures than anything now contemplated. The cost will range widely depending on the standard of need accepted as the "basic allowance" to individuals and families, and on the rate at which additional income above this level is taxed. Yet if the deepening cycle of poverty and dependence on welfare can be broken, if the children of the poor can be given the opportunity to scale the wall that now separates them from the rest of society, the return on this investment will be great indeed.

HOUSING

After more than three decades of fragmented and grossly underfunded federal housing programs, nearly six million substandard housing units remain occupied in the United States.

The housing problem is particularly acute in the minority ghettos. Nearly two-thirds of all non-white families living in the central cities today live in neighborhoods marked with substandard housing and general urban blight. Two major factors are responsible.

First: Many ghetto residents simply cannot pay the rent necessary to support decent housing. In Detroit, for example, over 40 percent of the non-white occupied units in 1960 required rent of over 35 percent of the tenants' income.

Second: Discrimination prevents access to many non-slum areas, particularly the suburbs, where good housing exists. In addition, by creating a "back pressure" in the racial ghettos, it makes it possible for landlords to break up apartments for denser occupancy, and keeps prices and rents of deteriorated ghetto housing higher than they would be in a truly free market.

To date, federal programs have been able to do comparatively little to provide housing for the disadvantaged. In the 31-year history of subsidized federal housing, only about 800,000 units have been constructed, with recent production averaging about 50,000 units a year. By comparison, over a period only three years longer, FHA insurance guarantees have made possible the construction of over ten million middle and upper-income units.

Two points are fundamental to the Commission's recommendations:

First: Federal housing programs must be given a new thrust aimed at overcoming the prevailing patterns of racial segregation. If this is not done, those programs will continue to concentrate the most impoverished and dependent segments of the population into the central-city ghettos where there is already a critical gap between the needs of the population and the public resources to deal with them.

Second: The private sector must be brought into the production and financing of low and moderate rental housing to supply the capabilities and capital necessary to meet the housing needs of the nation.

The Commission recommends that the federal government:

- Enact a comprehensive and enforceable federal open housing law to cover the sale or rental of all housing, including single family homes.
- Reorient federal housing programs to place more low and moderate income housing outside of ghetto areas.
- Bring within the reach of low and moderate income families within the next five years six million new and existing units of decent housing, beginning with 600,000 units in the next year.

To reach this goal we recommend:

- Expansion and modification of the rent supplement program to permit use of supplements for existing housing, thus greatly increasing the reach of the program.
- Expansion and modification of the below-market interest rate program to enlarge the interest subsidy to all sponsors and provide interest-free loans to nonprofit sponsors to cover pre-construction costs, and permit sale of projects to nonprofit corporations, cooperatives, or condominiums.
- Creation of an ownership supplement program similar to present rent supplements, to make home ownership possible for low-income families.
- Federal writedown of interest rates on loans to private builders constructing moderate-rent housing.
- Expansion of the public housing program, with emphasis on small units on scattered sites, and leasing and "turnkey" programs.
- Expansion of the Model Cities program.
- Expansion and reorientation of the urban renewal program to give priority to projects directly assisting low-income households to obtain adequate housing.

CONCLUSION

One of the first witnesses to be invited to appear before this Commission was Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, a distinguished and perceptive scholar. Referring to the reports of earlier riot commissions, he said:

> I read that report . . . of the 1919 riot in Chicago, and it is as if I were reading the report of the investigating committee on the Harlem riot of '35, the report of the investigating committee on the Harlem riot of '43, the report of the McCone Commission on the Watts riot.
> I must again in candor say to you members of this Commission —it is a kind of Alice in Wonderland—with the same moving picture re-shown over and over again, the same analysis, the same recommendations, and the same inaction.

These words come to our minds as we conclude this report. We have provided an honest beginning. We have learned much. But we have uncovered no startling truths, no unique insights, no simple solutions. The destruction and the bitterness of racial disorder, the harsh polemics of black revolt and white repression have been seen and heard before in this country.

It is time now to end the destruction and the violence, not only in the streets of the ghetto but in the lives of people.

14 POINTS ON NEGRO TROOPS ABROAD GIVEN WAR DEPT. BY WHITE

Report to Washington Lists Recommendations as Result of Fifteen Weeks Observation Overseas

- - - - - - -

Washington--Fourteen recommendations, ranging from lectures to American white soldiers to a special Board of Review for courts-martial cases, were made by Walter White in a report to the War department, it was revealed here last week.

The report was based upon White's 15-week, 20,000-mile tour of military installations in the European Theatre of Operations, in North Africa, Italy and the Middle East as an accredited foreign correspondent for the New York Post newspaper. The fourteen points included:

OFF LIMITS--That General Eisenhower's directive to abolish "off limits" of towns and pubs (taverns) be enforced in all areas. Negro soldiers were found to resent bitterly the off limits orders, or orders setting "odd" and "even" nights for white and colored troops to visit towns and places of amusement. White observed that some commanding officers who took a positive stand for fairness had very little trouble in their localities.

COURTS MARTIAL-- A special board of review of courts-martial cases was recommended by White who said "great unhappiness" has resulted among Negro soldiers "because of their belief that they are punished more quickly and more severely than white soldiers." After citing a number of cases detailed to him by Negro prisoners with whom he was permitted to talk freely, White urged that the special board of review include an eminent Negro lawyer, who would be brought in to serve with appropriate rank.

COMBAT TROOPS--The department is urged to send Negro combat troops to England. White said stories were being circulated that there are no Negro combat troops in England because "Negroes are afraid to fight." White termed as "unfortunate" the fact that, with the exception of some anti-aircraft units, only Negro service troops had been sent to the European theatre. "The Negro troops in the ETO," said his report, "have little or none of the excitement of war necessary to raise the spirits and to give a sense of participation to men engaged in waging war."

Also recommended was that Negro medium bomber crews be sent to England "to fly in non-segregated units," and that Negro service troops now stationed there be given refresher courses in the use of combat weapons, as "many of these troops will closely follow the assault waves of invasion, will be under fire, and need to be made competent in the use of weapons."

Supporting his recommendation for more combat troops, White cited the improved atmosphere in the Mediterranean as a result of the exploits of the 99th Pursuit Squadron. He recommended that Negro and white fighter squadrons function in the same group; and he also urged reconsideration of the conversion of the 2nd Calvary division into service troops.

In connection with the moral value of the presence of Negro combat troops, White also urged that more Negro officers above the rank of captain be sent to England.

ANTI-NEGRO RUMORS--Some Negro soldiers abroad have taken the spreading of vicious and fantastic rumors about Negroes as a joke, but some have resented these stories deeply, said White, in recommending that G-2 (Army Intelligence) try to track down and scotch morale-sapping stories.

White reported less anti-Negro propaganda in the Mediterranean than in England, but suggested that Army Intelligence run down the people who were issuing leaflets, placards and other material seeking to poison Italians against Negroes. Upon inquiry one such placard was found to have been issued by a non-existent organization and signed by a fictitious person.

MILITARY POLICE--White found the same complaint abroad on Military Police that has been made in some parts of America, namely that white MPs are armed, but Negro MPs are not. He recommended that no MPs be armed except when guarding payrolls.

PATERNALISM--Paternalistic attitudes on the part of white officers is resented, White reported, saying that both well-educated and less-educated Negroes resent being treated as "boys." Abandonment of the idea that southern white officers are best for Negro troops because they "understand" Negroes was urged by White, who, however, said many white officers from the South are fair and decent in their treatment of Negroes, while there is no guarantee that a man will be free from prejudice just because he happens to be from the North.

LECTURES--Lectures to American white troops aboard ships as they near England on the difference between the British and American attitudes toward color, together with lectures to British troops by competent Americans on America and the true place of the Negro as a citizen of his country would be helpful, White declared.

A connection between the venereal disease rate among colored troops and the attitude which has barred them from normal association with respectable families was seen by White, who quoted a soldier as saying they were more and more restricted to women picked up in pubs. White suggested that a Negro physician be attached to the office of the Chief Surgeon.

More Negro actors and singers were recommended for the entertainment of both white and Negro troops.

RED CROSS--After praising the American Red Cross for doing "in many respects a superlative job," White deplored the "white" and "Negro" Red Cross clubs located in many areas as not only introducing segregation to the British, but denying white and Negro American soldiers the opportunity to know each other better. He cited the non-segregated pattern of one club as a model for the Red Cross everywhere.

CENSORSHIP--More news and more sympathetic handling of news dealing with Negro troops by the censors would be very helpful, said White, as it would give Negro civilians a better picture of the contribution of their men to the war.

LAGGING BEHIND--White's concluding recommendation was a suggestion that the War department policy on race "lags behind that of much of the personnel of the Army." He said an advanced position would meet opposition, but would be approved by "a much larger percentage....than the War department appears to believe possible."

"The time and field are ripe for progress. Continuance of segregation and discrimination is in part responsible for a less determined spirit in the Army than is necessary to meet the very crucial days which lie ahead before this war is won. Vision to see the situation as it is and courage to surmount difficulties and opposition in the implementation of that vision are greatly to be urged upon the War and Navy departments, and upon all others charged with the prosecution of the war."

DR. EARNEST HOOTON WILL PRESENT SPINGARN MEDAL

New York--Dr. Earnest Albert Hooton, eminent anthropologist of Harvard university, will present the 29th Spingarn Medal to Dr. Charles R. Drew at the NAACP annual conference in Chicago, July 16.

Dr. Drew was awarded the medal, given annually for distinguished achievement by an American Negro, for his research in blood plasma. Dr. Hooton is nationally known for his writings in anthropology and especially for his book "Crime and the Man," which debunks many of the popular theory of Negro criminality.

JIM CROW BOILERMAKER UNION UNDER FIRE IN RHODE ISLAND TRIAL 5/18/44

Providence, R.I.--A person of any race can join the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers of America, except American Negroes, it was testified here May 17 in Superior court by William J. Buckley, international representative of the Boilermakers union.

Buckley made the statement during his examination by Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel, in the case of George Hill vs. the Boilermakers union in which Hill is seeking a permanent injunction to prevent the Boilermakers from setting up or maintaining a jim crow auxiliary for Negro workers.

Last January 13 Judge Alexander Churchill in the Superior court here granted a temporary injunction, holding in his opinion that the jim crow auxiliary into which Negroes were segregated was illegal.

The Negro workers, who are employed in the Walsh-Kaiser shipyards here, contend that they should be members of Local 308 and should not be jim crowed.

Testimony by George R. Schmoke, one of the complaining witnesses, that he had joined Local 308 in 1942 by filling out a white application blank instead of the pink blank required for auxiliary members was given on direct examination. Schmoke further testified that he was received in all the meetings of Local 308, voted and took part in same until the December, 1943, meeting for election of officers when the ballots of Negro members were improperly marked with the letter "C" to distinguish them from the white voters. Other witnesses testified that even though their dues were paid up and they had previously taken part in all the meetings of Local 308, in the December meeting all Negro voters were instructed to place their ballots in an envelope marked "Protested" and that the letter "C" appeared upon the left hand corner of the ballot.

In addition to stating that all races except the Negro could belong to the Boilermakers, Buckley asserted that no Negro could vote in Local 308 but that a charter would have to be secured for a Negro auxiliary unit from the international headquarters in Kansas City, Kansas. He stated, "If the Negroes obtained a charter setting up an auxiliary it would be supervised by Local 308 (white) which would be the mother lodge for the auxiliary and would have the privilege of placing one member on the grievance committee of 5 to represent the workers in any dispute that might arise."

Hill and the Negro workers are being represented by Thurgood Marshall and Edward R. Dudley, of the NAACP legal staff, associated with Joseph LeCount, an attorney of this city. The case is being heard on the merits before Judge Patrick P. Curran. The case was adjourned May 17 until ten o'clock Monday, May 22.

COLLECTS DAMAGES FOR
JIM CROW MISTREATMENT 5/18/44

Portland, Ore.--Attorneys for the NAACP have reported that Samuel G. Whitney of Portland, Oregon has been paid $250. by the Missouri Pacific Lines for mistreatment of his wife in connection with a journey that she took from McGee, Arkansas to St. Louis, Mo., and from St. Louis to Portland.

The Missouri Pacific Lines stated that the incident is very much regretted by the officials of the company and that the company has taken steps to educate their employees in an effort to see that no similar incident occurs in the future. They state that there was no intentional discrimination and that the situation was poorly handled by the employees of the company.

The NAACP filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission, and as a result of this action the above settlement was effected.

MACARTHUR GETS APPEAL FROM NAACP ON DEATH SENTENCES FOR FIVE

5/18/44

New York--A stay of execution in the death sentences of four American Negro soldiers and one American Negro merchant seaman convicted in Australia on a charge of rape has been requested of General Douglas MacArthur by the NAACP.

The cablegram, signed by Walter White, NAACP secretary, states:

"National Association for Advancement Colored People has been requested by O'Sullivan and Ruddy, solicitors, Brisbane and Townsville to intervene with President in case of five men, Hazzard, Johnson, Seymour, Nelson and Davis, convicted rape sentenced death. JAG Washington advises you have full jurisdiction. We ask stay execution pending opportunity inspect record now en route and file appeal brief."

"Walter White"

The five men were convicted and sentenced to be hanged by general court-martial March 16-19, in Townsville, Australia. They were charged with raping a white American Red Cross worker on the night of January 10, 1944.

M. L. Williams of the firm of O'Sullivan and Ruddy, Solicitors, was appointed civilian counsel for the man and on April 1 cabled the NAACP, asking it to intervene with President Roosevelt to secure a stay of the death sentence until an air mail letter explaining the case could arrive in America. The letter, mailed March 30, was received by the NAACP May 18.

The record of the trial, according to the summary contained in the letter, shows that at about 11:30 p.m., January 10, the Red Cross worker, who had been to a party and admitted she was feeling "pretty good," became angry with her party and started out to hitch hike home. The five colored men testified she waved down their truck and they took her in. She says she stopped when she saw the truck had Negro soldiers in it, and started to return in the direction from which she had come, but that one of the men jumped from the truck, grabbed her and threatened to kill her if she did not come quietly with them.

Defense counsel pointed out that the corner where she got into the truck was a prominent one, with considerable traffic and many residents nearby, and that if she had screamed she would have attracted instant attention and aid. She did not scream, according to her own testimonay. She says she was "afraid".

The soldiers admitted having had relations with her, but testified she was willing and cooperative. She claims she was dragged from the truck, thrown to the ground and raped.

Weakest point for the defendants, according to the letter, was the conflict between statements they signed and gave to Army officers, and their testimony later on the witness stand.

The full names of the prisoners are George Hazzard, Charles E. Johnson, Jr., George Seymour, Robert J. Nelson, and Wesley E. Davis.

The Australian law firm is sending a copy of the complete record to the NAACP whose legal staff will study it and draw up an appeal brief which will be presented either to General MacArthur's headquarters, or to President Roosevelt in the final review.

NAACP CABLES SYMPATHY TO MADAME FELIX EBOUE

5/18/44

New York--A cablegram expressing sympathy in the death of Governor General Felix Eboue of French Equatorial Africa and asserting "the world owes him a debt of gratitude for his decisive role in turning the tide of the war," has been sent by Walter White, NAACP secretary, to Madame Eboue in Cairo. Mr. White met Governor Eboue in Cairo early in April during his trip to the North African theatre of the war.

Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sirs:

Because the Negroes of Georgia are not only concerned with the full possession of their constitutionally guaranteed rights as citizens of this free Republic, but also because they are zealous of the highest welfare and good name of their state, they, through this committee, urgently request your body to reconsider the recent decision of your sub-committee that, wholly on the basis of race, Negroes will not be permitted to vote in Georgia primaries. We do not need to remind you that this attitude is in direct conflict with the principles upon which our beloved country was founded, contrary to the spirit and teachings of Thomas Jefferson, the greatest democrat of all time; and last, but by no means least, a defiance of the Supreme Court of the United States, the last outpost of our cherished liberties.

We remind you of what every true American knows, that no free country, or part of it can long exist half free and half slave. It is difficult for us to believe that the dominant political party in the sovereign state of Georgia will insist upon continuing a policy which will virtually reduce to political serfdom almost a third of its population. A segment of the population, moreover, that for over a century has given lavishly of blood, sweat and tears, for its prosperity and its good name. The argument that the admission of Negroes to the unrestricted use of the ballot, would be a threat to the orderly administration of Government in the state of Georgia is fallacious--a product of prejudice and unfounded fear. America joins hands with liberty-loving men the world around, in a global struggle to free men everywhere from tyranny and oppression. Can it consistently spend, without stint, both gold and human lives in extending the boon of freedom to other peoples, while it denies it to her own citizens? If it is safety for our cherished institutions which has been the motivating force in your action, may we remind you that it is far safer in a democracy for the humblest man to have a ballot in his hand than a wrong in his heart. We would save the state of Georgia, your home and ours, from the stigma of making democracy a by-word and a mockery in the sight of the world, and of setting at naught a decision handed down by the highest court in the land.

We hope that you will see fit generously to grant the opportunity to participate in the process of government of our state to those qualified Negro citizens whose choice is the Democratic party. We respectfully urge you, therefore, in regular session assembled to reconsider the decision of your sub-committee with the hope that barriers set up against Negroes, wholly on the basis of race, in the Democratic Primaries will be discontinued. We do this in the interest of interracial good will, the highest Americanism, and the welfare of our great state.

Very truly yours,

NAACP BOARD AFFIRMS RIGHT TO CHALLENGE PARTIES

New York--At a special meeting on Monday, July 31st, the National Board of Directors of the N.A.A.C.P. reaffirmed the continued non-partisan political position of the Association as restated by the annual conference of the Association in Chicago, Illinois, two weeks ago. The Board approved and endorsed the critical comment of its Secretary, Walter White, upon both the Republican and Democratic national platforms, and expressed the intention of the Association to continue to challenge both parties on the issues of major concern to the Negro and to the common man generally.

The Board further expressed the intention of the Association to call upon both parties and their national leadership in a demand for action in Congress between now and the November elections upon those domestic issues vitally affecting the interests of common people.

N.A.A.C.P. ASKS F.B.I. ACTION IN PTC STRIKE

New York--After a two-day personal investigation of Transportation strike hostilities in Philadelphia, Assistant NAACP secretary, Roy Wilkins, wired Attorney General Francis Biddle: "I wish to urge strongly that the Department of Justice through the Federal Bureau of Investigation make a special examination into the activities of James McMenamin, Don Lasher and Frank P. Carney, who are leaders of the so-called committee representing the strikers. Statements attributed to Carney by Philadelphia papers of August 1 and 2 seem to be clearly incitement to riot. Rumor has it that Carney and Lasher were either given or took much time off from work during past three weeks devoting their efforts to fomenting racial hatred and stirring up employees to paralyze Philadelphia with the surprise stoppage. Statements attributed to McMenamin in the New York Herald Tribune of August 3 come within the category of incitement to riot. Carney and McMenamin have preached open defiance of federal government as well as vilest and lowest forms of racial hatred. My personal observation among Negro population of Philadelphia for 36 hours informs me that the statements of these strike leaders have done more to embitter Negro population and lay basis for serious clashes than any other aspect of tie-up. Prompt and effective action by FBI is urged."

N.A.A.C.P. BRANCH OFFICER ACTS IN P.T.C. STRIKE

Philadelphia - At a meeting yesterday in the office of Dr. A. A. Mitten, director, industrial relations, PTC, Theodore Spaulding, president, the local branch NAACP, said of the strike situation, "The question here is one of democracy which in my opinion means much more than the money involved." Later, Mr. Spaulding along with Mayor Bernard Samuel, Joseph Sharfsin, FEPC; James McNamee, WMC; and Reverend Thomas Palmquist appealed to strikers to return to work over radio station WCAU. A hundred thousand leaflets urging citizens to remain cool in waiting for the defeat of undemocratic action against the upgrading of Negroes were circularized by the Philadelphia branch NAACP.

P.T.C. STRIKERS' TALK "INCITES RIOT" - NAACP

New York--Statements attributed to James McMenamin and Frank P. Carney, strike leaders in the Philadelphia Transportation tie-up, were cited yesterday as fomenting race hatred and incitement-to-riot, in a wire to the Department of Justice by Roy Wilkins, Assistant Secretary, NAACP.

McMenamin, chairman of the strikers' general committee, declared "the issue to be strictly black and white." In explaining resentment to Negroes he said: "Due to low health conditions, their inferior education and their general economic condition, their standard of living is very far below the standard of operators. We have a condition here where every man swinging between runs gets a rest on a bench in the depot. This would require a colored man to lie beside a white man, or a white man to lie where a colored man had been. The colored people have bedbugs. These benches are wood, and wood breeds bedbugs, and I don't want any bedbugs."

Frank Carney, former president of the old PRT employees Union, told listeners point blank: "We won't go back to work until they take the Negroes off." On the other hand a supplementary statement by operators pointed out that: "Under the upgrading privileges now in effect, Negroes employed in other departments have priority over all new applicants.

"This means that when a Negro is upgraded his place in his former department is filled with a new Negro applicant, which effectively excludes white men and women from employment.

"We sincerely regret the inconvenience caused the public but believe that the public will sympathize and understand when they learn we are trying to keep the public transportation system from being under the domination of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People."

NAACP IN THICK OF PTC STRIKE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia,Pa.--During the strike of the Philadelphia Transportation Company employees, begun here August 1, the NAACP was in the thick of the dispute which revolved around the employment of Negroes as motormen and conductors.

The Philadelphia branch, with Theodore Spaulding, president, and Mrs. Carolyn D. Moore, executive secretary, was on the job. Roy Wilkins, assistant secretary from the national office in New York, came to Philadelphia a few hours after the strike started and remained until the Federal government took over. From its Washington Bureau, Walter White and Leslie Perry kept up contact with Federal government officials. The NAACP thus brought to bear its entire resources in the emergency.

The original complaint on the discrimination in PTC was brought by the Philadelphia branch of the NAACP, and the group has been in continuous contact with developments. Tuesday night, August 1, President Spaulding and Mr. Wilkins toured north, south and West Philadelphia areas, making a personal investigation of sporadic outbreaks and clashes, including the looting of some few stores.Hundreds of telephone calls and telegrams were handled through the branch which acted as the coordinating agency of all groups interested in the problem. More than 100,000 leaflets were distributed by the NAACP Wednesday night, August 2. President Spaulding participated in a half-hour radio program over station WCAU along with Mayor Bernard Samuel, representatives of WMC, FEPC and others.

PHILLY REFUSES PERMIT
FOR SOUND TRUCK TO NAACP 8/3/44

Philadelphia, Pa.--On the second day of the transportation strike here, the NAACP applied for permission to send out two sound trucks to broadcast information on developments and to urge persons to refrain from violence, but city officials refused to grant permits for the trucks to operate.

"The NAACP merely wished to show that it wanted to cooperate at its own expense in keeping law and order," said Theodore Spaulding, branch president, "but the city denied us the opportunity."

NEWARK TEL & RADIO
STOPS TIMERS POLICY 8/3/44

New York--Adjustment and elimination of discriminatory practices in the hiring of Negroes in a division of the Federal Telephone and Radio Corp.(Local #477, UERMA-CIO), Newark, N.J., was reported to the NAACP today by the Regional Office, FEPC, Philadelphia. Investigation followed protest by the NAACP Secretary, last Dec. 7 on receipt of a copy of a letter purportedly written by a factory manager to the Personnel Director stating: "We do not wish your subordinates to hire N---- for work in this plant as long as I have any say in the matter. So far we have been fortunate in not being forced to accept them through the USES agency on the War Labor Board. While we admit someone must help them why not let the government do it?"

Recent reports show not only confirmation of a non-discriminatory employment policy, the deletion of all references to race or color, but Negroes being hired now up to 25% of the total employment.

NAACP ASKS OPA
HOLD RENT CEILING 8/3/44

New York--A statement sponsored by the NAACP in support of a brief by the New York chapter of the National Lawyers Guild to sustain the rent ceiling for housing in the New York City Defense area, was filed Wednesday by Walter White in the OPA office, Washington,D.C. Disclaiming any necessity for a general 10% increase in maximum rentals, the Association requested the OPA Administrator to deny the request by the Joint Protest of the 315 W. 97th Street Realty Co. Inc., for such regulation. Along with many others, more than 5,000 NAACP members residing in the section would be actively affected.

NAACP PROTESTS STATES'
UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION 8/3/44

Washington,D.C.--A letter protesting "states' rights" control of the unemployment compensation program for the duration of industrial mobilization, on the basis that the plain people, especially Negroes would be the inevitable sufferers, was sent today by Walter White, secretary NAACP to Senator Alben Barkley, Democratic Majority Leader; Senator Wallace H. White, Jr., Minority Leader; and other prominent members of the Finance Committee, Military Affairs Committee, and the Senate generally.

Recommending instead adoption of the Kilgore Bill, Mr. White said: "We as a nation found it necessary during time of war to mobilize our resources on a national instead of on a state-by-state basis. We found this brought maximum efficiency. How much more necessary will it be for us to follow the same procedure during the trying days of peace when there will be greater competition for jobs and greater tensions?

"It is our conviction and contention that there will be racial and other clashes if this important matter of peacetime adjustment is left to the several states. We ask, therefore, that you give most serious consideration to this matter and that you do all you can to secure the adoption of the principle embodied in the Kilgore Bill."

All persons are urged to write their Senators in this important issue.

PACIFIC SOLDIERS FORWARD
$1,895.59 FOR NAACP WORK 8/3/44

Pittsburgh--Contributions amounting to $1,895.59 which were sent from soldiers and officers in the Pacific were forwarded to the national office from Mrs. Daisy E. Lampkin, Field Secretary, NAACP. The donation in appreciation of Association's work, came from the Regimental Chaplain, Andrew L. Johnson and members of the 25th Infantry Regiment. Billy Rowe, Pittsburgh Courier war correspondent in that sector is credited with initiating the move made by the soldiers.

"24-HOUR" GUARD FOR CAMP FORREST WACS

Washington--Response to the NAACP request made July 1 for immediate investigation by the War Department of the threatened rape and invasion by white paratroopers of quarters occupied by Negro Wacs at Camp Forrest, Tenn., was received today.

A twenty-four hour a day guard has been posted around the WAC camp and the area declared "off limits" for all white soldiers. The order was issued from the Inspector General's office following thorough investigation.

N.A.A.C.P. CITES SERVICE OF PHILLY PRESS STORIES

New York-- "Philadelphia press editorials unanimous in their denunciation of un-American attitudes on the part of PTC strikers, are as much responsible for the successful handling of a nasty situation and the curtailment of violence, as any other measureable factor," declared Walter White, Executive Secretary, NAACP today in reviewing the aid of various agencies during the recent conflict. "Significant is the lesson to be learned concerning the power of coordinated effort on the part of all 'persuasion media', united in their protests against the racial subterfuge used by strikers. And in this instance not enough praise can be given the press for the meritorious public service performed toward averting a major national catastrophe." Listed particularly by Mr. White, were the Record, Inquirer and Bulletin.

Adamant in its stand to break the back of the stubborn tie-up in its earliest stage, the Philadelphia Record was first to allocate front-page, headline position to an open letter characterizing as "Disgraceful" the despicable issues being named by strike leaders to thwart FEPC directives and hinder war production. It is also notable that concerted effort was made in all editorials to point out the paradoxical reasoning of strike leaders in their claim of intellectual unfitness of the eight Negroes upgraded, as well as in the faked arguments attacking the validity of seniority rights, and the retention of jobs for the employees in the armed forces.

At all times vehement in its demands that the Government step in to uncover the selfish interests motivating the dastardly conduct of McMenamin, Dixey, Thompson, and the repudiated company union head, Carney, the Philadelphia Record spared no space hammering at the fact that "The strike was inspired by the underground, under cover activity of individuals who day by day poured race hatred into their ears. These men artfully aroused their emotions, lied to them about the seniority clause in their contract, misrepresented the Government agencies which were striving to overcome the manpower shortage by upgrading Negro employees."

Warning that the situation was a lesson in tolerance and common sense, the editorial further stated,"Right in these attacks and vandalism we get an example of the way hate feeds on hate, how prejudice disrupts and destroys. It is such hatreds and mob spirit which have consumed Europe. Our job is to fight them here as our soldiers fight them there."

Similarly the Philadelphia Inquirer in two editorials, Un-American and Intolerable and End This Outrageous Strike! denounced and shamed strikers for the ignorance to which they fell pray. In the latter instance attention was drawn to the fact that "In walking out because a few Negroes were upgraded by the PTC, the operators disavowed the cause of freedom for which their country, even their own sons are fighting. If they were attempting to gain rescinding by PTC of its agreement, eliminating the color line, the strikers were in effect attempting to put themselves above the Government of the United States.

And whatever their opinion they had no justification for their shockingly un-American, undemocratic reprisal."

The Evening Bulletin declared the strike an outrage in flagrant disregard for all-out support of the fighting men at the front in order that PTC operatives might register their objections to preparations of the Company to employ Negroes in compliance with rulings and procedure of the WMC. It described the outlaw strike, "an affront to millions, a slap in the face to decent employer-employee relations. It was a grave mistake for the men who wielded this bludgeon to imagine that they are bigger than their country. Their leaders are doing them a serious injury. Common sense dictates the wise policy of ignoring these leaders and immediately going back to work."

However the sustaining note, in acceptance of the challenge for some profound effort toward the solution of a problem of great magnitude, is sounded in the August 8 editorial of the Record. How America Can Defeat Racial Intolerance, finds preliminary development in a five-point program delineating spheres of tension, warranting immediate attention from both national and local authorities. Mentioned are Housing, Delinquency, Education, Religion, Agitation.

"It is noteworthy," said Mr. White, "that in no instance was there evident at any time any division in editorial thought as to the extreme necessity for 1) immediate Government intervention; 2) severity of punishment of strike leaders instigating subversive propaganda; 3) necessity for the establishment now of the FEPC as a precedent for the elimination of Jim Crow in the upgrading of Negro workers. 4)and in constant reminding of the fact that the upgrading of Negroes has been proven successful in all communities where FEPC directives have been carried out. Whatever can be said of the significance of the symbol of the City of Brotherhly Love, it remains intact. from the standpoint of its press in public service performance."

CRISIS MAGAZINE SURVEY
SHOWS 4,059 GRADUATES 8/10/44
FROM COLLEGES LAST YEAR

New York--A total of 4,059 graduates from colleges and universities during the school year 1943-44 was revealed in the survey of The Crisis Magazine in its 33rd annual education number for August. The figure contrasts with 3,756 graduates reported for June, 1943.

Those who received the bachelor degree, either in arts or science, number 3,595. Of these, 3,510 finished Negro institutions and 85 were graduated from mixed schools. The latter figure is not complete, the magazine declares, because many mixed colleges do not keep a racial record of students, including Columbia university, University of Minnesota, University of California, Hunter college, College of the City of New York, Cornell, University of Michigan, and others.

A total of 143 master's degrees was awarded; 126 received professional degrees from Howard university and 89 from Meharry Medical college; 33 honorary degrees were conferred by various institutions; 9 students, including two women, received the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Howard university continues to have the largest enrollment, 2,355. Prairie View is second with 1,353, and Tennessee State third with 1,256. Western Reserve reported 172 Negro students enrolled, the largest of any mixed school answering the survey questionnaire, and Ohio State had the largest number of Negro graduates from mixed schools, 33.

RED CROSS HEAD WILL CONTINUE JIMCROW POLICY 8/10/44

New York--In response to a letter from Basil O'Connor announcing continuation of the blood plasma segregation policy, Walter White expressed sharp disappointment about the attitude of the newly appointed Red Cross head. In a communication to the latter, Mr. White said: "I had honestly hoped that you would show more courage and forthrightness in your approach to what is one of the most shameful episodes and practices in this war for human liberation."

Referring to the southern origin of the United States

Surgeon General responsible as a single individual for the establishment of the unscientific policy now being protested on all sides, Mr. White pointed out "It had been our hope that the American Red Cross would have the moral courage to admit that it had made a mistake and that it would have initiative enough to say frankly to the Honorary president of the American Red Cross, the President of the United States, and to the Army and Navy that it could not be a party to a practice and doctrine which savors more of Hitler's theory of a "master race" than of a democracy."

Denouncing the excuse made by Basil O'Connor that "From the point of view of all the people of the United States, the present arrangement is the best possible in all of the circumstances," Mr. White declared in closing, "It is this same lack of moral courage which is responsible, from my personal observations in four war theatres of operations, for the surrender to and the spreading by the Red Cross of patterns of segregation and discrimination which hold it not only up to question of its bona fides, but America as well."

NAACP ENDORSES PROVISIONS
IN MURRAY-KILGORE BILL 8/10/44

Washington--The Republican and Democratic conventions held in Chicago this summer have not changed in any wise the solidarity existing between the Southern Democrats and the Republicans in the Senate. The same old reactionary coalition is supporting the watered-down ineffectual war mobilization and reconversion bill introduced by Senator Walter F. George of Georgia and is opposing the Kilgore post-war adjustment bill, urged by Senator Wagner on the basis of its liberal federal standards of unemployment pay and its provisions for other phases of reconversion.

NAACP

The Washington Bureau/in urging the Senators to vote for the Kilgore bill against the ineffectual George bill, which bows to states' rights, pointed out that in the post war period the Federal government must be prepared to give guidance and material assistance if 20,000,000 war workers and 10,000,000 returning veterans are to be employed. Declaring that "conditions will be chaotic and terrifying" for Negro and white workmen, the NAACP endorsed the following provisions in the Kilgore Bill:

(1) Federal unemployment compensation up to $25 per week for the two-and-a-half million government workers who will lose their jobs.

(2) Re-training for discharged war workers who might acquire new trades and skills for peacetime industries.

(3) Free transportation for working men and veterans who might be shifted from one section of the country to another where employment may be had.

Calling for the defeat of the George bill, which is favored by the conservatives, the NAACP stated that by making federal and other employees subject to the unemployment compensation laws of the various states, it is manifest that this provision is designed solely to keep Negro and white unemployed workers, especially in the South, at marginal subsistence thereby maintaining the characteristic cheap labor market.

The contrast in the two bills, said the NAACP, is graphically shown by the difference in which human rights and decent standards of living are treated. The George bill would merely pay the transportation of unemployed workers so that they may return to their homes if they were stranded, whereas the Kilgore bill would pay their transportation to such places where the unemployed could secure work.

Senator Wagner, of Anti-Lynching Bill fame is again the champion in this instance. In urging the vote of Colleagues for the bill, he furnished a detailed analysis of the inability of the state systems to meet reconversions adequately. Letters to the NAACP from Senators Capper and Downey indicate support of the Kilgore measure.

NAACP WIRES FDR, DEWEY ON COALITION AGAINST KILGORE BILL

New York--Wires to President Roosevelt and Gocernor Dewey requesting comment on the coalition of southern Democratic and Republican Senate leaders opposing the Murray-Kilgore Reconversion and Unemployment Compensation Bill, were sent today by Walter White, Secretary, NAACP. "We ask particularly your opinion on proposal to invest all power to determine unemployment compensation rates in the States although part of funds for such compensation supplied from Federal Treasury", the wire read. It asked also, "Do you favor such State control? Negro Americans are particularly concerned with this because approximately eight-million of thirteen-million American Negro citizens reside in South where inequity of distribution of public funds has worked notorious hardship upon Negroes."

GOVT., N.A.A.C.P.,PRESS
THWART PTC RACE ISSUE 8/10/44

New York--The firm stand taken by FEPC, WMC, the Department of Justice, and such other federal authorities as were necessary to bring to an end the intolerable and un-American tie-up of transit operations in Philadelphia was praised today by the NAACP whose vigorous fight for the upgrading of Negroes was finally realized in the City of Brotherly Love.

It was obvious all during the period of strike hostilities that certain conservative business and political interests made no attempt on their own at any time to end the conflict nurtured and motivated by strike leaders in their attempts to cover the real issues of thwarted personal ambitions. It was hoped that the failure of the Government to take an unequivocal stand, would result in alienation of the Negro vote, and that just the opposite would occur in the instance of white voters.

Ironically, the conflict ended with all voters on board standing pat on the merits of the justice of Government intervention. Overwhelming approval was evinced by the majority of white citizens witnessing for the first time the test of democratic upgrading for the deserving minority among their population.

On the other hand, that the racial issue was only a superficial pretense, to cover the project of selfish, sinister, political and economic interests, is well established now.

As Victor Riesel pointed out in the New York Post, August 8,- "McMenamin, Carney and Dixon were former members at good salaries of the Company Union; that when the TWU won the election they lost their soft berths and high salaries and, presumably, went back to the much lower salaries of motorman, or whatever else they did; but that obviously with the tacit approval, to put it as mildly as possible, of the PTC they were permitted to organize on company time and property the strike and the campaign of race hatred."

Along with the NAACP which was first recommended the Army be moved into Philadelphia, the FBI ordered to investigate, and that a special Federal Grand Jury be ordered by the Attorney General, the Philadelphia press stands foremost among media, keeping constant vigil on the torch of democratic action. Always unanimous in their stand against the cowardly tactics of those who sought to inflame racials hatreds,--editorials, features and news stories all contributed support necessary to the success of such agencies as the NAACP, fighting the vigorous battle against Jimcrow in all divisions of labor and industry.

The "Committee of 100"

Dedicated to the Creation of an America of Justice and Equality for Our Negro Fellow Citizens

69 FIFTH AVENUE • NEW YORK 3, N. Y.

WILLIAM ALLAN NEILSON
Chairman

August 18, 1944

Dear Friend:

Every intelligent observer of the Philadelphia crisis agrees that race hatred was the issue. As stated in the most direct terms by the effective head of the transportation tieup, it was "...white against black. The colored people have bedbugs and I don't want any bedbugs." The second war production center of the nation was half paralyzed, and at least 500,000 man-hours of production lost, in a disgraceful effort to frustrate the upgrading of eight Negro street-car employees.

The lesson of Philadelphia is that race hatred, naked and unashamed, can seize hold of the third city of the nation and effectively paralyze its production for war. The tragedy is that deep-rooted racial animosities can be fanned into flame by suspect interests, while our sons fight on foreign soil to destroy a tyranny built on a pseudo-racial exclusiveness. The frightening thing is that this could happen - and did - in the very cradle of American liberty. We know now that no city in this nation is immune to racial strife and bloodshed in these days of crisis. We can no longer cherish the illusion that a solution of the Negro problem may safely be postponed until the postwar period. This war could very well be lost if the Philadelphia story were to be repeated and intensified in the larger industrial centers of the nation. Certainly the peace will be lost if we celebrate our victory by imitating the vanquished.

It is an ironical commentary that General Eisenhower, by chance during the height of the crisis, lauded the Negro troops of his command for their valorous performance in the Army of Liberation. Our Negro soldiers are helping to win with their sacrifices in blood the liberation of peoples now under the Nazi heel. Must they return to a homeland where they and their families are humiliated, discriminated against, and consigned to second-class citizenship status? THE NEW YORK TIMES epitomizes the attitude of the misled Philadelphia traction employees as "...colored soldiers may be good enough to risk their lives for their country. They are not good enough to operate a Philadelphia street car."

Let us not mistakenly assume that we have won a victory in this ordeal. Indeed, we have suffered a most humiliating defeat. Hitler himself, in the midst of his darkest days, cannot but gloat that his racial doctrine has found strong support in the second war-production center of the United States. The threat of the Nazi underground in Germany after Hitler's destruction is trifling in comparison with that of the openly operating "race haters" and "white supremacy mobsters" in our own country.

In this crisis we who really believe in the brotherhood of man must act with all our strength to reassure our lonely and embittered fellow men of color that we mean not to abandon them. There is a deep-rooted feeling of disillusionment and despair among masses of Negroes, which finds its outlet in blind hatred of the white man, the exploiter and the enemy. Let us not by our silence and inaction be responsible for this final outrage, to allow the Negro masses to descend to the moral level of the "lily white race hater."

We can act effectively and at once in support of the work of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the most hopeful movement in this age-old struggle for justice. The "Committee of 100" represents a constituency of millions of Americans dedicated to the achievement of equal justice under law, and equality of political, economic, and educational opportunity for our fellow men of color. Since our first appeal on behalf of the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc., the affiliate providing legal protection and civic leadership to the American Negro community, 6,500 Americans of every race and creed have contributed more than $75,000 to underwrite this work for 1944. We need $25,000 additional to fulfill our pledged obligation during this crisis year, and it is in this way that you can help most effectively now.

Every gift to this fund is tax exempt. Whether your gift be of $1 or $1,000, it will constitute a link in that great chain of fellowship we are forging. It will assure our fellow men of color that, despite Detroit and Philadelphia, there are millions of decent Americans who work in the great tradition of American democracy to heal the injured and to deliver the oppressed. It is the least that we can do. More than 13,000,000 American Negroes, nearly a million in our armed forces, face their day of trial. It is also our day of test. I count on your generous response.

Sincerely yours,

W. A. Neilson

The "Committee of 100" invites every American to join in the following affirmation. In this crucial year it is not enough merely to BELIEVE in these ideals. So we ask you to join in the DOING without which the BELIEVING fails. . .

THE BELIEVING ★ I believe in the brotherhood of man. I believe in the essential right of my Negro fellow man to equal justice under the law; to the same political, economic and educational opportunities as any other American. I believe in the immediate right of the young man of color to serve his country under its flag without suffering the stigma of segregation.

THE DOING ★ I will make plain, by personal example on every occasion, that I am on the side of those who suffer from unfair discrimination. I will help with my counsel, with my work, and with my material resources when my contribution can be useful in making these beliefs effective. In 1944 I will assist, by every means within my power, this effort to make an America of justice and equality for our Negro fellow citizens.

"Colored Soldiers may be Good Enough to Risk Their Lives in Battle for Their Country. They Are Not Good Enough To Operate A Philadelphia Street Car."

The New York Times

SATURDAY, AUGUST 5, 1944

BEHIND PHILADELPHIA'S CRISIS

The Philadelphia rapid-transit strike continues in defiance of the United States Army. The ugly situation revealed by the strike remains. In the background there may have been an inter-union struggle, with James McMenamin's "general emergency committee" trying to undermine the Transport Workers Union. But Mr. McMenamin resorted to a weapon which the TWU and the parent CIO have specifically abjured. He called in race prejudice. He and his followers are willing to paralyze a city of two million people, to cut war production, to impede war shipments—and for what purpose? Not for more pay. Not for better working conditions. No, in his own words, to "get a written guarantee that there will be no further hiring of colored operators and no further instruction of the colored operators now in training." In Mr. McMenamin's opinion colored soldiers may be good enough to risk their lives in battle for their country. They are not good enough to operate a Philadelphia street car.

Mr. McMenamin and his followers have refused to call off their strike after the Federal Government has taken over and after the Army has announced that it will operate the Philadelphia rapid-transit system with or without their aid. They are now under threat of legal penalties. The suspicion has been voiced that persons hostile to the war purposes of the United States had something to do with stirring up this trouble. But why should this sinister achievement have been possible? One can't believe that six thousand rapid-transit workers deliberately set out to make a mockery of collective bargaining, to stir up racial conflict, to weaken the fighting fronts, prolong the war and lengthen the American casualty lists.

They cannot have had these things in mind. Let us say that some, perhaps a good many, went out because they were afraid not to—afraid of violence, afraid of being abused, afraid of being considered disloyal to their fellows. There must remain a good many others, the dominant element, who struck because their minds were distorted by a mean and ignorant prejudice. We all know that there are organized groups in this country whose leaders fatten on such prejudice. They are trying to destroy American democracy from within just as earnestly as the Nazis and Japanese are trying to destroy it from without. Their poor dupes in Philadelphia seem to have learned little during the past four days. Nevertheless one must hope and believe, also, that there will be no weakening on the basic issue of equal opportunity in employment, without regard to race or creed. This is a case where compromise would be indecent.

NAACP WARNS AGAINST FURTHER FEPC DELAY

New York---Unless both Senate and House committees act to speed passage of bills to create a permanent FEPC, Negro Americans will regard the delay "as bad faith on the part of the Democratic party," the NAACP told Senate and House committee chairmen August 31.

Urging Congresswoman Mary T. Norton (D., N.J.) chairman of the House Labor committee and Senator Dennis Chavez, chairman of the Senate committee on Education and Labor, to bring the bill out of committee and up for favorable action on the floor, Walter White, NAACP secretary said to Mrs. Norton:

"National Association for Advancement of Colored People has read your statement that action on bill for permanent FEPC has been delayed by your committee because of number of witnesses wanting to be heard. We submit facts of racial discrimination in employment are well known. Because end of war in Europe is now in sight and because estimated 50% reduction in war production will present a crisis in employment we urge you telegraph witnesses who wish to testify and have not been heard to send statements to your committee and on basis of testimony already taken report the bill to the house and urge passage now. Similar action is being urged upon Senate committee. We believe majority of Negro Americans while recognizing sponsorship your party has given to FEPC will regard any delay as bad faith on part of party."

THREE G.I. UNITS SEND NAACP $581

New York---Checks amounting to $581 were received by the NAACP this week from one Negro unit in the Pacific and two from the European Theatre of War. The largest amount, $320, was forwarded by Staff Sergeant Charles Buckley from GI's and officers in the 3445th QM, Trk. Co., "somewhere in the Pacific." Checks for $181 and $80 respectively were received from 1st. Lt. Edward Peeks for men belonging to the 366th Inf. and from 1st. Sgt. Rufus Bertrand for the 3486th QM. Trk. Co.

NAACP PROTESTS JIMCROW HOLC PRACTICES

New York---A letter was sent by the NAACP legal department protesting the discriminatory practices of the HOLC in the case of Miss Daphne Herbert who submitted forms, and fulfilled specified requirements for a loan on the purchase of a home in Corona, L. I.

When the request was first denied by the government agency, it was found the application had been marked "colored prospect." Reconsideration was based on both the raising of the original price of the home and the down payment.

The NAACP pointed out "This property was to be bought for $6,500, $800 down, and $59.60 per month thereafter." Response from Mr. John W. Palmer, of the HOLC stated "Because of the type of property involved, it will be necessary for Miss Herbert to make terms and conditions which we have previously outlined to our local representative inhis negotiations with her as a prospective purchaser a price of $7000 and a down payment of $2000."

The property referred to is located 3316 97th St. Corona, L. I. in a mixed community with many Negroes living one half block away from the address listed.

NAACP TO AID PROSECUTION AGAINST G. I. SLAYER 8/31/44

New York---Edward R. Dudley of the NAACP Legal Staff is being sent to confer with relatives and attorneys representing the family of Pvt. Booker T. Spicely, who was killed by a white bus driver, July 8 in Durham, N. C. during an incident involving the State jimcrow bus law.

The prosecution against Herman Lee Council, white, who shot Spicely, will be heard during the second week in September.

NAACP ATTORNEY TO REPRESENT PLAINTIFFS IN ICC CASE 8/31/44

Washington, D. C.---Attorney Arthur D. Shores of Birmingham, Ala., a member of the NAACP legal committee, has been granted permission to appear before the ICC Examiner, Sept. 11, in Mobile, Ala., to represent plaintiffs in the case of Le Flore and Crishon in their suit for $2500 each against the Gulfport, Mobile and Ohio railroad.

The complaint alleges that because of the race and color of the plaintiffs they were denied Pullman car reservations on June 27, 1943 from Meridian, Miss., to Mobile, Ala., despite the fact travelling space was available. It alleged further that dining car service was denied them for the same reason.

NO WAVES FOR STATIONS HOUSING NEGRO SAILORS 8/31/44

New York---No WAVES will be assigned to Naval Stations housing large numbers of Negro sailors, according to a directive just uncovered by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The directive in the form of a memorandum under date of March 6, 1944 and signed by Lt. W. M. Wilson, U. S. Naval Air Station, Whidbey Island, Washington reads as follows:

"SUBJ: Correspondence involving WAVES-official paragraph to be used.

"1. Following is a sample paragraph to be used in official station correspondence whenever it is necessary to discuss the possibility of bringing WAVE personnel aboard.

"However, it is not now considered practicable to assign WAVES to this isolated station, for the following reasons: (1) There are approximately four hundred (400) general service and rated Negro personnel aboard the station, and the nearest Negro community is ninety (90) miles distant; (2) There are no living quarters available for WAVES; (3) There are no recreational facilities suitable for WAVES."

"2. This memorandum is to be kept in your files. It is not to be bulletined or even left lying around."

In a letter to James V. Forrestall, Secretary of the Navy, Walter White, NAACP secretary said, "This Association wishes to inquire whether the above memorandum was based upon the individual judgement of Lt. Wilson or whether it represents the policy of the Navy."

NAACP SENDS SUPPLEMENTS TO FEPC TESTIMONY

New York--A supplement to testimony to be placed before the House Committee for the creation of a permanent FEPC was sent by NAACP Secretary, Walter White, when an invitation to appear personally before the House Sub-Committee arrived too late.

Referring to the recent statement by the WPB indicating drastic cutbacks imminent in defense industries, on the day Germany surrenders, Mr. White said, "It is urgent that your Committee report immediately and favorably S2048 and press for immediate Senate action. Postponement of action through adjournment of Congress until November would, in our measured opinion, be a catastrophe. Experiences of the Fair Employment Practice Committee during past three years give ample proof that minority group workers must have protection of Federal Legislation if they are to secure equal employment opportunities in post war period. Vociferous objections of some members of Congress to 'Government by executive order' in this difficult field would come with better grace if Congress would deal with the problem effectively and expeditiously by enacting appropriate Legislation. We submit it is imperative that Congressional committees having before them such critical Legislation as S.2048 give evidence to American people of their good faith and thereby convince a large and ever-growing segment of the American people that something more than political shadowboxing is taking place. We, therefore, urge your committee to expedite passage of this vital and necessary Legislation."

Washington,D.C.---The NAACP sent wires to Congressmen John J. Cochran (D. St. Louis), Charles L. Gifford (R. Mass.), and George N. Bender (R. Ohio), endorsing adoption of the War Surplus Property Bill, HR.5125, as amended by the Senate August 25.

The bill in its present form includes an amendment by Senator Wagner prohibiting discrimination in the disposal of surplus war property. It requires the head of the Surplus Property Administration to "devise ways and means and prescribe appropriate regulations and directives to prevent any discrimination against persons (institutions and corporations) in the disposal, distribution and use of any government property covered by this Act on account of race, creed or color."

Other groups who have joined with the NAACP in endorsing the bill include: R. B. Atwood, secretary, Association of Presidents of Negro Land Grant Colleges; William M. Rich, president, National Conference of Hospital Administrators; and Walter Ridley, president of American Teachers Association.

NAACP URGES APPOINTMENT OF NEGRO TO VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

Washington, D.C.--The appointment of a qualified Negro as an Assistant Administrator of Veterans Affairs to protect the rights of Negro veterans and to provide essential on-the-spot advice for the solution of prevailing problems was urged by the NAACP in a letter to Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines.

"This suggestion," advised Mr. White, "does not contemplate the appointment of an 'Advisor on Negro Affairs.' We are convinced that the best interests of the returning veterans, as well as the nation-at-large, will be served if the duties of the appointee be unhampered by race. Such an appointee should, in our opinion, be party to the origin, development and propagation of all veterans administration policy with respect to demobilization and placement of service personnel." Appointment of those qualified in administration and executive capacities to all branches of the Veterans Administration was also suggested.

NAACP DISAGREES WITH DECISION TO POSTPONE FEPC HEARINGS

New York--The NAACP took issue sharply with Congresswoman Mary T. Norton for the decision of the House Labor Committee, of which she is chairman, to postpone hearings on the creation of a permanent FEPC until after the Election.

Anticipation of a recess, and the great number of problems confronting all members of Congress were listed among reasons given for the committee's decision. "The Committee realized that it would be impossible to have a bill considered by the Labor Committee and reported to the House before Election," wrote Mrs. Norton. "It is our intention to continue hearings when Congress reassembles after the election, report a bill and to do everything possible to have it enacted before the expiration of the 78th Congress," she said.

In his reply, NAACP secretary, Walter White called attention to the present plight of the Negro and Mrs. Norton's responsibility for chairmanship of the important House Labor Committee sponsoring this protective legislation. "Members of your party and of the opposition could certainly win far greater support by staying on the job in Washington to enact legislation of this character than by taking a recess to go home to make speeches," wrote Mr. White. "Campaign oratory will have less than no effect upon men and women whose stomachs are empty or who are forced to face the stark reality of unemployment. The responsibility to make concrete now and not at some future date the aims for which we say we fight in this war rests upon your party and upon the Republican party, which pledged in its platform legislative support of a permanent Fair Employment Practice Committee.

"We have no other alternative than to insist upon both parties that the Congress remain in session and enact this vital legislation."

JIMCRO POLICIES AIMED AT IN ACTION AGAINST BOILERMAKERS

San Francisco, Calif.--Attorneys for Joseph James and other Negro workers in the Marinship Corporation filed a supplemental brief this week in the Supreme Court of the State of California where the case is now pending.

Joseph Jones, president of the San Francisco Branch of the NAACP on his own behalf and on behalf of 1,000 other Negro workers of the Marinship Corporation in San Francisco filed in the early part of this year an action against the Boilermakers Union seeking to enjoin the union from discriminating against its Negro members. The pleadings in the case pointed out that the Boilermakers union held a closed shop agreement with the Marinship Corporation whereby all employees were required to be members of the Boilermakers union. It is also alleged that Negroes were relegated to the status of auxiliary members and were denied the right to become full members of the union. Many types of discrimination under this set-up were pointed out including the fact that the auxiliary members had no vote and no control over the affairs of the union; were denied equal insurance benefits and other benefits usually incidental to union membership.

The case was filed on January 13 and a temporary restraining order issued. On February 18 a preliminary injunction was issued against the Boilermakers Union and the Union immediately filed an appeal to the Supreme Court of California.

A brief was filed by attorneys for the Negro workers and the supplemental brief was filed last week. In the supplemental brief filed by attorneys George R. Andersen and Herbert Resner as attorneys for the Negro workers and Thurgood Marshall, as of Counsel, representing the NAACP, the brief points out that: "The Negro workers ask for equal union membership in order to protect the closed shop, and they offer willingly, to pay dues and to support the union, but with membership on terms and conditions equal with white members.

This case along with similar cases in California and the pending case against the Boilermakers Union in Providence, Rhode Island, are all aimed at breaking down the discriminatory policies existing in some labor unions. Unless Negroes are given full status, they will be released before full members, in the reconversion period.

NEWSREELS OF NEGRO UNITS
IN INVASION, AVAILABLE 9/7/44

New York--Assistant Secretary of War, John J. McCloy, announced that the War Department is taking newsreel footage of the accomplishments of Negro soldiers in France and other parts of the European theatre of operations, which will be available to all newsreel companies.

In a letter to Walter White, Mr. McCloy stated, "Carlton Moss who played the leading role in The Negro Soldier" has been sent to the European Theatre of Operations by the War Department. "Mr. Moss has been working with Signal Corps directors and cameramen filming a comprehensive record of the work of Negro soldiers both in combat and in the vital job of speeding supplies to the front."

The information came in response to the NAACP's letter of August 24 to Secretary of War Stimson asking that the War Department do more to assure broad film coverage of the activities of Negro troops. Newsreel companies have been advised and urged to make available this material. "It is our hope," said Mr. White, "that you will utilize this material as far as possible for distribution to white as well as Negro theatres."

WHITE GI WRITES N.A.A.C.P.
FOR ADVICE TO AID NEGRO 9/7/44

New York--Heartening evidence of an enlightened point of view on the race problem on the part of southern white Army men, was revealed in a letter to Walter White in which advice on the proper procedure to take to help Negroes in their fight for equality, was asked.

Writing from the South Pacific, after a successful defeat of the enemy in the Marianas, the Staff Sgt. (a former radio announcer in a Southern city), declared "We have another enemy. It is the attempt to 'hold back' the colored people of the United States. When I return to North Carolina after the war I am going to fight for the betterment of those colored folks. I am a white fellow, but I am a Christian who deeply feels the colored folks as a whole, if educated can gain their rightful equal rights."

In commenting the NAACP said, "It is our contention that recognition and encouragement of considerable enlightened opinion of this kind by the United States government would do a great deal toward prevention of the kind of post-war racial tragedies which followed World War I."

NAACP YOUTH COOPERATE
IN "BACK TO SCHOOL" DRIVE 9/7/44

New York--NAACP Youth Councils and College Chapters began their fall program in cooperation with other agencies in the current "Back to School" drive. Using the slogans" Do You Want to be a Kite in a Four-Engine World" and "Will it Look Big Five Years From Now" the progressive need for high school and college-education is being emphasized. Jobs after the war will require specialized and technical training. Negro Youth particularly must be prepared.

11/9/44

NAACP REPRESENTS CAMP CLAIBORNE
SOLDIER BEFORE JUDGE ADVOCATE
GENERAL'S BOARD OF REVIEW 11/9/44

Washington,D.C.--On Wednesday, November 8, the NAACP presented an oral argument and filed a brief with the Judge Advocate General's Board of Review on behalf of Sgt. Conway Price convicted of failure to suppress a mutiny on September 25, at Camp Claiborne,La.

During the evening of August 16 a rumor spread throughout the 1327th Regiment located at Camp Claiborne, La., that four Negro soldiers had been killed in the Bivouac Area by an armed civilian mob. Many of the soldiers rushed to Regimental Headquarters for confirmation. However, while milling around they were told that it would be better to go back to their hutments while the officers made the investigation. Sgt. Price, who was in the group apparently did not move fast enough, and was later court martialed and sentenced to nine years for a violation of the 67th Article of War, in that, being present at a mutiny he failed to do his utmost to suppress the same.

E. R. Dudley, assistant special counsel of the NAACP in presenting oral argument to the Board on behalf of Price pointed out that not only was there not a mutiny in the presence of the accused, but that Price was conscientiously seeking some sort of instructions from the officers as to how best he could help in the situation.

NAACP TAKES STAND AGAINST SYDENHAM HOSPITAL EXPERIMENT

New York--NAACP disapproval of the Sydenham Hospital experiment after careful study of the long range principles involved in the pattern being established, was revealed in recent Board action in the passage of a resolution by the Directors as follows:

"The establishment of such a hospital in a community which is largely a segregated one, due to various pressures and such legal devices as restricted covenants and the machinations of real estate interests to confine Negroes to a ghetto, makes Sydenham Hospital inevitably segregated in its clientele. It is understood already, approximately 95% of the out-patient and in-patient load is Negro.

"The NAACP is further convinced that despite resolutions passed by County medical societies and other bodies the unpublicized effect of Sydenham Hospital will be a quiet refusal to qualified Negro doctors and nurses of admission to the staffs of other hospitals, public and private. When the competition for hospital posts again becomes keen after the war, the conscious or subconscious tendencies of admission committees will be to suggest to Negro applicants for staff appointments that they apply to Sydenham Hospital.

"Finally, the NAACP recommends disapproval of the Sydenham Hospital plan because there are indications that in Los Angeles, Cleveland and other cities that the so-called Sydenham Hospital plan has been seized upon to frustrate or to postpone the meeting of legitimate demands of qualified Negro doctors and nurses for admission to tax-supported and tax-exempted institutions.

"The NAACP will continue its campaign for admission of qualified men and women of the medical profession to all hospitals, federal, state, county and municipal, which are supported by tax funds, directly or indirectly, and all institutions which receive benefits such as tax exemption and city pay for patients, irrespective of race, creed, color or national origin, the sole determinant to be ability and character.

"This is the one procedure which, in the opinion of the NAACP, will eventually eradicate the undemocratic and harmful barriers based on race, creed, color or national origin now existing in many hospitals, medical schools and other institutions for the healing of the physically and mentally sick."

SEABEES REPORT GROSS MISTREATMENT TO NAACP

Washington, D C.--Stories of "gross mistreatment and discrimination" told by Negro members of the 34th Construction Battalion (Seabees) upon their return from 21 months overseas have caused the Washington Bureau of the NAACP to demand of Secretary of the Navy, Forrestal a complete investigation of the charges. Leslie S. Perry, administrative assistant of the NAACP bureau here, wrote: "We are in receipt of complaints from various men attached to the 34th Construction Battalion who are now stationed in Port Hueneme, California. Uniformly, these men complain of gross mistreatment and discrimination on account of their race. First, they charge that even while serving abroad they were subjected to the most brazen and humiliating forms of segregation. Not only were they required to wait until white enlisted men had completed mess before they were given food, but even the drinking water tanks were set up on the basis of color. It is reported that one Negro seabee was kicked by Lieutenant R. G. Aaron for drinking from a tank set aside for white personnel.

"Second, it is alleged that Negro enlisted men were confined to the brig on the least pretext, especially when they protested the discriminatory conditions under which they were required to serve their country.

"Third, that although many of them are ill, the naval physicians, because of indifference or racial prejudice, refuse to furnish them with proper medical care. On occasion, it is reported, these men have been turned away by doctors with harsh and profane language. On other occasions, we understand, naval physicians have accosted men in the hospital with "what's wrong with you, eight ball?"

"Fourth, these men are unanimous in their complaint that Negroes in the battalion are systematically denied promotion.

"Most of the discrimination practiced against these men appears to reflect the wishes of Battalion Commander, J. P. McBean. We are informed that McBean has stated openly that 'as long as I am Commander of this Battalion, there will be segregation.'

"In the light of these complaints, your office has a solemn obligation to American people to investigate conditions in the 34th Battalion with a view to drastic corrective action."

WILKINS NAMED NAACP ACTING SECRETARY

12/14/44

New York--At its regular December meeting, the Board of Directors of the NAACP named Roy Wilkins as Acting Secretary of the Association during the absence of Walter White, now overseas in the Pacific war theatres as a correspondent for the New York Post. Mr. White is expected to be gone for several months and Wilkins, who has been assistant secretary since 1931 and editor of The Crisis since 1934, will function as acting head of the NAACP.

NAACP REPRESENTS ELEVEN SEABEES AT NAVAL BOARD REVIEW

Washington, D.C.--The U.S Naval Board of Review now has under advisement the case of 19 Negro Seabees who were given "unfitness" discharges in 1943. New hearings at which the NAACP appeared were held December 11th.

When the matter was first called to the attention of the NAACP, in October, 1943, the men revealed discharges were given after a conference held at the request of their commanding officer to discuss "off the record" matters pertaining to certain inequalities experienced by them.

At the hearing Arthur Garfield Hays and Gerald K. Weatherly, on behalf of the Lynn Committee to Abolish Segregation in the Armed Forces, and Thurgood Marshall, on behalf of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, represented the group.

The NAACP takes the position that the men involved in this case were all enlisted men anxious to serve their country. Although they had been subjected to segregation and other forms of discrimination pursuant to the policy of the United States Navy, they were nevertheless still anxious to serve their country. When they were requested by their commanding officer to have the "off-the-record" conference concerning their treatment, they readily agreed and answered the questions of their commanding officer truthfully. Because of this conference, they have been released from the Navy with discharges which prevent them from obtaining any of the benefits of the G. I. Bill of Rights, from Civil Service appointments, and they are barred from most types of gainful employment. Their discharges, pursuant to Navy regulations, were made without any charges being filed against them and they were given no hearing whatsoever.

In commenting further Mr. Marshall said: "We do not see how the United States Navy can justify its action in forever condemning these men to the disgrace of discharges on the basis of 'inaptitude' and 'unfitness'. We, therefore, believe that the Board of Review, Discharges and Dismissals should exercise its powers and correct this by removing from the records of these men the 'yellow" discharges."

Briefs amicus curiae were filed by the American Civil Liberties Union and the National CIO War Relief Committee.

The Lynn Committee represented four of the men and the NAACP represented eleven. Four men were not represented by counsel. It was agreed between counsel and with the permission of the Board that they would represent all of the men jointly and that any evidence, briefs and other material in the case would also be used for the benefit of the men who were not present.

NAACP DIRECTORS ACCEPT INVITATION TO MOVE INTO WENDELL WILLKIE BUILDING

New York--As soon as the proposed Wendell Willkie Memorial House is secured, sometime during 1945, the national headquarters of the NAACP will be moved into it. The Board of Directors of the NAACP at its regular December meeting formally received an invitation from Freedom House officials, who are sponsoring the Wendell Willkie Memorial House, to have the NAACP occupy space in the building. The directors voted to accept the invitation.

The New house, for which a purchasing and maintenance fund of $250,000 is now being collected, will be located in midtown Manhattan and organizations fostering causes in which the late Mr. Willkie was interested are being invited to take space in the building. So far the Citizens' Housing Council, Freedom House, and the NAACP have been selected to move into the new building.

NAACP HITS USE OF "NIGGER" IN DICTIONARY USED BY GI's IN FRANCE 12/14/44

New York--Letters were sent December 12, by the NAACP to Assistant Secretary of War, John J. McCloy and Ted Poston, OWI News Bureau, protesting offensive use and definition of the word "nigger" in a pocket-size English-French dictionary widely used in Belgium. The matter was brought to the attention of the Association through a letter from a Negro GI in that area who said, "I don't believe it is the intention of the Belgium people to insult us because they are exceptionally friendly and nice to us, but that it is an unfortunate situation on the part of the person or persons responsible for printing these books."

In suggesting steps to be taken by the War Department to eliminate this humiliation to Negro soldiers, the NAACP said:

"In the English-French section 'nigger' is defined as 'negre' meaning a black man. In the section of the dictionary giving simple short conversational phrases occurs the sentence, 'the niggers who are with you, where do they come from?'

"This dictionary is not issued by the United States military authorities as far as we can determine, but this Association feels certain that United States military officials in Belgium can make known to the Belgium people the way American Negro soldiers feel about the use of this word. We suggest that an announcement over the radio and in the Belgian newspapers will help correct the situation."

New York--Contributions totalling $1,839.50 and ranging individually from $52.50 to $358 were received recently from GI's and Army personnel engaged now in active combat in both the European and Pacific theatres of war. And it must be kept uppermost in our minds that in order to do the most good, our society must achieve and maintain a membership that is truly representative of a national body;" and similarly in the expression of Corp. Herman Jones (3485th Qr.Trk. Co. - $105, from somewhere overseas) who said simply: "So that the folks back home can see we soldiers are solidly behind the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People."

In addition, the NAACP is prepared to prove through direct testimony from witnesses, including the employer of the accused to whom he reported for work Sept. 22, that it was impossible for Washington to have committed a crime 1000 miles distant.

The District Attorney of Queens County has also been notified about the affidavits and the opinion of the NAACP that Washington is being held now in the long Island City jail pending arrival of authorities,for a crime he did not commit.

FEDERAL COURT GRANTS NAACP MOTION TO HEAR TEACHERS SALARY CASE WITHOUT JURY

Atlanta, Ga.--The Federal District Court for the Northern District of Georgia granted plaintiff's motion in the case of Samuel L. Davis vs. E.S. Cook et al to strike the case from the list of cases to be tried by a jury and reinstate the same to the non-jury calendar following the filing of brief by the NAACP.

This case was filed on July 5, 1943, by Samuel L. Davis through the attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in an effort to equalize the salaries of Negro teachers and principals in the city of Atlanta with those of the white teachers and principals possessing the same qualifications, experience and performing the same duties. Prior to the filing of the above motion, defendants filed a motion to dismiss the action on the ground that the court was without jurisdiction of the subject matter of the suit. This motion was overruled by the court on June 29, 1944.

Defendants must now file an answer to plaintiff's complaint and the court will set the date for trial.

NAACP GETS DISMISSAL IN CASE OF SOLDIER CHARGED WITH MURDER

Tuscon, Arizona--The Federal District Court here dismissed a charge of first degree murder against Pvt. Willie Orange, a Ft. Huachuca soldier, on December 11, 1944.

Orange was indicted for the murder of a white civilian employed at the post exchange on the military reservation at Ft. Huachuca, Arizona.

At the preliminary hearing held in November, Orange was held with another soldier as a result of testimony given by a private to the effect that Orange had attempted to sell some of the personal property later identified as having belonged to the deceased man.

The NAACP retained the services of Attorney Anthony T. Deddens of Bisbee, Arizona, to represent Private Orange. On December 11, the date set for trial by the court, the Assistant U.S. District Attorney moved to dismiss the charge against Orange on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Pvt. Orange is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Allen Orange of Detroit, Michigan.

NAACP HAILS DECISION
IN R.R. FIREMEN CASE 12/21/44

New York--Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the NAACP, hailed the opinion of the United States supreme court in the case of two Negro firemen who won their contention that they had been "frozen out" of employment by an agreement between the railroads for which they work and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen which limited employment to white men. Marshall's statement said:

"The decision of the United States supreme court in two cases against the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen is another milestone in the legal struggle to break down discrimination against Negro Americans. Negro workers in this country have for years been struggling against discriminatory employment practices by certain employers and by certain labor unions.

"This decision will have tremendous bearing not only in the fight of Negro firemen to pursue their occupation on an equal basis with other firemen, but will also be of great value in the other cases against labor unions which have a policy of discriminating against Negro workers.

"This opinion of the United States supreme court and the concurring opinions alike will go down in legal history as one of the landmarks in the campaign for full and complete citizenship for Negro Americans.

"This fight to protect Negro workers has not yet been won and will not be won until all labor unions and employers alike agree to the democratic principle that all men are entitled to earn a livelihood without any distinction whatsoever as to race or color."

The case was argued in the United States supreme court by Charles H. Houston, who handled the case as a private attorney and not for any organization. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the American Civil Liberties Union filed briefs amicus curiae in support of the firemen.

CAPT. JESSE O. DEDMON NAMED
NAACP VETERANS' SECRETARY 12/21/44

New York--Captain Jesse O. Dedmon, Jr., who was placed in inactive status last October on account of physical disability, has been named to be Secretary of Veterans Affairs in the NAACP.

The NAACP, according to Roy Wilkins, acting secretary, created the new department of work for veterans because of the great number of inquiries from men in uniform and the well known need for improvement in the handling of Negro veterans by regular government agencies. The NAACP, Wilkins said, intends to do everything possible to aid in solving the special problems of Negro veterans, eliminating discrimination against them, and seeing that they receive their full benefits as veterans.

Captain Dedmon is 36. He is a native of Oklahoma and was graduated from Howard university in 1932, receiving his law degree there in 1935. He was admitted to the Oklahoma bar in February, 1937 and practiced in Tulsa from 1937 to September 15, 1940, when he was called to active duty with the rank of first lieutenant.

Dedmon was promoted to the rank of captain August 21, 1942. He served with the 366th Infantry at Fort Devens, Mass., had charge of the training program at Prairie View college for one year, and was trial judge advocate at Camp Glaiborne, La., from June until September, 1944.

Captain Dedmon is familiar with the problems of Negro soldiers and his legal training plus his experiences as trial judge advocate are expected to be of the utmost value in his new work with the NAACP.

The Veterans Affairs Secretary will be stationed in the Washington Bureau of the NAACP, 100 Massachusetts Ave., N.W. Captain Dedmon will begin his duties January 1, 1945.

SEEK CLEMENCY FOR SOLDIER GIVEN 12 YEARS
IN ARKANSAS SHOOTING 12/21/44

Washington, D.C.--The Washington Bureau NAACP this week filed a petition for clemency with the War department on behalf of John A. Foreman, formerly a private attached to the 364th Engineer Regiment, who was sentenced to 12 years imprisonment on the charge of attempted murder of James E. Jordan, Constable of Cotton Plant, Arkansas.

A number of Negro soldiers attached to the 364th Engineer Regiment stationed at Camp Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, were given leave for the night of May 20, 1943. They went to Cotton Plant, a nearby town, to spend the evening. As they were standing outside of a restaurant in the colored section about midnight, the town Constable peremptorily ordered them to "get going." An unidentified soldier is alleged to have said that they did not have to leave, whereupon the angered police officer, without attempting to place any of the men under arrest, drew his pistol on the nearest soldier and threatened to shoot. Several soldiers, who were never satisfactorily identified, attempted to prevent the officer from carrying out his threat. As the officer struggled to prevent being disarmed, he was wounded by a shot from his own gun and received other lacerations. It was undisputed at the trail that Constable Jordan was under the influence of liquor at the time. There was also evidence that on the preceding night a Negro soldier had been shot while away from camp.

In the petition to the Secretary of War, Leslie Perry, administrative assistant of the Washington Bureau NAACP stated, "After a careful review of the court martial record in this case, we are convinced that the court grievously erred in its finding of guilt."

The court martial, it is contended, was meticulous in observing racial etiquette of the deep South. Throughout the trial it permitted all colored adult civilian witnesses to be addressed by their first names. One member of the court, dominated by southern racial prejudices, asked a witness, "Do you believe, knowing white people down here, if a man had his gun in his hand and was going to shoot a colored man, do you believe he would wait two, three, four or five minutes before pulling the trigger?"

"The only evidence of specific intent to commit the crime with which the defendant was charged," the petition continued, "is in the nature and extent of the injuries the Constable suffered. Men dealing with an armed assailant, acting in an unlawful manner, cannot be expected to pause and debate the precise amount of force necessary to overcome him."

Foreman, before his induction, resided in Detroit, Michigan.

A STATEMENT OF MY VIEWS ON RACE RELATIONS

I was born in Mississippi; educated in Mississippi and Tennessee. My working experience has been in Tennessee, South Carolina, Missouri, Georgia, and Washington, D. C. With this Southern background, I have been cognizant of racial problems all my life.

From the time I was told that I was getting too old to sit on the lap of our elderly colored woman servant, I have been conscious of race segregation and discrimination. Throughout my childhood the question I asked most frequently was why couldn't I sit on Pearl's lap, why couldn't I play with her children, why did they have to come in the back door, etc. The answers never satisfied me.

When I began my first teaching experience in Tennessee, I made friends with a few adult Negroes,- cooks, maids, and janitors. I spent hours with each discussing their problems and their points of view. This procedure was also followed in South Carolina and Missouri.

My work with the Office of Price Administration gave me my first opportunity to work directly with Negroes - teachers and students in elementary and secondary schools and colleges, civic leaders, and housewives. I have never enjoyed any work as I enjoyed this work with Negroes. I felt they were deeply interested and were very active in their efforts to hold prices down as a means of protecting wartime living standards.

Over a period of years, I have spent many hours deploring segregation of Negroes and the denial to them of the opportunities which are and should be the right of every American. But I've often wondered how a group of people could spend an evening deploring the inequities and blaming other people for the existence of the same. It seems to me such people (of whom I have at times been one) are even more at fault than persons who are outright believers and practitioners of so-called "white supremacy."

I sincerely believe in complete equality, politically, economically, educationally, and socially for all human beings. I believe every individual regardless of race, color, or creed should have an equal opportunity to make the most of his ability.

I do not believe in miracles. Therefore, I know equality cannot be accomplished overnight. I know too that it never will be won unless all people join hands and work toward that ultimate goal.

My experience in working with Negroes in Georgia, the war that we are fighting for democracy, and the general "fed-up" feeling that I have of sitting and talking and doing nothing,- all these have made me conclude I must give my time and energy toward this objective: To do what I can to work with the Negro people in their efforts to hold the gains they have made and to increase those gains. This is what I want most to do, for it aims toward extending our American democratic principle of the right to equal opportunities for all to those of our population who have been and are still deprived of this right, that is, our Negro fellow-citizens.

(Miss) Rufie Lee Williams

September '37-March 18, 1942. Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri

As Head of the Foods Department from 1937 to 1938 I was responsible for equipping the Foods Department laboratories - unit kitchens -, furnishing living and dining room for student use, planned course outlines in foods, nutrition, and household economics; taught students in each of courses listed above; directed the work of one teacher.

In 1938 I became a staff member of the Institute for Consumer Education. Continued to supervise the work of the Food Department, two instructors, until the fall of 1940. I was relieved of the Foods Department supervision, working load too heavy.

In the Division of Consumer Education at Stephens College, I was responsible for the activities carried on in the field of Personal Finance and Household Economics. In this connection I directed the work of one teacher and two assistants.

As director of the Personal Finance Clinic I worked with college students in the Clinic and in the Personal Finance Course in planning the spending and saving and sharing of their personal allowances. They were taught how to become more intelligent consumers through making choices, wise use of leisure time, how to get the greatest satisfaction from the money they had to spend. In 1940, Dr. J. E. Mendenhall and I published a student Personal Finance Book. Under my direction the Division published a student bulletin, "Susie Consumer," which was distributed to each girl's room once monthly. These bulletins dealt with topics that were of interest to the students, such as personal finance, laundering and soaps, hosiery, pressing and spot removals.

I organized a syllabus in the Household Economics course which dealt with problems of Household Management and Budgeting (living) on an income level of $80 - $175 monthly. This was the income which the representative student must manage on in the first few years of married life.

In connection with the Economics of the Household course and Personal Finance course, I set up a Consumer Education Laboratory, with only that equipment found in an ordinary household kitchen. In the laboratory, students were taught to make simple household and over-the-counter tests of foods, and clothing; studied brands, prices, grades and labels; and compounded simple products, such as cold cream and tooth powder. To direct students, laboratory outlines were worked out for each project.

Under my direction, furthermore, students made surveys in the local stores comparing prices of the same brands and different brands of commodities that were pertinent to student needs and interests, such as soaps, tooth powder, facial tissues, cosmetics. In this way, students carried on consumer education that they might use themselves and might pass along to others in their communities later on.

Along with these courses I compiled an up-to-date file of free and low-cost reference material that was used in acquainting students with sources from which they might secure practical information on consumer topics.

Local townspeople and faculty members on low incomes, $90-$125, came to me for advice on how to live within that income. These people, for example, learned how to work out adequate diets, how to buy low-cost nutritious food, how to shop for food, how to use certain food alternates.

Furthermore, I spoke before and worked with women's organizations interested in consumer education and in the development of practical programs.

Office of Price Administration, Atlanta, Georgia District Information Executive, May 1, 1942 - October 10, 1943

As a District Information Executive my function was to assure all people in ninety-eight North Georgia Counties the information necessary for an understanding of the National Price Control and Rationing Program.

To do this I worked mainly through five major channels, namely,- (1) Community Services Committees of the local War Price and Rationing Boards (2) Civic, Social, and Fraternal Organizations (3) Schools and Colleges (4) Press and (5) Radio.

1. I organized and serviced a Community Service Committee for each of 105 local War Price and Rationing Boards. These committees carefully designed to secure the support of the major influences in each community and usually made up of local citizens representing the following: leading civic, social, and fraternal organizations, established rural agencies, schools, churches, libraries, press, and local radio stations in communities where they exist. All members were carefully selected and worked in close cooperation with local Board Chairman. On each local board various members of these committees carried a constant supply of price control and rationing information to their communities through the channels they represented.

I provided them with up-to-date information and organization suggestions by personal visits, by bulletins, and by correspondence.

2. I maintained close contact with the state leaders of civic, social, and fraternal organizations. Through conferences, personal visits and correspondence I arranged to have most of those leaders discuss methods of distributing accurate price control and rationing information at their state conferences and made definite arrangements to have this information passed on through meetings of their local units. Most of these organizations were also influential in urging the members of their locals to support and assist the local board Community Service programs in their localities.

3. Through contacts with the State Departments of Education, the State Teachers Association, and the Education Department of leading colleges, I helped school officials and teachers prepare a Price Control and Rationing instruction bulletin, which enabled the average local schools to provide teachers, pupils, and parents with information about the general purposes and operations of the Price Control and Rationing Program. This was supplemented with periodic bulletins for distribution direct to local schools by the school representative on the local Community Service Committee, and by the provision of speakers and technical curriculum aid for state and county teachers associations.

4. By maintaining close contact with the price officials and rationing officials of our District Office I provided timely press announcements for release to large city dailies and to weekly papers through the press representative on the local Community Service Committees. Innumerable local releases of local Board News were written and published independently by the press representative on the local Community Service Committee.

5. Through radio representatives on the local Community Service Committee I provided for the local broadcasting of Price Control and Rationing Information over local radio stations in the Atlanta OPA District. Scripts for some of these programs were prepared by the National and Regional Offices. Some were prepared in the District Office. A large number of the best ones originated with the creative efforts of our local radio representatives who communicated local Board needs and requirements direct to the people in both factual and dramatic forms.

In the main, the job was one of organization, coordination, timing, and the preparation of accurate and usable materials. At the District level the information program was closely coordinated with the development of specific Price Control and Rationing programs as they were developed by the division responsible for their administration. On the local level Community Service Committee activities were coordinated with the status of existing local agencies and with the local Price Control and Rationing programs being administered by local Boards.

Resigned position October 10, 1943.

WALTER WHITE INTO MacARTHUR WAR THEATRE

New York--The probability is that Walter White, NAACP secretary and war correspondent, spent Christmas in the Pacific theatre of war under command of General Douglas MacArthur. In a letter received from Mr. White in the New York office of the NAACP, written from Honolulu on December 20, he stated that General MacArthur had just approved his accreditation to that theatre of activity.

While in Hawaii, Mr. White conferred with Admiral Chester W. Nimitz on two occasions, with Lt. Gen. Richardson, Brig. Gen. Fielder, Admiral Furlong, Brig. Gen. Blount and others, as well as with many enlisted men.

According to a clipping from the Honolulu Advertiser, more than 200 colored servicemen attended a public forum meeting December 18 where White was the principal speaker. A lively question period followed in which the soldiers asked about FEPC and postwar employment, the Port Chicago explosion and "mutiny" trial, the courts martial of Negro soldiers at Fort Lawton, Washington, and racial tensions in the United States.

In the letter to his office Mr. White stated that from first observation, there have not been as many incidents of friction in the Pacific "as there have been in other theatres I have visited." He also stated that some of the 200,000 military and civilian whites from the mainland have "created problems" in a land which had very little, if any, race prejudice before their arrival, but that officials were working earnestly on the situation, assisted by many whites, including southerners.

New York--Fifty-five memberships totaling $402.50 have been received from the 856th Engineer Aviation Battalion by the NAACP. The memberships, sent in through Capt. Alfred E. McWilliams, chaplain, were divided as follows: $25 (5), $10 (12), $5 (28), $2.50 (5), and $1 (5). Although the cooperation and consent of the commanding officer was secured, no campaign as such was staged. The memberships came in simply through word-of-mouth activity with the promise of more later.

Note to Editors: We ask special consideration for the stories on these engineer battalions, not especially because of their contribution to the NAACP, but because they are working like hell far from home to keep up their morale and keep touch with home activities, and because it means so much to them to see mention of their efforts in the Negro press--Wilkins

LEDO ROAD ENGINEERS
SEND NAACP $2,000 12/27/44

New York--Memberships and contributions in the amount of $2,002.50 have been received by the NAACP from the men and officers of the 823rd Engineer Aviation Battalion, stationed "Somewhere Along the Ledo Road" between India and China.

The membership campaign was initiated by "Club 21" in the battalion, of which Sgt. Oscar Haynes is president. S/Sgt. Evelio Grillo was chairman of the membership committee and Sgt. Frank J. Shepherd was vice chairman. A regular campaign was staged beginning November 1, closing Nov. 12 with a celebration program on which Blanchard R. Baker, Red Cross club director and former activities secretary of the Harlem YMCA, was the principal speaker.

Musical numbers included an organ prelude by Sgt. Edward L. Clark, solos by Sgt. Randolph Scott and Corp. Randall Kemp, a reading by Sgt. Evelio Grillo, music by the battalion band, and singing by the assembly of the anthem, "Lift Every Voice and Sing."

Mimeographed programs were prepared by the committee with the battalion insignia traced upon it, as well as the NAACP emblem, the scales of justice. Major Peter J. Broullire is the commanding officer and Capt. Robert E. Penn is chaplain.

"The reaction of the men was one of spontaneous and enthusiastic response," writes Sgt. Haynes. "All concerned seemed to derive a great measure of satisfaction from the realization that they were assisting in the work of achieving victory on the home front."

"WHITE" INSURANCE CLAUSE
PROTESTED IN NEBRASKA 12/27/44

New York--The restriction of applicants for insurance to "white" persons by the Travelers Health Association of Omaha, Nebraska, has been protested to Governor Dwight Griswold by the NAACP.

Edward R. Dudley, assistant special counsel who received a copy of the application from a man who had been solicited in the state of New York, pointed out to Governor Griswold that this application contained the phrase "any white person" and on the application blank "I am a white person."

Mr. Dudley pointed out that the civil rights laws in the state of Nebraska "create a public policy against discrimination based upon race," and asked that the matter be referred to the State Superintendent of Insurance.

The NAACP letter said, "We have heard numerous favorable comments from both white and colored members and friends of this Association who are unanimous in the opinion that Franklin Simon has taken a bold step in furthering the spirit of mutual respect which should exist between all groups in a democracy at war, especially a war whose goal is the wiping out of racial bigotry."

NAACP ANNUAL MEETING REPORTS REVEAL GREATEST YEAR IN HISTORY

New York--At the annual meeting held at 69 Fifth Avenue, January 2, The National Association For the Advancement of Colored People reported the greatest year in the history of the 35 year-old organization. A membership totalling 400,000, a total revenue of $370,822.24, detailed reports of departmental activities, and the election of seven new directors to the National Board were features highlighting outstanding achievement and progress in 1944.

Greetings from Walter White, NAACP secretary now in the Pacific as New York Post war correspondent, were read by Roy Wilkins, acting secretary. Arthur B. Spingarn, president of the Association presided. The New directors elected at the meeting were: Judge Jane M. Bolin, New York; Elmer A. Carter, New York; Russell W. Davenport, New York; Charles H. Houston, Washington, D.C.; Dr. James J. McClendon, Detroit, Mich.; Theodore M. Berry, Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. John A. Singleton, Jamaica, New York. Those reelected were: Lillian A. Alexander, New York; Roscoe Dunjee, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Dr. John B. Hall, Boston, Mass.; Dr. John Haynes Holmes, New York; Hon. Herbert H. Lehman, New York; Alfred Baker Lewis, Greenwich, Conn.; Eugene M. Martin, Atlanta, Ga.; Amy E. Spingarn, New York; Dr. E. W. Taggart, Birmingham, Ala.; Dr. J. M. Tinsley, Richmond, Va.; and Bishop W. J. Walls, Chicago.

In a statement pointing out racial trends politically, economically, and in the armed forces, the acting secretary, Roy Wilkins said, "Despite this progress and record of service on the battlefronts, the picture for 1945 is not a rosy one. Many impartial surveys have established that there are numerous centers of racial tension in all parts of the nation. There still exist humiliating and morale-shattering regulations and practices in the armed services. In employment Negro Americans have made gains because of manpower demands, but the future will be more uncertain for them than for other Americans unless a permanent policy of nondiscrimination is embodied in legislation by the Congress. This Legislation is a 'must' item if our minority groups are to start 'even' with their fellows in the struggle for postwar jobs.

"The housing situation remains acute, with restrictive covenants based on race and religion spreading like wildfire over the country, with confused and even reactionary policies in effect with state and municipal housing authorities, and with timid and fumbling action by federal housing officials. Much remains to be done in the field of education and health. And there is still with us a host of discriminatory and undemocratic practices relating to public accommodations and travel.

"The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has just completed its thirty-fifth year of activity, the greatest year in its history, which saw more than 400,000 members enrolled in some 800 local units, including approximately 15,000 in the armed forces. We regard this enrollment as a mandate to continue the vigorous campaign for full citizenship for Negro Americans now and after the war, and all our energies and resources will be used toward that end."

BRANCH AND YOUTH DEPARTMENTS

Highlights of the year in Branch activities, outlined by Miss Ella J. Baker, director of Branches, included the setting up of a West Coast Regional secretaryship; establishment of new regional leadership training conferences; new program building techniques; plans for the correlation of intercultural education in the schools; special activities of field secretaries, and plans for greater emphasis on the work of interracial executive committees. Similarly the aims of the youth department were reported by Mrs. Ruby Hurley, youth secretary, who told of the activities of 168 youth councils and college chapters. Chartering of the first predominantly white chapter at Antioch College was reported.

The following departmental reports completed the summary of annual activities: Thurgood Marshall, legal; Leslie S. Perry, Washington Bureau; Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, Special Research; Miss Consuelo C. Young, Publicity and Promotion; and Miss Julia Baxter, Research and Informational Services.

N.J. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND INTERRACIAL FELLOWSHIP ACT
AGAINST JIMCROW EMPLOYMENT 1/4/45

Long Branch, N.J.--Local merchants were asked to hire employees without racial discrimination in a letter signed by the Interracial Fellowship and the Chamber of Commerce which said:

"A number of fair-minded citizens in our community have brought our attention to the fact that applicants for positions in certain business establishments and factories in and near Long Branch, have been denied employment because of their race and creed, although they may have been well fitted and qualified for employment.

"This situation reflects racial discrimination and prejudices which can only breed ill-will and animosity, and is a condition which should be remedied by all open-minded employers and businesses.

"Both the Interracial Fellowship of Long Branch and the Chamber of Commerce of Long Branch look with favor upon the hiring of employees on a basis of merit and ability and urge you to adopt an attitude of fairness and consideration in the employment of all persons seeking jobs in our community."

CALIFORNIA SUPREME COURT OUTLAWS
JIM CROW AUXILIARY UNIONS 1/4/45

San Francisco, Calif.--In upholding an injunction granted to Negro employees at the Marinship Corporation at Sausalito, the Supreme Court of California, established a precedent outlawing discriminatory practices of jim-crow auxiliary unions. The case was filed originally by Joseph James, president, the San Francisco Branch NAACP and other workers, , and argued by attorneys George R. Anderson, and Herbert Resner.

The Court ruled that a labor union must admit Negroes to full membership or not try to enforce a closed shop agreement. The opinion, written by Chief Justice Phil S. Gibson, stated:

"An arbitrarily closed or partially closed union is incompatible with a closed shop. Where a union has, as in this case, attained a monopoly of the supply of labor by means of closed shop agreements and other forms of collective labor action, such a union occupies a quasi-public position similar to that of a public service business and it has certain corresponding obligations."

Justice Gibson ruled that "the discriminatory practices involved in this case are contrary to the public policy of the United States and this state," and added: "Negroes must be admitted to membership under the same terms and conditions applicable to non-Negroes unless the union and the employer refrain from enforcing the closed shop agreement against them."If the bargaining union wishes to maintain its closed shop, it must accept into full membership all workers without regard to race, creed or color.

NAACP URGES JIMCRO BAN IN ARMY NURSE DRAFT BILL

New York--Inclusion of a clause to end discrimination and segregation in proposed legislation for the draft of nurses for military service, was urged by the NAACP in a wire to Chairman Andrew J. May of the Military Affairs Committee. In his message to Congressman May, whose bill is scheduled for hearings next week, Acting Secretary Roy Wilkins said:

"National Association For Advancement Of Colored People strongly urges that if nurses are drafted, the legislation contain a clause forbidding discrimination and segregation on account of race and color in the induction and service of nurses. We urge this because under voluntary enlistment program Negro nurses who were eager to serve their country have been discouraged from enlisting by a quota system and a policy of restricting them to nursing of Negro soldiers only. This failure to utilize trained and registered Negro nurses has contributed to the critical shortage which military authorities are now seeking to remedy by means of a draft. It should be pointed out that even if draft is ordered and present system of limited and discriminatory use of Negro nurses is continued, it is not likely that more Negro nurses will be inducted. Our information from various camps is that tendencies exist to concentrate Negro nurses in prisoner of war camps. Several cases have been reported here that they have been doubly humiliated before German war prisoners by being forced to eat in separate dining rooms.

"Negro nurses like all other Negro Americans are anxious to serve their country but so far they have been given limited opportunity and have been insulted in the bargain. As a southerner you will instantly recognize how ridiculous is the assumption that trained Negro nurses shall not be entrusted with ministering to wounded American soldiers who happen to be white."

NAACP YOUTH COUNCILS URGED FOR ALL NEGRO CAMPUSES

Orangeburg, S C --A resolution supporting the program of the NAACP and recommending establishment of youth councils on every Negro campus in southern areas, was adopted by the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools For Negroes at its recent meeting here. The resolution read:

"We commend the program of the National Association For the Advancement of Colored People to establish legal bases for equality of educational opportunities for Negro youth, and we reaffirm our support of the program. We urge our member institutions to encourage the organization of high school and college chapters in their respective institutions and youth councils in their local communities."

Dr. L.F. Palmer, director of Experimentation in Teacher Education, and NAACP college chapter advisor, Hampton Institute, was responsible for the action taken by the Association.

COMPULSORY ARMY TRAINING WILL INTRENCH JIM CROW, NAACP TELLS PRESIDENT

New York--Opposition to the proposed compulsory peace-time military conscription was voiced this week by the NAACP in a letter to President Roosevelt. The association cited the segregated army system as the basis of the opposition.

"The concern of Negro Americans," the letter said,"stems from the fact that our armed services have a pattern of segregation which applies only to the Negro. Americans of every other racial strain and religion are able to serve their country in uniform without the stigma of separation on the basis of race. We have Chinese, Japanese, Mexicans, Filipinos and other non-white soldiers fully integrated into armed units. Only the Negro is set apart.

"Our principal objection to the compulsory peace time conscription proposal is that it will perpetuate the separation and humiliation of Negro American youths solely on the basis of race and color. Thousands of Negro lads who have not been segregated from their fellows in civilian life will be embittered annually by their government's training program. Thousands of white lads in their formative and impressionable years will be taught by this example that the proper place of Negro Americans is in a segregated status. It is inevitable that this separate training program will carry over into civilian life so that segregation and its attendant evils, instead of decreasing and disappearing, will become firmly established as a policy

"This Association submits that our government ought not to project into the world of the future a training program for its youth, the pattern of which will be borrowed from a past filled with inequalities, indignities, and violence. If we must have compulsory military conscription, every American youth must be inducted and trained in an integrated system with no separation on account of race, color, or religion, so that in addition to preparing himself for the duty of defending his country, he can also prepare himself to live in a democratic society, with that concern and respect for his fellow human beings which must be the cornerstone of any permanent peace for mankind."

SEAMEN AUTHORIZE NAACP
ONLY AS REPRESENTATIVE

New York--In a statement today, Special Counsel Thurgood Marshall made it clear that all 50 of the seamen convicted in a "mutiny" trial in California have authorized the NAACP in writing to represent them. The NAACP is not only bearing all expenses involved in legal action, Mr. Marshall said, but the Association has been granted permission by the Judge Advocate of the U.S. Navy to represent these men when their case comes up for review.

When asked for clarification concerning Edgar G. Brown's requests for funds and circularization of petitions for "a new trial in the Port Chicago court martial case," Mr. Marshall said that neither he nor the NAACP had at any time authorized Edgar G. Brown or the National Negro Council to collect funds or circulate petitions demanding that the President "immediately order a new trial." He said, "The matter has already been placed before the Secretary of the Navy and the President of the United States. The NAACP is representing the men at the review and is demanding of the Secretary of the Navy and the President a full and impartial investigation of conditions in the Twelfth Naval District before and after the Port Chicago disaster. All of the expenses for these actions are being financed solely by the NAACP."

Mr. Marshall spent twelve days on Yerba Buena Island, California, when the trial of the seamen was in progress.

FIRE COMMISSIONER'S DIRECTIVE
POINTS TO ORDER BANNING JIMCRO

New York--Passage of a resolution by the United Firemen's Association of Greater New York, outlawing discrimination, and its conformance to Section #222, Firemen's Rules and Regulations, was called to the attention of all Deputy Fire Chiefs recently by Fire Commissioner Patrick Walsh. The resolution putting the UFA on record as opposing "any religious or racial discrimination in the Department in any form", followed investigation of charges alleging specific acts of discrimination on the part of certain officers in charge of fire houses.

Protests were lodged originally with the Fire Commissioner by the Vulcan Society (group of Negro Firemen) through their representative, NAACP Assistant Special Counsel, Edward R. Dudley at a meeting last October 20. Authorization for full investigation was given at that time and report of findings was made December 21.

Besides promising to do all within his power to combat discrimination within the ranks, the Commissioner ordered circularization of his directive to all officers and members of the department. The NAACP is prepared to take further action in the event of non-compliance with provisions of Section #222, of the Firemen's Rules and Regulations-1937.

NAACP PROTESTS TREATMENT OF NEGRO ARMY NURSES IN PRISONER OF WAR CAMP

1/11/45

New York--Humiliation of Negro army nurses in the presence of German prisoners, as a result of discriminatory orders issued by an officer in the Prisoner of War Camp hospital in Florence, Arizona, was brought to the attention of the War Department by the NAACP in a letter to Assistant Secretary of War, John J. McCloy.

The letter read: "We have received information from Florence, Arizona, that American Army nurses have been ordered by a Major Simpson to eat in a separate dining room.

"These nurses, we understand, are in a hospital at the Prisoner of War Camp at Florence. They feel especially humiliated and degraded because, even though in the uniform of the United States Army, they were set apart under the very noses of German war prisoners who serve as cooks and waiters in the Hospital Officers' Mess.

"The nurses felt their humiliation so keenly that on the first day the order was supposed to take effect they seated themselves in their old stations in the dining room whereupon Major Simpson called the chief nurse and publicly told her that the separate arrangement had been instituted because it was the way he wanted it and the nurses must obey because they were in the Army and had sworn to obey orders of their superior officers.

"The German prisoners, of course, looked on this scene with great glee, and the Negro nurses went to their jim crow dining room boiling mad.

"We understand from announcements from Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, Surgeon General, United States Army, that the Army is not anxious to increase the number of Negro nurses, but if incidents like the foregoing illustrate Army policy, I am sure you can understand that Negro nurses in their turn are not anxious to serve in the Army."

NAACP REPORTS RECORD-BREAKING
NEGRO SOLDIER SEAL DISTRIBUTION 1/11/45

New York--The greatest seal campaign in the history of the Association, from the standpoint of participation of branches and youth councils in the distribution of almost 2 million Negro soldier seals has just come to a very successful close. Not alone were branches responsible for the success of the campaign to raise funds for general activities of the NAACP, but this year generous response was received from more than 500 loyal friends, sixty chapters of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, scores of churches, fraternal groups, lodges, civic and social organizations, labor unions and GI's themselves.

From its inception early in October 1944 to the end of the year, hundreds of wires, letters, post cards attested the overwhelming appeal of the Negro soldier design. The story was one of continuous reordering of these mementos to our fighting heroes. True to the slogan emphasized on campaign letterheads, in newspaper advertising, and on special posters used in some areas, the mails this year were filled with the symbol of our fighting men at home and abroad.

Although final reports are still incomplete the following Branches recorded largest seal distributions: Detroit, Mich.; Baltimore Md.; Trenton, N.J.; White Plains, N.Y.; Dayton, Ohio; Suffolk, Va.; Pawtucket, R.I.Youth Council; Clairton, Pa.;Cleveland, Ohio.

FDR HINTS PEACETIME CONSCRIPTION MAY NOT BE ON JIM CROW BASIS

New York--In a letter to the NAACP, President Roosevelt has hinted that peacetime military conscription may not be on a jimcrow segregated basis.

The Chief Executive does not make any promises, or any flat statements, but writes, "final plans have not been crystallized."

Mr. Roosevelt's letter was in response to one from Roy Wilkins, acting secretary of the NAACP, setting forth the apprehension of colored people over the probable extension of the present segregated Army policy into peacetime conscription.

"The views you expressed," the President replied, "are predicated upon the assumption that all policies have been finally determined with regard to the composition of the Army during peacetime and that they will be discriminatory in their application to Negroes. This is contrary to the facts. Final plans have not been crystallized.

"Obviously those responsible for the development of War Department policies will utilize all of their experiences of the past four years," the letter said. "It would not be contended by the Army or anyone speaking in its behalf that no mistakes have been made during the period of this war. Steps have been taken by the Army from time to time to correct unfair racial situations. Most assuredly this process will be repeated in the future."

Mr. Roosevelt revealed that the Army is studying the records of Negro troops in training and combat and asserted that the future utilization of Negroes in the Army "will depend upon an evaluation of this material which will be conducted in a fair manner and with due regard for all available facts."

The President admitted that the peacetime military training program "affects not only our military policy, but also the social, economic and educational aspects of our way of life." He expressed confidence "that the statutes which may finally be enacted will provide maximum protection of these aspects, and yet also accomplish the prime objective, the military security of the nation.

"I appreciate the views you have sent me and have transmitted them to the War Department for such consideration as might be given them there."

N.A.A.C.P. GETS SENTENCE REDUCTIONS IN RAPE
DEFENDANT'S CASE

Almogordo, New Mexico--The sentence of Melvin Clarence Evans, charged with the rape of a 23 year-old woman was reduced to a 15-20 year term during trial here January 17. The youth who was sentenced originally to 20-25 years for the crime to which he pleaded not guilty, was represented by Attorneys Melvin D. Reuckhaus and Harry D. Robins, retained by the National office,NAACP.

Following the defendant's first trial, December 9,1943, the Almogordo Branch NAACP obtained release of the 13 year-old youth on habeas corpus proceedings, in order to enable him to protect his constitutional rights through adequate representation by counsel.

NAACP PROTESTS "BIRTH OF NATION"
SHOWING BY MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

1/25/45

New York--The NAACP has demanded immediate withdrawal of the race-baiting film Birth Of A Nation being shown now, by the New York Museum of Modern Art. In a wire protesting use of the film banned 30 years ago, Roy Wilkins, Acting Secretary said: "National Association for Advancement of Colored People vigorously protests showing of Birth of a Nation under any pretext whatsoever. This film was ordered withdrawn by City of New York in 1915 and has been barred by city councils, mayors, and even state legislatures in many sections of the country because it stirs racial prejudice and hatred and has been judged to be an inciter of violence. At this time when America and the world are fighting racial bigotry and attempting to build mutual respect and unity between peoples, Museum of Modern Art should not interfere by showing of this film. We have received protests from indignant Negro soldiers and sailors and from some whites who have seen film at Museum recently. We demand immediate withdrawal of film.'

DU BOIS' NEW BOOK IS CHALLENGE TO DUMBARTON OAKS CONFAB

New York--The spring publication of a new book by Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, Director of Special Research, NAACP is announced by Harcourt-Brace, publishers,as follows:

"This book weaves into the fabric of a world peace founded on democracy several seemingly separate problems. The first is that of the various colonies and their colored peoples; then come the problems of foreign investment for profit; the question of the expansion of democratic government for the masses of men; the role of Russia and her ideology in the post-war world, and the feasibility of world government through mandates and missions. Out of the solution of these problems Dr. DuBois believes will come the only trustworthy foundation on which permanent peace can be built.

"W. E. Burghardt DuBois is the recognized leader of the school of Negro thought which favors contending for complete equality of opportunity, as opposed to the conciliatory policy advanced by Booker T. Washington and Robert L. Moton. During the Versailles Peace Conference he called the first International Congress of Colored People. Color and Democracy, which quite logically scrutinizes post-war plans from the point of view of the colored races, presents a ringing challenge to the Dumbarton Oaks Conference."

NAACP RENEWS FIGHT FOR ANTI LYNCHING LEGISLATION 1/25/45

Washington,D C.--Renewing its fight for the passage of anti-lynching legislation, the NAACP has announced support of Bill HR.1698, introduced January 22, by Congressman D. Lane Powers (R.N.J.). Although five new bills were introduced the first days of January, outlawing the nation's worst evil, the NAACP is making every effort to garner winning support for the Powers measure.

Leslie Perry, Administrative Assistant, Washington Bureau NAACP announced the formation of a bi-partisan steering committee composed of Congressmen Charles R.Clason,(R-Mass.),Emmanuel Cellar (D.N.Y.) Everett Dirksen(R.Ill.), Louis Ludlow, (D-Ind.), and Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., new Congressman from New York, all pledged to sponsor the Bill successfully through the House. To further insure passage,Congressman Powers will place on the desk a discharge petition requiring 218 signatures to bring the measure before the House for vote.

HOST TO REGIONAL CONFERENCE 1/25/45

Indianapolis, Indiana--A two-day NAACP regional leadership conference pointing up techniques and strategies of minority group action, to be carried out by means of Branch programs now and in the post-war era, was held here January 27-28 at Mt. Baker, director of Branches, Thurgood Marshall, Special NAACP Counsel, and Donald Jones, assistant field secretary. Mrs. Priscilla Dean Lewis was general chairman of the conference, which included delegations from 55 Branches in Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and southern Ohio.

N.A.A.C.P. TAKES ISSUE WITH VET PLAN FOR SEPARATE HOSPITALS 1/25/45

Washington, D.C.--A protest against the announced plan of the Veteran's Administration to construct separate hospital facilities for Negroes, was voiced by Leslie S. Perry of the Washington Bureau NAACP in a letter this week to Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, Administrator of the Veterans Administration. In registering concern over the attitude of the Vet Administration, Perry pointed to Hines' own testimony before the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives regarding appropriations for 1945, in which he said:

> "'We are going to have a problem undoubtedly of providing another Tuskegee hospital, or a solid colored hospital, probably more in the Mississippi-Alabama area. There are a large number of colored troops from that area. The Board is studying all of that now.'"

In response to Hines' statement Perry said, "The racial attitudes and practices of the Veterans Administration is a matter of deep concern to the Association as well as to thousands of thoughtful white and colored people throughout the nation. We must express ourselves as being irrevocably opposed to the extension of Jim Crowism by the Veterans Administration, whether under the guise of so-called 'solid colored hospitals' or otherwise. We again must urge that Negro employees be integrated in the Veterans Administration at their proper skills and levels, and that Negro patients be hospitalized in your facilities on the basis of medical need and not of color."

NAACP ASKS SPEEDY PASSAGE OF FEDERAL AID TO EDUCATION BILL

2/1/45

Washington, D.C.--Support of the Federal Aid to Education Bill, S181 was urged by Leslie S. Perry, Administrative Assistant of the NAACP Washington Bureau, in testimony January 31 before the Education and Labor Committee of the United States Senate. Mr. Perry estimated that expenditures for Negro children and the salaries of Negro teachers would increase more than 100% in every southern state if this Bill is passed.

The legislation which was introduced by Senators Elbert D. Thomas (D.-Mich.) and Lister Hill (D.-Miss.), would authorize an appropriation of $200,000,000 to assist the States in financing elementary and secondary schools. Funds would be provided to keep all public schools open for a term of not less than 160 days a year and sub-standard salaries of teachers would be raised and adjusted in line with the increased cost of living. Provision is also made for the employment of additional teachers to handle overcrowded classes. An additional $100,000,000 would be appropriated under the bill to more nearly equalize the school systems in the South with those in the North. Funds under this legislation would be apportioned to the States by the United States Commissioner of Education.

"We are of the firm opinion that few, if any, of the Southern States, who would be the chief beneficiaries under the bill, will be able in the foreseeable future to bring their systems of public education up to a desirable level without an enlarged program of direct financial aid from the Federal Government," Perry testified.

Expressing satisfaction with the general provisions in the bill providing for "just and equitable apportionment" of the funds for minority racial groups as adequately safeguarding Negroes against discriminatory allocation, it was pointed out that this provision would be strengthened if amended so as to provide administrative machinery whereby Negroes could appeal to the Office of Education and courts where it is alleged that funds were being diverted from

Negro to white schools in violation of the Act.

Perry stated that even if this legislation is passed, the NAACP would continue to carry on its fight for equalization of educational opportunities and teacher salaries in the South.

REPORT TO THE NATION

NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR A PERMANENT FEPC
930 F Street, N. W.
Washington 4, D. C.

VOL. II, No. 1 January 20, 1945

"The withholding of jobs and business opportunities from some people does not make more jobs and business opportunities for others. Such a policy merely tends to drag down the whole economic level. You can't sell an electric refrigerator to a family that can't afford electricity. Perpetuating poverty for some merely guarantees stagnation for all. True economic progress demands that the whole nation move forward at the same time. It demands that all artificial barriers erected by ignorance and intolerance be removed."

...Eric A. Johnston, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

OUR PERMANENT FEPC BILL IS ONE WAY TO HELP REMOVE THE BARRIERS ERECTED BY IGNORANCE AND INTOLERANCE AGAINST WORKERS!

...R E M E M B E R...

BOTH PARTIES PROMISED A PERMANENT FEPC DURING THE CAMPAIGN.-- YOU MUST SEE TO IT THAT THEY DELIVER ONE DURING THE EARLY MONTHS OF THE 79TH CONGRESS!

We Are Glad To Report That:

1. We now have 42 local councils for a Permanent FEPC in key spots all over the country.

2. Dayton, Ohio, was the first local community to send a substantial contribution toward our work. ($537)

3. Kansas City, Missouri, is the largest community contributor to date. ($750)

4. Newark, New Jersey, held a large benefit in November and raised $500 for us.

5. New Orleans, Louisiana, has set up an interracial council and has set a goal of $5,000 for that community.

6. Detroit's local council is the newest addition to our list and has set itself a quota of $25,000.

7. Other councils which have sent in money are: Utah Council $105.00; Albany Council $25.00; Citizens Coordinating Committe, Pittsburgh, Pa., $100.00;

(OVER)

Vallejo Council, California, $210.00; Rev. James Asa White, Reno Nevada, $10.00; Southwestern Connecticut Committee to Promote Fair Employment Practices, Stamford Conn., $20.00.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION

It has been said that nothing grows cold more quickly than a campaign promise. Proof is available in the fact that since the new Congress began its work neither the Administration nor the Republican leadership has come out publicly for early action on permanent FEPC.

During the campaign the Democratic Party, through President Roosevelt, promised a permanent FEPC. The usual procedure for the winning Party is to present its program to Congress, based on its platform, at the opening of its session. This was done, but the Permanent FEPC was conspicuous by its absence.

When Mr. Byrnes, Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, made his annual report to the President and the Congress on January 1st, he made no mention whatever of the discriminatory practices which hamper our war production. This was despite the fact that he knew, as everybody knows, that prejudice and bigotry still stand between present lags in war production and the meeting of wartime production goals. This was also despite the fact that he asked, among other things, for strengthening of the War Manpower Commission and for enforcement powers for the War Labor Board via congressional action.

Again, on January, 6th, the President's State of the Union Message failed to mention the enactment of a permanent FEPC. The ommission was conspicuous because here, too, was a thoroughgoing analysis of our manpower problems and a call for congressional action toward their solution.

The Administration having failed to take the initiative on FEPC, the logical thing would have been for the minority Party to snatch the ball. But, the Republican leadership failed to take the obvious political advantage of these omissions and to take the initiative in advancing the permanent FEPC, despite the clear-cut campaign promise of both their platform and their Presidential candidate.

Why? Because the political leadership of both Parties is not sufficiently impressed by the extent of the desire for Permanent FEPC legislation to risk antagonizing the Southern Bloc.

Both Parties are jockeying for position in Congress. Both Parties are competing for the support of the Southern Bloc. During the election campaign, both felt it desirable to support Permanent FEPC legislation and that round ended in a draw, so far as the Southern Bloc was concerned.

Now that Congress is getting under way, "realistic" political leaders of both Parties appear to be weighing the costs of fulfillment of campaign promises. The costs are votes in the 1946-1948 elections. The alternatives are a Permanent FEPC or an alliance with the Southern Bloc. We can help them make that decision if we see to it that the voters make clear to their Congressmen, now, that there can be only one choice - the Permanent FEPC bill. They will take whatever action they consider is in greatest demand. And this is where you come in.

The political leadership has not even given the progressive minority represented by our bi-partisan group of sponsors in the House and Senate the support they need. That is further evidence that we, the people, have not been vocal in sufficient numbers to convince the leadership that our legislation belongs on the "must" list.

Following our account of what has been accomplished to date, we will list the things that you can and must do if we are to emerge from the political blackout into which we have been plunged.

THE SENATE

The bill was re-introduced on January 6th by the same bi-partisan sponsoring group as last year, with the addition of Senator Aiken of Vermont, who became deeply concerned in the legislation during the hearings of the sub-committee, of which he was a member, last year. The sponsors in the Senate now are: (additions starred)

Dennis Chavez, D., New Mexico
Sheridan Downey, D., California
James E. Murray, D., Montana
Robert F. Wagner, D., New York
*George D. Aiken, R., Vermont
Arthur Capper, R., Kansas
William Langer, R., North Dakota

The bill S. 101, was referred, as last year, to the Senate Committee on Education and Labor, whose chairman now is Senator James E. Murray of Montana, (a sponsor of our bill). Mr. Murray has indicated his willingness to reappoint Senator Chavez chairman of the sub-committee to act on the bill.

THE HOUSE

In the House, unlike the Senate where any number of names can be put on one bill, regulations require the introduction of a separate bill by each sponsor. To date the following have become sponsors of our bill. (Mr. Scanlon of Pennsylvania was not returned to this Congress; new sponsors are starred)

Charles M. LaFollette, R., Indiana, Bill No. H. R. 481
*Charles R. Clason, R., Massachusetts, Bill No. to follow
*Everett M. Dirksen, R., Illinois, Bill No. H. R. 1575
*Joseph Clark Baldwin, R., New York, Bill No. H. R. 679
*John M. Vorys, R., Ohio, (Joined on Bill No. H. R. 679)
William L. Dawson, D., Illinois, Bill No. H. R. 700
*Frank E. Hook, D., Michigan, Bill No. H. R. 1370
*Adam C. Powell, Jr., D., New York, Bill No. H. R. 1743
*Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas, D., California, Bill No. to follow

(Mrs. Mary T. Norton introduced a bill which differs from ours. We made every effort to secure her as a co-sponsor, since joint Republican-Democratic sponsorship in the House and Senate is essential to passage of this legislation. Mrs. Norton, as you know, is a Democrat. We are still hopeful that the House and Senate Committees will report identical bills.)

These bills were all referred to the House Committee on Labor, whose chairman still is Mrs. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey.

(OVER)

The Next Steps

The bills introduced by our sponsors are all identical. They are the same as last year's bill, except that some minor amendments have been made as a result of valuable suggestions that were made by experts in legislative matters.

1. The bills are now in committee. The committees have both been reconstituted and lists of the new membership are enclosed. In the interest of saving time, we are asking that both the House and Senate Committees hold brief meetings and report the bills favorably as soon as possible. Remember - full hearings were held only a few months ago and the need for early enactment of our bill is even more pressing now in view of the critical manpower shortage. Your job now is:

A. Letters and telegrams from individuals; resolutions from organizations to which you belong - to the Chairman of both committees and to each member of each committee - urging that the bill be reported favorably at once.

B. Letters from individuals to their own Representatives and Senators urging that they work for early enactment of the bill.

C. Awaken public interest in the community through - radio talks, editorials, sermons, meetings, letters to the editor, etc.

2. The political stalemate must be broken. The best way to do this from the community standpoint is:

A. Hold conferences with church, civic and labor leaders to explain the situation and enlist their aid in directing public opinion toward political action. One way of doing this is to arrange conferences with political leaders in the community to urge that they convey to their Senators and Representatives the need for aggressive action on FEPC legislation.

Prospects for early enactment of our bill are still good - but they now hinge on our success in mobilizing vocal support throughout the country, and doing that quickly. This Congress is especially sensitive to opinion back home because the voters were never more articulate than in this past election. However, in politics "first things come first" - and the firsts are invariably those that the voters make plain they want to be first.

NAACP SEES GOP DOUBLE CROSS IN TAFT MOVE ON FEPC

New York--In a letter Feb. 7 to Herbert E. Brownell, Jr., Chairman, Republican National Committee, the NAACP charged that Negro voters had been given the well known double cross by Republicans and Senator Taft's refusal to support a bill for FEPC with teeth in it. The letter stated that not only did the GOP not intend to support an FEPC bill, but it intended also to sabotage and defeat any legislation attacking the problem of discrimination in employment.

Making the NAACP's stand clear on Senator Taft's move to betray GOP promises made at the national convention last summer, Acting Secretary Roy Wilkins told Brownell, "Our attitude is that until the Republican party chiefs and congressional leaders repudiate the stand of Senator Taft, the party itself, its candidates and its policies, national and local, must bear the responsibility for this about-face in the minds of millions of Negro voters."

In a letter also to Taft, pointing out the trick in the Senator's recent maneuver to set up an investigating commission with no compulsory powers, the NAACP said, "You cannot help but realize this proposal of yours for a commission to investigate and find out whether there is discrimination and its extent, is a move that deceives no one. What is needed is action to correct the discriminatory practices known to exist.

"We are convinced that your proposal will be denounced by everyone sincerely interested in this question as a political trick unworthy of a senator and party leader of your prominence.

"As for this Association, our advice to our members over the country and to other citizens, is that until your action is repudiated by the Republican party and its congressional leaders, the party must be held responsible, and must be viewed as being opposed to any effective measures to guarantee Negro Americans a chance at employment without discrimination. For, aside from stating your views, the plain purpose of the bill you have introduced is to divide and alienate support for the effective legislation (S101) now before the Senate."

ASK STIMSON SUPPORT FOR BILL BANNING JIM CROW IN TRAVEL

2/8/45

Treatment of Negro Soldiers on Trains and Buses in South Cited by NAACP to Secretary of War

Washington, D.C.--In a letter to the Secretary of War last week, the NAACP urged the War Department to endorse H.R. 1925, a bill introduced last week by Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., Democrat of New York, to prohibit segregation in interstate travel.

In his letter to Stimson, Leslie Perry, of the NAACP Washington Bureau stated: "Since recruitment began under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, the NAACP has urged the War Department to take appropriate steps to protect Negro soldiers on furlough from inconvenience, delay, humiliation, assault, and in many instances, death by violence brought about by the enforcement of Jim Crow laws in the South against Negroes in interstate travel."

Among cases cited to the Secretary was one in which Sergeant Aubrey E. Robinson, Jr. and ten other colored soldiers, attached to Camp Gordon, Georgia, were arrested while enroute to nearby Aiken, South Carolina. When one of the colored soldiers sat by a white soldier, at his request, in the middle of the bus, the driver ordered him to move to the rear. Thereafter, the driver proceeded to beat a Negro woman who sought to occupy a front seat. When the colored soldiers protested against the mistreatment of this elderly colored woman, they were arrested, brought before a magistrate's court in Aiken and fined $25.00 or thirty (30) days. Ten of the soldiers, who were unable to pay, were stripped of their uniform, forced to don striped convict suits, and put on a chain gang where they worked under armed guards for three days. Military authorities admitted they were unsuccessful in obtaining the release of the soldiers and without payment of fines imposed.

The letter also referred to the case in which Privates Roberta McKenzie and Gladys Blackman, WACS stationed at Camp Sibert, Alabama, were brutally beaten and dragged from a Crescent Motor Lines bus, arrested and held by Gasden, Alabama, police on December 23, 1944.

The letter further pointed to the brutal slaying of Private Booker T. Specely last July in Durham, North Carolina, by H. L. Council, a bus driver.

In concluding, the NAACP said, "In the interest of the morale and security of the military personnel, we urge that the War Department endorse H.R. 1925."

NAACP URGES SPEEDY ACTION
FOR GI ASSAULT BILL 2/8/45

Washington, D C.--The NAACP, this week, brought into the open its fight to have enacted a GI Assault bill to protect servicemen and women from assault and other forms of violence on the part of civilians in southern communities.

In urging members of the House Judiciary Committee to take speedy and favorable action on H.R. 1528, a bill introduced January 16, to make it a federal crime to assault or kill a soldier or sailor, Leslie Perry of the Washington Bureau wrote:

"Hundreds of servicemen and women have been victims of wanton and unprovoked assault by civilians in certain sections of country simply because they were Negroes. Several known to have met death by violence. Department Justice repeatedly stated it is without jurisdiction to prosecute these unlawful acts. Attack on person wearing uniforms in effect an attack on United States itself. Unthinkable that Congress will continue to permit outrages go unpunished by failure to enact pending legislation."

Similar bills were introduced in Congress in 1943. Last February 27 S. 1227, the Senate version, was passed without debate or record vote. After having been referred to the House Judiciary Committee, it was favorably recommended by a sub-committee but no further action was taken before the expiration of the 78th Congress. NAACP branches and interested groups throughout the country are being urged to write and wire members of the House Judiciary Committee.

ALABAMA TRIES SECOND TIME TO EXTRADITE 2/8/45
MAN FROM PENNSYLVANIA

Pittsburgh, Pa.---Having failed last spring to snatch Ralph Johnson back to Alabama, the southern state authorities are now seeking to get him back under the Federal Fugitive Felon Act, and on February 9 Johnson heard his case re-argued in the U.S. District court here by a battery of NAACP attorneys.

The case is probably the first of its kind where a Negro is being sought by a southern state under the federal statute passed in 1934. NAACP lawyers claim the act was passed primarily to close the channels of interstate commerce to racketeers and gangsters. They declare that it was not passed to make a criminal act out of the flight of a man seeking to escape from mob violence.

The hearing February 9 was on a removal order which, if granted, will take Johnson back to the jurisdiction of the Federal court in Talladega county, Ala. Once there, although he may be freed by the Federal court, he would be available and promptly picked up by state authorities. NAACP lawyers declare the Federal action almost certainly will be thrown out if heard on its merits in Alabama, but the trick of getting Johnson back south will have been accomplished.

Johnson fled Alabama in December, 1943, after word was brought to him that his white landlord and others were making up a mob to come to his house and kill him. The state applied to Pennsylvania for his extradition, and the governor of Pennsylvania signed the necessary papers, but Johnson and his lawyers went to court and he was discharged on a writ of habeas corpus by Judge McWherter of the Common Pleas court who held that in Alabama Johnson would not get a fair trial, but would probably be subjected to mob violence and even lynching.

Alabama was not satisfied with this decision and went to the Federal courts. Homer S. Brown, of this city, Smith and Smith of Greensburg, Pa. and Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel of New York, are attorneys for Johnson.

CHRISTIANS AND JEWS SUPPORT
ANTI-DISCRIMINATION BILL 2/8/45

Albany, N.Y.---A telegram endorsing State Anti-Discrimination received here from Dr. Marcus W. Collins, Metropolitan Director, National Conference of Christian and Jews. The telegram read:

"Leaders of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Inc., endorse without reservation the provisions of the Anti-Discrimination Bill introduced in the New York State Legislature by Assemblyman Irving M. Ives and Senator Elmer Quinn. Pursuant to a report of the State Commission Against Discrimination, it is our opinion that this bill should be enacted as filed and without amendment.

"In view of the very fair hearings which the commission held throughout the State and which all interested persons attended, we strongly urge that the bill be reported favorably to the Legislature for immediate action and without further hearing."

N.A.A.C.P. HITS HINES'
THEORIES ON ROLE OF RACE
IN VET-ADMINISTRATION 2/8/45

Washington, D.C.—In a letter setting forth a classified list of departmental job classifications under the Veterans Administration, the NAACP pointed out to Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, that the Negro was wholly unrepresented in the policy-making and top-administrative brackets. In the 588 positions listed under Grade II classification it was found that none are filled by Negroes, despite the fact the 1946 budget estimated at $227,675,000 contemplates increased personnel in the designated jobs.

In reminding Hines that the NAACP had been urging the appointment of a qualified Negro as an assistant administrator of Veterans Affairs since August, 1944, Leslie Perry of the Washington Bureau NAACP said, "you will understand therefore why we do not consider the appointment of three junior investigators a significant departure from the customary employment attitudes and practices of the administration.

Regarding the hospital situation, Perry said, "we must continue to express opposition to the construction of Jim Crow facilities in the South. It is our considered opinion that the program of the Veterans Administration should be completely objective, influenced only by the desire to serve the medical needs of veterans. You point out that Negro veterans are presently undergoing hospitalization in 73 different facilities. With the exception of Tuskegee, these men are presumably hospitalized in the nearest facility on an integrated basis. We see no reason why there should be a departure from this practice in deference to the racial attitudes of the south. Your responsibility to veterans in the South is the same as it is to veterans elsewhere in this country. You can justify the erection of separate or "solid colored hospitals" in the South only if you are prepared to say that the South is not a part of the United States, a proposition with which we cannot agree.

"In spite of your assurances that your organization is working for the best interest of Negro veterans, we must again urge you to give serious consideration to the employment of qualified Negroes in policymaking positions, and reiterate our unalterable opposition to the extension of Jim-Crowism in veterans hospitals."

NAACP CHARGES MAY-BAILEY BILL IS ATTEMPT TO RAM THROUGH SLAVERY

2/8/45

Washington, D C.--Charging that the Senate Military Affairs Committee is trying to ram a "slavery bill down the throats of American citizens by denying representatives of people directly affected by Work-or Jail legislation an opportunity to appear and oppose the measure, the NAACP, in a statement to senators, declared:

"The problem sought to be corrected by the May-Bailey bill is not the result of lack of labor draft legislation but the failure to utilize all available manpower.

"If given an opportunity to appear before the Committee," the NAACP statement continued, "we would offer evidence to show that:

1. Although the bill was supposed to have been aimed primarily at 4F's in non-essential industries, at no time was an inventory taken to determine actually how many of these persons are not already in war work.

2. The army and navy are not making the most economical use of the men they now have in that thousands of Negro soldiers and sailors are still being used as laborers and servants when they couk be used to relieve combat troops suffering from battle fatigue.

3. Many war plants today are discharging workers, while hundreds of others are continuing discriminatory hiring and upgrading practices against Negroes.

4. Because of race and sex discrimination, the vast reservoir of Negro womanpower is virtually untouched as far as employment in war plants is concerned."

Aside from the lack of necessity for this legislation, the NAACP expressed the belief that it violated the Thirteenth Amendment of the Constitution prohibiting involuntary servitude since this bill would force persons to work for private employers.

"Nor are we persuaded," the statement concluded, "by promises that this legislation is only a morale builder for men in the armed forces and will not be invoked. Once it is on the statute books, such expressions by the Congress will be meaningless. Already Negroes have been falsely arrested in Fort Lauderdale, Florida under the state Work-or-Fight bill simply because they refused to continue working for wages too low to allow them to live. If the Federal Government enacts the May-Bailey bill, it will give the green light to the forces of oppression that seek to drag the Negro back into slavery."

Dear Sirs:

In a recent issue of "The Frontier", you said, "The Negro teachers had won a suit in Charleston, and that other promised suits had not developed". At the time you published that statement, a case was pending against "The Columbia School Board". This case has been tried and won as of May 9th, 1945.

For your information, papers are now being prepared for a suit to force South Carolina to make available graduate training for Negroes within the state.

We thought you would be interested in knowing these facts.

Very truly yours,

New Attorney General Hears Of Primary Case

Atlanta Daily World June 15/45

WASHINGTON — (N.N.P.A) — Attorney General Tom C. Clark, whose nomination was confirmed Thursday to take office on July 1, conferred with two outstanding attorneys of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Thurgood Marshall and William Hastie. They discussed several cases.

The only case discussed on which they could make any public statement, however, was the Screws case. Screws, a Georgia peace officer, was convicted in the lower federal courts of violation of a federal civil rights status for the murder of a Negro. Screws appealed up to the Supreme Court which upheld the right of the federal court to try the case but sent it back for retrial on legal technicalities.

According to Marshall, Mr. Clark gave assurance that the case defifederal court.

The Screws case is considered of tremendous importance because of its bearing on the validity of the Federal Civil Rights Status.

Hastie and Marshall also informed the Attorney General of the filing Wednesday by the NAACP in Atlanta of a primary case involving the denial of votes to Negroes by Georgia election officials in last year's Democratic primary.

NAACP Thwarts Extradition to Ala.

U.S. Attorney Drops Charges in Pa. Court

SECOND VICTORY

Sought for Attempted Murder, Fled Mob

PITTSBURGH.—Defended by a battery of NAACP lawyers, Ralph Johnson, who fled here in December, 1943, to escape a mob in Talladega County, Ala., on February 9 won his fight against extradition to the Southern State.

In the midst of argument on his case here in the United States District Court, the United States Attorney for the Northern District of Alabama suddenly announced withdrawal of charges, technically entering nolle prosequi.

The judge continued the removal proceedings for two weeks pending receipt from the United States Attorney's office in Alabama of a certified copy of the order to nolle prosse.

Sought Under Fugitive Act

Johnson, indicted under the Federal Fugitive Felon Act of 1934 following his escape, is believed to be the first colored person who fled a Southern State on threat of mob violence and lynching ever sought under the act.

Extradition on a charge of attempting to kill his white landlord was thwarted by Johnson and his lawyers in April, although the Governor of Pennsylvania had already signed the extradition papers.

After they went into the Common Pleas Court and told what had happened to Johnson in Alabama, Judge McWherter denied the extradition, stating that in his opinion Johnson would not get a fair trial in Alabama and might be lynched.

Intentional Flight Charged

This new action was initiated by the Federal authorities in the Northern District of Alabama on the theory that Johnson had left the jurisdiction with intent to avoid prosecution.

The whole question of the use of the Federal Fugitive Felon Act in a case like this was referred to Attorney General Biddle and Victor Rotnem, chief of the Civil Rights Section, by NAACP Special Counsel Thurgood Marshall.

Johnson's attorneys and the NAACP contended that Congress enacted the statute to close the channels of inter-State commerce to racketeers, gangsters and kidnapers and not to assist in the extradition of citizens from one State to another.

Johnson was also represented by the law firm of Smith and Smith of Greensburg, Pa., Homer Brown and Robert L. Carter of the NAACP legal staff, and Miss Marjorie Matson of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Work-or-Fight Bill Road Back to Slavery—NAACP

WASHINGTON

Enactment of the May-Bailey "work-or-jail" bill, "will give the green light to the forces of oppression that seek to drag the race back into slavery," the NAACP declared last week in a statement to Senators.

The association charged that the Senate Military Affairs Committee is trying to ram the legislation down the throats of American citizens, by denying representatives of people directly affected an opportunity to appear and oppose the measure.

If given an opportunity to appear before the committee, the NAACP said, we would offer evidence to show that while the bill is supposedly aimed at 4F's in non-essential industries, no inventory has been taken to show how many of these persons are not already in war work.

Indicts Army, Navy

The statement pointed out that the Army and Navy are not making the most economical use of men they now have, thousands of them colored, being used as laborers and servants rather than to relieve combat troops suffering from battle fatigue.

It added that many war plants are discharging workers, while hudreds of others are continuing discriminatory hiring and upgrading practices against colored people; and that the vast reservoir of colored womanpower is virtually untouched because of race and sex discrimination.

The NAACP expressed the belief that the legislation would violate the Thirteenth Amendment, pointng out that in Florida, under the State work-or-fight bill, colored men have already been arrested in Fort Lauderdale for refusing to continue to work for wages too low to allow them to live.

National service act is "slavery", says NAACP

1-29-45

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Commenting on President Roosevelt's insistence upon a National Service Act which will draft all men and women in the country for the war effort, the NAACP characterized the legislation as "slavery" in a statement this week.

"Experience during the first World War demonstrated clearly," said the NAACP statement, "that any 'work-or-fight' bill means that Negroes will be restricted and ordered about on the basis of color, rather than on the basis of the country's need.

"Under this legislation, it is entirely possible that local and State administrators will restrict Negro workers to certain types of employment, will bar them from free movement to improve themselves, and will enforce all manner of onerous rules dictated solely by racial discrimination.

"Colored citizens will remember the memorandum of Attorney General Francis Biddle in the summer of 1943 following the Detroit riot. Although he denied the memorandum, it is fairly well established that Mr. Biddle suggested to the President that one remedy for the Detroit situation was to keep any additional Negroes from going to Detroit.

"This is merely a sample of what would happen under a National Service Act. Negro workers could be barred from white collar employment. They could be confined to farm labor. They could be ordered from St. Louis, Mo., to rural Alabama. They could be barred from high-paying factory jobs and restricted to hard, hot, heavy labor such as foundry work. They could be ordered to outdoor work in severe weather. There is no limit to the ways in which Negro citizens might be mistreated under this type of legislation. It would be little better than slavery.

Roy Wilkins, acting secretary of the NAACP, said that the 800 local chapters of the organization are being advised by the national headquarters in New York to oppose this legislation and to write their Congressmen and Senators asking them to vote against it. The NAACP has 400,000 members in 44 States.

Arnall Opposes Primary Laws

Governor Arnall will oppose any efforts to retain in the state constitution provisions affecting party primaries in Georgia.

Commenting on a move by the Atlanta League of Women Voters, the Governor, who is chairman of the commission redrafting the constitution, said yesterday that any such laws affecting primaries have no place in the constitution.

The commission recently voted to drop from the constitution regulations on primaries. The action was taken after the United States supreme court ruled that Negroes can vote in the Texas Democratic primary. Members of the Georgia commisison said the supreme court's ruling on a Texas primary was possible since Texas primary regulations were part of the state election law and not merely a party matter.

In asking that the constitution retain provisions for primaries, the league said political parties need this supervision.

Teachers Fired If They Stay In NAACP In Texas

GILNER, Texas — (By Cedric Seabrook)—Because of their refusal to disavow and deny their membership in the Gilner Branch NAACP, it is alleged that there has been "wholesale dismissal" of those teachers who refused to be intimidated and insisted upon retaining their membership in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, it was revealed here Thursday afternoon.

The investigation discloses that white people were given the "tip-off" as to who held membership in the local branch by a Negro "stooge" for the white people who had been planted to get "inside information" as to what Negro teachers belonged to the local NAACP. White people throughout this area (with a few exceptions) hold that the NAACP upholds ideas and notions which are "contrary to Southern customs and traditions," from which Southern whites "will never relent or disavow," one informant told your investigator. "One teacher of unquestionble integrity, a woman who has given many fine years of service, was dropped because she refused to be bluffed by white officials," he said. Teachers who "obeyed the orders of their superiors to get out or be put out" were retained it is reported. The local matter will be called to the attention of the NAACP and Federa aut'rities.

REPORT OF SEMINARS

"YOUTH IN THE POST WAR ERA" Conducted By
ATTY. J. LEONARD LEWIS

In order to discuss our problems intelligently we must look for a moment at the historial background of our youth. The Negro was given his freedom not because the White man wanted him to have it, but as a war measure. Following his Emancipation, things were given him, now he is not thought of as just a Negro, but now as an American.

If we are going to be successful, we in the Post War Era must be able to meet competition, we must be alert and prepared to take advantage of opportunities when they present themselves.

Problems that will confront us

1. Economy-We must gain capitol. We must take advantage of the experiences gained on our war jobs.

2. Youth In The Social World-We have about two generations of culture behine us. We still in the process of developments. So how can people of such little culture measure up to perfection. Youth must build up our cultural background.

3. Business and Industry-It is up to the youth to prepare themselves. They must be patient and tolerant, to gain high positions and standards.

4. Politics- We were first in the Republican Party but by way of the back door. Recently, the N. A. A. C. P. won a battle for the Negro to vote in Jacksonville in the Democratic Primary. In the Primary, we must get a party who understands and with this party we can eliminate the confusion caused by prejudice. We must build up Political Strength in the South

Youth and the Church
Seminar
Conducted by Dr. R. A. King

There are three parts of the Youth of today that need to be fully developed in order to make the church of tomorrow. They are the physical, mental and spiritual parts.

No person is able to get the real joy out of life if he is not physically developed. God want a life as well as a soul. A young person has a possession of both a life and a soul. When an older person accepts God, he has only a soul to give. Youth are more energetic than the older generation and need and are able to give their energy and time to their churches.

People that are not mentally developed cannot make the church what it should be. The youth of today have the right to be more developed mentally than their foreparents. There is no excuse for the youth of today if they are not mentally prepared. Youths of today must learn to think for themselves and plan their own future. Wise persons will not only keep his mouth open, but his mine also.

The Church is to develop the spiritual part of man. The spiritual developement is not for the old-d generation but for youth as well. Most people look at spiritual relations as preparing to die. When you are developing yourself spiritually you are then preparing to live.

The physical, mental and spiritual parts of man corresponds with the body, mine and soul. They are the qualities that need to be fully developed by the youth in order to make the Church that is needed. The world is growing wiser and in order to make the handicaps of the world you must be prepared. The youths are able and capable of making the Church of tomorrow.

Objectives of Study

Economics and Vocational Opportunities of the South Mrs. L. B. Coleman

It was revealed in this seminar that the south produce 95% of the Nations cotton, 90% of the tobacco, 75% Natural Gas, 40% lumber, 47% wood pulp and other metal and material.

After this was discussed the question arose "what are our opportunities of emplyment" and "the types of labor?

The Negro population for 1934 was 12,865,518 out of this number 9,261,792 lived in the thirteen southern states Our education facilities are far below what they should be. B. T. Washington said "the negro boy might be smart but he isn't smart enough to spend $5 for his education and $25 for the white boy's.

The double sessions are a handicap to the Negro boy and girl not only in Jax but through out the south. As members of the Jr. NAACP we are going forward to change these things.

There are 16 legal reserve insurance companies in the south. We also have 9 banks. There are 29,327 business es owned by Negroes with a $71,466,000 capital, 10,220 full time employees, 3,558 part time employees and 29,116 proprieters. It has been proven that it is an advantage for the

SEMINAR CONTINUES
"COMMUNITY CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY"
Conducted By Mr. Sidney Miles
and
Mrs. Thelma L. Harris

1. Health-Interest should be spent sufficiently on the homes in which we live. Negroes and home remedies when failing in health should pay a visit to the doctor. In 1935 notes were compiled in an impressive example and composed a book on the body.

2. Neighborhood-Neighborhoods are important. Twenty-five thousand Negores voting in Florida to vote for President and select important people to have charge. In that way of making contacts the neighborhood grows into a community. A Neighborhood depends largely on the community and should be planned to share the responsibilities of each.

3. Housing-Organizations are an asset to the housing conditions and other cases. Committees were named and decided to pick from various poor neighborhoods 1000 families 15 or 20 per cent health conditions. Time rules of registration, administration pushed to the "Housing Committees". Absenteeism found that it was greater in the homes that were not living in project homes. Projects can be an asset. Many live there until they are able to purchase homes of their own.

4. Schools-Do our boys go to school when they are not working or when they are working do they go to school? Which one holds the major interest. Opinions of many that Negroes should attend Negro Schools but Indiana is the only State having equal educational rights in schools.

5. Recreation-Recreation means to re-create,-relax and readjust. Cheated out of public funds long time and are letting us make it for ourselves. Our parents did very little and the people of darker races owe it to themselves to destroy high pressure selesmanship.

People in control of making budgets are not the proper ones. Facts and figures. "Figures cannot lie but liars can figure."

HONORABLE JOSEPH H. JAMES OPENS CONFERENCE

Long will we remember the opening address by Mr. Joe H. James. Mr. James very pointedly told youth that a great challenge faces them and they must accept the task of carrying on where their fathers leave off.

He exphasized that possibilities of close associating one with the other thought out the State.

SATURDAY MORNING

Devotional Services began at 9:30 A. M. Dr. C. A. Weaver, Pastor of Day Spring Baptist Church gave a Bible presentation taken from the 13th Chapter of 1st Corinthians, entitled "Life Can Be Beautiful."

At 10:00 O'Clock Mrs. Henry W. Havens, Executive Secretary of the National Inter-Racial Association spoke on the subject "Racial Relationships." Mrs. Havens recognized the disadvantages confronted Negro Youth but also stated that they have wonderful opportunities, that the future looks much brighter. She emphasized that we must be prepared and we must be good to meet competition.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON

This publication goes to press before twelve o'clock today. Therefore, you will only find in details what the program really consist of. The invocation will be delivered by Rev. Robert N. Tucker, a student of the Theological Seminary, Columbia University.

south in the next ten years will prosper. There will be apportunities as never before. Then, how will the Negro take a part? Will wee take these advantageous opportunities or lose them?

What the Negro should do. The Negro should seek collective bargins and tuition organization. The C.I.O. has played a very important part in securing jobs for negroes.

In order to have economic security you must:

1. Make more than you need
2. Save that you don't need
3. Then invest it

Social Life

Along with the educational activities we found time for enjoyment.

Friday evening at 8:00 P.M. a Theatre Party began for the members and delegates of the Youth Council. At 9:30 P.M. a social was held at the Colored Recreation Center. The music was furnished by a local band Every one left the social bubbling over with smiles and laughter.

Saturday at noon was the beach outing at the American Beach.

ROBESON RECEIVES 30TH SPINGARN MEDAL

New York--Characterizing Paul Robeson as a "man who exemplifies the finest in American and American Negro traditions of accomplishment, sportsmanship, and contribution to public welfare," Marshall Field, Chicago publisher, formally presented the great actor-singer with the 30th Spingarn Medal at a dinner here October 18 at the Hotel Biltmore.

Before a distinguished gathering of more than 500 persons, Mr. Field reviewed the accomplishments of Mr. Robeson and declared that the 30 winners of the Spingarn Medal, "pre-eminent pioneers of a people fighting for its rights on the frontiers of intolerance and bigotry, have been and are at least as heroic figures as those of other peoples who have fought on these and other frontiers, whether those frontiers be physical or spiritual.

"A white man can talk of what such Negro pioneering means, but it is with great difficulty that a white man grasps and appreciates the cost of outstanding accomplishment by an American Negro. When a white man becomes a leader in business, science, authorship, civic affairs, singing, or acting, he has to make great sacrifices, it is true, and exhibited an amazing single-mindedness of purpose. But when a Negro achieves a similar pre-eminence in what is still a white man's social system, he requires all of those qualities and the additional courage and strength necessitated by our shameful caste system in this country.

"It is little wonder that the Negroes who have accomplished what is symbolized by the Spingarn Medal have had such thrilling and incredible life histories. In many cases, they have endured trials that few white Americans can imagine, and even fewer have experienced."

Mr. Field was introduced by Walter White, who presided. Following the Field speech Paul Robeson responded. Marian Anderson, herself A Spingarn Medalist, was also on the program.

The Spingarn Medal was instituted in 1914 by the late J. E. Spingarn, long-time officer of the NAACP, to be awarded for the "highest or noblest achievement by an American Negro during the preceding year or years."

The citation accompanying the award to Mr. Robeson reads: "For his distinguished achievements in the theatre and on the concert stage, as well as for his active concern for the rights of the Common Man of every race, color, religion, and nationality."

TAX EMEMPTION ON DAR
HAIL OPPOSED BY NAACP

Washington,D.C.--Legislation proposing the removal of the tax-exemption provision from Constitution Hall, owned by the Daughters of the American Revolution, will have the support of the NAACP throughout the country, it was announced here this week. The DAR refused the use of the hall to Hazel Scott, pianist, for a concert because she is a Negro. The organization is free of taxes on the building and land because it claims to be a public institution, serving all the people of the District.

The movement to remove the tax exemption is being initiated on the grounds that since the hall bars Negro artists, it is now a private enterprise and should pay taxes.

In New York, Walter White, NAACP secretary, issued the following statement:

"There is no more complete barometer of the low estate to which the Daughters of the American Revolution have sunk than the fact that the organization's sole defenders are Rankin and Bilbo. Refusal of the use of Constitution Hall to artists because of race or color, coming at the close of war against Hitlerism, is appalling. The action of the DAR, however, is not without value if it arouses Americans to a realization that they have helped destroy Hitlerism in Germany but permitted it to grow unchecked and unrebuked here in the United States. The NAACP Legal Committee and the Association as a whole will leave no stone unturned to effect the withdrawal of tax exemption and other benefits which the DAR enjoys as a quasi-public institution.

"The public might have forgiven Mrs. Truman for attending the luncheon the invitation for which she had accepted prior to the denial of the use of Constitution Hall to Hazel Scott. But her reply, "Why not?" in response to a newspaper man's inquiry as to whether she would accept future invitations from the DAR is most disappointing, particularly in contrast with the action of her distinguished predecessor as First Lady."

NAACP HITS PRINTING DAR
REPORTS AT U.S. EXPENSE 10/18/45

Washington,D.C.--The fact that annual reports of the Daughters of the American Revolution are printed at Government expense was disclosed today by Leslie Perry, NAACP Washington Bureau, in a telegram of protest to Senator Carl Hayden, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Printing. Perry said that the DAR has issued annual reports for the past 47 years, all of which have been printed by the Government Printing Office as Senate Documents. The last report, which was printed in 1945, is a 202 page booklet, Perry said.

The NAACP urged Senator Hayden and other members of the Committee to introduce and consider legislation immediately to repeal the section of the law, contained in the Act incorporating the DAR, authorizing the Daughters to make an annual report of its activities to the Smithsonian Institution and Congress.

The full text of the NAACP telegram to Senator Hayden was as follows:

"The Act of Congress incorporating the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution which was approved on February 20, 1896, authorized the society to report annually to the Smithsonian Institute and Congress. Undoubtedly its privilege of having its reports printed and circulated at the expense of the American taxpayers was predicated upon the assumption that the DAR would live up to the lofty purposes set forth in its charter. The certificate of incorporation lists the DAR's purposes: 'To perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence, to cherish, maintain and extend the institution of freedom; to foster true patriotism and love of country and to aid in securing for mankind all the blessings of liberty.' In the light of the racial practices of the DAR, which are currently receiving wide public attention, it can hardly be said that they are discharging the high responsibilities with which they are charged. under the law. Frankly, in our judgment, the entire charter should be declared forfeited, but in no event is there any justification whatever for continuing to permit this organization to print and circulate its reports at Government expense. We strongly but respectfully urge that your committee introduce and consider immediately legislation to repeal laws giving their reports the status of public documents."

BALLOT CASES TO BE APPEALED BY NAACP 10/18/45

New York--Cases in which Negroes sought to register in Alabama and Louisiana which were dismissed in the courts in those states will be appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the fifth district, it was announced here this week by Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the NAACP.

Judge Caillouet dismissed the Louisiana case on September 17 and Judge C. B. Kennamer dismissed the Alabama case on October 12. The two cases are test ones brought to enjoin the policy of registration officials in Louisiana and Alabama from subjecting Negroes to tests not required of white registrants.

NAACP lawyers stated that these two cases are a part of the program to break down all types of discriminatory practices preventing Negroes from voting in the South. These cases, along with the recent primary case in Jacksonville, Fla., and new cases in Orlando, Fla., are part of the sustained program of the NAACP which will continue and increase until every semblance of discrimination against Negroes in the exercise of the right to vote is abolished.

Mr. Marshall also stated that the victory in Georgia, in which Judge T. Hoyt Davis ruled that Negroes must be permitted to vote in the Democratic primary was instituted and carried forward by the Macon branch of the NAACP.

ASK CLEMENCY FOR SOLDIER

The NAACP is filing a petition for clemency in the case of Purdie S. Jackson, 24790231, formerly of Company "F" of the 1311th Engineers (GS) Regiment. Jackson was tried and convicted by general court-martial in Nashville, Tennessee, on February 7, 1944, for assault with intent to do bodily harm on three white civilians. He was convicted and sentenced to a dishonorable discharge and twelve years at hard labor.

The record discloses that the altercation started when Jackson sat at a table reserved for whites in a drug store in Nashville, Tenn., and that his so-called white victims were actually the aggressors. The NAACP through its petition for clemency seeks to have the remainder of Jackson's sentence commuted and have him restored to duty with the opportunity to earn an honorable discharge.

332nd Group Wins Distinguished Service Award

In the name of the President of the United States, as "public evidence of deserved honor and distinction," a Distinguished Unit Citation has been conferred upon the all-Negro 332 Fighter Group for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy, the War Department announced today.

The citation reads as follows:

"On March 23, 1945, the group was assigned the mission of escorting heavy bombardment type aircraft attacking the vital Daimler-Benz tank assembly plant at Berlin, Germany. Realizing the strategic importance of the mission and fully cognizant of the amount of enemy resistance to be expected and the long range to be covered, the ground crews worked tirelessly and with enthusiasm to have their aircraft at the peak of mechanical condition to insure the success of the operation.

"On March 24, 1945, fifty-nine P-51 type aircraft were airborne and set course for the rendezvous with the bomber formation. Thru superior navigation and maintenance of strict flight discipline, the group formation reached the bomber formation at the designated time and place. Nearing the target approximately 25 enemy aircraft were encountered which included ME262's which laucnhed relentless attacks in a desperate effort to break up and destroy the bomber formation.

"Displaying outstanding courage, aggressiveness, and combat technique, the group immediately engaged the enemy formation in aerial combat. In the ensuying engagement that continued over the target area, the gallant pilots of the 332nd Fighter Group battled against the enemy fighter to prevent the breaking up of the bomber formation and thus jeopardizing the successful completion of this vitally important mission. Daniel Day New Head of Negro Press Section

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Major Daniel E. Day, Field Artillery, former picture editor and assistant city editor of a Chicago weekly newspaper, has been named chief of the Negro Interest Section, Press Branch, War Department Bureau of Public Relations, it was announced today. In this capacity he succeeds Major Homer B. Roberts, Corps of Military Police, who returned to civilian life on October 10.

He earned his promotion to first lieutenant in February, 1942 as a battery executive officer with the 931st Field Artillery Battalion, then at Fort Custer, Michigan.

Entering the newspaper field at the age of 12, Major Day is a veteran of 14 years' experience as a newspaperman, starting as a cartoonist with the Chicago Defender and working his way up to the position of assistant city editor of that paper. During his climb to that position he worked as , cartoonist columnist, rewrite man, photographer and picture editor.

Carol Brice to Give Series of CBS Recitals

Carol Brice, outstanding young Negro contralto who last spring won the Naumberg Foundation Award, begins a series of song programs over CBS Monday, October 22 (WABC-CBS, 6:30-6:45 PM, EST). The date scheduled for her programs are the Mondays October 22 and 29 ,when she will be accompanied by the pianist Bertha Melnik; and Tuesdays from November 27 to December 18 inclusive, when she will be accompanied by the Columbia Concert Orchestra under Bernard Herrmann's direction.

This series resulted from an appearance with the Columbia Broadcasting Symphony during its recent summer series. Miss Brice did the vocal part when Fritz Reiner conducted de Falla's "El Amor Brujo" on September 2. She was so enthusiastically received that arrangements were immediately begun for the present series of broadcasts.

Miss Brice was born in Indianapolis, reared and educated in Sedalia, North Carolina. Before winning the Naumberg prize, she had won a number of awards including a silver cup in a state-wide musical festival in North Carolina, and a five-year fellowship at the Juilliard Graduate School.

Miss Brice's first program will be made up of songs by three German composers, Franz, Schubert and Brahms.

Minneapolis Legion Post Asks Poll Tax Exemption

NEW YORK—Poll tax exemptions for all veterans, regardless of "race, color, or creed" asked by the Minneapolis Am. Legion Post is a hopeful sign in the Legion's relations with Negro veterans according to Julius A. Tnomas National Urban League Industrial Relations Director. The Minneapolis Minnesota Johnny Baker Post No. 291 has just passed a resolution to be presented to its National Convention in Chicago in November demanding that "all honorably discharged veterans of World War I or II regardless of race creed or color be exempted from all poll tax payments Grandfather's clauses, and all other local restrictions and requirements to the end and purpose that such honorably discharged veterans be enabled hereafter to exercise their voting franchise under the intent and provision of the Constitution." This action came after the Fifth District American Legion, Department of Minnesota, took the matter up with State Legion officials, the Minneapolis Spokesman reported, with presentation of the resolution to be made to Minesota state caucus delegates at the National Convention.

Leagues Ready to Support

"Fifty-one local League throughout the country," Thomas stated, "are ready to cooperate in supporting this anti-poll tax section." The Industrial Relations Director emphasized that the Urban League had, several months ago, recommended to American Legion officials that its constitution be changed to permit Negroes to become members of the Legion in the seven southern states which not only exclude them, but which do not even permit them to organize separate posts. The League also proposed that Negro officials be added to the Legion's national staff.

Negroes Should Accentuate Says Ed. Robinson

Chicago (ANP) — Negroes should "accentuate the positive" side of democracy, declares the noted movie star, Edward G. Robinson. Writing in "If I were a Negro" in the September Negro Digest, the famous Hollywood actor points to the notable gains made by Negroes during the war and urges that colored armed men be vigilant "that there be no backsliding by armed forces or civilians after victory."

NOTICE—Mrs. Betty Hamilton, cashier at the Dude Ranch, wishes it to be known that she is not the person who was involved in a recent night club disturbance.

Liberia Celebrates Centennial of Its Independence

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20—"Liberia will be the first nation in the atomic age to celebrate the centennial of its independence. The manner in which the powerful nations of the world will apply the high principles of the United Nations Charter to Liberia will be one of the acid tests of the sincerity of those pronouncements and of the possibility of the United Nations organization to save civilization in the race between the destructive powers of the atomic bomb and the curative powers of the recognition of the right of all nations and peoples to equality without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion," Dr. Rayford W. Logan, eminent Scholar on African affairs and chairman of the department of History, Howard University, told newsmen representing the nation's press assembled at Lucy Diggs Slowe Hall last Thursday evening.

Dr. Logan was the principal speaker at a dinner meeting held in connection with the official opening of the Centennial Commission for the Republic of Liberia which is to direct the development of the Centennial Victory Exposition to be held in Monrovia, Liberia, July 26, 1947-1949 in commemoration of the independence of the Republic and in the interest of collaboration for maintaining world peace. Other speakers for the occasion were Edgar Rouzeau, of the New York Herald-Tribune, who spent quite a long period of time in Liberia as a war correspondent for the Pittsburgh Courier; and E. Johnson, of the Associated Negro Press, who is attached to the State Department correspondents staff. Mr. Rouzeau and Mr. Johnson were members of a panel which discussed "Liberia in the Family of Nations." Chairman of the panel was Alfred E. Smith, veteran of the Washington Bureau of the Chicago Defender.

In referring to the participation of Liberia in World War II, Dr. Logan pointed out that the Republic "with the exception of Ceylon, furnished more crude rubber to the United Nations than any other country. As an air base through which there passed at one time as many as 17,000 bombers a month at the height of the fighting in North Africa, it contributed materially to the defeat of the Axis forces at what General Marshall has called one of the most crucial stages of the war and thereby helped to make possible the invasion of the so-called 'soft underbelly of Europe.'"

The speaker also developed the historical background of the nation from both a national and international viewpoint and lauded the present Liberian administration for its progressive approach to national and world affairs.

During the late afternoon the members of the press toured the offices and other facilities of the Commission at the Centennial Commission Building, 1927 11th Street N. W., where architectural drawings and other displays pertaining to the work of the Commission and the program of the Centennial Victory Exposition were on exhibition.

The Centennial Victory Exposition is being planned in accordance with a directive issued by President W. V. S. Tubman of Liberia, and it is being projected by the Centennial Commission comprised by several leading Liberian citizens. The technical administration for the project is being directed by Hilyard R. Robinson, architect and city planner of national reputation who is serving as technical consultant to the Republic of Liberia.

In addition to being responsible for the organization and promotion of the Exposition, Mr. Robinson will serve as architect-engineer for the construction of the fair grounds and other buildings to be erected in connection with the event.

The exposition is designed to present to the world significant phases of Liberia's post war planning for its own people and its program for international cooperation in world rehabilitation. Further, the event will serve to focus attention on significant benefits to be derived from cooperative planning and action in inter-African, American and European solution of social, economic, and political problems. "West Africa in a World at Peace" has been designated as the theme for the exposition.

In order that the American Public might know more about the current activities of the Liberian government and American citizens who are working in that country, there has been created within the Commission the Liberian News Service to be coordinated by Moss Hyles Kendrix, public relations officer for the Commission.

Preparation for Abnormalcy

Herewith presented are some enlightening and touching excerpts from articles written by Kathleen Cronin, a brilliant writer and trade union functionary, who makes her home in Portland, Oregon .These discourses are based upon the recent police killing of Ervin Jones, Negro shipyard worker, in his home at Guilds Lake two months ago.

Miss Cronin was an observer at the coroner's inquest held October 9th and she also interviewed the wife and relatives of the deceased man. With striking and deadly clarity she lashes out at the forces that have brought tragedy into the lives of these unfortunate Negro people and then approved themselves for having done so. Her writings serve as an instrument to shame the participants in the killing, forever.

"Portland, Oct. 9.—'You will like our mountains' —that's what it said in the folders Henry Kaiser circulated down south when he was looking for strong hands, black or white, to build the ships. But the Jones family, late of Shreveport, Louisiana, doesn't care for snow peaks that must forever be symbols of a terror they met face to face in Portland when Ervin Jones, Negro, was slain by police officers last August.

'No, we don't like the mountains,' confided Zasdaree Rembo, sister-in-law of the murdered man. 'And we wouldn't want to live here now . . .'

They had expected to like Oregon, they said. And ships were being built in Portland and it was wartime, and they wanted to help. So they left the cottage that is all paid for back in Shreveport and came West, with thousands of other workers from the South and East.

There were eight of them, Ervin Jones and his wife Elva, and their five children, and Mrs. Jones' sister, Zandaree. Mr. Jones and Zandaree went to work at Oregon Ship as chippers. It was hard, dirty, dangerous. But they had come to work, they had come to help, and they did not complain.

What they did not expect was that Ervin Jones, the war worker, innocent of any crime, taxpayer and father of five,would be shot in the back in his own home. The nightmare of it was on their faces still, even now, two months afterward, as they sat in Goodman's office waiting to tell the story, which those who have heard it, say will rock the state.

They sat quietly under the signed photographs of Clarence Darrow and Tom Mooney—Mrs. Jones, widowed in her late twenties; Susie Rembo the young sister who had joined the family in June after school was out, so proud of her first vacation outside Louisiana; and Zandaree. They were still crushed by events, but trying to answer the questions with calmness and sense.

It was harder going for the interviewer. This was her town and her state, and she felt somehow responsible and full of shame.

'Anyway,' she faltered, 'the children, how fortunate —they are too young to know . . .'

'Oh, no,' said Susie, 'they all know. All the children.'

'Three of them can read; they read all the letters their own selves, even the telegram. They ask all the time why did the policeman kill my daddy? Even the little one, when we were unpacking her father's clothes recognized them, and said: That is daddy's, where is daddy?'

'They know,' she continued proudly, 'but they do not understand . . . but I—I understand.'

'I understand', she said, with a look curiously clear, direct and unafraid, 'that it could not have happened if he had been a white man. I understand, too, that it DID happen and it happened HERE.' "

Writing further upon this same momentuous issue, Miss Cronin describes the composition of the coroner's jury in detail. Her impressive revelations are interesting and startling. Negro citizens should find the following notations exceptionelly informative.

"When Elva Jones, widow of Ervin Jones, stood up simply dressed, with dark hair pulled back from a face that kept its suffering to itself, dry-eyed, she was an impressive figure to almost everyone but the three men and three women in the jury box. They kept their eyes averted, they appeared not to listen when she testified."

The jury consisted of:

"Mrs. C. E. Runyon, with her carefully marcelled white hair and her plumed hat from an expensive shop, who took time out from pro-American activities because her good friend and political associate, John Collier, the chief deputy district attorney who was present when Jones was shot, was in a jam.

"The aging Helen LaMonde who ekes out an uncertain living around election time."

"The stony eyed Harriet Monroe who apparently skipped all the paragraphs in the Oregon Code on Justifiable homicide when she was studying for her bar exams; Idleman with his sunken face and uneasy memories of patronage, past and present; John Dickson, whose voting record down at the state legislature is tucked away in the unforgiving memories of dirt farmers and sawmill bands; and the mysterious Richard Tusant who ducked when the press camera clicked."

"No, the jury did not look at Mrs. Jones. They looked at the Coroner instead. Most of them had campaigned for him."

"And sometimes the jury looked at Chief Deputy Attorney John Collier, for Collier had been present when police officer shot Jones."

"Collier had pulled a boner, but he had to be saved because he was a necessary cog in the machine."

In conclusion the writer makes mention of the Killer, Detective Bard Purcell:

"Bard Purcell, the heavy, graying detective who killed Jones, looked at the floor when Jones' widow was on the stand. Perhaps he had some kids of his own at home and did not like to remember the two and four-year-olds who ran screaming from the room where their father lay gasping, 'Lord, Lord, Have Mercy."

The Grand Jury, like its predecessor—the Coroner's jury, found the killing of Ervin Jones justifiable. This was to be expected, however, as the men who would have been penalized for having been derelict in their public duties were persons holding responsible law enforcement positions. The death of a Negro could never be important enough, regardless of the circumstances, to merit a full democratic expression of justice whenever individuals of this ilk are involved.

The human elements possessing the power to comply with meager requests for justice have no intention of jeopardizing their political futures by giving the benefits of American legal consideration to the Negro people at any time. These persons realize that any expression of fairness to Negroes would be construed to mean that they are incapable of protecting white supremacy concepts. This would be equivalent to political and social suicide.

These ridiculous and despicable techniques of dealing with the unfortunates in our National confines have caused catastrophic social convulsions in the thinking of the Negro people. It has left them in the depths of depravity. Basically, but not admittedly, there are only two consuming mental dispositions shared by the majority of Negroes toward white America. One is hatred—the other is fear. Both of these are seats of terrific psychic affections. The minds of Negroes, like warped wheels on a bent axle, revolve on a continuous axis of hate and grave apprehension. This leaves them without the ability to make decisions of a social import strong enough to offset the extreme racism of a numerical majority that is crazed by its fanatical adherence to philosophies of racial supremacy and purity.

National Urban League Awards Veterans' Aid Fellowship

NEW YORK—The National Urban League's Emanuel Maynz Fellowship for study in vocational guidance, with emphasis on preparation to aid returning veterans, has been awarded to Phoebe E. Goff of Chicago, the League announced this week. Establishment of the $1200 Maynz grant for study at Teachers College, Columbia University, was announced by the League earlier this year as a part of its veterans' service program. Teachers College cooperates by allowing tuition cost as its part of the full fellowship grant.

Mrs. Goff has been employed by the Chicago Wellfare Administration, where she was Assistant to the Employment Director and Supervisor of Placement Service. She gained national recognition recently because of her work in formulating and developing the Chicago agency's placement and counselling program. In discussing her experience in vocational counselling for veterans, Mrs. Goff states, "The greatest, most far-reaching service for returning veterans will be done through private agencies and those public agencies whose poliiies are not limited and which are equipped to work with the veteran on an individualized basis."

Snuff, a rich shade of brown as provocative as its name, is being given top billing on the autumn color scene for women who seek variety from the popular all black costume. Coats, suits and dresses of this refreshing color graciously accept black accessories to highlight this up-to-the-minute autumn tone.

Estimated life of a fur coat is ten years, assuming it is given proper care. If the average price of the fur coat is $300 and $250 is spent on upkeep over the life span, the yearly cost is about $55 or approximately the amount a woman spends on hats or shoes.

Off the Record...

By LYN

Batting out one's first column is about as easy as facing the mike for the first time. Frankly, I'm frantic the Webster version. Anything could happen here| I have a vague notion this column should be a little chatter and a lot of platter, "so let's git with it."

If you're a wise collector you'll pick up on Capitol's new "History of Jazz" albums. For my money, it's knocked out. There are 40 fine sides in all, divided into four albums recording the birth, growth and present position of American jazz music from its early days in New Orleans right up to the artists you're yea-man-ing today. Vol. 1, which carries the subtitle of "The 'Solid' South", includes such old favorites as Leadbelly, Zutty Singleton, Barney Bigard, Wingy Manone, Eddie Miller, Nappy LaMare, Matty Matlock, Stan Wrightsman, Ray Bauduc, Ellie Garland, Fred Washington, and others. Vol. 2, makes with the music of the 1920-29 "Golden Era" of jazz with Teagarden, Greer, Nichols, Whiteman and McShann as leaders. Vol. 3 of the "History of Jazz" series portrays the 'Swing' music of the 1930s spotlighting the small "hot" combinations. It features Rex Stewart's Big Eight with Lawrence Brown, Harry Carney, Al Sears, and others; T-Bone Walker, blues singer, accompanied by Freddie Slack; Al Casey's Sextet featuring Willie Smith and Horace Henderson; Big Sid Catlett's band with Joe Guy, Illinois Jacquet, Bumps Myers and John Simmons, and Dave Dexter's International Jazzmen—an all-star unit made up of Benny Carter, Coleman Hawkins, Nat (King) Cole, Oscar Moore, Bill Coleman, John Kirby, Buster Bailey and Max Roach with Kay Starr as vocalist.

The last volume of the series is subtitled "This Modern Age." Ten sides of 1945 jazz as played by King Cole Trio, Billy Butterfield's band, Bobby Sherwood, Eddie Miller's full-sized Dixie combo, Stan Kenton, Coleman Hawkins' Sextet featuring Vic Dickenson and Allan Reuss and finally Benny Carter's ork starring Bumps Myers and J. J. Johnson. And that's the History of Jazz in capsule form.

Truly great! And you're a square, Jack, if you don't dig it and get sent.

And that's 30 from Lyn's corner.

OBSERVATIONS

Mr. A. Philip Randolph, co-chairman of the National Council for a Permanent FEPC, an dfounder of the FEPC movement, spent a week in Washington laying the groundwork for the soonest possible action on the FEPC Bill in Congress. Mr. Randolph conferred with the Washington staff, reviewed the results and recommendations of the recent Washington conference, checked up on organizational strength, and talked with Senators and Representatives. The result of these conferences will be reflected in plans soon to be announced.

America has given the remainder of the world just cause to believe that plans for a rugged program of imperialism are underway in this land of the 'FREE!' The failure of President Truman to carry out plans to develop a policy of international cooperation on the future use of the atomic bomb is regarded with grave distrust of American and British motives—even in many sections of these two nations.

Ben Davis, Negro city councilman of New York, is up for re-election. Davis, who runs on a communist ticket, has been seriously criticized by powerful Negro newspapers in the east for his position on many issues involving the Negro people. Newest prominent Negro to support his re-election is Joe Louis.

A white writer confided recently that Louis Armstrong's orchestra has been accompanied on all of its tours in the last year or so by a white representative of the Glazer agency who delights in confiding to whites that he believes all Negroes are rapists and degenerates. However, the orchestra members are aware of his vile utterances. They treat him accordingly.

The Portland Urban League will have an addition to its office staff. Within the next sixty days there will be an industrial secretary.

Negro trade unionists, writers and newspapers are upset over the recent betrayal of the Negro workers by Sidney Hillman, CIO-PAC chief at the world trade union conference which was held in London.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 19, 1945.

Editor, The Observer,
Portland, Oregon.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I want to thank every one wh ohas shown kindness to me and to my sister during our stay in Portland and all who made it possible for us to return to testify at the coroner's inquest and the grand jury investigation. I also wish to thank the Observer for its very fine articles about the case.

I do hope that because of what happened to me and to my family something will be done to protect others from suffering th esame misfortune.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Elva Jones.

Statement To the Public

The tragic death of Ervin Jones, survived by a young widow and five small children, has left a void in that family's life that cannot be replaced. But it is our desire that the tremendous public sentiment released by this case be directed into constructive channels so as to avoid a recurrence of this tragedy, an improvement of race relations in our city, and a furtherance of the democratic processes. To this end we propose:

1 That classes be conducted among all our law enforcing officers for the furtherance of racial tolerance.

2) That, as recommended by the Portland City Club, there be immediately established a statewide committee on Negro-White relations to be appointed by the governor, such committee to be closely integrated into the activities of a local committee on Negro-White relations to be appointed by

3 That the forthcoming session of the legislature enact a civil rights bill guaranteeing equal civil rights to all persons regardless of race, color, or creed and enact legislation making democratic the selection of coroner's juries.

4)) That there be enacted a state and a city FEPC.

5) That as a further means of relieving racial tension, there should be equality in employment of Negro and white people in city and state civil service positions.

In striving for such a constructive program we believe the tremendous public sentiment given to the Jones case would be directed into constructive channels for the benefit of all the people of our city and state.

tion, the group destroyed three enemy aircraft, probably destroyed three, and damaged three. Among their claims were eight of the highly rated enemy jet-propelled aircraft with no losses sustained by the 332nd Fighter Group.

"Leaving the target area and en route to base after completion of their primary task, aircraft of the group conducted strafing attacks against enemy ground installation and transportation with outstanding success. By the conspicuous gallantry, professional skill, and determination of the pilots, together with the outstanding technical skill and devotion to duty of the ground personnel, the 332nd Fighter Group has reflected great credit on itself and the armed forces of the United States."

Members of the 332nd Fighter Group, who fought with the 15th Air Force in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations, are scheduled to debark from the Levi Woodbury on Thursday, October 18, at the New York Port of Embarkation. They are entitled to wear the Distinguished Unit Bagde.

Truman Repeats Request for FEPC

IN his message to Congress, Sept. 6, President Truman asked that it put the Fair Employment Practice Committee "on a permanent basis" as one of the essentials for success of the reconversion. "I have already requested that legislation be enacted placing the FEPC on a permanent basis. I repeat that recommendation."

Strengthen the President's recommendations with letters and telegrams to your Congressmen asking them to sign Discharge petition No. 4 so that the bill for a permanent FEPC can be brought to the House for a vote.

Who Started This?

(Excerpt from Oregonian, Wednesday, September 19, 1945)

RUMORS of intended moving of housing units for Negroes to the Montavilla area and a mass meeting last week in Montavilla which a church spokesman described as one rampant with race hatred brought statements on segregation from the Montavilla Ministerial Association, Tuesday.

. . . The association meeting in Hope Presbyterian Church went on record as opposed to the segregation of any American people, expressing the belief that Americans should have the right to live where they wish.

(The Portland Housing Authorities denied plan to move housing units to Montavilla.)

A Soldier on Senator Bilbo

(Excerpt from New Republic, September 17, 1945)

SIR: "I have just read of Senator Bilbo's call for segregation in his mealy-mouthed warning of racial strife in Detroit.

"I wish the Senator could see this ward. Here are five Negroes, two Filipinos, a Japanese-Filipino, a Nisei Japanese, a full-blooded Hawaiian, and about 17 native white Americans, some of various foreign parentages and some from the Deep South. I should like the Senator to see how all of those more able to help their less able buddies — those who can walk pushing those in wheel chairs, those on crutches hobbling to the PX on errands for their at present bed-ridden buddies, and everyone helping everyone else to dress, to light cigarettes, to write letters — in complete harmony, with no regard for color or nationality. I should like the Senator to come to this ward, so that we could all get out of bed and throw him out — together.

Gestapo?

THE police killing of Mr. Ervin Jones, of Guild's Lake, August 21, has awakened the citizens of Portland to the danger of unbridled police authority. The police, while searching for an alleged murderer, called at the Jones home around 2 a. m. and in the ensuing exchange of shots, fatally wounded Mr. Jones. The alleged murderer was not found in the Jones' home. The police officer killing Mr. Jones was exonerated by his superior with the words "justifiable homicide" written on the police records.

Rev. George W. Brown, Pastor, Gona Street Community Church, Guild's Lake, and George L. Thomas, Director, Department of Race Relations, Portland Council of Churches, conducted an investigation of the case. On the basis of disclosed controversial testimony of police and witnesses a movement to arouse public interest was started by Rev. Brown. He appealed to the public for funds to have the widow and her sisters brought back to carry on further investigation of the case. The response has been gratifying.

The Legal Redress Committee of the N.A.A.C.P. called a meeting with representatives from several civic, religious, social, labor, and fraternal groups. A resolution was adopted requesting a coroner's inquest. The Council of Churches also adopted and made public a resolution asking that a public inquest be held to determine the facts. These resolutions were followed through with the support of The Urban League, the Gona Street Community Club, Civil Liberties Committee of the Oregon Bar Association, Council of Church Women, YWCA Public Affairs Committee and several other organizations and individuals. Representatives from these groups accompanied by Attorney Irvin Goodman, who volunteered his services, met with the District Attorney twice.

District Attorney Thomas B. Handley ordered an inquest which is to be held on October 9 at 9:30 a. m. in Judge James W. Crawford's courtroom, 540 Courthouse, S. W. 4th Avenue and Salmon Street.

Principals other than those connected with race are involved. We have the question of police methods and procedures. The people of our community should be interested when it is possible for a servant of the people — a police official — to write off a questionable act of one of his subordinates without recourse of public opinion. You are urged to be present at the inquest.

Democracy Slugged Again

"IN FACT", weekly newsletter published in New York, in a recent issue charged that the Army had missed chance to educate GI's on facts of racism, fascism, anti-labor forces here at home because many Army units failed to make use of 74 "Army Talks" prepared by the Information and Education Division of Army Service Forces. These pamphlets were planned to raise the morale and tell men and women in the armed service the real reasons they were at war and to help win the war by education.

In the opinion of "In Fact" these pamphlets were 100 per cent unbiased, unprejudiced, documented and honest, containing exposes on anti-Semitism and the white supremacy theory, a definition of fascism ("a political social, and economic form of society . . . accomplished between certain powerful financial interests and a military machine") and refutation of the "subversiveness" of labor.

However, because their use was not compulsory in all army units, the program was often pigeon holed by local commanding officers or Information and Education officers.

Racial Chit-Chat

WERE you one of the 400 persons who received stimuli for your efforts toward doing work for social significance when Lester B. Granger, Executive Secretary, Urban League of New York, spoke at the Library Hall, September 19. He gave many practical suggestions for eliminating race tensions.

Hats off to the Council of Churches for sponsoring the Race Relations Clinic. There was presented a comprehensive survey of community resources revealing racial prejudice in Portland housing, employment, recreation and health. The clinic approved recent City Club report and recommendations on Negro in Portland and asked for a number of changes in undemocratic public and private policy. Principal speaker was Dr. Geo. E. Haynes, Director of Department of Race Relations of the Federal Council of Churches. Leaders of the clinic were Dr. Lansing E. Kempton and George L. Thomas.

Negro Workers Help Keep Nisei On Job

(Excerpt from Pittsburg Courier, September 15, 1945)

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Negro workers in the Municipal Railway System here stood squarely behind a Japanese-American machinist who filled civil service requirements and was assigned to repair work on buses. White machinists at first threatened to quit work, but later voted to stay on the job.

The position of the Negro workers was that if a movement to deny employment to minority groups goes unchallenged, it will not be many weeks before the right of Negroes to employment on the Municipal Railway System will also be challenged.

So It Can't Happen Here

A property owner's association in a Chicago district spent the whole of its annual meeting in September talking about restrictive covenants. The term "Gestapo" was used to designate the sort of tactic needed to keep out "undesirables" from their residential areas. (From a correspondent present at the meeting.) — M. S. W.

Write Makes Right

"WRITE Your Congressmen!" should be on your agenda to adapt Democratic practices to the reality of American life. Get a good supply of stamps, stationary or penny postals if your budget can't stand telegrams.

Write your Congressmen demanding FEPC, anti-lynching and Poll Tax legislation. But don't think that is all that concerns you. Write urging their support of the Full Employment Bill.

Don't be fooled by the red herring that freedom of enterprise is worth the price we pay for it. The catch is that the people who pay for it aren't the ones whi enjoy the freedom. You won't find capitalists in breadlines. Ask for speedy amendment of the GI Bill. Take the jokers out of it and give the Veteran the break he deserves.

In your writing don't forget your local government. Its officials may need nudging too. What about police brutality? A state FEPC? And we still have no Civil Rights Bill!

Now that you are in the swing of writing, be sure and write as many letters of commendation as possible to individuals and organizations who are practicing Democracy. It is all a part of your job to save America from social and economic chaos.

Reconversion

SHORTLY after V-J day Josephine Searcie and Beria Bruce were dismissed as elevator operators in Charles F. Berg's store, and offered jobs as maids. Is this indicative of Berg's post-war employment plans?

"Fight For Democracy"

TWO little girls, one ten and the other eleven years old, went to a restaurant on the corner of North Williams Avenue and Russell Street, on a Sunday afternoon to buy ice cream. The waitress told them that she did not have any. They, then, asked for a milkshake. The waitress said, again, she did not have any. They thought it was peculiar, but being innocent, they did not get the meaning of it. The two girls left, but after walking a short distance, decided to go back and get hamburgers. This time the waitress said, "I might as well tell you, we don't serve colored people here." It was the girls' first experience with overt race discrimination. What a rude awakening!

One of the girls came to church that Sunday evening to tell her pastor about it. She was distressed, and hoped that he could do something. But he was helpless. Some days later, the other girl remarked to her mother, "And they make us salute the flag. Liberty and justice for all Huh!"

These mothers do not want their children to become bitter. There are thousands of Negro mothers in America who do not want their children to become cynical and bitter. But what are they to do?

This is just another reason for working and fighting for a Civil Rights Law.

PORT CHICAGO "MUTINY" MEN RESTORED TO DUTY

New York--Word has been received by the NAACP that the 50 sailors involved in the Port Chicago, California, explosion and subsequently convicted of "mutiny" have been restored to duty on probation.

Major H.C.Parks, executive officer at the U.S. Naval Disciplinary Barracks at Terminal Island, California, wrote:

"Please be informed that these men have been restored to duty on probation and are now presumably overseas."

The 50 colored sailors were tried during September, 1944, by a Navy court in San Francisco. They were charged with refusing to continue loading ammunition following an explosion at Port Chicago in which more than 300 of their comrades were blown to bits.

Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel, attended the trial as an observer and declared that in his opinion the men were being tried because of their color and race. Following their conviction and sentences to long prison terms, all 50 men signed a request that the NAACP handle their appeal.

Briefs seeking to set aside the convictions were filed by Marshall in Washington and oral argument was made by him before the Judge Advocate General and also before the entire board of the Judge Advocate General on April 3,1945.

MULZAC CHARGE DISMISSED, CASE CLOSED, SAYS COAST GUARD 1/3/46

New York--A charge of misconduct against Captain Hugh Mulzac, of the Liberty Ship Booker T. Washington, was dismissed after a hearing and the case has been closed, the NAACP was advised last week by Rear Admiral L. Spencer of the U.S. Coast Guard.

An incident was reported from Marseilles as having taken place November 23-24 in which Captain Mulzac was accused of assisting a young German woman to board his ship for illegal passage to the United States. The NAACP wired the Coast Guard December 26, as soon as the Booker T. Washington made port, asking for an investigation of the treatment of Mulzac. Admiral Spencer wrote:

"The record in the case to which you refer shows that a charge of misconduct supported by four specifications was preferred against Captain Mulzac and after hearing was dismissed. The record further shows that Captain Mulzac was ably represented by competent counsel and there was no indication that the Examining Officer went beyond his duty in preferring the charge and in prosecuting the case."

BOWLES COMMENDED FOR
STAND ON JOB BIAS 1/3/46

Washington,D.C.--Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, drew praise last week from the NAACP for his forthright charge that government agencies were turning down Negroes and other minority group workers, despite many vacancies and many requests from agency heads for workers. Bowles made his statement after he found that colored OPA workers being laid off by that agency, were being turned down elsewhere because of their color.

"We commend you for forthright stand," said the NAACP wire, "taken on question of employment of Negroes in government agencies. Fair Employment Practice Committee impotency makes imperative heads of all government agencies take firm stand for employing all persons qualified regardless of race, creed, or color. Your outspoken criticism of certain agencies relative to the question of employing Negroes sustains hope of all minorities that they will receive fair and equitable treatment in reconversion period."

SEGREGATION STILL
RULE IN ARMY CAMPS 1/3/46

Washington,D.C.--Segregation is still the rule in many army camps, according to a report submitted to Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson on December 31, by the NAACP.

Out of fifteen camps visited by Jesse O. Dedmon, Jr.,secretary of veteran's affairs for the NAACP, more than half were found to be ignoring War department Memorandum No. 97, which prohibits segregation. Only Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland got a clean bill of health. Of this post the report said "All facilities, both recreational and others, were found to be open to all men stationed at the post regardless of race, creed or color."

Ft. Bragg, N.C. and Ft. Benning, Ga., were found to have a policy of"complete segregation." Ft. Dix, N.J., had separate barracks and mess quarters and separate separation facilities. At Pope field, near Ft. Bragg, not only were separate facilities found, but Negro soldiers were being used in menial servant's jobs and those working in officers' clubs were not being paid the compensation required by regulations.

At Ft. Benning Negro soldiers about to be shipped overseas were placed in a stockade to keep them from going AWOL, but no such treatment was accorded white soldiers.

Complete segregation was found at Camp Mabry and Camp Gordon Johnston, Fla. At the latter camp, civilians in the post exchange refused to serve Negro soldiers until all white had been served. Negro officers were not permitted to eat in the officers' mess or live in officers' quarters.

At MacDill field, Fla., enlisted men stated that German prisoners of war had directed them to sit in certain places in the mess hall or they could not be served.

Negro doctors and nurses at Camp Livingstone, La., could not treat other than Negro patients and could not use either the officers' club or mess. Negro and white prisoners in the stockade were separated.

Walter White, NAACP secretary, urged Secretary Patterson to make a prompt investigation and take "vigorous steps" to correct the conditions.

NAVY OFFICER "PREFERRED"
NOT TO LOAD NEGRO TROOPS 1/3/46

New York--The commanding officer of the U.S. aircraft carrier CROATAN did not refuse to load 123 Negro troops at Le Havre--he only stated to Army officers that he "preferred not to do so."

This is the official explanation offered by Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal in his letter to the NAACP and to other groups and individuals who protested when the incident was made public.

Secretary Forrestal implied that the final blame rested with the Army, saying, "The Army authorities were not obliged to give any weight to the Commanding Officer's preference, but they evidently elected to do so, removing the 123 Negro troops from the CROATAN's embarkation schedule."

Secretary Forrestal said that the Commanding Officer was following what he believed to be the Army policy of segregation, but "this belief that the Army policy, whatever it may be, should be controlling aboard his ship was an error on the part of the Commanding Officer. That no such misunderstanding shall arise in the future, the attached instructions have been issued to all Navy ships and stations."

The attached order to all ships and Naval stations states clearly: "No distinction is made between individuals wearing the Naval uniform or the uniform of any of the armed services of the United States, because of race or color."

NO JOB COLOR LINE,
SAYS AMERICAN AIRLINES 1/3/46

New York--American Airlines and its subsidiary, American Overseas Airlines, Inc., have written the NAACP that they do not discriminate as to race, creed or color in the employment of personnel. This statement was in response to an NAACP letter inquiring about employment opportunities for war-trained Negro aviators.

However, American Overseas Airlines declared that since they operate to overseas bases only "our minimum qualifications for pilots are higher than those of domestic lines." They prefer college graduates, not more than 6' 2" tall, or more than 200 pounds in weight. The age bracket is 23-28 years.

At least 1500 flying hours are required, with a minimum of 800 hours on four-engined planes.

The company states that it has at present its full complement of pilots and is able to recruit pilots with flying experience "considerably in excess of the minimum qualifications shown above." However, they offer to put any qualified person on their waiting list.

YOUTH DELEGATES HIT
MILITARY TRAINING 1/3/46

Wilberforce,O.--Opposition to peacetime military training was voted here Dec. 30 by delegates to the 7th annual NAACP youth conference. Resolutions also hit restrictive covenants and urged a Federal program of low-cost housing as embodied in the pending General Housing bill. Support was urged for the United Nations organization and for the Wagner-Murray-Dingell social security legislation. The conference voted to meet in New Orleans, La. Nov. 21-24,1946. Bernard Jackson of Boston, Mass., was elected chairman; Daniel Neusom, Detroit, vice chairman; Nancy Whitaker, Cincinnati, secretary; and Eleanor Cunningham, Chicago, assistant secretary.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT QUERIED ON BRETTON WOODS JIM-CROW

New York--A report that Liberian and other dark-skinned delegates to the Bretton Woods monetary conference to be held near Savannah, Georgia, will be refused accommodations at the General Oglethorpe Hotel has caused the NAACP to inquire of both the State and Treasury Departments whether this arrangement has been sanctioned by the United States.

In identical letters to Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson and Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the NAACP declares that the hotel management has been quietly seeking to arrange to house colored delegates in private Negro homes in Savannah, nine miles from Wilmington Island, where the conference will be held. A beach club will also be used to house delegates, according to a Washington announcement January 14, and the NAACP stated that its Georgia organization had informed it that Negroes are not permitted in either of the establishments except as servants.

The Washington announcement stated that a small committee of State and Treasury Department representatives recently inspected the Wilmington Island site and designated the General Oglethorpe Hotel and the nearby beach club as headquarters for the delegates from all over the world. The NAACP letter, signed by Roy Wilkins, assistant secretary, said:

"This Association would like to inquire whether the Treasury and State Departments know of the contemplated separation of dark-skinned delegates from the others and the proposal to house them in Negro homes in Savannah, and whether these departments have consented to this arrangement.

"It would seem obvious that all delegates to an international conference should receive exactly the same treatment and should not be subject to prejudices indigenous to local areas in the United States.

"The action of the preparatory commission on the United Nations Organization, barring as a permanent site in the United States any locality which refused to accept delegates of every nation on a basis of equality, would seem to be a guide for this monetary conference.

"This Association wishes to urge respectfully, but firmly, that if the hotel accommodations near Savannah are not be be available to all delegates without discrimination of any sort, then the conference should be moved to a locality where this equality can prevail."

CLEMENCY SOUGHT FOR SOLDIER IN RAPE CASE

Washington--A petition for clemency in behalf of Edward Powell, now serving a life sentence at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, after conviction of the crime of rape upon a French woman last September, has been filed by the legal staff of the NAACP.

Franklin H. Williams, assistant special counsel of the Association, said that the petition pointed out that in spite of the fact that 7 or 8 servicemen allegedly attacked the woman, Powell and three others were the only ones brought to trial. It was further pointed out that the counsel appointed by the court to defend Powell apparently made little effort to introduce into evidence the defendant's contentions as to the events taking place on the night of the alleged rape.

The prosecutrix, it was emphasized, was an infamous prostitute who was allowed to ply her trade, unhampered by army authorities, within a few yards of the barracks of hundreds of Negro soldiers. The responsibility, therefore, for such occurrences, even if true, should rest upon army authorities as well as upon the soldiers themselves.

It was asserted that the prosecution did not sustain their burden of proving Powell's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, and it was requested that his conviction be reversed with a view toward allowing him to re-enlist in the armed forces and honorably terminate his services to his country.

WAR ON SCHOOL JIM CROW
MAPPED BY OHIO NAACP 1/17/46

Columbus, O.--A state-wide legal battle to halt the spread of Jim Crow schools in Ohio and abolish those already in existence was drawn up here January 11-12 by delegates from most of the 31 NAACP branches in the state.

State President Maynard Dickerson of Youngstown presided over the meeting in the Spring Street YMCA here and conferences were held by Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel of the NAACP with lawyers and laymen on the situation in their communities.

It was reported that segregated schools are in existence in Dayton, Xenia, Hamilton, Oxford, and Chagrin Falls. The legal committee of the state conference of branches will investigate all cases and was given the power to institute suit in cases it deemed to be important. Indications are that suits will be filed in Chagrin Falls, Xenia, and Hamilton.

Plans for raising a fund of $10,000 to finance the cases will be drawn by the state executive committee of the NAACP at a meeting in the near future. The committee will also employ a full time executive to coordinate education, publicity and fund-raising, and appoint active and enlarged education and publicity committees.

The Ohio campaign against segregated schools will have the full cooperation of the national office legal staff of the NAACP, Mr. Marshall announced.

NAVY SAYS IT HAS NO
POLICY ON MARRIAGES 1/17/46

New York--In answer to an inquiry by the NAACP, the Navy department, through H. Struve Hensel, acting secretary of the Navy, states that is has no policy on interracial marriages. The NAACP had relayed to the War and Navy departments complaints from Negro fighting men overseas that marriages were being forbidden by the two department. Mr. Hensel's letter to Walter White said:

"The following factors govern the marriages of all Naval personnel in such circumstances:

"1. The laws of the country in which the marriage is to take place.

"2. Certain qualifying restrictions, such as waiting periods, established by the various area commanders for the protection of United States military personnel themselves.

"Other than the above, the Navy does not concern itself with the question of eligibility of Naval personnel for marriage with persons of foreign citizenship in foreign countries."

Dr. Guy Jonhson, Director

63 Auburn Avenue, North East
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Johnson:

On April 20-21, 1946 the Alabama State Conference of NAACP Branches will hold its second annual Conference in Dothan, Alabama. We shall be very happy to have Mr. W. B. Twitty, your Alabama representative, to appear on Panel Programs and as a feature speaker during this Conference. I talked with Mr. Twitty today and the suggestion is agreeable with him.

Mr. Twitty is familiar with problems of racial tensions and the needs of Veterans in Alabama. Our Conference will be concerned with these two problems and others. For that reason we shall be very anxious for you to cooperate with us by permitting him to participate in this Conference. I also talked with Mr. Twitty with reference to the radio program of Mr. Hugh DuBose which is of a nature that probably will foment violent racial incidents if not checked. I hope to be able to send you a file on some of the material Mr. DuBose is using. Mr. DuBose is also running for Congress against Luther Patrick on a "White Supremacy" platform.

Please let me have your ~~decision~~ decision with reference to Mr. Twitty's attending the Conference so that I may include his name in our printed program which will soon go to press.

Yours truly,

Emory O. Jackson

GI SENTENCED FOR ALLEGED
RAPE GETS SENTENCE REDUCED 7-3-46

New York, July 3rd--The NAACP Legal Department has been informed that the sentence of Samuel Hill has been reduced from life imprisonment to ten years and restoration to duty has been recommended.

Samuel Hill was tried by General Court-Martial sitting at APO 565 on the 7th and 8th days of March, 1945, for allegedly having committed the crime of rape upon a native woman. At the request of his family, the NAACP petitioned the Secretary of War for clemency in his behalf. The petition pointed out that the conviction and sentence were unwarranted and unlawful.

Hill has been transferred from a Federal penitentiary to a disciplinary barracks at Ft. Massoula, Montana, where he will be able to obtain reassignment within a few months if he makes an exemplary record.

NAACP CONCLUDES
HISTORIC 37TH CONFERENCE 7-3-46

Cincinnati, July 3rd--In a precedent shattering move action was taken at the 37th Annual Conference of NAACP branches paving the way for political action by the largest minority group in the world. More than 700 delegates representing 1,001 branches with 530,000 members indorsed a plan which would provide for a rating of candidates for national, state and local office. The rating system is expected to serve as a guide for Negro voters, in their selection of candidates who are in sympathy with Negro and minority aspirations. This is especially significant in view of the fact that there are many thousands of Negroes throughout the South who may now vote as a result of the historic NAACP victory in the Texas Primary Case handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The resolution on Political Action was adopted after the Board of Directors suggested the need for such action. A committee was selected, three members by the Board and three from conference delegates, to study the feasability of political action with particular emphasis on the system of rating both for local chapters and for the national office.

The Committee according to Walter White will be charged with "studying dangers inherent in political action of such nature."

In addition to the annual awarding of the Spingarn Medal to Thurgood Marshall for his distinguished accomplishments in the U. S. Supreme Court which was broadcast on a coast-to-coast network, the Cincinnati branch played host to a group of nationally famous speakers whose statements received national coverage in press and radio. Chester Bowles, recently resigned Stabilization Director, who was scheduled to speak at the closing session at Nippert Stadium on Sunday June 30, could not leave Washington. Mr. Bowles sent a lengthy message which was read to the 6000 seated in the stands by Theodore Berry, president of the Cincinnati branch. Max Lerner, distinguished political columnist and radio commentator spoke in Bowles' place.

Other speakers during the five day sessions included Robert W. Kenny, Attorney General of California, who presented the Spingarn Medal to Mr. Marshall, Dr. Frank Horne housing expert, Horace Cayton; Joseph Kluchesky, American Council on Race Relations; Archibald Carey Jr., Chicago; UNRRA Chief, Fiorello H. LaGuardia; Jesse O. Dedmon, Veterans Affairs, NAACP; Captain E. Frederic. Morrow; Earl Dickerson; Charles Houston; Walther Reuther; Daisy Lampkin and Walter White.

Among resolutions passed by the delegates were Segregation; OPA; Colonial Peoples; Veterans Affairs; Housing; Labor and Employment; Racial and Religious Tensions; Political Action; Memberships, Branch and National Procedure.

Walter White, in the closing speech of the Conference, congratulated President Truman for his veto of the emasculated O.P.A. bill and called on the entire NAACP membership to refrain from purchasing all but the utmost necessities in consumer goods now skyrocketing alarmingly. He called upon the delegates to return to organize their branches in what would amount to a purchasers boycott.

Excerpts from some of the resolutions follow:

O. P. A.

The membership of the NAACP is fully cognizant of the fact that if the Congress does not extend the OPA, they will be plunged into a period of unemployment, hunger and misery such as they have not faced in the history of America. Because of their slim margin of economic security, the Negro people have perhaps a larger stake than any other group of Americans in the prevention of inflation. We will be the first to be wiped out in an inflation—and we therefore call upon the Congress of the United States, the responsible leaders of all political parties, and the President of the United States to act immediately to secure the passage of an act extending the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 in its present form until June 30, 1947.

COLONIAL PEOPLES

Colonialism has been a persistent cause of war in our time. The ownership of colonies, the monopoly of their raw materials, the enslavement of their labor are constant obstacles to a free and peaceful world. The political and economic freedom and advancement of the colonial peoples are inescapably of vital concern to the peace and well-being of the international community.

We therefore call on the United Nations, in its own interest, and appeal to the conscience of mankind to proceed with all speed toward the implementation of the trusteeship and non-self-governing territories provisions of the Charter, not only for former mandates but for all colonies and possessions of all nations.

We vehemently protest the impudent demand of the Union of South Africa for annexation of Southwest Africa, by a country which of all nations in the world has proven itself shamelessly incompetent to treat darker peoples decently or even with elementary justice.

We condemn the action of Union of South Africa legalizing the vicious, degrading and discriminatory practices against the natives and Indian peoples. We urge the Security Council of the United Nations to accept jurisdiction of the complaint presented by the Government of India against the Union of South Africa.

We commend the efforts of the black folk in British West Africa to secure civil freedom and political power.

We commend the trade union movement everywhere, but especially in the West Indies and West Africa.

We congratulate Burma, Indonesia and India on their approaching emancipation from European domination.

1.

The policy of segregation practised by the Veterans Administration is one of the most disappointing developments in the post-war era. The precedent of non-segregation as established during the war by service hospitals and the Veterans Administration should follow this policy. We request and strongly urge that President Truman and General Bradley integrate qualified Negro personnel in every phase, on every level and in every geographical region of the Veterans Administration.

2.

We strongly urge Congress to amend the Servicemens Readjustment Act to empower the Veterans Administration to deny the admission of veterans into any educational institution which does not accept the enrollment of all veterans regardless of race, creed, color or national origin and to furthur empower the Veterans Administration to deny a contract to any business establishment, industry, or commercial enterprise which discriminates in its acceptance of veteran trainees upon the same basis. We strongly urge that the present system of allowing the Veterans Administration to sit as judge and jury on veterans claims be abolished, and the servicemens readjustment act be amended to allow the veteran who was denied a claim by the Veterans Administration to present his appeal from their decision before an impartial and independent board of appeals.

HOUSING

The Wagner-Ellender-Taft Bill, presently before the House of Representatives Banking and Currency Committee, provides a much needed long range housing program based upon sound priniciples of federal aid to local communities. Passage of the Wagner-Ellender-Taft Bill (S 1592) is of vital importance to all Americans. Negro citizens of America are the worst housed of all Americans and therefore this body pledges itself to work to secure bi-partisan support of this measure both nationally and locally.

LABOR AND EMPLOYMENT

Economic Security

We believe that the economic security of the American people must be founded upon full employment, and that appropriate and effective legislation must be enacted promptly on national and state levels to aid this goal. We condemn the program of the National Assocaition of Manufacturers in trying to prevent the achievement of full employment legislation.

Support for Southern Organization Drive

The NAACP recognizes that the future welfare of the colored workers and other minorities is necessarily interwoven with the progress of all workers in America. We heartily endorse the program of the CIO and AF of L to organize the workers of the South. We urge the NAACP branches in that section to campaign actively in support of the organizational drive; that they urge colored workers to join whichever union is best fitted in a local situation.

The CIO and AF of L southern drive must be successful in order that workers may enjoy full participation in trade unions. We urge bot unions to project their campaigns for the good of all workers, irresp tive of race; we furthur urge that the campaigns be conducted without rancor, smear or propaganda against either organization. Complete unity is essential to success in the southern drive. Anti-union forces will seize upon disunity to weaken or destroy organized labor in the South.

Collective Bargaining

We endorse without reservation the right of collective bargaining by democratically organized labor unions.

We condemn the hasty and ill-advised pronouncement of President Truman to curb the right to strike by the threat to induct strikers into the Armed Forces. Such action would suppress and ultimately destroy the rights of free labor. We commend the President for his action vetoing the Case Bill. We call upon him to veto another anti-labor measure, the Hobbs Bill.

Ratio For Democracy

THE photo-quiz question appearing in the Pioneer Weekly (Monroe Sweetland, Publisher) for June 6, was "Do you think Oregon should pass a civil rights bill, forbidding discrimination in public places on a basis of race religion or nationality?" Four persons answered the question affirmatively, and one said no.

Our guess is that the editor of the Capital Journal, Salem, Oregon, would like that ratio changed. We base our opinion on the following editorial appearing in the Capital Journal, Tuesday, April 16, 1946:

"USING REVERSE ENGLISH

"There is a refreshing note to the tactics used by the Oregon State Hotel Association in addressing candidates for legislative seats concerning their attitude on legislation likely to be proposed. Instead of questionnaires asking the would-be lawmakers to commit themselves in regard to their attitude on such proposals, the hotelmen urge the candidates to keep an open mind on all bills until they come up for discussion on the floor of one house or the other.

"Letters sent out to candidates by the Methodist Federation for Social Work and the hotel association recently illustrate the two methods of lobbying. In a letter asking the attitude of all candidates toward the so-called 'civil rights' bill (negro equality), for which it has been an active sponsor in the past, the Methodist federation pleads an interest 'in knowing what you suggest in the way of legislation, as at least a partial solution to the discriminatory practices which now exist in Oregon, especially in employment and the engagement facilities.'

"They ask that in the 'interests of good government' each one outline his attitude toward one or more proposals that may come before the legislature without knowing what the exact issues will be. Contrast the federation's demands to the hotelmen's manner of approaching the candidates on the same question, civil rights, which the latter have always opposed. Concerning the matter of preelection commitments they assert:

" 'The Oregon State Hotel Association has gone on record unanimously as condemning such a practice, regardless of from whom such a questionnaire might be sent, feeling that any candidate worthy of election will insist on using his own judgment in voting on any measure that may be introduced after he has had an opportunity to hear facts and arguments presented by both sides of any controversial subject and will not have his hands tied either by hopes of securing votes for himself or by fear of political punishment.'

"Considering the implications of opposition at the polls for those who do not see eye-to-eye with the Methodist group, and the expression of the hotelmen of their confidence in 'the moral courage and self-respect' exhibited by candidates in resisting pressure to commit themselves in advance, which approach to the candidate would you judge to be most successful in winning support or opposition to a legislative proposal? It is our offhand reaction to agree with the hotelmen in extending their belief that the great majority of Oregon voters are opposed to 'intimidation of candidates for public office;' that the candidate who makes such commitments invites suspicion of being all things to all men, and a true champion of none."

Publicity Committee

Ruth Haefner, Chairman

RUTH HAEFNER was speaker at the Eugene Women's City Club luncheon April 25. Miss Haefner outlined a program of action under the subject, "Things to Do Now." The following ten points were emphasized in her talk:

1. A "Crisis" subscription for at least one school and the public library in every county.
2. A poll of the candidates to the state legislature on the rights of minorities; especially State F.E.P.C. and Civil iRghts. Publicize the answers.
3. Request Hon. Harris Ellsworth (Congressman from the 4th District) to sign discharge petition 4 so that F.E.P.C. Bill, HR 2232 may be brought to the floor of the house for a vote.
4. Form a Committee of Citizens from Lane county to wait upon the Governor in regard to the appointment of a State Interracial Committee.
5. Name a Chairman for the Christian Social Relations Committee for the Eugene Council of Church Women.
6. Make it a point to see that the truth about minorities is taught in the public schools and colleges. (Exchange of professors of minority groups).
7. Arrange for distribution of current and future reprints from writings of such authors as Lillian Smith and Pearl Buck.
8. Plan reviews of books of social significance: Living Book Reviews in connection with the Drama department of schools, and parent-teacher groups.
9. Intergrate the Minorities into community organizations such as the Audobon Society, YMCA, YWCA, American Legion Post. Support the program of the N.A.A.C.P.

10. Secure the services of the authorities to analyse community tensions and prescribe a remedy from such organizations as the Commission on Community Inter Relations of the American Jewish Congress, 212 West 50th St., New York.

Well Done

ON June 6, assembled in their annual Conference at Forest Grove, the 47 Congregational-Christian Churches of Oregon passed a resolution in favor of the proposed State Fair Employment Practices Bill sponsored by the Methodist Federation of Social Service. Unanimous support was previously pledged at a departmental meeting for Social Action, at which 40 persons were present. At its monthly meeting on June 2, the committee for Social Action of First Congregational Church, Irving Enna, Chairman, also pledged support.

The Congregational Conference also passed a resolution supporting HR 5454, which would stay deportation of Japanese aliens for the six months granted European or other merchants and students whose status here was affected by war. (NAACP should make itself vocal on this issue, and on the right of naturalization for legal resident aliens of Japanese ancestry on the same basis proposed for other "ineligible" groups, viz: Filipinos and Hindus. Particularly should we call for citizenship for the parents of the 23,000 Nesei who have served so valiantly in the army of the United States.)

In Toronto, Canada, Judge Mackay recently invalidated a deed restriction, barring transfer of property to Jewish Canadians, ruling it as a violation of public policy. To define public policy the Judge drew upon the San Francisco charter of the United Nations, which carries the promise that the peoples of the world will "practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbors." (For complete text of this decision write for copy of "A VICTORY FOR DEMOCRACY". Address The Canadian-Jewish Congress, Central Division, 150 Beverly Street, Toronto, Ontario.)

Letter From Norway

LEST you neglect your obligation to millions of people who are dying from starvation and exposure in war ravaged countries we print a personal letter from Norway.

"Have received your letter of March 8th and the package you mentioned. It arrived in good condition and was a great surprise — especially to get an American package.

"I do not know a single person in the United States and to get something from an unknown person makes the pleasure double.

"I had a little of everything to contend with during the war so such pleasures encourage me to go on. August, 1943, my husband and I were arrested by the Gestapo and condemned to 8-15 years imprisonment, in spite of the fact we were to have a baby soon and had a little one at home.

"We were sent to Germany where our baby was born but died in six weeks.

"April, 1945, my husband and I met again in Sweden, having heard nothing from each other during the two years. He was in very bad condition and died of T.B. September, 1945.

"My two brothers-in-law were shot and my sister sent to Germany. When we arrived home our country was in ruins. Suffering was intense but my lot was one of thousands so I must not complain, for time heals everything. I've regained my health and some of my strength and am able to take care of my four-year-old daughter.

"We of the North are used to hard life. It's a matter of honor for us. We have won and Norway is ours again and the victory saves our children from slavery, so I send my heartiest thanks and greetings." R. J., Vestervag, Vardo Norway.

Youth Group

Mrs. Marie Smith, Adviser

"Naturally graduating is just as important to me as anyone else, but it is only the beginning. There are even greater heights for us to find in some type of college or university. It gives me great pleasure and feeling of dignity to know that I am graduating from a standard school where there is cooperation and equality . . . where education is for anyone who has the will to seek it.

"Speaking on behalf of the other graduates of my race, it gives us the opportunity to carry on the fight for equality in fields of endeavor for all people throughout the United States or even throughout the world. We are proud to know that we have the opportunity to represent our race and through right education play a part in bringing to the world a higher standard so that tomorrow everyone may receive the opportunity of education. You have to have education before you can fight the world menaces of poverty, crime and disease, so I urge all of the world's youth of all races, creeds or color to proceed with their education.

"The future world will depend upon men and women who know what to do and how to do it. We, the members of the graduating class of '46, have reached a goal which was a long one. As we arrive at the point, the view of what lies ahead is so vast, so all-inclusive that for the moment we are somewhat speechless. First of all we must pause to set our guide posts for the next journey that we must all take for we cannot remain still at this point. We must go on.

"He profits most who serves his fellowman. To fellow-members of my graduating class, to members of my own race, this can be a great marker to guide us along the trail of tomorrow. By precept and example in the service of our fellowman we can bring our race a greater equality and justice. The journey of a thousand miles begins with the first step and I think the first step should be in tune to the knowledge that "He who profits most serves best."

Race Relations Institute

THE third annual Institute of Race Relations of the American Missionary Association will convene at Fisk for a three-week period from July 1 to July 20. A distinguished group of top national figures from the fields of government, religion, social service, education, press, radio and industry and labor will constitute the Institute's leadership. Following an initial period of orientation in the scientific background of race and race relations, the Institute will resolve itself into seminars and panels to work out practical action programs for harmonious group living.

Juanita L. Johnson is being sent as their delegate by the Portland Branch.

The Portland Branch purchased a scholarship ticket to the International Institute at Reed College, which was used by several members.

State F.E.P.C. First Step Toward Economic Justice

"All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them: for this is the law and the prophets." (Matthew 7:12)

WILL you help make Oregon a State in which we can say truly that Christianity and Democracy are vitally alive? The Methodist Federation for Social Service puts this leaflet in your hands with the belief that you, too, realize that the cooperation of all Christian, Democratic, and Progressive forces are necessary if we are to stem the tides of race hatreds and intolerance.

THE TASK WILL NOT BE EASY! OPPOSING FORCES HAVE ALREADY CHALLENGED US!

The kinds of lives we shall be allowed to live, the hopes and rights of our children and friends, depend largely on legislation passed in our law-making halls. In turn, legislation, good or bad, is determined to a great extent by the ideals and principles possessed by our legislators. Yet when we attempted to determine how the candidates felt concerning legislation which might partially solve discriminatory practices in employment, we were confronted with a typical reaction.

Below is our letter to the candidates. Following is an editorial from the Capital Journal, Salem, Ore., April 16.

The people of Oregon are becoming increasingly aware that the time has arrived when some specific action should be taken to insure the fundamental rights of our citizens who are members of a minority group. We feel you will agree that the interests of good government can best be served when the voters have a clear understanding of the candidates' opinions concerning issues which have a distinct bearing on the future welfare of our state.

We are vitally interested in knowing what you suggest in the way of legislation, as at least a partial solution to the discriminatory practices which now exist in Oregon, especially in employment and the engagement facilities.

We would appreciate hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

"USING REVERSE ENGLISH

"There is a refreshing note to the tactics used by the Oregon State Hotel Association in addressing candidates for legislative seats concerning their attitude on legislation likely to be proposed. Instead of questionnaires asking the would-be lawmakers to commit themselves in regard to their attitude on such proposals, the hotelmen urge the candidates to keep an open mind on all bills until they come up for discussion on the floor of one house or the other.

"Letters sent out to candidates by the Methodist Federation for Social Work and the hotel association recently illustrate the two methods of lobbying. In a letter asking the attitude of all candidates toward the so-called 'civil rights' bill (negro equality), for which it has been an active sponsor in the past, the Methodist federation pleads an interest 'in knowing what you suggest in the way of legislation, as at least a partial solution to the discriminatory practices which now exist in Oregon, especially in employment and the engagement facilities.'

"They ask that in the 'interests of good government' each one outline his attitude toward one or more proposals that may come before the legislature without knowing what the exact issues will be. Contrast the federation's demands to the hotelmen's manner of approaching the candidates on the same question, civil rights, which the latter have always opposed. Concerning the matter of preelection commitments they assert:

" 'The Oregon State Hotel Association has gone on record unanimously as condemning such a practice, regardless of from whom such a questionnaire might be sent, feeling that any candidate worthy of election will insist on using his own judgment in voting on any measure that may be introduced after he has had an opportunity to hear facts and arguments presented by both sides of any controversial subject and will not have his hands tied either by hopes of securing votes for himself or by fear of political punishment.'

"Considering the implications of opposition at the polls for those who do not see eye-to-eye with the Methodist group, and the expression of the hotelmen of their confidence in 'the moral courage and self-respect' exhibited by candidates in resisting pressure to commit themselves in advance, which approach to the candidate would you judge to be most successful in winning support or opposition to a legislative proposal? It is our offhand reaction to agree with the hotelmen in extending their belief that the great majority of Oregon voters are opposed to 'intimidation of candidates for public office;' that the candidate who makes such commitments invites suspicion of being all things to all men, and a true champion of none."

We believe that all citizens might well feel cause for alarm in the suggestion that we should not attempt to ascertain candidates' opinions prior to election.

Perhaps the time is pertinent to decide for ourselves what a "Representative Government" is.

Also, we would like to point out that we are not thinking in terms of Negro Equality exclusively, as was implied in the editorial. Our letter did not refer to any specific race or group of people. We are interested impartially in securing justice for all peoples, whatever their race, color, creed, or national origin.

The President's Monthly Report

MARK A. SMITH, President

I. The subject of the month in Vancouver is "Political Action." The Branch is taking the stand of the National Organization. The National Association's position is strictly that of a non-partisan observer in all political contests.

The Vancouver Branch, however, has resolved:

1. To see that Colored citizens qualify as voters by registering according to law.
2. To keep the record of all incumbents and all candidates in order to be able to vote intelligently at every election.
3. To publish these records with such promises for the future as can be obtained and
4. We shall support only the "best qualified" candidates.

Our yardstick for "best qualified" candidates is the following:

1. That they favor organized labor and the development of skilled labor among Negroes in every field of organized labor at equal wages and with equal chances of promotion according to their merit.
2. That they favor non-discrimination in civil service examinations and appointments in government service and in all other tax supported jobs.
3. That they favor a fair employment practices act in industry.
4. That they oppose restrictive covenants in housing because of race, color or creed.
5. That they favor slum clearance and the prohibition of ghettos.
6. That they favor a strong state civil rights law.
7. That they favor a national health program.
8. That they favor price control.
9. That they favor an interracial committee on civic unity and race relations.
10. That they favor Federal low cost housing where privately built housing is not available.
11. That they favor a Columbia Valley Authority.

II. This month youth had its day. We had youths in graduating classes of practically every school in the area. Thanks to young Johnnie W. Parker, graduate of Vancouver High, for his formal invitation to the exercises. We saw many of our boys among the members of the school boy patrol. Sheriff Robert E. Brady presented certificates of award to to these boy patrolmen, and a combined banquet and skating party was staged in their honor at Holcombs skating rink. CONGRATULATIONS to Holcombs rink for their recognition, though belated, that segregation is unnecessary.

Although classed as jitterbugs at the Hi-Jinks Jamboree, our youthful representatives of the dance proved themselves true artists.

III. The NAACP Veterans Committee under the guidance of Andrew L. Yancey, chairman, boasts of having aided some twenty odd ex-servicemen to make community adjustments and to have encouraged several to take out memberships in the National American Veterans Committee (A.V.C.), at present the nation's most liberal and progressive veterans organization. Notice has come to this office that Master Sgt. Amos Nolund recently placed on the retired list at Ft. Hamilton has set out with his wife to make Vancouver their home. Welcome to our community, Mr. and Mrs. Nolund.

IV. The social entertainment committee with L. C. Slider and W. J. Parker in charge staged an impressive benefit dance for funds for the education committee's activities Monday evening, May 27th. It was a gala affair.

V. On Friday evening May 31, officials of the Branch met with officials of the Vancouver Civic Unity League in an informal party given by Mr. and Mrs. George Helliwell in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Grossman, of Fontana, California. Dr. Grossman is with the Permanente Foundation and Mrs. Grossman, a writer, is a former editor of the Civic Unity League's monthly newsletter.

VI. Nine ministers of the Portland-Vancouver Area assisted in the installation of Rev. Moses Guy as pastor of the Mill Plain Community Center on Sunday afternoon, May 26. The entire membership of the Branch turned out to pay homage to the stalwart leader of its Labor and Industry Committee.

VII. W. Irving Jones, Education Committee Chairman, was in the news by way of special mention from Charlie Cherokee of the Chicago Defender for Jones' stand for his political beliefs. Chairman Jones is County Committeeman for H district, and NAACP delegate to the Clark County Citizens Legislative Committee.

VIII. The Branch President was an invited guest and speaker before the Annual May Fellowship Tea of the Vancouver Council of Church Women held at the St. Lukes Parish House May 10. He shared speaking honors with Senora Victoria MacCaulley of Mexico and Miss Lilly Kobyoshi, a young Nisei from Portland.

IX. When one of the investigators queried a local restaurant owner concerning his alleged refusal to serve persons of color, the restaurant owner told a frightful story of entering a local tavern that has had the reputation of catering only to Negroes and of being asked out of the place because he was white. Therefore he is taking his revenge out on even those Negroes who resent the tavern's policy. Discrimination! Segregation! is not a joke.

X. June regular meeting and educational program will take place Sunday, June 23, three to five p.m. in the Sun Room of the Mill Plain Community Center, McLoughlin Heights. Theme, "Voting for Good Government."

THURGOOD MARSHALL, NAACP Special Counsel, was named the 31st recipient of the Spingarn medal awarded annually for highest achievement by a Negro. This noted lawyer received the 1946 award particularly for his work in the Texas Primary case which may have more far reaching influence than any other act in the ending of disfranchisement based upon race or color in this country. He has shown evidence that m[illegible] be accomplished by intelligently utilizing the available r[illegible] ery of law and government than to resort to other ill-[illegible] techniques. In Vancouver, where our right to register and vote is unchallenged, in order to insure good government, we must utilize to the fullest this advantage. Those who have not already done so REGISTER NOW. After June 22 it will be too late.

MARCOS LOPEZ, a Negro of Cape Verde Islands West Africa, accompanied Captain Robert Gray on his discovery of the Columbia River in 1792, which gave this territory to the U. S. Lopez was killed in a fight with the Indians when one of the latter tried to take his knife. We were together then against a common enemy, fighting to survive and to progress. A fight to survive and to progress is still on. We will fail when we could [illegible]cceed if we allow ultra narrow and petty differences to divide [illegible]ur efforts against the main issues. There are times when we [illegible]eem not to be of one accord but of several. There is always the [illegible]anger that when we are not together in our thoughts and deliberations we will not be together in our actions.

If we are to find solutions to the grave and major problems that confront all of us today, it is most necessary that we have the non-partisan, undivided cooperation of every last one of us.

Mary M. Duncan, Chairman

THE annual membership drive, under the efficient direction of Mrs. Mary M. Duncan, came to a successful close Sunday, June 16. During the six weeks drive over 750 memberships have been reported. This number represents only a partial report, Mrs. Duncan announced, as reports from all those participating in the drive have not yet been received. A complete report will be made at the September meeting where awards will be given to the three captains obtaining the highest number of memberships. Mrs. Duncan also stated that though the Drive was officially closed, the membership committee would continue to secure memberships.

To N.A.A.C.P. Annual Conference

MR. GEO. L. THOMAS, Vice-President of the Portland Branch NAACP was on June 16, chosen as delegate to represent the Branch at the Annual Conference to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, June 26 through June 30. For the first time in its history the convention will be a legislative body whose recommendations will be binding upon the board of directors and national executive officers. Heretofore, the annual conference has been an advisory body; however, a new constitution adopted by the Association gives the delegates the power to determine program and policy on a par with the board of directors.

THE COMPANY WILL APPRECIATE SUGGESTIONS FROM ITS PATRONS CONCERNING ITS SERVICE

TENTATIVE PROGRAM OF POSSIBLE PROCEDURE AGAINST MOB VIOLENCE SUBMITTED FOR CONSIDERATION OF ORGANIZATION REPRESENTATIVES INVITED BY NAACP TO CONFERENCE AT WENDELL WILLKIE MEMORIAL BUILDING, NEW YORK CITY, TUESDAY, AUGUST 6TH, 1946, - 10 A.M.

1) Appointment of delegation to confer with President Truman and Attorney-General Tom Clark.

2) Ask every church leader -- minister, rabbi and priest -- in the United States to preach special sermon and offer prayers against mob terrorism and oppression of minorities and to urge members of their congregation not only to refuse to join hate groups but to oppose actively spreaders of hate. Consider feasibility of having special day of prayer by churches of all denominations.

3) Ask each Chamber of Commerce, manufacturers association or employers association to take steps to activate their members against mob violence.

4) Ask each international and local union to intensify campaigns against any of their members joining hate groups or indulging in mob violence or to initiate such programs if none have been started.

5) Propose joint labor-mangement committee in each industrial area to work actively against violence and to remove tension by publicity, abolition of segregation and discrimination in employment and the enactment of such municipal, state or federal legislation as is necessary.

6) Consideration of resolution requesting Congress to reconvene and to enact federal anti-mob violence legislation.

7) Ask local units of national organizations to call upon Senators and Congressmen to discuss issues, to urge Senators to pledge to vote for cloture, to urge members of the lower House to sign the discharge petition for anti-lynching legislation if they have not already done so and to support proposals of Senator Wayne Morse to change rules of House and Senate on first day of session to prevent filibustering in Senate and throttling of legislation by House Rules Committee.

8) Urge newspaper and magazine editors and in particular radio and moving picture executives to give widest possible publicity in radio, films, articles, editorials and in other ways against mob violence.

9) Have organizations with branches in the various states to confer with their Governors and Attornies-General in order to stop any indication of mob violence or racial friction and to insure that their state police will handle such incidents, if occurring, with intelligence.

10) Appoint Executive Committee of 5 to 7 to implement this program, with power to appoint sub-committees.

Discussion

① Man from Civ. Rights Congress (Bloch?) wants "more rigorous" approach:
E.g. - get Tom Clark out!
- keep Bilbo from being seated

② George Weaver - C.S.O. - says
- laying all evil to Bilbo, etc., is merely skirting the edge of the basic trouble. We have thereby helped to elect Bilbo.

3. Max Yergan - Nat'l Negro Congress - says N.N.C. was in act of calling a meeting of this sort, but advised its invitees to attend this one.
- We face a nationwide "planned" reaction toward violence. Even this state (N.Y.) is in danger. E.g. Governor
- Don't set up a new organization, but let's all act, and perhaps have a coordinating committee.

4. Man from Negro Elks - Let's not have speeches all day. Get down to consideration of proposals

5. Etc. Etc. 40 mins. of argument about what kind of Com., whether actions here bind all the agencies, etc.

NATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS
MEET TO PLAN JOINT ACTION ON WAVE OF TERROR IN SOUTH

August 8, 46

New York, August 8th--At a joint meeting called by the NAACP on August 6th at the Wendell Willkie Memorial Building, forty national organizations took steps for unified action against the rising tide of mob violence, as evidenced in South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and other states.

Arthur B. Spingarn, Chairman of the NAACP board, presided over the meeting. Speakers were Walter White, NAACP Executive Secretary, Oliver Harrington, Public Relations Counsel and Isaac Woodard, blinded Negro veteran. Woodard described his horrible experiences in a South Carolina town a few hours after his discharge from the service.

The group drew up a tentative program of procedure to stem recurrences of mob violence and voted to send telegrams to the President of the United States and to Attorney General Clark requesting them to throw the full force of the Federal Government to bring the lynchers before the bar of justice.

The organization representatives all pledged the unqualified support of their organizations and voted to form an Executive Committee to plan direct action in a campaign to publicize the dangers of race friction cropping up everywhere in the country, and to take steps in the various States to confer with Governors and Attorneys-General to insure the cooperation of the law in handling incidents, if they occur, with intelligence. A resolution requesting Congress to reconvene and to enact Federal anti-mob violence legislation was considered and joint labor-mangement committees in each industrial area were proposed to work actively to remove tension by publicity, abolition of segregation and discrimination in employment and enactment of such municipal, state or federal legislation as is necessary.

Organizations participating in the meeting were the NAACP, the Southern Regional Council, the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, the YWCA (National Board), the YMCA (National Council), the American Jewish Congress, the American Jewish Committee, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, the Council Against Intolerance in America, the Council for Democracy, CIO-PAC, AFL, National Negro Congress, National Citizens Political Action Committee, Civil Rights Congress, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the National Council of Negro Women, National Urban League, the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions, the American Veterans Committee, the IBPOEW, National Education Association, National Lawyers Guild, National Medical Association, National Conference of Christians and Jews, Methodist Federation for Social Service, United Parents Association, National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses, Americans United for World Organization, Union for Democratic Action, Friends of Democracy, Workers Defense League, Freedom House, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, League for Fair Play, Alpha Phi Alpha, American Council on Race Relations, Catholic Interracial Council, Congress of Industrial Organizations, and the American Civil Liberties Union.

NAACP POLITICAL ACTION PROGRAM ADOPTED

New York, September 12th--The tradition-shattering action taken at the 37th Annual Conference of NAACP branches, paving the way for political action, became a firmly established element in the Association's program when the NAACP Board of Directors accepted the recommendations of a special six-man committee which had been appointed to study the plan.

Particular emphasis was given that section of the special committee's report which provided safeguards for maintaining the non-partisan policies of the Association. Members of the committee, three of whom were elected by delegates representing more than 1,000 branches with a total membership of 535,000, and three by the NAACP Board of Directors, included Magistrate Joseph H. Rainey, Philadelphia; Attorney David M. Grant, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, Baltimore, Md.; Dr. Channing H. Tobias; Mr. Palmer Weber and Arthur Spingarn, all of New York City. Also present at the meeting in New York's Wendell Willkie Memorial Building was the Association's Executive Secretary, Walter White.

It was clearly pointed out at the New York meeting that the Association does not endorse either a party or an individual associated with a party for election purposes. However, the politically influential membership was urged to examine issues and candidates. There was an implied realization in the committee's report that the membership in many instances would be more familiar with local situations. Local awareness would be further implemented, however, by a clarification of issues affecting Negroes and other minorities by experts in the National Office.

In the matter of ratings of candidates the National Office shall limit itself to giving full information on the voting records of Senators and Congressmen with particular emphasis on issues affecting Negroes. Since the National Office will not rate candidates on a state level, these candidates shall be judged on their relative positions where these issues are concerned. NAACP members will be kept in constant awareness of these issues primarily through the Association's regular publications, the Crisis magazine and a monthly tabloid, The Bulletin, copies of which go to NAACP members only. This program will apply to primaries as well as general elections.

The following resolutions were voted as recommendations to the Board of Directors by the Committee:

(1) That the Association go on record as not endorsing any political party or any individual because of party connections or affiliation.

(2) That the policy of the NAACP shall be that branches are urged to examine proposals, purely non-partisan in character as listed below, affecting local or state public issues and which require electorate approval; to take a position for or against such proposals within the Constitutional limits of the Association, unless good cause be presented why a position not be taken; and give active support to a position taken thereon.

To include such issues as:

(a) Proposals arising locally or state-wide by and through initiative and referendum.

(b) Bond issues.

(c) Charter and Constitutional Amendments.

Where proposal is state-wide, state conferences of branches, where they exist, are urged to determine and announce a position to be binding on all branches. Otherwise, some workable intra-state method should be devised for unified coordinated action after consultation with the National Office.

(3) That the National Board call a meeting of all representative Negro organizations to consider the question of focusing attention on issues that will come up for decision in the election of candidates in the fall and the importance of Negroes participating actively by registering and voting. Further recommended that advertisements and other material be carried in the press.

(4) That the Board call upon every branch to conduct a registration and voting drive.

(5) That an entire issue of the Bulletin be devoted to registration and voting.

(6) That the Board consider the use of staff assistants and preparation of material that would be of assistance to the local branches in the conducting of registration and turning-out-the-vote drives.

An indication of the far-reaching implications in the Association's newly adopted program may be found in the recently published analysis of the vote by which representative Roger C. Slaughter was defeated for renomination in Kansas City. According to an authoritative source, this analysis is being studied with unusual interest in both Republican and Democratic national headquarters.

According to this analysis, compiled by a member of the executive committee of the National Negro Publishers Association, Mr. Slaughter was beaten solely by Negro voters on the issue of his opposition to FEPC. The analysis further forecasts that the same resentment will be shown by Negroes toward other members of Congress, both Republicans and Democrats, whose records are "bad" on legislation involving the security and rights of minority groups. This forecast is further implemented by the fact that in addition to those voting areas where NAACP branches and members wield political influence, many thousands of Negroes are now going to the polls in areas where they have only recently been given the right to vote in the primaries by the NAACP victory in the U. S. Supreme Court in the historic Texas Primaries Case. A concerted drive is being planned as part of the NAACP Political Action Program to increase the registrations in these areas with the issues involved clearly defined.

NAACP ACTION FREES GI
SENTENCED TO 50 YEARS September 13, 1946

New York, Sep 13th--Sentenced by a prejudiced court-martial to fifty years at hard labor, Noel W. Greenidge is a free man today, as a direct result of the intervention of the NAACP Legal Staff. His period of confinement was entirely remitted and he was given an opportunity to reenlist in the service.

His letter to Franklin H. Williams, NAACP attorney, is typical of the many received by this office. Says Greenidge:

"Your efforts instilled in me the courage to see it through--and to retain the intense faith in this our country and the ideals for which it stands.

"Having laid aside the uniform which I wore proudly--and in which I was still the object of an insidious prejudice--I find the world I left changed, and yet unchanged. The Negro and other minorities apparantly still face the almost insuperable obstacle of national acceptance--and the necessity of forcing recognition of that portion of victory they won for their country."

NAACP URGES REPBULICANS
CONSIDER NEEDED LEGISLATION November 15, 1946

New York, Nov. 14th--Republican leaders meeting on November 14th to discuss procedure and legislative program for the Republican dominated 80th Congress, were urged by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to place on their agenda for critical consideration the passage of Federal legislation needed to guarantee the constitutional rights and safety of 15,000,000 Negroes and members of other minorities in America. The recommendations were outlined in a letter addressed to Senator Wallace H. White (R.-Maine) which was forwarded over the signature of Walter White, Executive Secretary of the NAACP.

In his letter Mr. White declared: "May we urge that there be placed on the agenda the following items:

1. Federal anti-lynching legislation to check the current and exceedingly dangerous wave of mob violence. We ask that the Republican Party pledge itself to support of Senator Wayne Morse's proposal to adopt rules on the first day of the new Congress to prevent filibustering in the Senate or the bottling up of legislation in the House Rules Committee. In any event, we urge the Republican Party to go on record to support cloture in the event of a filibuster against the anti-lynching bill or on items 2, 3 and 4 below.

2. Enactment of a federal Fair Employment Practice Commission as has already been pledged in the 1944 Republican Platform.

3. Passage of federal legislation to outlaw the poll tax.

4. Amendment of the Civil Rights Act to give greater power to the Department of Justice and other federal agencies to protect the basic civil rights of American citizens when the several states fail, refuse or neglect to guarantee such civil rights.

5. To deny a seat in the 80th Congress to Senator Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi for his open advocacy of mob violence to prevent Negro citizens from exercising their constitutional right to vote, his admitted membership in the Ku Klux Klan, and for his violation of federal statutes prohibiting the acceptance of certain campaign contributions, if investigations now underway by congressional committees prove these charges.

"May we also urge inclusion of provisions for federal aid to education, housing and the extension of social security."

The NAACP recommendations were expected to stimulate significant interest among Republican leaders in view of the traditional, non-partisan political nature of the Association whose 535,000 members represent a cross section of political party leanings. Mr. White has consistently warned leaders of both major parties of the profound effect the rapidly growing Negro vote will have in the coming presidential election and in his HERALD TRIBUNE column of October 18th he stated..."There is constant emphasis...that the one unequivocal pledge made to Negroes in the 1944 Republican platform was that of support of a Federal anti-discrimination law. But Negroes know that 118 out of 183 Republican members of the House of Representatives refused or failed to sign a discharge petition to bring the F.E.P.C. out of the House Rules Committee. Had only 53 of the 118 signed, the necessary 218 signatures would have brought to the floor of the House the F.E.P.C. bill, where it would have passed by a better than 2-to-1 vote...

"How the Negro votes in 1948 will depend in a very large measure upon five crucial issues with which the Eightieth Congress will be confronted. If the Senate and House Republicans continue to play ball with the reactionary Southern Democrats as at the moment there seems to be every liklihood of their doing, any hope by the Republican Party that it will once again have the support of the crucial Negro vote might as well be abandoned. If on the other hand, the Republicans keep some of the promises they so eloquently and frequently make to Negroes, the present Negro resentment against the Bilbo-Talmadge-Rankin-Byrnes domination of the Democratic Party may develope into a force strong enough to decide who will occupy the White House and control Congress in 1948."

15-POINT PROGRAM
FOR 80TH CONGRESS

January 11, 1947

New York, Jan 11th--The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, at its annual meeting, January 6th, looked to the new Congress with hope tempered with skepticism. Members of the Association, meeting for the thirty-eighth time, in the Wendell Willkie Memorial Auditorium, called for Congressional action on a fifteen-point legislative program recommended by Walter White, executive secretary, and designed "to strengthen the democratic system" and spread its benefits to all citizens.

Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel, outlined a legal program for 1947 which will include intensified court action against "discriminatory registration practices."

The legislative program recommended by Mr. White follows:

NAACP CASE AGAINST
TEXAS UNIV. TO OPEN March 21, 1947

Austin, Tex., Mar 20th--Hearings on Heman Sweatt's demand for admission to the University of Texas Law School are scheduled to begin in this city on Wednesday, March 26th, with Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel, famed for his tradition-shattering civil rights victories in the United States Supreme Court, heading a battery of NAACP attorneys. Nationwide attention will be focused on the Civil Court of Appeals of Texas as the Attorney General of Texas and his staff, defending the University of Texas, attempts to establish the legality of the tradition-bound university's barring of Negro students.

The NAACP action seeking a writ of mandamus, was filed in the local state court in Austin on May 16, 1946. In June of that year the lower court entered an order that the University, in denying admission to Sweatt in the absence of an equal, separate law school, denied Sweatt the equal protection of laws under the Constitution of the United States. The presiding judge, however, stayed for six months the operation of the decree, pending the establishment of a separate but equal school. On December 17, 1946, the State of Texas filed a motion alleging that a separate school had been established and on the basis of this motion, the court denied the writ of mandamus and an appeal was immediately taken to the civil court of appeals of Texas.

In opposing the stand taken by the Texas Attorney General, the NAACP brief takes the position that before a state may allege a right to segregation, the state must first show the existence of facilities completely equal in all respects to the facilities offered white students. The brief also makes a direct attack on what it terms the legal "fiction" and "judicial myth" of separate but equal facilities. The brief further alleges that: "There is of course a dictionary difference between the terms of segregation and discrimination. In actual practice, however, this difference disappears. Those states which segregate by statute in the educational system have been primarily concerned with keeping the two races apart and have been uniformly disregarded even their own interpretation of their requirements under the 14th Amendment to maintain the separate facilities on an equal basis.

"Racial segregation in education originated as a device to 'keep the Negro in his place', i.e., in a constantly inferior position. The continuance of segregation has been synonymous with unfair discrimination. The perpetuation of the principle of segregation, even under the euphemistic theory of 'separate but equal' has been tantamount to the perpetuation of discriminatory practices. The terms 'separate' and 'equal' cannot be used conjunctively in a situation of this kind; there can be no separate equality."

The fight now being waged to force the University to remove its color bars only recently precipitated a wide-spread campus revolt by students against the University's administration. A historic, democratic coalition was formed with NAACP branch members, University of Texas campus organizations and several prominent professors, in open defiance of the tradition-bound officials and trustees, met together at completely unsegregated mass meetings to demand that Sweatt be admitted to the University, and calling for an end to race bigotry and hypocrisy.

SENATORS WARNED TO SHUN FALSE ECONOMY

April 11, 1947

Washington, D.C., Apr 9th--Warning the Senate to "shun the follies of false economies," Leslie Perry of the Washington Bureau, NAACP, urged members of the Senate Appropriations Committee to make a deficiency appropriation of $23 million for the current school lunch program and to restore the 43% cut in the appropriation for the Department of Labor.

Current funds for the school lunch program, which serves nearly 5 million children throughout the United States, are practically exhausted. Schools in California, Illinois, New York, and North Carolina are especially hard hit and may have to either close down the lunch program or seriously curtail it.

Operating funds for the Department of Labor also took a deep slash from the House. USES had its request of $6½ million reduced to $900,000. Its Bureau of Labor Statistics which collects and analyzes data on cost of living, industrial accidents, employment and wages had its appropriation reduced 60%.

Subcommittees of the Senate Appropriations Committee began holding hearings this week on the School Lunch Program deficiency appropriation and the regular appropriation for the Department of Labor.

In a sharply worded telegram to Senator Styles Bridges (R., N.H.), Chairman of the Deficiency Subcommittee considering appropriation for the School Lunch Program, Perry wrote "...The Congress would be penny-wise and pound foolish to economize at the expense of the Nation's children."

In another telegram to Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.), Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee considering the appropriation for the Department of Labor, the NAACP said, "We hope that the Senate will shun the follies of false economies in which the House indulged when it considered the appropriation for the Department of Labor. United States Employment Service, the only Federal agency making a large scale effort to utilize the services of minorities in industry, was practically wiped out. The Bureau of Labor Statistics which furnishes information, vitally necessary to workers and industry alike, on the cost of living, employment, and wages and hours has been seriously crippled. We urge you to restore the funds necessary to enable these agencies to render important services to the American people."

NAACP LAWYER TO SPEAK IN CLEVELAND ON FEPC

April 11, 1947

Cleveland, O., Apr 9th--Thurgood Marshall, NAACP legal counsel, will speak in Cleveland on April 15 on Fair Employment Practices Legislation at the Euclid Baptist Church, 18th Street and Euclid Avenue. Marshall will present a progress report of activities in the State of Ohio to effect passage of FEPC bills, and he will analyze bills already enacted in the states of Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey, and those pending in fifteen other states. Since the legal staff of the NAACP plays a prominent role in fighting for national FEPC measures, Marshall is one of the best-informed men in the nation on his subject.

The Rev. J. C. Mickle, Jr., Program Chairman of the Cleveland branch, NAACP, in announcing the Marshall talk, said he was especially happy to present the program at this time, since the Ohio State campaign for FEPC legislation has reached a crucial stage. State Senate hearings are now being held on Bill No. 90.

NAACP ASKS CLEMENCY
FOR SENTENCED VET April 11, 1947

New York, N.Y., Apr 9th--The legal staff of the NAACP today submitted a petition for clemency to the War Department in behalf of James Young, former army private, now serving a life term at hard labor for alleged rape of a native girl in the Philippines. Young was convicted by an army court in the Pacific Theater of Operations on September 25, 1945.

The petition pointed out that many errors of law had been committed at the trial; that hearsay testimony was admitted; that all elements in the alleged crime had not been established, and that many damaging leading questions had been permitted by the court. The petition further stated that the witnesses testifying against Young were unworthy of belief and that a review of their testimony showed many contradictions of fact.

The petition urged that clemency be granted Young by remitting the entire remaining portion of his sentence of confinement for life at hard labor and by permitting him to reenlist in the service so that he might obtain an honorable discharge.

LABOR RESOLUTIONS SENT TO CONGRESS COMMITTEES April 11, 1947

New York, N.Y., Apr 9th--The NAACP Labor Department today sent resolutions urging favorable action on Fair Employment Practice Legislation, and opposition to the Ball-Taft-Smith Bill and the Case Bill, both anti-labor, to each member of the House and Senate labor committees. The resolutions were passed at regional conferences of the Association in San Francisco, Calif., and Charleston, S.C., and represented the view of delegates from twelve states.

Stating that there must be a national Fair Employment Practice Law with adequate enforcement power, a resolution called the introduction of Senate Bill 984 a step in the right direction. Another resolution declared, "We are not confused or fooled by the present effort to pass such anti-labor proposals as the Ball-Taft-Smith Bill and Case Bill. We recognize this legislation as an attack upon the liberties of the American workingman and spurn it as a move in the direction of dictatorship."

In reference to Congress cutting the funds of the U.S. Department of Labor, a resolution urged the Senate to restore the funds, especially those which are for the office of the United States Employment Service. "We condemn the practice of the State Employment agencies which permit the acceptance of discriminatory orders," this resolution continued. "We call upon the governors of the states in this region to end this practice. We instruct our Labor Committees to inspect the offices of the Employment service in their communities and work to eradicate the discriminatory practices which exist."

A final resolution urged President Truman to veto HR 2157, the bill designed to block portal-to-portal suits, which has been passed by the Senate and House, because of the effect this legislation would have on the Fair Labor Standards Act.

NAACP ANNUAL MEETING
IN JOHN WESLEY CHURCH April 11, 1947

Washington, D.C., Apr 10th--John Wesley A.M.E. Zion Church, corner 14th and Corcoran Streets, N.W., will be the meeting place of the 38th Annual Conference of the NAACP here June 24th-29th inclusive. All the business sessions and evening mass meetings will be held at the church, of which the Rev. Stephen Gill Spottswood is pastor. The Rev. Spottswood is also president of the District of Columbia branch of the NAACP, which will be host to the conference.

CONTINUE CASE AGAINST
LOUISIANA UNIVERSITY April 11, 1947

Baton Rouge, La., Apr 9th--The NAACP today appealed the decision of a Louisiana district judge who dismissed suits against the Louisiana State niversity. The Association's lawyers took the cases of Viola Johnson and Charles Hatfield, who are seeking by mandatory writ to obtain admission to the law school and the medical college, respectively, to the Court of Appeals, First Circuit, of the State of Louisiana.

The appeal petitions described the qualifications of Miss Johnson and Hatfield and stated there is no medical college and law school within the state other than those maintained by the state at Louisiana State university where they can secure the required education.

The district judge, who previously dismissed the suit, said the petitioners should have demanded that Southern university, the state institution for Negroes, establish medical and law schools. He said in the meantime the petitioners must pursue their studies outside the state under a scholarship aid plan provided for in a Louisiana statute.

This is one more in a series of cases which the NAACP is trying throughout the South to test the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment in regard to the duty of the state to afford graduate and professional school training for Negroes.

SEGREGATION FOUGHT
IN JERSEY SCHOOLS April 11, 1947

Camden, N.J., Apr 10th--A survey on segregation in schools in New Jersey has furnished ammunition for an attack on segregation by New Jersey NAACP branches, who are coordinating this campaign with their membership drive for 30,000 NAACP members throughout the state, it was revealed today by Dr. Ulysses S. Wiggins, chairman of the Education Committee of the New Jersey State Conference and President of the Camden, N.J., branch. Dr. Wiggins said the branches initiated their assault on segregation by sending copies of the survey, conducted by Miss Noma Jensen, former field secretary, to Governor Alfred E. Driscoll, the commissioner of education of New Jersey, the New Jersey State Council Against Discrimination, county and state superintendents, and other public officials throughout the state.

About twenty-two NAACP branches helped compile the survey, which covered fifty-two communities in eighteen counties. Segregated schools were found in Atlantic City, Egg Harbor, Pleasantville, Hackensack, Beverly City, Bordentown, Burlington, Cinnaminson Township, Florence, Moorestown, Mount Holly, Mount Laurel, Palmyra, Riverside, Berlin, Haddonfield, Camden, Cape May, Ocean City, Rio Grande, West Cape May, Whitesboro, Wildwood, Bridgeton, Port Norris, Montclair, Newark, Orange, East Orange, West Orange, South Orange, Mollucca Hill, Bayonne, Jersey City, Princeton, Trenton, Perth Amboy, Metuchen, Asbury Park, Fair Haven, Freehold, Leonardo, Keyport, Matawan, Neptune Township, Red Bank, Morristown, Lakewood, Tom's River, Paterson, New Brunswick, Somerville, Elizabeth, Plainfield, Summit, Marshalltown, Penns Grove, Salem, Swedesboro and Woodstown.

At the conclusion of the survey Miss Jensen conferred with the New Jersey State Commissioner of Education and the head of Education Division of the New Jersey State Commission Against Discrimination.

In most instances when the Superintendents of Schools and members of the Boards of Education were queried about segregation in the schools, they said they were maintained, first, "because Negroes asked for them", and, second, "this was the only way Negro teachers could be hired." Contrary to the statement that, "Negroes have asked for colored schools", is this report of the Secretary of the Long Branch, New Jersey Board of Education for the year 1884-85 concerning the opening of the Brook Street School:

"Soon after the close of our last scholastic year by order of the Board, a lot was purchased and a building erected to accommodate a colored school which from the early fall, has been in successful operation until the close of the present school year.

"At first some of the colored people, who are ever sensitively jealous of their rights as 'American citizens of African descent', insisted on sending their children to the white school. Finding that there was no opposition to this on the part of teachers or trustees, and that the colored school was not intended to create a distinction of race, class nor color, other than that ineradicably established by nature, the opposition gradually and quietly gave way, and the later months of the year were marked with some success."

In the majority of segregated school systems visited, the teaching load of the Negro teacher is three times that of the white teacher.

In many instances it has been found that the "all Negro" schools do not have a district and white pupils who live near it are sent to schools in other districts. Negro principals and teachers seem to be perpetuating segregation in several towns in New Jersey because they are afraid that in the process of integrating the public schools they will lose their jobs. Yet most of these principals and teachers are on tenure so that the local Boards of Education must keep them teaching or else pay them a salary.

Most Negro parents contacted during this survey did not know that they had a right to send their children to the nearest school even if there is a colored school in the community.

Miss Jensen said, "It is quite obvious from this survey that segregation and discrimination are most intensive in the State of New Jersey, even though there is a New Jersey school law against segregation."

The survey concluded, "Inasmuch as the New Jersey School Law makes the practice of segregation or discrimination on account of color a misdemeanor and punishable by fine, parents of children affected must break down the fallacy that segregated schools are maintained in order that Negro teachers may have a job by insisting upon the integration of schools, by demanding mixed teaching staffs and by insisting that all pupils attend the school in their district whether they are white or colored. If a school is designated as a 'colored school' it behooves the local NAACP branch to break it up by making a concerted attack against it."

STATE LEADERS NAMED
IN NAACP CAMPAIGN April 11, 1947

New York, N.Y., Apr 10th--The NAACP's "Make It A Million" membership drive gathered momentum this week as the five regions, nationwide geographical divisions established for the campaign, finished their preliminary work and swung into full operation in their task of doubling last year's enrollment.

State membership chairmen designated so far are Rev. C. S. Timmons, Mexico, Mo., for Missouri; Melton H. Stevens, Independence, for Kansas; Mrs. Viola Gibson, Cedar Rapids, for Iowa; T. R. Ragsdale of Muskogee, Atty. Amos T. Hall of Tulsa, Dr. W. S. Boyd of El Reno and Dr. H. W. Williamston of Idabel, for Oklahoma.

State Chairmen for the eight Region 3 states are Atty. James W. Dorsey of Milwaukee, for Wisconsin; Dr. R. C. Riddle of Benton Harbor, for Michigan; E. B. Jourdain, Jr., of Evanston, for Illinois; Atty. Willard B. Ransom of Indianapolis, for Indiana; Horace Rains of Columbus, for Ohio; Atty. T. G. Nutter of Charleston, for West Virginia; Atty. Alfred M. Carroll of Louisville, for Kentucky; and M. G. Ferguson of Nashville, for Tennessee.

Other state and regional chairmen include Miss Mary H. Thornton, Bridgeport, Conn., for New England; T. V. Mangum, Statesville, for North Carolina; Mrs. Lulu B. White, Houston, for Texas, Harry T. Moore, Brevard County, for Florida, and John H. Klugh, Jamaica, for New York.

Regional coordinators, with headquarters at San Francisco, Calif.; New York, N. Y.; Columbus, O.; Kansas City, Mo., and New Orleans, La., report that regional speakers bureaus have been set up to service branch mass meetings.

Daniel E. Byrd, executive secretary of the New Orleans branch who heads Region 5, LeRoy Carter, Region 4 coordinator with offices in Kansas City, and Noah Griffin, Region 1 head in San Francisco, who have been in close touch with branches through letters and personal visits, declare that spirit is high and competition keen between branches and between states.

Lucille Black, coordinator of Region 2 which comprises northeast Atlantic seaboard states, held a conference of branch membership chairmen in the national NAACP office on March 22nd. Six similar conferences were held in five Region 3 cities.

RECEIVED JUN 9 1947 Southern Regional Council

FOR RELEASE - June 6, 1947

LARGEST MASS MEETING IN NATION'S HISTORY
PLANNED BY NAACP

June 6, 1947

Washington, D.C., Jun 4th--NAACP officials in Washington, New York and key cities throughout the Nation, were moving ahead rapidly with plans for the staging of what promises to be the largest single mass meeting in the Nation's history. Focal point of the gigantic meeting will be the June 29th closing session of the NAACP annual convention at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C., where 100,000 spectators are expected to assemble to hear President Harry S. Truman deliver a major declaration of government policy on racial tensions, which have developed to the point where they constitute a matter of grave concern to the chief executive. Simultaneous with the Lincoln Memorial meeting, NAACP branches in practically every section of the United States will assemble in hundreds of meeting halls. These meetings, with an expected 4 to 5 hundred thousand persons attending, will be joined to form one gigantic mass meeting linked together by radio. All of the major networks will broadcast the President's speech and parts of the meeting.

Walter White, NAACP executive secretary, declared in New York today that the June 29th meeting will be the most significant in the Association's 38 years. With huge delegations of Negro and white leaders arriving in Washington for the meeting, the veteran association will be rededicated to the fight for full democracy for all people, irrespective of race, creed or color. Mr. White referred, during a press interview, to the wave of indignation in America and in every section of the globe, with which the recent "green light decision" in America's first lynching trial had been received. "The verdict of the South Carolina jury which, in effect, told lynching mobs in the South that Negroes were now fair prey for the rope and the torturers' tools, has defiled the 300,000 graves of America's young soldiers who thought they were dying for the security of all men", said Mr. White. "The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People", he continued, "will meet in the fitting shadow of the Abraham Lincoln monument to rededicate all of its resources and energies to the peoples of all nations who fought and are still fighting to secure the rights of all men. Terrorism has always met with resistance. Nazi terrorism met with resistance and caused the destruction of a nation. The Negro people hope that their federal government will make resistance to the terrorism now being directed against them unnecessary."

As plans for the historic NAACP meeting were being developed, reports from more than 1000 branches in the Nation indicated exeellent response to the current NAACP membership drive. The Association's director of branches attributed the climbing membership roster to the anxiety of both Negroes and whites over ominous signs of increasing lynching-mob spirit in many sections of the South. Field secretaries now touring the South report a fresh awareness on the part of Negroes, for the need of a much stronger NAACP. One Southern official stated, "They're joining NAACP because of their great faith in its program. The Lincoln Memorial meeting should spur the drive even more."

FIGHTS FOR RIGHT TO ENTER
SOUTH CAROLINA LAW SCHOOL June 6, 1947

Columbia, S.C., Jun 4th--In an effort to secure the right of a Negro to attend the University of South Carolina Law School, NAACP lawyers are participating in a case now being tried in the United States District Court of South Carolina. The Association lawyers seek to gain admission of John W. Wrighten, Negro veteran, to the law school on the grounds that since the State of South Carolina has not provided a separate law school for Negroes equal to that of the University of South Carolina, under the law (as laid down by the Gaines decision, U. S. Supreme Court, December 12, 1938), Wrighten is entitled to attend the only law school maintained by the State for the legal education of its citizens.

PROTESTS SHIFT WHICH WILL COST JOBS OF 2000 NEGROES June 6, 1947

New York, Jun 4th--Declaring that the jobs of some 2,000 Negroes are at stake, Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, today registered a protest with John Snyder, Secretary of the Treasury, over the plan to move a division of the Internal Revenue Bureau from the Bronx to Missouri. White said in a telegram to Snyder, "We have just been informed that the processing Division of the Internal Revenue Bureau now located at 260 East 161st Street, the Bronx, New York City, is to be moved to Kanaas City, Missouri. Unless it is absolutely necessary that this be done, we urge that this move not be made. Of the 2,200 employees, some 90 per cent are Negroes. The racial attitude of Kansas City is such that it is most questionable if any Negroes are employed there and at best, only a few will be hired. Moving of this processing division will thus mean a loss to Negroes of nearly 2,000 jobs, which will be a severe and unjustified economic burden..."

PETITION FOR CHANGE OF
DISHONORABLE DISCHARGE June 6, 1947

New York, Jun 4th--The legal staff of the NAACP today petitioned the War Department to change the discharge of Roy C. Keys, Negro veteran, from dishonorable to honorable. Keys was sentenced on June 11, 1942, by an army court at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., to a year at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge for disobeying the command of his superior officer.

Association lawyers declared that Keys is an arrested tubercular and the army should never have taken him in the first place. He had been hospitalized twice, before his induction, for pulmonary tuberculosis and therefore he was justifiably reluctant to subject himself to extreme physical exertion. On the day that Keys was accused of disobeying his superior officer, he first reported to his sergeant that he did not feel well enough to go to the rifle range that morning. Keys spoke to his commanding officer, who, instead of sending him to the dispensary which would probably have been the most reasonable action, ordered Keys to go to the rifle range. Keys did not go to the rifle range and was discovered later in the service club.

At this time, Keys had been in the service for only five and a half months. In all probability, the NAACP also pointed out, he was not conscious of the importance of strict compliance with direct orders received from superior officers. Prior to his induction into the service, the petition to the War Department said, Keys was a respected and substantial citizen in his community. He also had a record of satisfactory employment with the Ford Motor Company, in which he had built up a considerable seniority.

After he was dishonorably discharged, Keys suffered greatly. His employers refused to take him back, and although they subsequently hired him, he has lost his seniority rights. The petition stated that the disgrace of a dishonorable discharge has made it difficult if not impossible for Keys to readjust to civilian life and concluded by requesting the War Department to change the form of his discharge.

SOUTH CAROLINA COURT
HEARS PRIMARY CASE June 6, 1947

Defense Attorneys Admit "Private Club" Elections Determine Candidates for Office

Columbia, S.C.,--South Carolina's "private club" white Democratic primary elections were under their first legal fire here June 3 and 4 when attorneys for George Elmore argued against the exclusion of Negroes in the U. S. court for the Eastern District of South Carolina before Judge J. Waites Waring.

In stipulations filed with the court it was agreed by attorneys for the Richland County Democratic executive committee, the defendants, that the present primary elections determine the winner of the final election. They argued that since the state does not conduct the primary, the Federal Constitution does not apply.

NAACP lawyers, representing Elmore, argued that under the U. S. Supreme Court's opinion in the Classic case, any election, primary or general, which determines the choice of the voters may not exclude citizens because of race or color.

The battery of lawyers for the defense argued so long on their point of a private club, private church, private association of members, that Judge Waring finally asked whether any instance could be cited where a church had elected a Congressman.

Judge Waring directed both sides to file briefs within ten days and stated he would render his decision after that time. Elmore's attorneys are Harold Boulware of this city, and Thurgood Marshall and Robert L. Carter of the New York staff of the NAACP.

PHILIP MURRAY WILL ADDRESS NAACP MEET June 6, 1947

New York, Jun 5th--Philip Murray, President of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, will address delegates to the 38th Annual Conference of the NAACP in Washington on June 26th, it was announced. today.

Mr. Murray is expected to deal with labor problems, with special reference to Negro workers, and to re-emphasize the policy of the CIO against discrimination.

At the opening mass meeting of the conference on Tuesday night, June 24, Dr. Louis T. Wright, chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, will give a report on the year's activities, with recommendations to the conference on policy and program.

The other speaker at the opening session will be Leon Henderson, former OPA Administrator, who will discuss prices, wages, and the spiraling cost of living and their affects on groups of wage earners such as the Negro.

Other speakers during the conference, which will end June 29, will include Loren Miller, Los Angeles attorney who is a leading opponent of restrictive housing covenants; Dr. Percy L. Julian, who will receive the 32nd Spingarn Medal for his work in organic chemistry; and Reverend Robert Wilson, chairman, NAACP National Planning and Advisory Committee to Youth Councils and College Chapters.

Special music for the sessions is being prepared by a Washington committee of which Warner Lawson, of the Howard University School of Music, is chairman. The sessions will be held at John Wesley AME Zion Church, 14th and Corcoran Streets, N.W.

URGE ARMED SERVICES
END SEGREGATION NOW June 6, 1947

New York, Jun 4th--Roy Wilkins, NAACP assistant secretary, today urged the immediate dropping of racial segregation and discrimination in the Nation's armed forces. In a statement to Congressman Walter G. Andrews (R-NY), the NAACP executive declared, "This Association has noted announcement by you that hearings will be held on universal military training beginning June 10 and that members of the President's Advisory Commission on Universal Military Training will be the first witnesses.

"We feel certain your committee will give the most careful attention to recommendations in the report of Dr. Compton's committee to President Truman that there should be no discrimination 'for or against any person or group because of his race, class, national origin or religion' and that 'segregation or special privilege in any form should have no place in the program.'

"In this connection we respectfully direct the attention of your committee to a copyrighted dispatch from London in today's New York Herald Tribune asserting that Defense Minister A. V. Alexander announc announced in the House of Commons June 4, that the color bar in the British Army and Navy have been abolished and that the color bar in the Royal Air Force was abolished eighteen months ago. This means that the United States remains the only large estern nation which segregates men in its fighting forces on the basis of color, since France and Canada had no such policy.

"This Association, with membership of more than 500,000 white and colored Americans, urges that your committee recommend a policy of no segregation or discrimination in the enlistment and employment of Americans in the armed services of the Nation. We concur, most heartily, with the following language in the report of Dr. Compton's committee:

"'Nothing could be more tragic for the future attitude of our people, and for the unity of our nation than a program in which our Federal government forced our young manhood to live for a period of time in an atmosphere which emphasized or bred class or racial differences.'"

ATOM SCIENTIST TO AWARD SPINGARN MEDAL June 6, 1947

New York, Jun 4th--It was officially announced today, at the NAACP headquarters in New York City, that Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel Prize recipient and Distinguished Service Professor in chemistry at the University of Chicago, will make the Spingarn Medal award speech and present the medal to Dr. Percy L. Julian, distinguished research chemist, at the NAACP Annual Convention in Washington, D.C., Friday night, June 27th. Dr. Julian becomes the thirty-second recipient of the award "for distinguished achievement by an American Negro", for his brilliant contributions in the field of chemical research.

Dr. Urey, who is one of the world's outstanding figures in the field of atomic research, served during the war as Director of the Gaseous Diffusion Branch of the Atomic Bomb project and is a director of the National Committee on Atomic Information.

Appreciate your letter of December 1 about the Wagner-Morse Case Bill.

The Council has long favored legislation, both State and Federal, to strengthen the hand of law against the crime of lynching.

As we are a non political organization we can not endorse a specific piece of legislation.

We appreciate the copy of the House Bill and shall do what we can to get it known.

RECEIVED DEC 3 1947 Southern Regional Council

December 1, 1947

Mr. Guy B. Johnson, Executive Director
The Southern Regional Council
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E., Rm. 432
Atlanta 3, Georgia

RECEIVED DEC 3 1947 Southern Regional Council

Dear Mr. Johnson:

We are working to obtain Congressional hearings on anti-lynch legislation early in 1948 and therefore ask your organization to endorse the Wagner-Morse-Case (S.1352 and HR-3488) Bill as soon as possible. The recent report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights recommended the enactment of Federal legislation embracing the major provisions of the Wagner-Morse-Case Bill.

In 1946 six persons are known to have met death by lynching. One person has been killed by a lynch mob in 1947 and there have been attempts to lynch many others.

Please send copies of your resolution to (1) Senator Homer Ferguson, Chairman of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee, (2) Congressman Earl C. Michener, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, (3) Senator Robert F. Wagner, (4) Senator Wayne Morse, and (5) Congressman Clifford P. Case.

Of course, the Washington Bureau, NAACP needs a copy so as to be certain that it is inserted into the Congressional Record and the committee hearings.

For your information I am enclosing a copy of the bill, a short analysis we made of it and a statement of its legislative status.

Your early cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie S. Perry

MEMORANDUM

Subject: The Wagner-Morse-Case Anti-Lynch Bill (S-1352 and HR-3488)

From: Leslie Perry

House

On May 15, 1947 Congressman Clifford P. Case (R., N.J.) introduced a new and greatly strengthened Anti-Lynch Bill, HR-3488. Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Calif.) has also introduced an identical measure. These bills have been referred to the House Judiciary Committee of which Congressman Earl C. Michener (R., Mich.) is chairman. Because the House Judiciary Committee failed to hold hearings on the bill, Congressman Case has introduced Discharge Petition #9 to take the bill from the Committee. A discharge petition requires the signatures of 218 members to bring the bill to the floor for vote.

Senate

Senators Robert F. Wagner (D., N.Y.) and Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) joined in introducing a companion bill in the Senate on May 27. A Senate Judiciary subcommittee has been appointed to consider anti-lynch legislation. Thus far hearings have not even been scheduled.

The members of the subcommittee are:

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), Chairman
" Chapman Revercomb (R., W.Va.)
" James O. Eastland (D., Miss.)

HOW YOU CAN HELP

1. Have your organization adopt a resolution without delay endorsing the Wagner-Morse-Case Bill.

2. Urge Senator Homer Ferguson to schedule hearings immediately, and favorably report S-1352.

3. Ask your congressman to sign Discharge Petition #9 on HR-3488.

4. Write Congressman Earl C. Michener, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, to schedule hearings immediately on HR-3488.

WASHINGTON BUREAU, NAACP

THE WAGNER-MORSE-CASE ANTI-LYNCH BILL (S.1352 and H.R. 3488) HAS "REAL TEETH".

1. It defines lynching as any violence to person or property by a mob (an assemblage of two or more persons) (a) because of the race, color, religion, creed, national origin, ancestry or language of the victim, or because (b) the victim was suspected, accused, or convicted of a criminal offense.

2. The victim does not have to die in order to be "lynched" within the meaning of the bill. Any injury is sufficient.

3. Members of the lynch mob, or any person who aids or incites the mob, are made punishable by a maximum imprisonment of 20 years or a maximum fine of $10,000 or both.

4. Dereliction on the part of state officers charged with responsibility of protecting the victim or apprehending the lynchers is made punishable by a maximum imprisonment of five years or a maximum fine of $5,000, or both.

5. Every governmental subdivision of the state which wilfully or negligently permits an individual to be seized, abducted and lynched is made liable to the lynched, if he lives, for monetary compensation for injury of $2,000 to $10,000 or, if he is killed, to his next of kin. These suits would be brought in a Federal district court and prosecuted by the Attorney General of the United States in behalf of the victim or the victim's next of kin.

6. All criminal prosecutions under the Act would be brought in a Federal district court.

7. Prosecutions brought in Federal courts are more effective than state courts because:

(a) Judges and prosecutors could be brought from other states or sections of the country. They would therefore be more free of local prejudices and pressures.

(b) The jury would be impanelled from a larger geographical area. For example, South Carolina is divided into two federal districts so that the jury list would be made up from one-half of the state instead of the immediate community as is the case under state procedure.

(c) There is a much greater chance of Negroes being on the jury panel which seldom occurs in state courts.

80TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

H. R. 3488

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MAY 15, 1947

Mr. CASE of New Jersey introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary

A BILL

To declare certain rights of citizens of the United States, and for the better assurance of the protection of such citizens and other persons within the several States from mob violence and lynching, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

FINDINGS AND POLICY

SECTION 1. The Congress hereby makes the following findings:

(a) The duty of each State to refrain from depriving any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, and from denying to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws, imposes on all States the

1 obligation to exercise their police powers in a manner which
2 will protect all persons equally without discrimination because 3 of race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, language, or 4 religion. A State deprives a person of life, liberty, or property
5 without due process of law and denies him the equal protec-
6 tion of the laws when the State's inaction has the effect of a
7 discriminatory withholding of protection.

8 When a State, by the malfeasance or nonfeasance of its 9 officials, permits persons not expressly designated as its 10 agents to punish any person within its jurisdiction for crimes
11 or alleged crimes, without trial or other due process of law, 12 and condones such conduct by participating in or facilitating 13 such conduct or by failing to punish either those of its officials 14 who permit such conduct or those guilty of the conduct, the 15 State effectively deprives the victims of such conduct of life,
16 liberty, or property without due process of law and denies 17 to them the equal protection of the laws.

18 Lynching constitutes an organized effort not only to 19 punish the persons lynched but also to terrorize the groups,
20 in the community or elsewhere, of which the persons lynched
21 are members by reason of their race, creed, color, national 22 origin, ancestry, language, or religion, and thus to deny to 23 all members of such groups, and to prevent them from 24 exercising, the rights guaranteed to them by the Constitution
25 and laws of the United States. By condoning lynching,

1 the State makes the lynching, punishment without due
2 process of law, or other denial of the equal protection of the 3 laws its own act and gives the color and authority of State
4 law to the acts of those guilty of the lynching, punishment,
5 or other denial.

6 (b) When persons within a State are deprived by a
7 State or by individuals within a State, with or without con-
8 donation by a State or its officials, of equal protection of the 9 laws because of race, color, creed, national origin, ancestry,
10 language, or religion, they are denied, or limited in the 11 exercise of, human rights and fundamental freedoms.

12 (c) The law of nations requires that every person be 13 secure against violence to himself or his property by reason
14 of his race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, language, 15 or religion.

16 SEC. 2. The Congress finds that the succeeding pro-
17 visions of this Act are necessary in order to accomplish
18 the following purposes:

19 (a) To enforce the provisions of article XIV, section 1,
20 of the amendments to the Constitution of the United States;

21 (b) To promote universal respect for, and observance
22 of, human rights and fundamental freedoms for all, without 23 distinction as to race, language, or religion, in accordance 24 with the treaty obligations assumed by the United States

1 under article 55 and article 56 of the United Nations Charter;
2 and
3 (c) To define and punish offenses against the law of 4 nations.

5 RIGHT TO BE FREE OF LYNCHING

6 SEC. 3. It is hereby declared that the right to be free
7 from lynching is a right of citizens of the United States,
8 accruing to them by virtue of such citizenship. Such right
9 is in addition to any similar rights they may have as citizens
10 of any of the several States or as persons within their juris-
11 diction.

12 DEFINITIONS

13 SEC. 4. Any assemblage of two or more persons which 14 shall, without authority of law, (a) commit or attempt to 15 commit violence upon the person or property of any citizen
16 or citizens of the United States because of his or their race,
17 creed, color, national origin, ancestry, language, or religion,
18 or (b) exercise or attempt to exercise, by physical violence
19 against person or property, any power of correction or 20 punishment over any citizen or citizens of the United States
21 or other person or persons in the custody of any peace officer
22 or suspected of, charged with, or convicted of the commission
23 of any criminal offense, with the purpose or consequence
24 of preventing the apprehension or trial or punishment by 25 law of such citizen or citizens, person or persons, or of im-

1 posing a punishment not authorized by law, shall constitute 2 a lynch mob within the meaning of this Act. Any such 3 violence by a lynch mob shall constitute lynching within 4 the meaning of this Act.

5 PUNISHMENT FOR LYNCHING

6 SEC. 5. Any person whether or not a member of a
7 lynch mob who willfully instigates, incites, organizes, aids,
8 abets, or commits a lynching by any means whatsoever, and 9 any member of a lynch mob, shall be guilty of a felony
10 and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not 11 exceeding $10,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding 12 twenty years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

13 PUNISHMENT FOR FAILURE TO PREVENT LYNCHING

14 SEC. 6. Whenever a lynching shall occur, any officer
15 or employee of a State or any governmental subdivision
16 thereof, who shall have been charged with the duty or shall 17 have possessed the authority as such officer or employee to 18 prevent the lynching, but shall have neglected, refused, or 19 willfully failed to make all diligent efforts to prevent the 20 lynching, and any officer or employe of a State or govern-
21 mental subdivision thereof who shall have had custody of 22 the person or persons lynched and shall have neglected,
23 refused, or willfully failed to make all diligent efforts to 24 protect such person or persons from lynching, and any

1 officer or employee of a State or governmental subdivision
2 thereof who, in violation of his duty as such officer or em-
3 ployee, shall neglect, refuse, or willfully fail to make all
4 diligent efforts to apprehend, keep in custody, or prosecute
5 the members or any member of the lynching mob, shall be 6 guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be 7 punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprison-
8 ment not exceeding five years, or by both such fine and 9 imprisonment.

10 DUTY OF ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES

11 SEC. 7. Whenever a lynching of any person or persons 12 shall occur, and information on oath is submitted to the 13 Attorney General of the United States that any officer or 14 employee of a State or any governmental subdivision thereof
15 who shall have been charged with the duty or shall have 16 possessed the authority as such officer or employee to protect 17 such person or persons from lynching, or who shall have 18 had custody of the person or persons lynched, has neglected,
19 refused, or willfully failed to make all diligent efforts to 20 protect such person or persons from lynching or that any 21 officer or employee of a State or governmental subdivision
22 thereof, in violation of his duty as such officer or employee,
23 has neglected, refused, or willfully failed to make all diligent 24 efforts to apprehend, keep in custody, or prosecute the 25 members or any member of the lynching mob, the Attorney

1 General of the United States shall cause an investigation
2 to be made to determine whether there has been any viola-
3 tion of this Act.

4 COMPENSATION FOR VICTIMS OF LYNCHING

5 SEC. 8. (1) Every governmental subdivision of a State
6 to which the State shall have delegated functions of police
7 shall be responsible for any lynching occurring within its 8 territorial jurisdiction. Every such governmental subdivision
9 shall also be responsible for any lynching which follows upon 10 the seizure and abduction of the victim or victims within its 11 territorial jurisdiction, irrespective of whether such lynching
12 occurs within its territorial jurisdiction or not. Any such 13 governmental subdivision which shall fail to prevent any 14 such lynching or any such seizure and abduction followed
15 by lynching shall be liable to each individual who suffers
16 injury to his or her person or property, or to his or her next
17 of kin if such injury results in death, for a sum of not less
18 than $2,000 and not more than $10,000 as monetary com-
19 pensation for such injury or death: Provided, however, That 20 the governmental subdivision may prove by a preponderance
21 of evidence as an affirmative defense that the officers thereof
22 charged with the duty of preserving the peace, and the 23 citizens thereof, when called upon by any such officer, used
24 all diligence and all powers vested in them for the protection
25 of the person lynched: And provided further, That the satis-

1 faction of judgment against one governmental subdivision
2 responsible for a lynching shall bar further proceedings
3 against any other governmental subdivision which may also 4 be responsible for that lynching.

5 (2) Liability arising under this section may be enforced
6 and the compensation herein provided for may be recovered
7 in a civil action in the United States district court for the 8 judicial district of which the defendant governmental sub-
9 division is a part. Such action shall be brought and prose-
10 cuted by the Attorney General of the United States in the 11 name of the United States for the use of the real party in 12 interest, or, if the claimant or claimants shall so elect, by 13 counsel employed by the claimant or claimants, but in any 14 event without prepayment of costs. If the amount of any 15 such judgment shall not be paid upon demand, payment
16 thereof may be enforced by any process available under the 17 State law for the enforcement of any other money judgment
18 against such governmental subdivision. Any officer of such 19 governmental subdivision or any other person who shall dis-
20 obey or fail to comply with any lawful order or decree of 21 the court for the enforcement of the judgment shall be guilty
22 of contempt of that court and punished accordingly. The 23 cause of action accruing hereunder to a person injured by 24 lynching shall not abate with the subsequent death of that 25 person before final judgment but shall survive to his or her

1 next of kin. For the purpose of this Act the next of kin
2 of a deceased victim of lynching shall be determined according
3 to the laws of intestate distribution in the State of domicile
4 of the decedent. Any judgment or award under this Act
5 shall be exempt from all claims of creditors.

6 (3) Any judge of the United States district court for 7 the judicial district wherein any suit shall be instituted under 8 the provisions of this Act may by order direct that such 9 suit be tried in any place in such district as he may desig-
10 nate in such order: Provided, That no such suit shall be 11 tried within the territorial limits of the defendant govern-
12 mental subdivision.

13 SEC. 9. The crime defined in and punishable under 14 the Act of June 22, 1932 (47 Stat. 326), as amended by 15 the Act of May 18, 1934 (48 Stat. 781), shall include the 16 transportation in interstate or foreign commerce of any 17 person unlawfully abducted and held for purposes of punish-18 ment, correction, or intimidation.

19 SEVERABILITY CLAUSE

20 SEC. 10. The essential purposes of this Act being the 21 safeguarding of rights of citizens of the United States and 22 the furtherance of protection of the lives, persons, and prop-
23 erty of such citizens and other persons against unlawful 24 and violent interference with or prevention of the orderly
25 processes of justice, and against possible dereliction of duty

1 in this respect by States, or any governmental subdivision
2 thereof, or any officer or employee of either a State or 3 governmental subdivision thereof, if any particular provision,
4 sentence, or clause, or provisions, sentences, or clauses, of 5 this Act or the application thereof to any particular person
6 or circumstances, is held invalid, the remainder of the Act,
7 and the application of such provision to other persons or 8 other circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

9 SHORT TITLE

10 SEC. 11. This Act may be cited as the "Federal Anti-11 Lynching Act".

Dear Mr. White:

I have been pressing hard to get responsible voices from the South to take up the South's duty to protect the civil rights of its people. The right course, I think, is a combination of Federal legislation and positive action by states and local communities. It is difficult to press in the South for positive local action and at the same time keep it clear that the nation as a whole must act too.

I hope the good story in the New York Times for Saturday, February 28--page seven--reached you. It described the Southwide meeting here in Atlanta February 27 on human and civil rights. The Council had sponsored the meeting in cooperation with thirteen other organizations in the South. It was well attended, with people there from eleven states and over seventy towns. The meeting coincided with meetings in Atlanta of women from two of the largest Protestant denominations, and they were present at the meeting on human and civil rights. In the evening session we combined with a huge meeting at Atlanta University, which went very well indeed.

After a general morning session, we broke down into workshops, which cast up the enclosed recommendations for action to strengthen the rights of the people in the South. We had good press coverage. It was a lonely voice in the heat of controversy hereabouts, but it must had had some value as a voice honest and sincere.

It would be an excellent thing if CBS would carry another broadcast on the whole question.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

My dear George Mitchell:

Thank you for your prompt reply. I heard the broadcast in Indianapolis with F. E. DeFrantz at whose home I was staying when I went there to speak. We were both utterly shocked at the bias, the half-truths and the untruths uttered by both speakers.

I want you to see the enclosed copy of a letter which I wrote to Leon Levine, in charge of the educational programs at CBS.

CBS asked me to suggest speakers who would give a truer picture. I suggested Dr. Frank Graham and Dr. Channing H. Tobias. I would very much appreciate by collect telegram any suggestions you may have.

As a Southerner myself I resent the picture of the South which Messrs. Folsom and McGill gave. I was not surprised at Folsom; I was shocked by McGill for whom I entertained high regard even though we disagree on method. No one could ever have suspected from either speech that students, veterans, church and labor groups and others of like mind in the South exist.

Dear Mr. Levine:

I am glad to comply with your suggestion that I put in writing the gist of our telephone conversation about the program "People's Platform" over CBS last Sunday on which Governor Folsom of Alabama and Ralph McGill of the Atlanta Constitution spoke.

The basic criticism of mine and a very sizeable number of other persons who heard the program is that, wittingly or otherwise, totally false statements were made by both speakers. For example, Mr. McGill stated that the Southern Regional Council had gone on record in opposition to federal legislation or other action on the issue of civil rights in the South. Because I had not heard of such action and thinking that possibly it had been taken and not publicized, I telegraphed the Southern Regional Council for the facts. Mr. George S. Mitchell, Executive Director of the Southern Regional Council, 63 Auburn Avenue, Atlanta, wired me in reply today, "Mr. McGill did not state the Southern Regional Council's position in his radio broadcast over CBS last Sunday. The Council has never opposed federal legislation in the area of civil rights. At the same time we have always urged the South to assume its responsibilities in guaranteeing the civil rights of its people."

Governor Folsom made the statement that the people of the South, and particularly Negroes, opposed federal "interference". I telegraphed some of the distinguished Negro members of the Southern Regional Council such as Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, President of Morehouse College, Atlanta and Mr. P. B. Young, Editor of the Norfolk Journal and Guide. Dr. Mays wired in reply that neither he nor Dr. Ira Reid of Atlanta University agreed with McGill's statement and they are issuing a statement to that effect. Mr. Young wires, "Ralph McGill does not speak for me as member of Southern Regional Council."

Aside from these misstatements of fact, both speakers were guilty, in my opinion, of stating conclusions and giving opinions which are diametrically opposite to the truth. Both declared that the South itself is getting rid of lynching, the white primary, educational inequalities and the poll tax. I don't want to be guilty of a statement on the other side as extreme as that. But the facts will bear out the assertion that the white primary was outlawed wholly and solely because test cases were taken to the United States Supreme Court and won in that tribunal. There is no record of any serious attempt on the part of any of the South to eliminate disfranchisement by means of white primaries.

The same is true of the poll tax. The one reason why the poll tax has been abolished by two Southern states (but still retained by seven other Southern states) is because of the campaign for federal legislation. Precisely the same situation applies to the fight against lynching. The same circumstances attend the struggle for equalization of education. Practically the only reason for the improvement in the matter of graduate and professional training for Negroes, the lessening of the differential in teachers' salaries and per capita expenditures is due to the series of actions in courts of law and of public opinion conducted by "Northerners" through such organizations as the NAACP which are told of in the enclosed pamphlet, "Equal Justice Under Law".

But my criticism goes even deeper in that neither Governor Folsom nor Mr. McGill accurately pictured the gratifying and considerable increase in enlightened public opinion in the South against discrimination and segregation.

Most reprehensible was the assertion by both men that President Truman's recent message to Congress and the Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights was motivated wholly by selfish political reasons. I happen to know as a matter of personal knowledge that, while political considerations naturally play a part in the action of any President who is a candidate for reelection, Mr. Truman demonstrated by his record in Congress and by the creation of the Committee on Civil Rights in 1946 that he had a genuine and admirable concern about gross violations of legal and human rights of American citizens which injure America both here and abroad.

It is my hope that CBS will continue its admirable and courageous record by scheduling as soon as possible another "People's Platform" on which less biased and more able spokesmen may tell and interpret the truth. If we can be of any help in this connection, I am sure you do not need to be told of our willingness to render it.

Ever sincerely

People, Politics And Places

PEOPLE'S PLATFORM

THE EFFECT of southern pressures and the distortion of the truth which those pressures create was never more [illegible]ally audible than on a recent [illegible]adcast of CBS's "People's Platfo[illegible]ers were Governor James E. Fol[illegible]ama and Ralp[illegible] Edi[illegible]tor of [illegible] CONSTIT[illegible] subject was Pres[illegible]dent Truman's mes[illegible]sage to Congress urging immediate passage of civil rights legislation.

Although Governor Folsom was supported by labor and some other liberal groups as a liberal the manner and language of his recent nomination of himself as Democratic candidate for President has created in the minds of a good many people the belief that he aspires to be another Huey Long. But much more was expected of Ralph McGill who has been widely publicized as a "southern liberal." The performance of both men was sickening and infuriating to a lot of listeners, which included F. E. DeFrantz of Indianapolis with whom I listened to the broadcast in his home in that city.

'NEGRO AND NIGRA'

It wasn't so much that McGill and Folsom started out saying "Negro" and then lapsed into "Nigra." But both men indulged in false statements or in highly inaccurate versions of what is causing certain changes in the South and the nation today.

One of the fundamental principles which governs the newspaper business is that a reporter should be accurate in giving the facts. Mr. McGill, Editor of one of the South's leading newspapers, stated th[illegible]thern Regional Council had gone [illegible] opposition to Federal legislation agai[illegible]nching, the poll tax, and job discrimination. Thinking that such action might have been taken witho[illegible]g released to the newspapers or that I h[illegible] looked the story, I telegraphed the Sout[illegible]ional Council to get the facts. Geo[illegible] S. [illegible]itchell, Executiv[illegible] Director of the Council promptly wired in reply, "MR. McGILL DID NOT STATE THE SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL'S POSITION IN HIS RADIO BROADCAST OVER CBS LAST SUNDAY. THE COUNCIL HAS NEVER OPPOSED FEDERAL LEGISLATION IN THE AREA OF CIVIL RIGHTS. AT THE SAME TIME, WE HAVE ALWAYS URGED THE SOUTH T[illegible]UME THE CIVIL RIGHTS OF SOUTH[illegible]UME ITS RESPONSIBILITIES IN GUA[illegible]ING THE CIVIL RIGHTS OF ITS PEOPLE."

Thus, falsehood No. 1.

Governor Folsom asserted bluntly that the people of the South, and particularly Negroes, were opposed to "Federal legislation" and "northern interfe[illegible]e." President Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse [illegible]ge, Atlanta, wires unequivocally that [illegible]r. Ira Reid of Atlanta University do [illegible]nd they are issuing a statement of th[illegible], P. B. Young of the Norfolk JOUR[illegible]GUIDE who is also a member [illegible]RD OF THE SOUTHERN R[illegible]IL WIRED "RALPH McG[illegible]EAK FOR ME AS MEM[illegible] REGIONAL COUNCIL," [illegible]er what Negroes, if any, Governor F[illegible]nsulted and by what authority they spe[illegible]

ONLY PART OF THE STORY

But this is only part of the story. Both speakers asserted repeatedly and vigorously that the South itself is wiping out the poll tax, the white primary, educational discrimination, and job inequality. Who has actually done the job? The reason and the ONLY reason the white primary has been wiped out is because the NAACP has carried to the United States Supreme Court and won three smashing victories against the white primary. In addition, it won the case in South Carolina in which Judge J. Waties Waring [illegible]ously outlawed the white primary and his [illegible] was unanimously upheld in a brilliant [illegible]ision written by Judge John J. Parker of the [illegible]rcuit Court of Appeals.

Similarly, lynching has diminished and the poll tax is on the run wholly and solely because of the campaign for Federal legislation against those twin evils. As for the reduction of the still great differential in educational opportunity for Negro and white in the south ranging from kindergarten [illegible] post-graduate schools, all of that has been [illegible] through legal battles Waged by the NA[illegible] does even Governor Folsom dare assert with a straight face that anything would have been done had not there been the pressu[illegible] legal decisions and public opinion?

Lying is [illegible] enough [illegible] it is done cleverly or at least slightly masked by the semblance of reason or truth. But th[illegible] attempt, including a gratuitou[illegible] of P[illegible]t Truman by both speakers [illegible]ging [illegible] current concern for civil [illegible] is m[illegible]olly by political ambi[illegible] does not [illegible]ave the merit of plausibili[illegible]

Dear Friends:

The Atlanta Branch, National Association For the Advancement Of Colored People, is planning to extend to its National Organization, at the annual meeting in Boston, Mass., June 20-25, an invitation to hold the 1951 convention in Atlanta, Georgia.

If the invitation should be accepted this will be the first time the convention will have been held in this section and one of the few times it has been held in the South. We believe that Atlanta has something to offer in the way of demonstrating the results of good race relations and many of the hundreds who expect to attend the convention have never visited the South.

It is for this reason that we would like to have as many organizations as possible to extend formal letters of invitation which will be submitted at the meeting in Boston, by our official delegates. We expect to have 1200 to 1500 delegates and visitors from all sections of the country, and speakers are usually persons of outstanding national and international importance.

Please, therefore, join us in extending the invitation by addressing a letter to:

National Association For the Advancement Of Colored People
In Session, June 20 - 25, 1950
Boston, Mass.

If possible, the letter should be typed on 8½ X 11 inch sheets and sent to our headquarters, 204 Auburn Avenue NE, Atlanta, Georgia, not later than June 10, 1950.

Thanking you for your cooperation, we remain

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Moon:

Since Dr. Mitchell is out of the city for the whole of this week, I am taking the liberty of replying to your letter of June 4.

We have been in touch with Mr. C. L. Harper, Dr. William Boyd, Mrs. Grace Hamilton, and other local persons, about the question of the Atlanta papers which you mention. We have heard indirectly that the papers would like to soft-pedal the convention as much as possible, probably on the grounds that publicity on it would provide ammunition for Talmadge and his race baiting associates. That does not mean that the Atlanta papers will ignore the convention; indeed, it is inconceivable that they could do so.

There are ways, however, to assure fuller coverage than would otherwise take place. One of these is to get the widest possible play through the wire services. As you will probably have heard by now from Dr. Boyd, Bem Price, of the Atlanta Bureau of AP, will staff the convention and is eager to have your cooperation in advance. Mr. Price is an excellent man, who can be counted on to do a good job. Any help you can give him will be well invested.

UP and INS, which rarely staff anything, might be prodded by requests from subscriber papers in New York or elsewhere. It seems quite likely that John Popham, Southeastern correspondent for the New York Times, will cover the convention. That will also do a good deal to cause the Atlanta papers to give the convention the attention it deserves.

I would suggest, of course, that you approach the Atlanta newspapers with your material as though you took their interest for granted and assumed that the convention would have big play in their pages.

Dr. Mitchell will be back in the office on Monday and will see your letter then. Pay us a visit when you arrive in Atlanta.

Dear George:

We have just had word that the Atlanta papers; that is the Constitution and the Journal, are prepared to give our convention the silent treatment when it meets there June 26-July 1.

I don't know whether there is any truth to this report but I wonder if you have any means of finding out whether or not any such plan has been developed by the Atlanta newspapers and, if so, what steps you think we should take to counteract it. I would greatly appreciate any information and suggestions you may be able to make to me in response to this inquiry.

I shall be arriving in Atlanta about June 19 and look forward to seeing you in the event that you are in the city at that time.

Here is a most interesting story from the April 2 NEW YORK TIMES. It shows the first beginnings of a "fight back" on behalf of city people needing housing.

April 23, 1952

Dear George:

I am enclosing a copy of a decision handed down by Chancellor Collins J. Seitz of the Delaware Court of Chancery in regard to the segregated schools in two suburbs of Wilmington, Delaware.

On behalf of Negro children and their parents, attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed suit in this court seeking a judgment which would outlaw segregation in the elementary and high schools of New Castle County.

This is one of a series of such suits filed by NAACP lawyers in South Carolina, Virginia, Kansas and other states in a concerted drive to abolish the entire segregated school system.

Chancellor Seitz's decision does not overrule the "separate but equal" doctrine. However, it provides for the admission of Negro children to hitherto all-white elementary and high schools. Thurgood Marshall, NAACP Special Counsel, calls it "the first real victory in our campaign to destroy segregation of American pupils in elementary and high schools." The NAACP attorney sees this decision as "most encouraging" and believes that it "will be a valuable precedent in" cases in other states.

I am sending this to you for your information and for whatever other use you may be able to make of it.

Dear Sir:

Our attention has been called to the emblem which appears on the official election ballot of the Democratic Party in the State of Alabama.

We are told that the emblem has appeared on the ballot for more than half a century, but we believe that the time has more than come when it should be changed.

The idea of "White Supremacy" which has been symbolical of the political South and its traditions is one which we are sure you will agree is paradoxical to "democracy" and Christianity.

Since the United States of America is waging a battle against ideas in other parts of the world, ideas which are in contradiction to democracy and the "American Way of Life," would it not be well if all of her States initiate efforts to change ideas and patterns, too, which do not help in that great struggle?

It must be confusing to foreign students who come into this section of the country to see a ballot on which the words "White Supremacy" and "For the Right" are inscribed after they have read and heard about a country which offers opportunity for all. It is impossible for our diplomats abroad to argue the validity of nations which have a predominately colored population joining with us, a "free" nation, so long as there exists the disparity between the rights of some and the rights of others. If we are clear in our thinking we cannot help but see that the day of world peace will come much sooner if we here at home show more respect for each other and have more regard for the fundamental rights of all American citizens, regardless of race, creed or color. The United States of America will become more truly united when all states accept their share of responsibility in granting to all of their citizens their human and their constitutional rights.

The Negro is still being denied the right to vote unhampered in many counties of the State and it will appear that the State Democratic Party endorses this disfranchisement, in spite of its disagreement with the "Dixiecrats" if the official ballots remain unchanged.

We, therefore, ask you at this time to use your good offices to have removed from the official ballots of the Democratic Party in the State of Alabama all references to "White Supremacy". Let this be done in the name of democracy, christianity, and for the good will of thousands of citizens of the State of Alabama, both Negro and white who believe with Thomas Jefferson, that, "All men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness."

May we hear from you.

Very truly yours,

(Mrs.) Ruby Hurley

Dear Friend:

In Florida last year, Negro homes were bombed, one Negro prisoner shot dead by a sheriff and a second gravely wounded, a Negro leader and his wife murdered by unknown assailants, and a 26 year-old Negro taken from his home and lynched near Winter Garden.

Florida is no more a hotbed of racial hatred than some other Southern states. The facts of racial violence in this one state, recounted by Joe Alex Morris in the enclosed article from the Saturday Evening Post, are facts of life in American society, encountered in the North as well as in the South.

All through the past year the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund has fought valiantly in Florida and elsewhere to put out the flames of racial violence, to prevent injustices that could never be undone. Our attorneys have defended Walter Irvin and other innocent victims of "justice by color" in the courts. We have assembled the wisest heads in the legal profession to present the Constitutional case for equal justice before the courts. Some, like Mr. and Mrs. Moore, have given their lives to further the democratic way of solving our racial problems. Others give their work and money for the principles of our common faith in decency.

Before the middle of July, 1952, the Supreme Court of Florida will receive the appeal of Walter Irvin. He is 24, and has been twice sentenced to death. His defense has already cost the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund $42,768.37 for legal fees, printing of legal papers, transportation of witnesses, and expense of investigations for two trials and the series of appeals which won the first reversal from the U. S. Supreme Court. We are prepared to carry on this fight in the belief that American justice in the end will vindicate this innocent young man. We need your help to save Walter Irvin, who has already endured nearly three years of imprisonment for a crime he did not commit.

Will you give as generously as you can?

Sincerely yours,

Allan Knight Chalmers

Dear Walter:

I promised the other day to bring you up to date on the Southern Regional Council's request to the Fund for the Republic.

What we want is enough money to enable us to put into each Southern State full-time staff for the next five years. The State staff would ordinarily be a white person and a Negro person and a clerk. The present Southwide membership of the Southern Regional Council would, we presume, be turned over to vigorous State organizations, based upon our present State Divisions of the Southern Regional Council. The Council itself would then become a Southwide Board of Trustees, administering the grant, correlating the work of the State organizations, and tying in with that work a quite modest program of research. The research would be, for the most part, feeling out needs for additional research and the parceling of the various areas of inquiry to colleges and universities and other groups. The State groups, assisted by their permanent personnel, would work particularly on all questions of race affecting the schools, on police administration, on matters of equal justice, on community self-surveys, on race in the news, on major aspects of employment opportunity, and such similar special needs as might be approved, State by State, from time to time.

We think that the time has gone by when the South can be expected to blunder through these periods of great tension without the assistance of any established body joining together white and Negro leadership. For thirty years of work in this field the Council, and the old Commission on Interracial Cooperation before it, have found many friends and many fruitful ways to work. They need now to be strengthened by firm organization.

We ourselves think the request is, considering the need, modest, and we are warmly hopeful that the Fund for the Republic will see the importance of it and will enable us to put it through.

We rejoice all over the South in the most friendly relationships with the NAACP and its local branches. I am satisfied that the two organizations can work together with increasing benefit to the cause we both serve.

May I say, in passing, that we have been delighted with the helpful relationships that Mrs. Ruby Hurley, for your Southeastern Office, has opened to us. She is crisp, persuasive, and effective, and we cherish greatly her cooperation.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Dr. Mitchell has indicated to us that you will attend our Southeastern Regional Leadership Training Conference. We are very glad to know this because you have a great deal to contribute in our effort to make our branches more alert to the issues confronting us in the Region.

Specifically we are asking that you share in the discussion on Housing which is scheduled to begin on Saturday morning, February 21. The subject is "Democratic Housing for Democratic Slums" and we should like to have information relative to slum clearance and relocation problems, federal and public housing programs, and what people in local communities can do to alleviate the horrible housing conditions, as for instance, in having representation on city housing commissions.

A copy of the program is enclosed for your guidance and information and it is entirely possible that we will be calling on you as a resource person in some of the other discussions.

If you have anything in the way of literature on these various matters please let us have it for distribution.

I regret that we did not have sufficient notice to plan to be in attendance at the Alabama State Meeting today. We hope that it was successful.

With every good wish, I am

Sincerely yours,

ANNUAL REPORT FROM THE SOUTHEASTERN REGIONAL OFFICE

INTRODUCTION

The Southeastern Regional Office has made a serious and determined effort to give incentive, stimulation and direction to Branches in the area toward the end that memberships would be increased, financial contributions greater and the program a more dynamic influence in the various communities and states.

It would appear from observations and discussions that the NAACP is at a crossroad in the South. The white man of the political South has done an excellent job of conditioning the Negro to the acceptance of an inferior position in society. The NAACP has done an excellent job of creating a climate in which Negroes may move about with less fear of physical injury or possible death. The NAACP has made it possible for the Negro in the South to enjoy a better way of life -- better jobs with more money, better homes, and better schools. Everything is so much better than it was that the average Negro feels little cause for complaint, in fact he is inclined to be satisfied with the improved conditions. Therefore, the need for NAACP is not felt to be so great and it is more difficult to get NAACP memberships and money than it was during the years when the pressures were more obvious.

Improvement is being shown, however, in many areas and we expect to show greater progress in the months ahead.

CONTACTS WITH BRANCHES

The Regional Secretary has traveled 16,577 miles thus far this year. She has visited 38 communities, attended State Conferences in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee, and attended State Executive Board meetings in Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. She covered a total of 152 speaking, branch and other engagements during this year including appearances before Teachers Associations of Alabama and Mississippi, the American Teachers Association, and the Alabama State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs.

News letters and directives on specific issues were sent to branch officers periodically. Although 804 personal communications and 10,664 mimeographed letters of one kind or another were sent to the 263 branches in the region only 635 letters were received. Effort has been and is being made to stimulate greater response from branch officers.

STATE CONFERENCE ACTIVITIES

Tighter organization of State Conferences has been effected in Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee. Constitutions to govern the Mississippi and Tennessee Conferences have been completed and submitted to the National Office for approval. The Florida constitution will be completed in the near future.

We have not received reports from North Carolina or South Carolina.

The Alabama State Conference was active in the campaign for registration and voting and has begun work on the admission of Negroes to the University of Alabama.

Of the 25 branches and 1 authorized committee in the state, 21 had made some report of memberships as of November 10, during this year. On that date 4,182 of the 8,000 membership goal had been produced.

There remains a great deal of work to strengthen the state organization, organize new branches, and stimulate greater activity in existing branches.

The Florida State Conference was handicapped in a measure by the illness of the president. The reaction of the Christmas Night bombing in Mims seems to have set in after the Jacksonville meeting in January and memberships showed a marked decline from 4,028 to 2,717 as of November 26. With the assignment of Mr. Saunders to the state interest began to rise in Tampa and other parts of the state. With the election of new officers in several of the Branches we expect further improvement.

The new president of the State Conference has begun plans for a stepped-up program for the 68 branches listed in the state.

The Georgia State Conference initiated a plan designed to organize new branches, reactivate those that are dead or dormant and revitalize existing units. Vice presidents were chosen to assume the responsibility in each of four sections of the state. The Regional Office supplied each vice president with a listing of the counties in his area, the names and addresses of officers of existing branches and the names and addresses of persons who were once active in communities where branches are now inactive.

Reverend Ralph Mark Gilbert of Savannah reported that he had visited twenty-three counties in his area and had made some progress in setting up temporary organizations in a number of them. He plans a second trip early in the year.

One of the vice presidents died in the spring; one was busy with the political action program and the fourth person was apparently inactive.

The president of the Georgia State Confer nce has raised funds for the Ward case which is now in the courts and was most active in the registration and voting drive.

Georgia Branches were given a quota of 7,725 members and had obtained 4,109 as of December 3 for 1952.

The Mississippi State Conference has made tremendous progress in the fact of untold obstacles. Attempts to intimida te NAACP leaders have been unsuccessful. Further, our people have not been too discouraged by the hypocrisy of some Negro "leaders."

New branches were organized in Greenwood, Columbus and Natchez.

We were successful in securing two men who have secured applications for admission to the University of Mississippi and are now waiting for directives from the Legal Department.

Reverend W. A. Bender who organized the conference and served as president for seven years was made president emeritus this year and Rev. Amos O. Holmes of Amory was elected president.

On October 30 the 21 branches in the state had secured 1,099 memberships toward the year's quota of 2,250.

The reports for North Carolina and South Carolina will be given by their workers. We can only say here that North Carolina's 62 branches reported 4,749 memberships as of October 16 toward the quota of 10,875. South Carolina's 86 branches reported 5,410 of 13,125 memberships as of October 14.

Tennessee is a state in which a great deal of work is to be done. There are only five active branches in the state, although the potential is much higher. The year's quota is 11,550; as of October 3,087 memberships had been reported.

The new administration under the leadership of Mrs. B. H. Netherland of Knoxville has had one board meeting in which plans were laid for increasing membership and program activity.

We expect that in another year all of the state conferences in the region will be organized and geared to show substantial increases all along the line.

BRANCH ACTIVITY

It is impossible to give a full report of Branch activities for many reasons, but chiefly because for the most part we know what branches are doing only when visits are made to their communities. However, commendation should go to the Nashville Branch which has attacked the proposed Negro golf course, the discrimination agianst Negro blind children who are in the worst possible segregated accommodations, and segregated seating for the Passion Play, "Black Hills."

The Knoxville Branch is recognized also for its protest against segregation for the presentation of the play there; for their cooperation in getting branch activity revived in Oak Ridge, Alcoa and other communities in eastern Tennessee; for opening job opportunities for Negroes and for the support it gives to the youth council program in that city.

The Bessemer, Alabama Branch gave excellent response in our effort to prosecute a case against a white man who raped a seven year-old colored child. He received a sentence of 30 years in prison.

Henry County, Alabama deserves special recognition for the work done there in registration and voting. This branch operates in southern Alabama back woods. Threats and very real intimidation did not prevent 116 Negroes from registering and voting -- voting out the Superintendent of Schools who had been definitely anti-Negro.

Amory, Indianola and Natchez, Mississippi Branches were active in registration and voting campaigns. It is significant that in Natchez a number of teachers are active NAACP Branch workers.

All branches that do anything at all in such areas as Early County, Georgia are to be congratulated. Just a few years ago Negroes could not ride in a new car or wear a suit of clothes in that section.

CASE WORK

Twenty-one cases have been referred to the Regional Office during the year. There were two rape cases and a police killing in Bessemer which were investigated by the Regional Secretary, with our attorney, and on which she worked closely.

The other cases were investigated by Branch officers in Savannah, and Dothan, Alabama and Florida Field Secretary Saunders. One case was referred to the Houston, Texas Branch for investigation. Investigations are pending in two other cases -- one an extradition case in Memphis and the other of a Negro held on a charge of murder in Fulton, Mississippi.

Conferences were held with the Attorney General of the State of Alabama on the record of Negro deaths at the hands of law enforcement agents in the state. This matter was submitted to the Legal Department for referral to the Department of Justice.

A conference was held with the Commanding General of the Brookley Field AFB at Mobile, Alabama. Branch Secretary J. L. LeFlore and the Regional Secretary got information about the racial incidents which have occurred there and gave the General our position on the matter of such cases.

PROTESTS

In addition to the protests made relative to police killings the Regional Secretary made protests to the Governor and the State Board of Education of Alabama against their decision to use the 12th grade textbook "CHALLENGE OF DEMOCRACY" only if the chapter "Minority Groups Should Share Equally With All Others In The American Way of Life," was deleted and other changes made. A number of branches and other organizations cooperated by sending letters of protest also.

Letters were sent to the Aughinbaugh Canning Company, Biloxi, Mississippi relative to the offensive labels on their products; to the Southern Finance Company in Anniston for derogatory pictures and terms on billboards; to two stores in Birmingham relative to the use of courtesy titles; to the L & N Railroad Company relative to discrimination in transportation and to the Birmingham Transit Company relative to discrimination on buses. Communications were sent to and a conference was held with the chairman of the Alabama State Democratic Committee in which we asked that the slogan "White Supremacy" be removed from the party's official ballot. Promise was given us that he would work toward that end.

Replies were received only from the Birmingham stores and Transit Company and the L & N Railroad.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Press releases have been sent to a number of papers in the region from time to time. Excellent cooperation has been given by the Birmingham World through Mr. Emory O. Jackson.

The Regional Secretary was interviewed on four programs in Mobile and held a press conference while there.

Contributions were sent to the Nation for the special political action edition; and to American Unity.

We cooperated with the Southern Regional Council and the Southern Regional office of the Anti-Defamation League on surveys being made by them.

In addition to speaking at meetings of other organizations mentioned earlier in the report, we participated in the regional meetings of the National Council of Negro Women and Organizations in the Field of Human Relations. We were host to the latter group at a meeting in Birmingham.

The Birmingham Chapter of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity cited the Regional Secretary "for service over and above the call of duty in the promotion of her work among the nation's largest minority."

SPECIAL MATERIALS RELEASED

A leaflet, "Ten Reasons Why You Should Join the NAACP" was prepared and distributed to Branches in the region for the Membership campaign.

Another leaflet, "Ten Reasons Why You Should Vote" was prepared for the Alabama State Coordinating Committee on Registration and Voting.

"You Are A Teacher? Then You Should Join the NAACP. Why? Because," was prepared in mimeographed form for Branch campaigns.

YOUTH PROGRAM

We regret exceedingly that time did not permit our doing much on the youth program. We did speak to assemblies and groups of students in several of the communities visited, particularly Knoxville, Tennessee; Albany, Georgia, and Mobile, Alabama.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

We mention briefly the South-wide Conference which we held in Jacksonville, Florida following the bombing of the Moore's in Mims which received excellent publicity and response.

We were also working at the Annual Convention in Oklahoma City with Region V. Citations were presented to persons who had secured more than 100 memberships in their branch campaigns in one of the Region's meetings there.

The Southeast Regional Advisory Board was set up with representation from each State Conference in the Region. Reverend J. M. Minton was elected chairman and the Regional Secretary will serve as secretary to the Board.

THE FUTURE

The Southeastern Region has a terrific potential but we have a job of great magnitude to educate both Negroes and whites to the point that they recognize the NAACP as an organization defending the rights of all American citizens to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness without discrimination because of race, creed, or color and that Negroes, particularly, in this region will give the necessary support to make us more effective.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

The First Annual Southeastern Regional NAACP Leadership Training Conference has been called to give to Branch, Youth Council and College Chapter officers and members, information relative to the problems which the Association faces in its continued drive for complete emancipation, techniques which may be used to solve those problems and stimulation to get the job done as quickly as possible.

Our goals for the coming year, as set forth by the Regional Advisory Board, are as follows:

1. At least 57,500 memberships in the seven member states.

2. A substantial increase in the number of qualified, registered voters.

3. Implementation of the United States Supreme Court decisions affecting education in graduate schools to the end that Negroes will be admitted to such schools in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina.

4. Implementation of Court decisions affecting interstate transportation to the end that no Negro traveling across state lines will be segregated or otherwise discriminated against because of race.

5. Greater advancement toward the end of segregation and discrimination in housing, recreational facilities and places of public accommodation.

To achieve these goals branches, youth councils and college chapters of the NAACP must share in the responsibility. We hope that each delegate will make a contribution here and share what has been gained on the return home.

THE NAACP MEMBERSHIP JOB IS NOT COMPLETE IN ATLANTA

You are a citizen of Atlanta, and as a good citizen you take a good deal of pride in what happens in Atlanta. In the tradition of the American way of life, Atlanta is far behind in the area, particularly, of Civil Rights of the Negro and other minority groups.

The Atlanta NAACP has a goal of 5,000 members for 1953. We must and can reach this goal. There should be twice as many members as this minimum figure to help finance the work the NAACP is doing in Atlanta, in Georgia, and throughout the Nation.

As you read this leaflet, ask yourself the following questions:

1. Have I taken out my own membership? Have I put the NAACP in my budget along with the other organizations in my community?

2. As a person who believes in the rights of all people, have I encouraged my neighbor to join the NAACP?

3. Have I asked the person with whom I work to join the NAACP?

4. Have I asked those in the clubs and other organizations to which I belong to throw their support to the NAACP?

5. Have I asked my Pastor and church members to join the NAACP in order to spread brotherhood on earth?

6. Have I asked the persons with whom I trade, and with whom I spend my money to help support the NAACP which stands for democracy for all people?

7. Have I diligently worked for the NAACP instead of giving it lip service as is the case of a lot of my fellow-citizens?

YOU NEED THE NAACP

TO SECURE AND PROTECT FIRST CLASS CITIZENSHIP FOR ALL AMERICANS

TO ELIMINATE THE COLOR LINE IN EMPLOYMENT

TO DEFEND YOUR RIGHT TO LIVE IN A HOME OF YOUR CHOICE

TO OPEN UP THE BEST SCHOOLS IN YOUR COMMUNITY TO ALL CHILDREN

TO UPHOLD YOUR RIGHT TO VOTE

TO GUARANTEE EQUAL JUSTICE UNDER THE LAW

TO EXPOSE AND FIGHT RACIAL BIGOTRY AND DISCRIMINATION WHEVER THEY OCCUR

We must for the sake of our own good and the advancement of democracy support the NAACP for Civil Rights. NO ONE CAN AFFORT NOT TO BELONG TO THE NAACP.

Dear Henry:

I think the man's idea about the button is good. I have talked of the same thing myself, but we have never moved on it. I have even designed one, as hereon.

Another possibility for the same device would be for an appropriate organization to trademark the design or get a copyright on it and license its use for business establishments, hotels, restaurants, and so on. A sign, as a decal, on a window would mean no discrimination at all. I should think filling stations might compete to get the sign.

That was an exceedingly good paper you did for the institute at Nashville. Scholarly, judicious, and as nearly accurate as could be in so guessy a field. I hope you will send me a copy of it.

Sincerely and with warm regards,

Dear Friend:

I am enclosing copies of correspondence which I have recently had in the hope that you will read it carefully and let me have your reaction to the suggestion advanced by my correspondent who, at the present time, prefers to remain anonymous because of his employment and location. He has, however, agreed to the circulation of his letter for this purpose.

I am sending this correspondence to a number of our friends of both races in the South so that I may have a composite picture of the reaction to this proposal.

I would appreciate hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

RECEIVED
JUL 22
REGISTRATION Southern

National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
20 West 40th Street
New York 18, N. Y.

Dear Sirs:

My wife and I are white New Englanders who moved to this town last summer. We knew what to expect, of course; nor had we been unexposed to racial discrimination and direct contact with colored people in the North. In fact, I suppose we have had rather more experience, and rather more concern, with so called problems of race relations than the vast majority of people in our home region. This is merely by way of self-introduction.

I am writing to you in order to get an evaluation of an idea that I have been harboring for some time. Talking recently with some local Negro friends, quite simple people but with what is for this community a remarkable lack of diffidence in discussing Jim Crow with whites, I pointed out that I, as a white man, felt just as humiliated by the racial taboos--by having to sit separately in buses, for example--as they could. For it is humiliating to any sensitive and conscionable person to be confronted with the indignities to which his group has subjected another group of people; the humiliation weighs the more heavily on him, because he is the cause of it; the Negroes must merely bear the cross, not answer for it in any way. Violence degrades the doer far more than it does the victim. If for no other reason than this, I said to my friends, I am a sworn enemy of Jim Crow.

At this point one of the Negroes said he wished there were more people like me around. I quickly replied that I believed there were--many of them. I added that I thought the time was riper than anyone supposed for a vigorous, open campaign against segregation in the South. But the best weapon in the hands of the supremacists hereabouts is the tradition of silence about all race problems. For instance, after six months here, I finally learned (it was told me sotto voce) that a suit was pending against the University, in which a Negro was trying to gain admission to the Law School. But there has never to my knowledge, been a single item in one of the papers about it; I have never heard anyone discuss it openly. I doubt if many people know it is going on.

I come to my point. I personally know many white people here who detest Jim Crow, who are completely free of any illusions of racial superiority. I constantly observe unknown white people behaving in public as if nearby colored people were people. Often there are strong economic motives for this, and here is a fortunate factor for us. But as a group the enemies of discrimination and segregation do not have any idea of their own numerical strength. This is now, I feel, the greatest obstacle to progress. One is often afraid, as a newcomer, to express even the slightest opinion as an individual, or to explore, even tentatively, the opinions of new acquaintances. One lonely neck sticking out can be seen a long way off; and sniping as a retaliatory tactic can have crippling effectiveness. Group action is the only way. But first the members of our group must make themselves known to each other--white people to white people primarily; for the issue will have to be fought out by whites against whites.

I suggest, therefore, that a movement be started to identify publicly the individual enemies of Jim Crow and everything associated with Jim Crow. I suggest that some form of very modest insignia be devised, such as an inconspicuous, small metal (not enameled but pressed) lapel button and dress pin, which people can wear to make themselves known to each other--and, of course, though for the time being quite incidentally, to the Negro people. There would be no lettering, no slogan, no picture; merely some small, utterly simple design, possibly with a symbolic reference. We would, of course, be advertising to the supremacists our hostility to supremacy, but that would not be the primary purpose. We would be reassuring ourselves publicly, counting ourselves, building up our confidence as a potentially militant group--proving, I hope, that there were indeed many of us around.

Harmless, mild, ineffective? I think not. It is desperately important for us to get to know each other, for only thus can we prepare to go forward. The ultimate aim, of course, is to bring about abolition by public campaign and political pressure, by nullifying legislation. There is no question of gradualism. There is only the problem of intelligent preparation for action. The forces must be marshaled. Is this a practical way to begin?

Why do I address this question to NAACP? Because you are the most experienced organization dealing with these problems. You are in a position to evaluate a plan of this sort, to see possible pitfalls which I, or all we like-minded whites, especially Northerners, might in our naivete overlook. I am therefore broaching the matter to you before taking it up with like-minded whites in such organizations as the very liberal local chapter of the League of Women Voters. I have the added motive of personal caution, for in my employment I am prohibited from taking an active part in any political activity of an organized nature. I have a wife and children to support. But my wife is free to act; we have acquaintances in the LWV; it would be perfectly easy for me to start the ball rolling in a very quiet and anonymous way. My colored friends, incidentally, with whom I discussed the scheme, reacted favorably and approved by writing you.

I should therefore be very grateful to you for an opinion. At the same time, I should be grateful for any contact you could establish for me with a nearby branch of NAACP if you thought such contact might be fruitful. Certainly it would not be wise for any Negroes to engage openly in such a movement, to wear the button, or to be associated with us in any way; the job is for us, the whites, to do. But we would be glad to have our Negro neighbors know that we were trying to do it.

Fraternally yours,

Dear Mr._____:

We are well aware that there are many white people in the South, both Southern-born and others, who share your resentment against the prevailing forms of racial discrimination and segregation in that area. We believe that there are a great many more such persons than is generally realized because, as you indicate, they have been victims of a sort of conspiracy of silence. The Dixie demagogues have preempted the rostrum, leaving a substantial number of people in that region voiceless. The great need is to devise some means by which these people may become more articulate and exert an influence commensurate with their numbers.

I am not certain that your suggestion for a symbol is quite the answer. It seems to me to be taking on the trappings of conventional fraternal orders without the other aspects of such organizations. This, of course, is no final judgment and certainly is subject to revision if the situation warrants it.

You know, of course, that our organization does include in its membership white persons as well as Negro. We do have in the South, as elsewhere, a number of white members, some of them quite active in the work of the Association.

In addition to the NAACP there are other organizations of an interracial character (predominantly white, whereas the NAACP is predominantly Negro) working in the area of race relations in the South. The best known of these are the Southern Regional Council and the Southern Conference Educational Fund. There are also church groups working in this general field. The locals of the Congress of Industrial Organizations are interracial for the most part in the South and occasionally there are interracial locals of the American Federation of Labor. In addition, the American Veterans Committee is organized along interracial lines, without discrimination or segregation.

Because the question which you raise is of vital importance, I wonder if you would approve my circulating among friends of ours in the South, both Negro and white, copies of your letter and of this reply, with the suggestion that these people communicate their reaction to your proposal. I think such a distribution would stimulate interest throughout the region.

Thank you for sharing your idea with us and I do look forward to hearing from you again.

Ever sincerely,

Henry Lee Moon

FOR RELEASE: JULY 29, 1954

WARNS JIM CROW TRAVEL BILL
83rd CONGRESS' LAST CHANCE July 29, 1954

NEW YORK, July 29.-- Republican leaders in the House of Representatives have been warned that unless the pending anti-Jim Crow travel bill is passed the "two-year legislative activity of the Eisenhower Administration will show a complete blank on civil rights."

The warning was expressed in identical telegrams sent on July 26 by Roy Wilkins, NAACP administrator, to Speaker of the House, Joseph W. Martin, and the majority leader, Charles A. Halleck. The telegrams urged "favorable action by the House on H.R. 7304, a bill to outlaw segregation of the races in interstate travel."

The G.O.P. leaders were reminded that "other agencies of government have taken forward steps in civil rights field but the legislative branch has no record of accomplishment thus far in the new administration." Further, Mr. Wilkins said that in the elections in the fall civil rights advocates will be "interested in the legislative record since congressmen rather than judges or the President will be running for office."

Previously, President Eisenhower had been urged to issue "a clear and certain call upon Congress to act" on this bill. In a telegram to the President, Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman, NAACP Board of Directors; Walter White, executive secretary; and Clarence Mitchell, director, Washington Bureau, expressed the conviction that with the President's support the measure can be passed.

The bill, the most hopeful of the civil rights legislative program, was approved on July 21 by the House Commerce Committee by a vote of 19 to 7. It still must be cleared by the House Rules Committee before being voted upon by House members. Meanwhile, no action has been taken on the companion bill in the Senate.

NAACP branches in key states have been asked by Gloster B. Current, director of branches, to secure commitments for support of the bill from their respective congressmen. "This bill," Mr.Current told the branches, "can be passed in this session of the 83rd Congress if our people let their representatives and senators know that this is a crucial item in our legislative program and should be enacted forthwith."

HEARING HELD ON DESEGREGATION
OF YONKERS, N.Y.,PUBLIC SCHOOL July 29, 1954

ALBANY, N.Y., July 29.-- Decision has been reserved by Dr. L.A. Wilson, New York State Commissioner of Education, following arguments pro and con on the closing of an all-Negro school in the City of Yonkers. The school was ordered closed as of June 29 by the Yonkers. Board of Education and the pupils assigned to two other schools.

The Yonkers branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People endorsed the Board's action and was represented at the hearings here on July 28 by Miss Olive J. Hamilton, vice president. Opposing the desegregation order was a group of Negro parents for whom W. Scott Davis, attorney, was spokesman. Mr. Davis and his group contended for retaining the 82-year-old school and extending the district lines to include white residential areas. They filed a petition with the State Commissioner of Education to that end. Arguing for desegregation was the corporation counsel of Yonkers, J. Raymond Hannon.

In a resolution passed on July 23, the Yonkers NAACP endorsed the action of the Board "in its decision to close School No. 1 in the City of Yonkers which has become a segregated Negro school as result of residential segregation in the community."

Further, the branch offered "its cooperation in helping the board to implement its decision" and called "upon all citizens and residents of Yonkers" to support and cooperate with the Board in "the elimination of racial segregation in the public schools."

ICC HEARS 7 RAIL COMPANIES
ADMIT THEY JIM CROW NEGROES July 29, 1954

WASHINGTON, July 29.-- Seven of the 11 railroad companies cited by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in its complaint filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission admit that they maintain segregated facilities for Negro passengers in interstate travel.

The admission was made here this week at hearings held July 27-28 before the ICC in which attorneys for the NAACP charged 11 railroads and the Richmond Terminal Ry. Company with segregating Negro passengers in interstate travel. The charges against the companies were brought by the NAACP and 20 persons, including one white man.

The seven companies which admit to Jim Crow facilities claim they do so where the laws require the separation of the races, but claim that the facilities provided for Negroes are equal to those provided for white passengers.

NAACP attorneys, for the purpose of the hearings, conceded that the facilities were equal in every respect, but asked if the railroads had the right to segregate passengers in interstate travel.

The four remaining companies deny that they practice enforced segregation. NAACP witnesses, however, testified that these railroads do segregate.

The railroads admitting to segregation are the St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., the Louisville and Nashville Ry. Co., the Santa Fe Railway System, the Atlantic Coast Line, the Kansas City Southern, the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio, the Southern Ry. Co., and the Richmond Terminal Co., which operates the waiting rooms and other facilities in the Broad Street Station in Richmond, Va.

The other railroads are the Texas and Pacific, the Missouri Pacific, the Sea Board Air Line and the Illinois Central.

The Union News Co., which operates a restaurant in the Broad Street Station at Richmond, was listed in the NAACP's original complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission. It was dismissed. NAACP attorneys, however, argued that the Richmond Terminal Company does have an obligation to see that interstate passengers are not discriminated against in the restaurant.

The Richmond Terminal Co., which leases to the Union News, admits to segregation but contends that if Negro passengers used the facilities provided for whites nothing was done about it. Richmond's chief law enforcement officer testified to the effect that Negroes have used the facilities.

W. Lester Banks, executive secretary of the Virginia state conference of NAACP branches, testified that he has for the past 7½ years been a constant observer of the situation at the Broad Street Station and has never seen a Negro passenger using the facilities set aside for whites.

Banks said he has seen Negroes approaching the waiting room and drinking fountain but after noticing the "White" signs, turned away.

The complaints of James Green, Dorothy M. Scott and Rev. A. L. James were permitted to enter the records as having been denied service in the restaurant at the Richmond Broad Street Station.

Findings of a survey of travel conditions made under the direction of Dr. Herman H. Long of Fisk University in Nashville were termed obsolete by some of the attorneys for the railroads who claimed that practices had been changed since the survey was made in 1949-50. Dr. Long testified on the various methods used by the companies to enforce segregation.

Several other witnesses testified to the effect that they have been subjected to humiliation and other forms of embarrassment as a result of the railroads' continued practice of enforced segregation.

NAACP assistant counsel,Robert L. Carter, said that the sole issue involved in the hearings is the validity of segregation in interstate travel.

Briefs on the hearings are due to be filed with the ICC on October 18.

BIDS COLUMNIST SUPPORT
ANTI-FILIBUSTER RULE July 29, 1954

NEW YORK, July 29.-- The indignation of David Lawrence about the 13-day filibuster against the administration's Atomic Energy Control bill could be accepted with "greater credence...were it not for the record," Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said here this week.

The Washington columnist had denounced "a group of senators in the minority striving to impose their will upon the majority" and charged that "the accumulated damage allegedly done by Senator McCarthy, in his brusque handling of persons accused of having Communist connections, is infinitesimal compared with the damage done by the 'filibuster' not only to the public business but to the prestige of the Senate itself, here and abroad."

Failing to recall that Mr. Lawrence had ever been "disturbed over filibusters against civil rights bills," Mr. White expressed the hope that the political commentator "will be equally indignant against filibusters when the next one against civil rights legislation occurs."

In a later column, Mr. Lawrence warned that "there is a tendency now among northern Republicans to feel that the time has come to force a strict cloture rule through the Senate so as to prohibit unlimited debate."

NAACP PAYS TRIBUTE TO MRS. MARY
CHURCH TERRELL AND HUGO ERNST July 29, 1954

NEW YORK, July 29.-- The NAACP has paid tribute to Mrs. Mary Church Terrell of Washington, D.C., a women's leader, and Hugo Ernst of Cincinnati, Ohio, a labor leader, both of whom died last week.

In a telegram addressed to Mrs. Terrell's daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Langston of Washington, Roy Wilkins, administrator of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, declared that Mrs. Terrell, "in her tireless crusade for equality, justice and true democracy over nearly a century ... gave inspiration and leadership not only to members of her racial group, but to all Americans who love our country and support its ideals."

A telegram sent to the Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders International Union, AFL, in Cincinnati, of which Mr. Ernst was president, asserted that "no labor leader in American history ever toiled more consistently or uncompromisingly against racial and religious bigotry" than did Mr. Ernst, and that "we of NAACP particularly have benefited immeasurably by his sage counsel and unqualified support." The message was signed by Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the Board of Directors, and Walter White, executive secretary, of the NAACP.

Mrs. Terrell, who died in Annapolis, Md., at the age of 90 years, vigorously crusaded for equal rights for women and for members of minority races. For many years she advocated these rights from lecture platforms, and in recent years she was active in the Congress of Racial Equality in the nation's capital. For thousands of Americans the name of Mrs. Terrell was synonymous with militancy and zeal in the advocacy of civil and political rights for women, and racial equality under the law.

Mrs. Terrell received wide publicity when, at the age of 85, she applied for membership in the Washington, D.C., branch of the American Association of University Women, and was rejected because of her race. The succeeding controversy resulted in a revision of the Association's by-laws, making an academic degree the only qualification for membership. Mrs. Terrell led her graduating class at Oberlin College.

During the course of her career, Mrs. Terrell served as a member of the Board of Education of the District of Columbia, president of the National Association of Colored Women, and president of the South West Community House in Washington. She studied in Europe, and attended a number of international conferences on the Continent and in Britain, including the International Congress of Women in Berlin in 1904, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom in Zurich in 1919, and the World Fellowship of Faiths in London in 1937.

Mr. Ernst had served for nine years as president of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union when he died at the age of 78. Previously he had been general secretary-treasurer of the 440,000-member union since 1939. He took out his first union card 50 years ago while working as a waiter at the St. Louis Exposition.

On March 10 of this year, Mr. Ernst was one of the speakers at the Freedom Fulfillment Conference of the NAACP in Washington, D.C., a one-day event attended by President Eisenhower which launched the Association's ten-year Fight for Freedom campaign.

The Fight for Freedom campaign seeks to eliminate all racial segregation and discrimination in the U.S. by January 1, 1963.-- the centennial of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

CHURCH CONFERENCE DENOUNCES
SEGREGATED CHURCHES, SCHOOLS July 29, 1954

NORTHFORK, W.Va., July 29.-- Delegates to a district conference of The Methodist Church here have declared themselves opposed to racial segregation in any faction of American life, including The Methodist Church and its agencies.

A resolution adopted by the conference delegates and visitors proclaimed "thanks to God Almighty" that the United States Supreme Court unanimously banned segregation in public schools.

"We accept our responsibility to work through church and community channels and in cooperation with the NAACP to speed up the process of transition from segregated schools to a new pattern of justice and freedom," the resolution announced.

The document further declared support of the NAACP's Atlanta Declaration and of the NAACP itself "for its courageous stand on the unjust treatment of minority groups..." and pledged support to the "ongoing program" of the Association.

The Atlanta Declaration, drawn up by NAACP leaders from 17 southern and border states in Atlanta, Ga., on May 23, calls for a peaceful transition from segregated to integrated schools to comply with the Supreme Court ruling and states that the NAACP will "resist the use of any tactics contrived for the sole purpose of delaying desegregation" of schools. The Bluefield, W.Va., District Conference of The Methodist Church held sessions here July 14 to 16.

WEEK'S DONATIONS TO FIGHT FOR FREEDOM CAMPAIGN TOTAL $1,568 July 29, 1954

NEW YORK, July 29.-- The NAACP's Fight for Freedom campaign received $1,568.60 in donations this week to aid its civil rights work.

The ten-year campaign aims to wipe out all racial segregation and discrimination in the U.S., by January 1, 1963, the centennial of the Emancipation Proclamation.

The funds this week were contributed by individuals, organizations, churches, and local NAACP chapters.

Richard Rodgers, composer, donated $500 by becoming a life member of the Association. Richard L. Simon, co-founder of Simon and Schuster, New York book publishing firm, sent $100 as an initial payment on a NAACP life membership.

The Bluefield, W.Va., District Conference of The Methodist Church contributed $50. Mt. Zion Baptist Church in the same town sent $25.

One hundred dollars was received at campaign headquarters from Maxwell A. Kriendler of the Jack Kriendler Memorial Foundation in New York, and $50 from the Pennsylvania State Federation of Negro'Women's Clubs, Inc., in Pittsburgh.

Persons who contributed on an individual basis were Dr. Irving Somach of New York, Fred and Renee Zinnemann of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Lena Goodenough of S. Ozone Park, N. Y., $50 each; and Ferrall P. Lanton of Bluefield, W.Va., $20.

NAACP branches which sent funds to aid the civil rights fight on the national level were: Pontiac, Mich., $425; Trenton, N.J.,$100; Great Falls, S.C., $25; and Lorain, Ohio, $23.60.

RICHARD RODGERS, COMPOSER,
BECOMES NAACP LIFE MEMBER July 29, 1954

NEW YORK, July 29.-- Richard Rodgers, who composed the music for a score of Broadway productions including "Oklahoma!" and "South Pacific," last week became a life member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Richard L. Simon, co-founder and partner in Simon and Schuster, New York book publishing house, made an initial payment on an NAACP life membership.

Mr. Rodgers, who received a Pulitzer award for his "Oklahoma!" score in 1944, has been responsible for the music or production, or both of many of the Broadway hits of the last 30 years. Among his most recent Broadway outputs have been "Carousel" in 1945, "Annie Get Your Gun" and "Happy Birthday" in 1946, and "John Loves Mary" in 1947. He composed the musical play "Carousel," and co-produced the latter three.

Mr. Simon, who co-founded Simon and Schuster in 1924, had previously been associated with the publishing firm of Boni and Liveright.

URGES INCREASED Y.M.C.A.
ACTIVITY ON INTEGRATION July 29, 1954

ESTES PARK, Colo., July 29.-- Increased activity of the YMCA Young Adult Council toward bringing about greater racial integration inside the YMCA and in the nation generally was urged by Roy Wilkins, NAACP administrator, who acted as a consultant to the Triennial Young Adult Assembly here last week. There were 400 delegates from 30 states in attendance at the four-day meeting.

Dear Dr. Williamston:

Dismally I find that my calendar has had for many months a requirement that I be in Boston, November 17, 18, and 19, at a meeting of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials. I promised to speak there the night of the 17th. I used to be on its Board and the meeting is important and I simply can't get out of it.

I would delight to be with the Oklahoma State Conference of Branches of the NAACP if I could, but there just isn't any way for me to get there.

I offer you my assistant, Fred Routh, lately of Miami, who, I am sure will be glad to come over for his expenses, which wouldn't amount to more than $150.00. But I acknowledge that that is a long way and a heavy expense for one whom I recommend strongly as an able speaker, but someone whom you don't know.

Routh has been a teacher of human relations at the University of Miami, and was instrumental in setting up the Dade County Council on Community Relations -- the first publicly sponsored race relations organization in the Southeast.

Give me another chance sometime and I will love to be there.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

From: The Atlanta Journal

Wednesday, December 1, 1954

Selma, Ala. Dec. 1 (UP) -- "Citizens Councils," an organisation in Mississippi proposing to battle racial integration with economic pressure, has spread into Alabama.

A crowd of more than 1,000 white men met for the first mass meeting of the Alabama movement and contributed $1,800.

Alston Keith, Selma attorney and chairman of the Dallas County White Citizens Council, told an overflow crowd in the school auditorium that the purpose of the group is "to make it difficult, if not impossible, for any Negro who advocates desegregation to find and hold a job, get credit or renew a mortgage."

Keith said the Alabama councils already are located in three counties.

Word that the councils had moved into Alabama brought a protest from Mobile attorney Vincent Kilborn who wired the president of the state bar association to "take the lead in crushing" such movements.

Mississippi State Sen. T. M. Williams of Lexington, Miss., criticized Methodist leaders for recent statements favoring desegragation and said, "the time has come when citizens should sacrifice something for their country." State Rep. J. S. Williams of Macon, Miss., said the councils do not advocate violence. He said desegregation would "ruin the economic system of the South.

Another Mississippi speaker was the Rev. M. H. Clark, who said he "came here, not as a minister, but as a private citizen to instill in you a sense of rightness for your cause."

This letter is to extend this invitation to you and to urge your acceptance. An early reply will be anticipated.

Dear Mr. Henderson:

Your letter and its much news are most helpful and interesting. How well the Muse article sums up; and how spritely and vigorous the Clearing House publication is.

I have long been an admirer of Dr. Tinsley; but I am delighted that you have taken on this gravely responsible position. You have heard me quote what my father frequently said: "Virginia people move slowly; but in the end they move reasonably." These are the months of slow motion. But in two or three years time at most, reasonable action will come along well. It is not like Virginia to pout and sulk and defy the law. The Virginia character has a good streak of generosity in it. And that will work its way to the surface. On the other hand, I would certainly agree that it is needful to press steadily and firmly for all that the decision grants.

We are deeply grateful to you for sending in the $2.00 for New South. I send you for a bonus the available earlier issues of 1955.

Dear Bill:

Allow me to thank you for your friendly letter of March 26.

I can assure you that you have always been completely cooperative with us in our activities in your region. I feel that we can depend upon you for understanding, fair and as complete coverage of our meetings and other activities as space in TIME permits. It has always been a pleasure to work with you and all of us have appreciate your cooperation and good will.

The New Yorker piece was arranged directly through Thurgood Marshall and I was not aware of it until arrival in Atlanta. At that time Thurgood explained to me that Bernard Taper had accompanied him down and was going to do a special story. While this was not in accordance with precedent, I did not look upon The New Yorker piece as competitive with the newspapers, wire services, and weekly newsmagazines such as Time. Taber's article did not appear until March 17 which was three weeks after your piece in Time and, of course, longer after publications in the dailies.

We looked upon this as a rather special piece that was not strictly news. I am sure that if Time or any other publication were to request an opportunity to do a full-length report on our activities, we would be most happy to arrange for such feature coverage.

Again, many thanks for writing to me about this matter in the friendly spirit in which you did. I look forward to continued cooperation with you in the coverage of our activities in your region. Roy Wilkins and Thurgood Marshall join me in kindest regards to you and in appreciation of all you have done to help in publicizing our activities.

Cordially,

Dear Mr. Kirkland:

Since Dr. Mitchell is out of town, I have been asked to answer your letter of July 9th concerning the NAACP.

I am mailing you two reprints of articles concerning the NAACP, one from the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel and the other from The Christian Century. Hope they will be of help.

In addition, there is a new pamphlet put out by the NAACP called An American Organisation which answers charges against the NAACP quite well. Unfortunately we only have one copy of this pamphlet and cannot let it out of the office. However, we have requested an additional supply of these pamphlets and I will mail you one when we receive them.

If there is any additional information we can supply, please donot hesitate to write us.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

I need some facts about the NAACP, which would support my argument that this organization is not "communist instigated, communist controlled and communist financed." This charge has been made repeatedly in the local newspaper and elsewhere.

I may say that I am not crusading for the NAACP, or for integration. Right now I am interested only in re-opening discussion, where this is possible, and in creating a saner atmosphere.

I'll appreciate your cooperation.

Dear Mr. Henderson:

Dr. Mitchell passed the bibliography you sent to him along to the information staff of the Council for consideration. We are sorry to have kept it so long, but it was necessary for several persons to read it before reaching a decision.

We like the bibliography and are especially pleased with the portion relating to younger people. However, because of cost and other considerations, in the past we have not printed bibliographical material but mimeographed it instead.

Since you already have an offer to print it, we suggest that it might be better to take advantage of such an offer. If the printing goes through, we will be happy to discuss the possibility of buying a quantity for our use. If, for any reason, the printing does not go through; we would like to discuss the further possibility of mimeographing it under the Council's imprint.

Again, we hope we have not delayed the project too long.

With best wishes.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Herewith I am submitting to you a rough draft of a bibliography whichwas prepared by the chairman, Mrs. Edith Hussey assisted by two members of our Virginia State NAACP. Its purpose is to suggest to Libraries, school and college teachers and white people in general books by and about Negroes of fairly recent origin.

Everywhwre it is being suggested that education of southerners regarding Negroes is an important step towards integration and as means to greater acceptance of de-segregation. The NAACP has pushed the legal fight and many of us think our efforts should be to dispel fears and rid the south of some of the pseudo-science by which bigots drum up strong opposition.

This bibliography was prepared with this in mind. There are of course other bibliographies but I believe this one has certain features not obtained in others.

At first it was intended to be published as an NAACP project but realizing the effect even the mention of its source would have in many quarters, it has been suggested that some other group might publish it.

Would the Southern Regional Council care to do this?

We have had offers from the Virginia Teachers Association to publish it, and of course the NAACP will do so if another "less marked" group would do so.

Kindly let me hear from you as soon as possible.

Truly yours,
E.B.Henderson

Dear Mr. Pohlhaus:

Quite true we are working on the voting study you wrote about August 3rd. 'Tis expected to be a tabulation of Negro registration county by county across the thirteen Southern states; with some show of the interrelationship of income and other measures of economic independence. But the people who are putting it together say it won't be done until the end of September.

If you should have in mind some specific twist to the fact-gathering that would add to the helpfulness of the whole business to you, I am sure the people who are pulling together the facts would want to be flexible and helpful.

And they have assured me that they will remove the roots to get you an early copy of what gets put together.

RECEIVED AUG 10 1956

LEGAL WAR on the NAACP . . by Stanley Rowland, Jr.

IN THE VIEW of many citizens, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is guilty of the outrageous sin of being effective in its fight for racial equality and integration. This is why they're out to get it.

Since its inception in 1909, the association has won many battles in court—the Supreme Court ruling to desegregate schools is perhaps its greatest victory to date—and steadily advanced Negro rights. It functions with complete legality through due process of law, seeking to make the Constitution fully alive for the Negro citizen. To persons who would like to "let race relations improve naturally" the association seems full of men in a terrible hurry. But how fast is too fast so long as the basic rights of democracy are suppressed?

These rights are being denied in a two-pronged drive centering in the South today. One prong is the broad effort to prevent integration, to stave off social revolution by keeping the Negro "in his place." The other is the drive to kill the NAACP, spearhead of integration.

The major groups fighting integration and the NAACP are assorted Citizens Councils, "patriotic" societies and states' rights groups. They have a total membership estimated at 500,000, leaders ranging from clerks to university dons, and are strongest in the Carolinas, Alabama, Tennessee, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia and Arkansas. Many of the members originally espoused moderation and proposed to fight the Supreme Court ruling through legal channels on the charge of unconstitutional infringement of federal law upon local customs.

But the Civil War established federal primacy and in its desegregation ruling the Court merely applied this established legal principle to a new field. So the councils' message became in effect a plea for lawless resistance when translated to the mob. The result has been the rise of extremist leadership and outbreaks of mob violence. Anti-Semitism is running through the racist pronouncements and the Ku Klux Klan is being revived in some instances. The picture is one of strong minorities composed of persons with petty grudges and prejudices now welded together in hate.

A perennial charge hurled at the NAACP is that it somehow promotes miscegenation. The assertion is absurd: any father who fears for his daughter should look to her upbringing; it takes two to make a love affair. Further, there is no real evidence from Northern schools that integration increases interracial sexual relations.

Another charge leveled by extremists against the NAACP is the allegation that it's "loaded with Communists." To dispose quickly of this dead cat, suffice it to say that the association is well aware that Communist penetration would mean the kiss of death, has helped sponsor workshops to study and prevent such penetration and has vigorously rebuffed all Communist overtures.

The sober majority of segregationists, though they may fear miscegenation, more often charge the NAACP with extremism somehow comparable to the more violent White Citizens Councils. True, the NAACP is aggressive, but beyond this fact the resemblance splinters on the hard rock of facts: the councils strive to thwart the law, while the association seeks to uphold and make it live; the mobs riot and throw dynamite at integrationists, while the association functions through due process.

Thus the NAACP is just as Constitutional and pure as the Rotary Club. If it were also as tame, and merely made pear-shaped pronouncements about integration, then it would be in little danger. But it is a fighting organization which, in the judgment of numerous white Southerners, has committed the unpardonable sin of being effective in its integration fight.

In Texas it is out of business, banned by a "temporary" court injunction for alleged lobbying, failure to pay taxes (as though it were a profit instead of non-profit organization), and supposedly recruiting persons for lawsuits. At the hearing, an attorney asked an eighteen-year-old Negro girl: "Are you afraid now to file a lawsuit to enter the Junior College of Texarkana?"

"Yes."

"When did you first become afraid?"

"After this court of inquiry."

One wonders what our courts are being turned into when they make a citizen afraid to exercise her Constitutional rights. But this is the way it's being done. The councils are employing a weapon the association lacks—pipelines to state legislatures. A Mississippi council leader and legislator declared that he would not only fire any Negro who belonged to a group fostering integration, but would make sure that the Negro couldn't find employment elsewhere, couldn't borrow money or buy food.

In Atlanta the association was forced to yield its records; in Florida the legislature has set up a committee to investigate it; in Alabama it has been crippled by a $100,000 fine for doing business as an unregistered out-of-state corporation; in Louisiana it has been forced to surrender membership lists under a 1924 law aimed at the Ku Klux Klan; Virginia has passed laws requiring registration of members of groups promoting integration. Most of these measures were enacted in the latter part of 1956, and more can be expected, so the party has only begun.

Once membership lists are obtained and the names leaked out, then reprisals start. NAACP members and other integrationists are summarily fired from their jobs—sometimes wholesale, as in Selma, Alabama. Farmers can't find anyone to gin their cotton, banks refuse the usual crop loans, storekeepers have supplies cut off, mortgages are called, prices suddenly go up. In Orangeburg, South Carolina, "the merchants have become business suicidal maniacs in their fanatic zeal to squeeze Negroes," a reporter found. In Yazoo City, Mississippi, the signer of an integration petition was informed that bread would cost him a dollar a loaf. Telephoned threats are frequent, and occasionally a Negro is murdered—such as the Rev. George W. Lee, who was shot for registering to vote in Belzoni, Mississippi. In Clarendon County, South Carolina, where the original school-integration cases began, reprisals have cut association membership from 1,100 to 500—and without state legal aid.

The legality of the various moves is being contested by the NAACP. Each case is proving to be a time-consuming and costly battle. These moves against the organization probably have the sympathy but not the spontaneous support of the mass. "The NAACP is highly unpopular in our Southland, but it isn't illegal," said an editorial in the Florence (S. C.) News. While the association is frequently abhorred, the majority of Southerners apparently accept its lawfulness.

THE ONES out to get the NAACP are the councils and extremists, the organized minority; and the frightening development is their use of legislatures and state legal machinery as their tools. While governments are supposed to respond to the will of the majority and protect minorities, in the South we have the spectacle of one minority using the process of government to stifle another.

Still another minority could do likewise tomorrow. If a law aimed at the Ku Klux Klan yesterday can be used against the NAACP today, it can be used against Jewish or Catholic action groups tomorrow, against the Masons the next day, and so on. By yielding to pressures and not supporting the legal rights of the NAACP, however much they may detest that body, the mass of Southerners have endangered their own democratic rights and by that much have shrunk the democracy of our nation.

But to white-supremacy tacticians, who are not interested in democracy, the results have been cheering. The association's lawyers and funds, to a great extent, are preempted in court fights to preserve its very life. This drains its resources from the integration struggle, which is thereby slowed, and the segregationists have bought more time against the inevitable. They are paying with the hard-won rights of democracy.

Where can the NAACP turn? It is turning to the North, increasing its efforts there and seeking more funds. Last year its membership exceeded 350,000 and its income surpassed $1,000,000 for the first time. But such money goes fast under fines and legal harassment.

With the association handicapped, the churches and Negro clergy have assumed greater importance in the integration struggle. This is partly because of their idealism and partly because of their relative immunity from economic pressures; they can't be fired by a white boss. Always a mainstay of NAACP activity and leadership on the local level, the Negro churches will be bearing more of the direct integration burden as economic pressures increase.

The easy manner in which these reprisals are conducted, the summary firings of workers, are indications of the primitive labor conditions of the area. Elsewhere white men and brown alike are protected in their jobs by union contracts, but in areas of the South the labor movement is still fighting for effective recognition and contending with the problems of racism. Though FEPC, if it ever comes, could help the Negro's job security, his best support will be the development of a strong, integrated, democratic labor movement throughout the South. And there are still many dawns before this day arrives.

Meantime the integrationists suffer and their champion, the NAACP, suffers, and there is little that can be done except to pour support into the association to enable it to fight on two fronts—for its own life and for a better life for its people. Neither this struggle nor the work of the extremists are exclusively Southern problems, for the country is a whole body and a wound in one member affects all. Economic reprisals in Mississippi touch the business man in New York, while election of the bigoted to Congress divides that body and affects the processes of law and policy making. The Ku Klux Klan spread northward and the extremist councils may well do the same, augmenting racial hatred with prejudice against Jews and Catholics. Therefore the struggle belongs to all those who value democracy, and victory will be of value to all by protecting the democratic rights of all—including those who disagree with the Supreme Court.

Dear Mr. Marshall:

The Antioch College Chapter of the N.A.A.C.P. is planning a conference of Ohio college students to be held the weekend of May 3 - 5, 1957. We are writing now to ask if you could come as our keynote speaker, Saturday evening, May 4th. Like many other campuses and communities, Antioch and Yellow Springs have been following the events in the South; in Clinton, in Orangeburg and Elloree, in Montgomery and Miami, at Koinonia Farms but also in Oak Ridge and some of the "smoother-sailing" regions with great interest. We've held periodic drives to help with financial support. Several weeks ago a large segment of our student body traveled in car-pools to Cincinnati to hear Thurgood Marshall speak on "Integration, the Human H-Bomb". We would be very much interested to hear of experiences in and around your section of the South and of your observations and ideas on approaches toward integration.

The topic of our conference is "A Survey of Approaches To Integration Open to the Individual". The Saturday evening talk is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. and, for the title, we have considered "The Changing South and Integration". This, of course, is subject to your approval or alternative suggestion.

We hope also to have your leadership in one of the workshops to be held Saturday morning and afternoon, following an opening talk at 9:00 a.m. to be given by Ted Berry, Vice Mayor of Cincinnati. The title of the workshop we are asking you to chair is Passive Resistance.

Additional conference sessions, all of which you are invited to attend, include: a briefing session for speakers and resource people Friday evening, May 3rd; a Sunday morning interfaith service at which Cleo Blackburn, Director of Flanner House, Indianapolis, will speak; and a closing session Sunday afternoon.

We are certainly most eager to have you come and hope that things will work out so that it is possible.

I thoroughly enjoyed seeing you and meeting with the Savannah Branch group on Sunday. I certainly sympathize with the problems you face, but have nothing but the deepest admiration for the way in which you are handling them. We are here in Atlanta, and if we can be of the slightest help it will be a pleasure to do so.

Concerning expenses for the trip. Due to the wierd arrangement which I made, they run to some $24.47. This, however, takes into account the schedule I chose and not our earlier arrangement of my driving to Savannah. Had that been the case, I think my expenses would have been around $15.00, and this I honestly believe is a fair figure for both of us. Thus, in time I shall expect your check for $15.00 and consider the difference better spent than I usually arrange on my weekends.

I am enclosing the issue of New South which got away from you, and I am putting your name on our list to receive subsequent issues.

Dear Mr. Fleming:

As Chairman of the NAIRO Commission on Nature, Scope and Theory, I have been given the assignment of arranging the general session program of the NAIRO Annual Conference in Kansas City on Wednesday, November 20th, 1957. The topic of this general session is "Productive Use of Intergroup Conflice In a Democracy", and we have asked Dan Dotson of New York University to be the principle speaker.

We further plan for this general session, which will begin at 8:00 o'clock in the evening, to have a panel discussion on Dr. Dotson's talk and the program topic before moving into the question and discussion period. You have been selected as one of four persons whom we would like to have participate in the panel discussion. The other panelists, we hope, will be Francis McPeek, Chicago Commission on Human Relations; John Morsell, NAACP (National Office) and a local person from Kansas City who as yet has not been selected.

The structure of this program was agreed upon after a great deal of discussion during the NAIRO Board Meeting in Detroit last month. I hope, therefore, that you will consent to participate as a member of the panel and will let met hear from you at your earliest convenience.

Dear Arthur:

Thank you for your letter of October 23 and I will be happy to substitute for Harold Fleming at the November 20th general session. Harold would have made a unique contribution to the panel and it is too bad that the NAIRO members won't have the opportunity to hear him. But the other panel members should make interesting presentations, for they are able men, and I will be in fast company. Dan Dodson, of course, is an old friend of mine under whom I studied at New York University. I look forward to seeing you in Kansas City.

Best personl regards.

Dear Fred:

John Feild informed me that you had expressed a willingness to fill a spot on the November 20th general session program of the NAIRO Annual Conference for which we had orginally extended the invitation to Harold Fleming. The topic for this general session, as you know, is "Productive Use of Intergroup Conflict in a Democracy". The principle speaker will be Dan Dodson of New York University. The panelists whom we have already secured for a discussion on Dr. Dodson's talk and the program topic are Francis McPeek of Chicago, and John Morsell of the NAACP National staff. We also expect to have a fourth panelist from one of the agencies in Kansas City.

Having participated in the Board discussion of this particular phase of the Conference program, you are probably well acquainted with the total idea of just what we expect to get out of this session. I am very pleased, therefore, that you will be able to join the panel. I believe that this will be a good program and I hope that you will enjoy your share in it.

Sincerely yours,

Arthur

Testimony of Clarence Mitchell, Director of the Washington Bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Before the House Subcommittee on General Education on Extension of Public Laws 815 and 874 Providing Aid to Defense Impacted Areas for School Construction and Operation, Friday Morning, January 31, 1958

Does Reference file of we have this? Yes

If the country needed any further evidence that the opponents of school desegregation are charting a course of reckless defiance of law, that evidence was furnished in the Fall of 1957 when the Governor of Arkansas used the National Guard to prevent colored children from attending Central High School.

Surely now, the Congress must accept its responsibility to join in protecting the Constitutional rights of all of our citizens in the field of education. The Congress has a clear obligation to require that states seeking money under Public Laws 815 and 874 must show that they are in compliance with the requirements of the May 17, 1954, and May 31, 1955, decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court in the matter of school desegregation.

We propose that the present laws be amended to require that plans submitted to the Federal Government by the states must contain a commitment that "school facilities of the state are open to all children without regard to race, in conformity with the requirements of the United States Supreme Court decisions; except that if a state plan does not so provide, it shall not prevent payment of funds authorized under this act to such state for use in counties or other political subdivisions within the state that are operating their schools in conformity with the said Supreme Court decisions."

Four years have passed since the first historic pronouncement of the Supreme Court declaring that racial segregation in public schools in unconstitutional. The country has had ample opportunity to determine which states are making an honest, although halting, attempt to obey the lawful court decrees and which states are using all of their resources to prevent compliance with the law.

The Little Rock demonstration is a good illustration of the fact that the problem of school desegregation will not be solved if Congress ignores it. On the contrary, the chances are that those who successfully evade the law are so intoxicated with their success that they embark on a crusade to get others to do likewise.

Arkansas was not a symbol of defiance prior to the opening of the fall school term at Little Rock. There was official resistance to desegregation, but most of the resistance was based on timing rather than a refusal to take any action. In order that the record may be clear, we point out that the plan of integration that was put into effect in Little Rock was a very modest proposal developed by the local school authorities. It was not the plan of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The real fomenters of trouble in Arkansas were those who have openly and militantly fought against orderly compliance in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia, and South Carolina. They have made it stylish and politically profitable to preach defiance and to practice obstruction.

Those who cry that they want no Federal interference when they are called upon to uphold the U.S. Constitution do not have any reservations about accepting money out of the U.S. Treasury.

In testimony presented to this committee last year, we pointed out that Governor Marvin Griffin of Georgia has boasted that "an alert state administration, taking advantage of all that is due Georgia, brought in $91,800,000 Federal grant payments in 1955, exceeding neighboring states in amounts ranging from $15 million to $47 million."

In order that the members of this committee may see how flagrant is the practice of getting as much Federal money as possible while proclaiming complete defiance of Federal law, we point out the following:

ALABAMA -- In a series of amendments to its state Constitution, Alabama has granted the legislature authority to withdraw state aid, close and dispose of schools that are subject to desegregation by court order. From 1951 to October 12, 1956, Alabama received $13,691,424 for school construction under Public Law 815. Its entitlement under Public Law 874 for the 1956 fiscal year was $1,093,525.

ARKANSAS -- On November 6, 1956, a measure was approved that directs the General Assembly to interpose the sovereignty of the state to nullify the U.S. Supreme Court decisions. From 1951 to October 12, 1956, this state received $10,630,192 under Public Law 815 for school construction. For the 1956 fiscal year, its entitlement was $628,911 for the maintenance and operations of schools.

FLORIDA -- This state has passed its share of laws designed to prevent school desegregation, and has also taken a crack at the public school teachers. School authorities are authorized to ignore continuing contracts and tenure in assigning teachers. This statute will permit dismissal of teachers in public schools regardless of their qualifications.

On the college and university level, Florida has an amazing record of defiance. Under the terms of a supreme court decision handed down in 1950, Virgil Hawkins, a colored student, has sought admission to the University of Florida Law School for nearly nine years. The State Supreme Court of Florida has acknowledged his Constitutional right to attend the University but has refused to order his admission on the ground that "it might create mischief."

Florida also refuses to admit colored students to the University for courses in Atomic Energy research even though it receives a subsidy from the Federal Government for such courses.

Florida received $13,027,851 from the Federal Government under Public Law 815 from 1951 to October 12, 1956, for school construction. Its entitlement under Public Law 874 for the 1956 fiscal year was $1,812,431.

GEORGIA -- Some of the most inflammatory defiance and the crudest attacks on the U.S. Supreme Court emanate from the State of Georgia. It has passed laws which revoke funds for any school that attempts to desegregate. It is a felony, punishable by two years imprisonment, for any school official of the state or municipal or county system to spend tax money for public schools attended by colored and white children.

The State patrol and the Georgia Bureau of Investigation have been given the "duty" of entering any county or municipality for the purpose of making arrests and otherwise enforcing any law requiring segregation in any manner of activity.

The State Board of Education passed a resolution to revoke "forever" the license of any teacher who "supports, encourages, condones or agrees to teach mixed classes." Later, this action was rescinded on the advice of the Attorney General of Georgia who ruled that it was unnecessary because teachers already were required to, by oath, to uphold the laws of the State of Georgia.

According to the Augusta Courier of May 27, 1957, Governor Marvin Griffin of Georgia said in a speech at Crawfordsville, "There is now before Congress a bill which, if passed, would authorize Federal aid to education. . . The Federal Government is just trying to use this piddling amount of money to black-jack Georgia and other southern states in line to make them accept integration. Georgia wants no part of such aid."

We have already called attention to the Griffin boast of over-all grants from the Federal Government. Let us now see what the Georgia record shows for the period of 1951 to October 12, 1956. Over this period, the Georgia grants were $25,871,211. For the 1956 fiscal year, the state's entitlement under Public Law 874 was $1,733,459. Apparently, Governor Griffin regards these sums as chicken feed. In the May 27, 1957, speech, he referred to approximately $11 million that the state would receive under the proposed Aid to Education program as an amount that "would be hardly noticeable."

LOUISIANA -- The law of Louisiana provides for withdrawal of state funds, halting free text books, and even takes away school lunch funds from any public school that admits colored and white children. The law provides for criminal penalties of 90 days to 6 months in jail and fines of $500 to $1,000.

This state received $4,407,909 under Public Law 815 for the period 1951 to October 12, 1956. Its entitlement under Public Law 874 for the fiscal year 1956 was $402,309.

In other words, the people who are willing to snatch sandwiches and milk out of the lunch boxes of undernourished children, just because their local school officials accept the requirements of the U.S. Constitution, have no qualms of conscience about accepting a cool $5 million that the same Federal Constitution makes it possible for Louisiana to receive from the national Treasury.

MISSISSIPPI -- Under Mississippi law, persons of the Caucasian race who attend public schools that admit colored children are subject to a fine of $25 or six months in prison.

Mississippi received $4,266,978 from 1951 to October 12, 1956, under Public Law 815. It received $432,249 for the 1956 fiscal year under Public Law 874.

SOUTH CAROLINA -- Under South Carolina law, children who attend desegregated schools may be removed by "the sheriff or other law enforcement officers." It has repealed that provision of its Constitution requiring the state to provide free public schools. Its law provides that state funds shall not be given to any school "from which, and for any school to which any pupil may transfer pursuant to, or in consequence of, any order of any court."

For the years 1951 to October 12, 1956, South Carolina received $11,529,183 under Public Law 815. Its entitlement for the 1956 fiscal year was $849,971.

VIRGINIA -- If ever a state could be said to have received the lion's share of Federal money, Virginia is that state. Over the period from 1951 to 1956, it has received $44,040,621 under Public Law 815 and its 1956 entitlement was $7,029,158.

Under Virginia law, the state has power to close schools that must admit colored students pursuant to a court order. The state law also gives the Governor the power to take over and administer such schools.

The purely political nature of the opposition to the Supreme Court's decisions in the school desegregation case is illustrated by the inaugural speech of the Governor of Virginia, J. Lindsay Almond. At this point, I offer for the record a clipping from the front page of the Washington Star, dated January 12, 1958. It reads "Almond Vows to Push Fight for Segregation." As the lawyer who represented the state in its many losing court fights on this issue, Mr. Almond knows better than anyone else that resistance can only lead to chaos and disruption of public education. Yet, the Governor continues to advise the people of Virginia to resist. What is worse, he is also trying to make it impossible for those who want to obey lawful court orders to do so without losing state aid.

As has been said previously, Virginia has gotten the lion's share of money under Public Laws 815 and 874. It has received more than the combined funds given to Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania.

Who is it that pays the major part of the bill in the form of Federal Taxes? The answer may be found in a report of the Tax Foundation, Inc., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 20, New York, issued in 1957.

On page twenty of this report we find that, for every dollar received from the Federal Treasury as grants, Alabama paid thirty-six cents, Georgia paid forty-nine cents, Mississippi paid twenty-nine cents, and Virginia paid ninety cents. On the other hand, New York paid a dollar and eighty-two cents, New Jersey paid two dollars and forty cents, Maryland a dollar and sixty-seven cents, and Connecticut two dollars and twenty-one cents.

These figures show that most defiant states not only get the most deference when Federal policies are made on grants, but they also have the privilege of getting what they want at bargain basement prices. They waste their tax money in a futile program of defiance, while the tax payers of New York, Connecticut, and other states help to pay the bill.

The emissaries of the defiant states are out busy trying to pull industry from the North to the South. When they get the industry and get Federal contracts, they then insist they need money for schools. When they get the money for schools, they spend it wastefully on a segregated system. When there is a front door approach to Federal Aid as was made in the School Construction Bill last year, they are in front with Governor Griffin of Georgia attacking it. But they also slip around to the back door and collect under Public Laws 815 and 874, and other statutes.

It is shocking to know that during the life of Public Laws 815 and 874 the Federal Government has underwritten segregation in public schools in the defiant states to the tune of over 192 million dollars. This was bad enough before the U.S. Supreme Court decisions. Now, it is intolerable.

Even though there has been a steady increase in the amount of money the defiant states have spent on education for colored children, it still does not match the amount of money spent per white child in these states. These states spend from twenty-two to seventy-four dollars more per white child than they do for colored children. They boast about the large sums they are now appropriating to improve the schools attended by colored children, but they do not reveal the real measure of difference of treatment which, of course, is dramatically revealed in the expenditures per child.

This brings me to the matter of the proposal that the President has sent to Congress on scholarship aid. It is hoped that when hearings are held on this matter we shall have an opportunity to testify. At this point, I would like to say that states that maintain separate schools in defiance of the Constitution cannot possibly administer the kind of program the President wants without without resorting to subterfuges that will cheat colored children.

NORTH CAROLINA, TENNESSEE, AND TEXAS also have a variety of programs for resisting the Supreme Court decisions, but here and there in those states the pattern of defiance has shifted to token integration. In some cases, notably, Clinton, Tennessee, the local leaders have made an honest attempt to comply with the desegregation decisions. (As has been said previously in this testimony, even Arkansas cannot be judged wholly by the disgraceful scenes at Little Rock. In September 1957, in spite of the turmoil in Little Rock, two other communities desegregated their schools.)

In 1957, North Carolina started token school desegregation in three communities.

The experience of Tennessee, when a modest program started in Nashville in the Fall of 1957 was the target of those who would promote violence, is a warning to the nation.

As long as Georgia can preach defiance and still collect millions from the Federal Government to build and operate segregated schools, the road of southern leaders who wish to obey the law will be that much harder.

As long as Virginia can be the chief idea factory in the program of massive resistance and collect more money than all the other southern states, it will be hard for southern Governors, Congressmen, and Senators to show that segregation is not only unlawful but it is also unprofitable.

This program now under consideration by this subcommittee has far more support in Congress than almost any other Federal Aid to Education plan.

This is a good point at which Congress can repudiate the massive resistance and incredible defiance that now menaces safety at home and our reputation abroad.

We earnestly hope that our amendment will be approved.

Total Money Allotted to Defiant States Under Public Laws 815 and 874*

Alabama	$13,691,424	$4,778,082	$18,469,506
Arkansas	10,630,192	4,160,622	14,790,814
Florida	13,027,851	7,109,525	20,137,376
Georgia	25,871,211	12,626,931	38,498,142
Louisiana	4,407,909	1,759,172	6,167,081
Mississippi	4,266,978	2,506,055	6,773,033
South Carolina	11,529,183	4,318,603	15,847,786
Virginia	44,040,621	27,860,912	71,901,533
		Total	$192,585,271

*It will be noted that the allotments listed for the states in the main portion of our testimony show the amounts granted for construction for the period from 1951 to 1956. However, we included only the amounts granted for operation during the fiscal year 1956. These total 130 million dollars. The above figures show amounts granted for maintenance-operation and construction during the period from 1951 to 1956. This reaches the staggering total of $192,585,271 as shown above.

Dear Mr. Durham:

Because of an extended absence from the office Mr. Routh has asked me to reply to your letter of April 21st.

He wishes you to know that he does plan to be in Columbus for your meeting on May 18th. However, it now looks as if it will be impossible for him to come to Columbus on the evening of the 17th. If at all possible, he now plans to fly from Lexington to Columbus on the morning of the 18th and to leave that evening to return to Atlanta.

Sincerely,

Dear Dr. Routh:

This is in confirmation of my phone call to you on last Friday. Our branch is quite anxious to have you speak at our public meeting at 4:00 P.M. on Sunday, May 18, in observance of the May 17, 1954 Supreme Court Decision on School Segregation.

You indicated that this would be very possible because you would be in Lexington, Kentucky for a meeting on Saturday, the 17th. As soon as you can possibly do it, would you please let me know what your subject will be. You indicated that your responsibilities in Lexington would end sometime Saturday. If it would be convenient for you to take a plane to Columbus Saturday evening in time for a press conference before the Sunday morning paper deadline, it would be quite helpful to us in publicizing the meeting.

Might I hear from you at your earliest convenience.

Yours very truly,

Barbee W. Durham

FOREWORD

The basic materials contained in this brochure have been field tested. We know that if diligent study is given to the composite suggestions and if organizational procedural techniques are used on the precinct and/or neighborhood level, the locality using such not only will experience a substantial increase in the number of qualified voters, but also there will be experienced an unbelievable rebirth of civic pride and responsibility. This new grasp of civic responsibility will be reflected in many facets of community life, not the least being the NAACP BRANCH PROGRAM. It must be clearly understood, however, that conditions vary with the community involved. The basic suggested techniques are constant. However, to effect a workable program in your community they must be adapted to your peculiar local conditions. Intensive short periods of concentrated Voter Registration Drives are desirable. It must be constantly borne in mind, however, that if civil and human rights are to be permanently secured for the Negro our VOTER REGISTRATION CAMPAIGN must be a year round program

THERE ARE NO SHORT CUTS.

VOTER REGISTRATION BULLETIN

WE MEASURE PROGRESS BY FACTS, NOT HEARSAY

HOW DO YOU KNOW??

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

1. Of all the areas visited in the last months by the Voter Registration Director, no one could show him a roster of all the Negro voters in their areas. Figures, yes, but NO ROSTERS.

WHY IS THIS IMPORTANT?

1. Figures can lie if they are not backed by actual nose count.
2. You cannot make a nose count unless you have a roster of the qualified voters. (In states having poll taxes, you need both the poll tax list and the registration list).

SECURE THESE ROSTERS AND YOU WILL FIND THAT:

1. People who say they are voters are not voters.
2. People who have paid their poll taxes are not registered, and vise versa.
3. Many who are qualified are accidentally left off the official records (Strange! Shouldn't be, you know who makes these mistakes).
4. Many persons listed on the roster are dead, or they have moved to other cities.

WHY DO YOU NEED ROSTERS?

1. In order to get out an effective vote at election time, you must know the qualified voters.
2. The success of your voter registration drive depends upon many interested people. You will find them on your qualified voters list.

VOTER REGISTRATION BULLETIN

RECORDS MEASURE PROGRESS!

Progress control money spending. How can you measure your true progress without records? You don't want to wake up and find that you have let thousands of hard earned dollars and many hours of man power go down the drain with no results.

A C T I O N

Registration and poll tax lists are public property. If you can't secure them from your public officials, send people to copy the names off the official records.

NOTE TO LARGE CITIES: Sure it is a big job where you have over 10,000 voters, but on the other hand you have more man power, leadership, money and freedom than your smaller cities. BIG CITY do a BIG PROJECT.

HOW TO BECOME A VOTER IN RICHMOND

(An unsolicited poem dedicated to the Crusade for Voters)
By Miss LaVerne Smith
Richmond, Virginia

To register and vote can be easy,
Here's all that you have to do:
Pay your poll tax, each year, by December 5th
But remember, you must register too.

In Virginia, you must answer ten questions,
On a blank piece of paper designed,
To keep you from voting, but don't let it.
Just try to remember this rhyme.

What is your name? Where do you live?
Next question, "How old are you?
When were you born? Where were you born?
What kind of work do you do?

Where did you work last year at this time?
Have you ever voted before?
If so, write the State, the county and precinct
If not, just answer "No".

Have you lived in Virginia for one year or more?
This is the last thing you need note.
But if you really want first class citizenship,
Pay your poll tax, Register and Vote!!

YOUR INTRODUCTION TO COORDINATION BY J.M. BROOKS, NAACP REGISTRATION DIRECTOR

Our modern world was built through the principles of coordination. We can use the same principles to build up the Negro voting strength.

I. COORDINATION: We believe that by coordinating the suffrage work of various organizations and individuals, the Negro will have a more effective Political Action Program. This in turn will produce a large and intelligent Negro vote.

II. WHY SHOULD WE COORDINATE OUR EFFORTS? We should coordinate our efforts because in spite of the fine suffrage work being done by many groups and individuals in the South, we are faced with the following facts:

1. Only about 20% of the potential Negro voting population are registered voters.
2. That large numbers of Negroes qualified to vote do not show up at the polls on election day.
3. That large numbers of Negroes pay their poll taxes in states where it is required, but fail to register.
4. That most areas lack organizational machinery to contact the masses of people for the purpose of giving out factual and unbiased information on political candidates and issues.

III. IS THIS A POLITICAL GROUP? NO! Our coordinating groups or organizations are non-partisan. Their only aim is a large intelligent Negro vote.

IV. WHY NON-PARTISAN?

1. Because the NAACP is non-partisan.
2. Because for this plan to be successful, we must have the cooperation of all groups and organizations regardless of their political beliefs.
3. History has shown that many non-partisan organizations for increasing the vote folded up because they became ambitious and began playing politics, or individuals in the organization began using the organization for personal gains.

V. WHAT CAN YOU DO? You can start a coordinating group in your area. However, you must first sell yourself on the coordinating group idea. Read the Richmond Story. It is a brief story of how this idea is working in Richmond, Virginia.

* * * * * * * * * * *

S O N G S: Use them to put spirit and warmth in your meetings.

TUNE: "THERE'S NO BUSINESS LIKE SHOW BUSINESS"

There's no business like this business
Like no business I know
Once you sell and get that good old vote
Then we know you really want to go
First it may not seem to be appealing
*But boy! Will you make Almond squirm.

There's no Future like this Future
If you want one, O.K.
Many men may tell you what a fool you are
But when they see you working in the City Hall
Then they'll know the reason why you've gone so far
So start getting votes today - So start getting votes.

TUNE: "CASEY JONES"

Come all you voters and I'll now relate
What's going to happen all over the State
To all those boobs who think they're wise
And are trying to get by on their alibies.

Chorus Bring on their votes, can't use their alibies
Bring on their votes, it's the votes that count
Bring on their votes, can't use their alibies
Their votes will put you over but their alibies won't

St. Peter was looking for a race to promote
He had one in mind, but they sure got his goat
He looked at their records and closed his eyes
And said, "My God! Look at the alibies".

Chorus Bring on their votes, can't use their alibies
Bring on their votes, it's the votes that count
Bring on their votes, can't use their alibies
Their votes will put you over but their alibies won't.

TUNE: "GIVE ME THAT OLE TIME RELIGION"

Gimme that ole Voting Spirit
Gimme that ole Voting Spirit
Gimme that ole Voting Spirit
It's good enough for me.

It will take you out of Poverty
It will take you out of Poverty
It will take you out of Poverty
And bring prosperity to You.

It will make you want to Survey
It will make you want to Survey
It will make you want to Survey
And make the Dixicrats weep.

STEP 1

I. HAVE A PREPLANNING DISCUSSION WITH A FEW INTERESTED PERSONS

1. Discuss the Negro voting status of your area inside and out. Don't pull any punches. Try to form a true picture of your community's voting habits.

2. Sell the cordinating group movement. Show how a program, based on coordination, can make yours a progressive area.

3. After selling yourselves on the idea, plan a meeting for all interested citizens and organizations in your area.

II. HOW TO PLAN A MEETING FOR INTERESTED CITIZENS AND ORGANIZATIONS

1. Set the date, time and place for an interested citizens meeting.

2. Appoint a temporary chairman to call this meeting.

   (a). Among other things, this chairman should be a substantial and well-liked person in the community.

   (b). For obvious reasons, the chairman should not be the head of any political group, or a person usually identified with a political party.

III. GETTING INTERESTED PEOPLE TO THE MEETING

1. Send a letter of invitation to the following in your area:

   (a). All of the qualified voters in your area.

   (b). All of the poll tax payers in your area (this is in reference to those states with the poll tax law).

   (c). All of the registered voters in your area.

   (d). To the ministers of all churches.

   (e). To the presidents of all organizations (fraternal, social, labor or political) regardless of their size or prestige in the community. Through personal contact have these leaders invite their membership to be present.

2. Set up a telephone committee to follow up the letter with telephone calls.

3. A few days before the meeting:

   (a). Have the ministers make church announcements.

   (b). Pass out leaflets about the meeting at church and from door to door.

IV. PLAN LIGHT REFRESHMENTS

V. DON'T MISS ANY OF THESE STEPS

The one you omit may be the spark plug to a bang-up meeting. Good meetings are PLANNED not BORN.

VI. INVITE YOUR POLITICAL ACTION DIRECTOR TO HELP YOU

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

STEP 2

WHAT TO DO AT THE FIRST INTERESTED CITIZENS MEETING

I. OPEN WITH PRAYER AND SONG

II. TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN GREET THE PEOPLE AND GIVE PURPOSE OF MEETING

1. To discuss WHY we should increase the Negro voting strength. WHY a coordinating group should be organized, a new and dynamic movement for increasing the Negro vote. (Allow 2 minutes)

III. HAVE A SPEAKER GIVE DOWN TO EARTH DISCUSSION ON THE VALUE OF VOTING (Base talk on voting in relation to our meat and bread, our dollars and cents, our children's welfare). (Allow 10 minutes)

IV. HAVE ANOTHER SPEAKER TO EXPLAIN THE WHY AND HOW OF A COORDINATED GROUP MOVEMENT. HE MUST BE GOOD. HE MUST SELL THE MOVEMENT TO THE INTERESTED CITIZENS (For information, refer speaker to Coordinating Group Manual and the Richmond Story). (Allow 15 to 20 minutes)

V. QUESTION AND DISCUSSION PERIOD

Keep the ball moving by having two or three persons in the audience prepared to ask the first few questions (People are funny. They will all sit back in a wall of silence when you ask for questions). So be prepared ahead of time to get them to talking ON THE SUBJECT.

VI. BEGIN ORGANIZATION OF A COORDINATING GROUP

1. Have a persons ready to briefly sum up the discussion and make a motion to organize a coordinating group.

VII. TEMPORARY OFFICERS

After the organizational motion has passed, the chairman of the meeting will then call for the election of a temporary chairman and a temporary secretary for the new organization. Usually the temporary chairman and the temporary secretary of the meeting are re-elected, but by putting it on the floor gives all of the persons present a chance to participate.

VIII. COMMITTEES

The elected temporary chairman will then appoint committees for the next organizational meeting.

1. Constitutional Committee (5 persons)
Refer this committee to a model of a coordinating group constitution.

2. Name Committee (3 persons)

IX. OTHER COMMITTEES

Try to give everyone at the meeting some responsibility. Put them on committees for the next meeting. (Instruct them to bring in written reports).

1. Circular Committee
Appoint a person from each section to give out the circulars for the next meeting.

2. Phone Committee
A good committee for housewives and elderly ladies who cannot leave home. Have them call the people in their neighborhoods.

3. Refreshment Committee
Plan refreshments for meetings.

4. Door Prize Committee
Get neighborhood businesses to donate door prizes.

5. Ministerial Committee
To contact all ministers in the area and see to it that church announcements are made about the meeting.

6. Letter Committee
Help send out letters. Use businesses and schools mimeograph machines. (Use the same sources you used for sending out letters for the first meeting).

X. SET A DATE AND TIME FOR NEXT MEETING (Have this already planned in your mind).

XI. CLOSE MEETING WITH PRAYER AND ALLOW TIME FOR FELLOWSHIP (Some of the best results of the meeting will come out of this period).

XII. WHILE IT IS FRESH IN THEIR MINDS, HAVE TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN SEND OUT LETTERS OF CONGRATULATION TO EVERY MEMBER PRESENT THE VERY NEXT DAY

- - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - -

TIPS FOR A CHAIRMAN

1. Try to appoint committeemen that fit the job. Example: For Circular Committee, appoint school teachers, insurance men or church clerks. These persons usually have access to paper and mimeograph machines.

2. It's easy to appoint a committee, but the success of the committee depends upon your guidance. KEEP BEHIND THEM. Make them feel Important because they are Important.

STEP 3

WHAT TO DO AT THE SECOND INTERESTED CITIZENS MEETING

I. OPEN WITH PRAYER AND SONG

II. TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN GREET THE PEOPLE AND GIVE PURPOSE OF MEETING

1. To complete organization of a coordinating group, a new and dynamic organization for increasing the Negro vote.

2. Reading of the minutes of the first meeting. (Allow 5 minutes for 1 & 2).

III. HAVE A SPEAKER GIVE DOWN TO EARTH DISCUSSION ON THE VALUE OF VOTING (Base talk on voting in relation to our meat and bread, our dollars and cents, our children's welfare). (Allow 5 minutes).

IV. HAVE ANOTHER SPEAKER EXPLAIN THE HOW AND WHY OF A COORDINATING GROUP MOVEMENT. For information, refer speaker to Coordinating Group Manual. (Allow 5 minutes).

V. QUESTION AND DISCUSSION PERIOD

Keep the ball moving by having two or three persons in the audience prepared to ask the first few questions (People are funny. They will all sit back in a wall of silence when you ask for questions). So be prepared ahead of time to get them to talking ON THE SUBJECT. (Allow 10 minutes).

VI. REPORT OF COMMITTEES

1. Circular Committee

2. Phone Committee

3. Refreshment Committee

(Allow the committees 10 minutes)

4. Door Prize Committee

5. Ministerial Committee

6. Letter Committee

7. Name Committee

8. Constitution Committee

(a). Give a copy to each member present.

(b). Have the chairman read the entire report.

(c). Ask for questions.

(d). Have a persons ready when the questions lag to sanction the report and make a motion that it be received and adopted.

VII. APPOINT A NOMINATING COMMITTEE

1. W-A-R-N-I-N-G! This Committee can either make or break your organization. Make sure that their hands are clean.

2. Again explain that for obvious reasons the officers should not be the heads of political groups or persons usually identified with political parties.

VIII. HAVE A MOTION MADE THAT THE COMMITTEES ALREADY FORMED BE MADE STANDING COMMITTEES

STEP 3

IX. SET DATE AND PLACE OF NEXT MEETING (Two weeks later to keep the fire from dying out).

1. I-M-P-O-R-T-A-N-T! In building up your third meeting, use the same steps you used for the first two meetings plus a few more steps.

X. SEE "A SHORT CUT IN ORGANIZING" AT BOTTOM OF PAGE

XI. CLOSE MEETING AND JOIN IN REFRESHMENTS AND FELLOWSHIP

- - - - - - - - - - - - - - -

TIPS FOR CHAIRMAN

Get everything possible you can get out of a meeting without boring the people.

1. If this second Interested Citizens Meeting has moved along smoothly, and you have some time, try this: "A Short cut In Organizing".

   (a). Divide those present into precinct groups. Example: All persons living in precinct one sit in this section; all persons living in precinct two sit in this section, etc. Beforehand, have the boundaries of the precincts available. Most people do not know their precincts.

   (b). Let them form temporary precinct committees with a temporary chairman and temporary secretary.

   (c). Give each temporary precinct committee chairman a copy of Step 5, "How To Organize A Precinct Or Neighborhood Club For Getting Out The Vote".

   (d). Let the group study this plan and urge them to bring as many people as possible from their neighborhood to the next meeting where they will receive more tips and help in calling their first neighborhood meeting.

DO NOT USE THIS SHORTCUT IF YOU FEEL THE TIME ISN'T RIPE!!

TIPS FOR TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN

You have leadership responsibility. You cannot go home at the close of the meeting and remain idle until the next meeting. To insure a good meeting, you must:

2. Good meetings are PLANNED not BORN.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR BLOCK LEADERS

Block Leaders are the foundation of progressive neighborhood organizations. They are the life lines of communication between the organizations and the people of the neighborhood. Obtain the service of salesmen to instruct block workers; ex. insurance salesmen. The duties of Block Leaders are:

1. Contact and make friends.
   a. Visit each neighbor's home and introduce themselves.
   b. Tell them about the neighborhood organization and its purpose.
   c. Be sure to explain the importance of every adult in the community becoming a qualified voter and voting.
2. Ask them to help the organization's program by:
   a. Coming to and taking part in its regular meetings.
   b. Helping whenever and wherever possible.
   c. Letting you make a voting survey of every adult in the house. (20 years of age and over).
3. Leave with a friendly expression and again remind your host that:
   a. You are the block's representative for the organization.
   b. To call you concerning any of their community problems.
   c. That you will keep constant contact with them about community and organization developments.

FOR BLOCK LEADERS

DO	DON'T
1. Do be friendly.	1. Don't get angry. (Maybe the host's corns hurt). Come back on a clear day or night.
2. Do explain the how and why of your organization's program.	2. Don't ask to make a voting survey standing at the door.
3. Do let the host talk.	3. Don't do all the talking.
4. Do begin your survey today.	4. Don't put off until next week.
5. Do keep in constant touch with your neighbors.	5. Don't just visit when you want a favor. Stop by and get their ideas sometimes.
6. Do get them to become qualified voters.	6. Don't forget a follow up visit when they make you a promise.

DO GO BEYOND THE CALL OF DUTY TO INCREASE THE NEGRO VOTING STRENGTH!!

BLOCK WORKER KIT

Each Block Worker should be given a Block Worker Kit with the following materials:

1. Information on "How To Become A Qualified Voter".

FOR EXAMPLE: This leaflet is being used in Virginia.

IT'S EASY TO VOTE IN RICHMOND

1. Go to Room 106, City Hall and ask for poll taxes due for 1956, 1957, 1958.
2. Go to the Treasurer's Office, Room 109, City Hall and pay poll taxes. ($1.50 for each year plus small interest).
3. Go to Room 8, City Hall basement and register.

TO REGISTER

You will be given a blank piece of paper on which you must write the following information, as easy as counting 1 to 10 on your fingers:

EXAMPLE of how a citizen of Richmond would fill out the blank piece of paper:

> I, Mary Doe, age 21, apply to register. I was born March 1, 1931, in Richmond, Virginia. I live in Richmond, Virginia and have lived there for the past ten years. I am a housewife, and have been a housewife for the past five years. I have never voted.
> (Signed) Mary Doe

2. Instructions for Block Leaders (page 18).

3. Survey cards (enough cards for each adult in his or her block). Upon interviewing his or her neighbors, the block worker will fill in information pertinent to voter registration and return the cards to the local voter registration headquarters.

EXAMPLE OF SURVEY CARD: This type of Survey Card is used in Virginia. The information will vary according to locality.

Name _____ Precinct _____

Address _____ Phone _____

	YES	NO
Over 21 years old?	___	___
Over one year's residence in Virginia?	___	___
Are you a registered voter in Virginia?	___	___
Have you paid your poll tax for 1956?	___	___

4. A lined sheet of paper for the Block Worker's personal record.

EXAMPLE OF PERSONAL RECORD:

CHURCH PROGRAM

Call a meeting of ministers of the community. A luncheon or buffet supper would be fine. THIS SHEET SHOULD BE MIMEOGRAPHED OR PRINTED AND DISTRIBUTED TO THEM FOR USE OF THEIR CHURCH COMMITTEES. The following information should be presented to each attending minister for discussion.

SUGGESTIONS FOR VOTER REGISTRATION IN THE CHURCH

To: Dedicated and Loyal Ministers

Object: To increase the number of voters in the State through Pastorial leadership and the ministers' knowledge of human nature.

I. EXPLANATION - If all the members of the Negro churches were to become qualified voters, we would more than double the Negro voting strength.

II. Here are some suggested plans for you, a minister, to use along with your own valuable knowledge of people:

1. Sell the idea to the official board of your church.

2. Set a goal for the number of new voters in your church.

3. Have at least two Sunday sermons on Citizenship during the month.

   a. Encourage the non-voter to become a qualified voter.

   b. Encourage the qualified voter to persuade at least one non-voter to become a qualified voter.

   c. After EACH SERMON, have the ushers pass out to the congregation a leaflet on "How To Become A Qualified Voter" in your area. (these will be furnished by the local Coordinating Committee for voter registration.

4. Set up a Voter Registration Committee to help people get over the idea that it is difficult to register. (Many people feel too self conscious to ask for help, but they would gladly accept help if it is made convenient and non conspicuous).

III. THE PERSONAL TOUCH - You, more than anyone else, know that this means to a layman:

1. If you can arrange to work with the Voter Registration Committee, your just being with them will greatly aid their success.

2. If you can arrange to be at the Registrar's Office on a certain day, it will inspire your members to work for a greater registration.

IV. Again we repeat, you know better than anyone else "how to lead your people". If any of these suggestions interfere with your church program disregard them. We only ask that you, in your own way, help us increase the Negro voting strength.

Signed (NAME OF SPONSORING GROUP)

* * * * * * * * * *

The Voter Registration Program in your area will be as dead as a doornail if the Qualified Voters STAY AT HOME on election day. Don't take it for granted that people are going to vote. ACT NOW!! After election day will be too late.

Don't use the shotgun technique, find out who is qualified to vote and aim all of your efforts straight at the qualified VOTER.

I. Prepare a personal contact card and a poll watcher's card for each qualified voter.

a. The contact card is the card used by volunteer block leaders to make personal contact with each voter.

CONTACT CARD

201 "M" St. John Doe MI 7-9184

1. On this card in the following order, put the voter's address, name and phone number.

2. Now divide these cards according to addresses into units of no more than eight (8) each. (ex. if eight (8) voters live in the 200 block of "M" Street, take these persons' cards and wrap a rubber band around them. Now you have a unit of cards).

3. Find a volunteer voter in this unit who will contact the other seven (7) voters in the 200 block "M" Street. (You will be surprised to find out that a simple phone call is all that is needed sometimes to secure a good volunteer).

b. The poll watcher's card is used by the poll watchers at each voting place.

POLL WATCHER'S CARD

Doe, John 201 "M" St. MI 7-9184

1. This card should contain, in the following order, name (last name first), address and phone number.

2. These cards should be filed in alphabetical order according to precinct or voting districts (a shoe box makes a good file).

3. These cards will be used at the polls by the poll watchers. They will pull the voters' cards as they come to the polls and notify their headquarters about tardy voters.

ORGANIZATION

I. Voting District Headquarters and Chairman

Each voting district should have a headquarters (someone's home will do) and a Precinct or District Chairman.

a. Headquarters -- a base for the "get out the vote project".

b. Headquarters Chairman -- it is the duty of the Headquarters Chairman to direct the operation.

"GET OUT THE VOTE"

II. Workers Needed On Election Day

a. Cars for transportation (2 cars on call at the Voting District Headquarters).

b. Baby sitters (2 each on call at the Baby Sitters Headquarters).

c. Poll watchers (2 watchers each on two hour shifts). It will be the duty of these workers to report to headquarters the names of tardy voters. Headquarters in turn will contact these voters and get them to the polls. (Use your block workers).

d. Refreshment Committee -- this committee will furnish hot coffee, donuts, etc. to the workers.

III. Time is short, adapt this information to fit your needs, but above all, it is important that you GET STARTED. No alibies after election, put ACTION into your Voter Registration Program.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Be sure to notify all voters as to the opening and closing hours of the polls. Urge voters to cast their ballot before going to work. TOO EARLY is better than TOO LATE.

* * * * * * * * * * * *

GET OUT THE VOTE GRAVY

PERSONAL CONTACT is the MEAT of any "Get Out The Vote Campaign". During the time personal contact is being made, you should use a little gravy to ensure the success of your "Get Out The Vote Campaign", such as:

1. Placards and leaflets urging the people to go to the polls.

2. Telephone Committees calling and reminding the people of election day and how important it is for them to cast their vote.

3. Sound truck cruising the neighborhood urging people to vote.

4. Letters to the voters urging them to vote.

5. Have announcements made in churches and public meetings. (The MINISTERS can get more people to the polls than any other single group).

The above are just a few suggestions. Use your own imagination and ingenuity.

Dear Mr. Durham:

Thanks for your recent letter with the kind words about my participation in the fourth annual celebration of the Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954.

You will recall, I am sure, that this was a talk with a friendly audience. I have received Calvin Kytle's transcript of this speech. While I am happy for the national office in New York to have a copy, I would not want it generally distributed in its present form. If any thought is given to distribution of this speech, I would want to edit it before its release.

All good regards.

For your faithfulness to the ideal that "all men are created free and equal, and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights" that comprise the full measure of human dignity and worth; For your simple trust in American democracy to insure to you this ideal by granting you equal opportunity under the law; For your youthful refreshing spirit of adventure that urged you to break with tradition in order that a better tradition be established, and For that magnificent display of courage, patience, perseverance and long-suffering which are often the cost of humanity's higher goods.

Ours shall be a better nation through the might of your spirit.

Dear Dr. Flemming:

The NAACP drive for 3,000,000 Negro voters in the south by 1960 is now under way. This office would appreciate the following information:

1. Your Negro Voting Survey for 1956.
2. Your Negro Voting Survey for 1957.

We would also appreciate any allied materials or suggestions you may have which would enable us to perform The Miracle of 1960, 3,000,000 Negro Voters In The South.

Dear Mr. Brooks:

Thank you for your letter of July 22 and the Workshop Manual enclosed.

I am sending you herewith the several reports growing out of our 1956 survey of the Negro voter in the South. Also enclosed are several newspaper articles and other documents which serve, in part, to update our findings. A good many of the state consultants for our survey presented their findings and observations in some detail in the 1957 summer yearbook issue of the Journal of Negro Education, which you no doubt have.

I was most impressed by the thorough and effective guidance which your manual gives to community leadership promoting voter registration.

We will be doing further fact-finding in the field of suffrage during the months to come, and I will share our findings with you. We will appreciate any information you may send to us as your important work progresses.

Sincerely,

Dear Lester:

I hope you will forgive my slipping out of Richmond without saying goodbye. Actually I did try to call you a time or two but things were rather hectic and confused in the rush of packing and moving. I will be in Richmond on the 5th and 6th of August and hope that we can get together during that time.

My successor in Richmond as of August 1st will be Mr. Daniel Bowers. I am anxious for you to meet him as soon as possible.

I am trying to keep up with things in Virginia from long-distance, but already I feel somewhat out of touch. It will be good to see you again.

Mr. Wiley Branton
Project Director
Voter Education Project
Room 206
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Wiley:

I am forwarding herewith the supplemental report on our expenditures in connection with the 90-day Voter Education Project. The individual locality reports cover eighteen places, which is more than the total reported on by all other recipients of funds under that program and more than twice the number reported by the recipient with the next highest number, as per your Confidential Report of September 20.

You will note that these reports cover disbursements totalling $14,165.03 through September 25, 1962. Further in response to specific inquiries in your letter of September 18: the balance consists of $252.96 remaining in revolving funds established for John Brooks and W. C. Patton and $1,087.93 which is, naturally, still on deposit in the special VEP bank account which you specified at the outset. There has been no change in the personnel involved since my interim report of June 7, 1962.

Direct lump sum grants were made in some instances, and these are indicated in the reports. Vouchers are in our files to support all expenditures; we shall be glad to forward them to your office for inspection if this is desired. The figures reported for joint operations are in every case totals for the combined effort. We are still in the process of obtaining follow-up information to fill in the details in a few localities regarding number of persons registered, contacted, etc. It appears likely, however, that in some instances this will remain unknown, since it was impossible to ensure the collection of this information by the volunteers engaged in the crash efforts in every place where such efforts were mounted.

It would be comforting if I could assume that there is thorough comprehension by VEP as to what has been involved in the assembling of the information sought. I can assure you that we here thoroughly comprehend both the value of such information and the pressures on VEP to have it in as comprehensive a form as possible. I have discussed here with Brooks and Patton the procedures which will be necessary to produce this information in the future, and these procedures will be in effect hereafter. Both men now understand that they are to authorize the expenditure of whatever funds are necessary to ensure that paid personnel are assigned to the research function and will execute that function accurately and quickly. The addition of staff in our Voter Registration office in Richmond in precisely this connection was envisaged in our original request for funds last spring; it would have been done had we had the money for it. But, as I noted in previous correspondence, we could hardly recruit such staff until we knew we would be able to pay them.

Having had personally to assume the responsibilities of coordinating both the crash program assignments and the assembling of the required data, involving the piling of an inordinate number of hours upon a schedule already impossibly overburdened, I suppose I view with somewhat more than usual feeling what seems to be the response to the NAACP's participation in the initial phase of VEP. I do not believe I am thin-skinned in reacting to the criticism which, both in private and in public, has tended to depict our participation as lacking in zeal or competence or both. Neither is the case, and I am confident that a dispassionate review of the record, including the special and disproportionate burdens which a crash program of this kind entailed for us, will bear this out.

I have reviewed the list of assignments already made in the second phase of VEP, as outlined in the Confidential Report. Please let me know whether you will need a revised proposal for the use of further VEP funds, or whether you will be able to reach a determination on the basis of the one originally submitted. The sooner we can move on this, the better. Among other things it is of the highest importance that I be able to draft an appropriate communication to NAACP branches in localities assigned to other organizations so that they may have a full understanding of the basis on which they may be expected to cooperate, if called upon. We are already receiving inquiries on this.

It is unnecessary to add the hope that future allocations will be substantial enough to allow us to develop the kind of programs that will bring the largest return for the money invested.

Very sincerely,

John A. Mersell

Executive Secretary

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

On August 6, 7 and 8, at the Hotel Statler in Washington, D. C., the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will sponsor a National Legislative Conference on Civil Rights, to express support for the civil rights measures now being considered in the United States Congress.

Knowing your agency's concern for the achievement of equality and justice for all, we cordially invite you to send representatives to the meeting, either as active participants or as observers.

Our program will include visits and consultations with members of the Senate and the House of Representatives, and plenary sessions for reports, discussion, and addresses by major national figures.

The issue of equality, today, 100 years after the Emancipation Proclamation, is of vital concern to all Americans, whatever their race or creed, or wherever their homes may be. We are therefore particularly hopeful that our Conference may bring to Washington leaders of religious, civil and social action organizations from the Mid-West and Mountain States, where the Negro himself has little actual representation, to emphasize that this is a matter not of regional, but of truly national import.

We urgently need your encouragement and cooperation in this great effort. May we hear from you, as soon as possible, as to whether we may expect your representation?

Sincerely,

Clarence Mitchell

Dear Friend:

Four little Negro girls were bombed to death in a Birmingham church last Sunday, September 15, because children like the one whose picture is reproduced on the enclosed reprint from the New York Times, wanted an education. This was the most recent of 50 unpunished bombings against Negro citizens of Alabama.

The lives of Cynthia Wesley 14, Denise McNair 11, Carol Robertson 14, and Addie Mae Collins 14 were deliberately destroyed exactly six days after the little boy pictured and 22 other Negro children were admitted to desegregated schools in Alabama on order of federal courts of law.

Their murder came after Governor George C. Wallace had defied the law and mustered every resource in his state to block the doors of justice to children.

There is a choice between bombs and the courts of law.

Negro parents have chosen the law. Supported by the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense Fund, they have gone into the courts to claim a decent education for their children. Their story and ours is told in the reprint from the New York Times published before the monstrous crimes of September 15.

Nothing we can do will make up for these young lives lost. But we can multiply our efforts to fight their battle in the courts. This is the legacy left by these young victims to every American conscious that their murder dishonors each of us.

We ask that you send as large a contribution as you can to aid in this legal struggle. It will help to redeem the shame of our country before it is too late.

Sincerely yours,

Allan Knight Chalmers

HUNTSVILLE, ALA., Sonnie Hereford, age 6, becomes the first Negro child to integrate Alabama public schools. His admission was ordered by federal courts, following N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense Fund suit.

Which Will Decide the Future of America's Children?

THE BOMBING

The home of Arthur Shores, a leading Birmingham civil rights attorney, was bombed on September 4, hours after the first two Negro children were registered at a white school in Alabama. Mrs. Shores was hospitalized with a brain concussion; one Negro citizen was killed and 18 persons injured in the terror that followed the nighttime blast.

This came as Governor George C. Wallace moved his police throughout the state, making good his pledge to prevent court-ordered school integration. At the same time die-hard segregationists took the law into their own hands.

Their attack and the resulting night of terror provided an excuse. The following day, the Governor closed the three Birmingham schools which Negro children were scheduled to enter. Acts of the Governor delayed school openings in Huntsville, Tuskegee and Mobile, where integration was ordered by federal courts.

The fast moving events climaxed nine years of effort by N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund attorneys to secure through costly and intricate court action an equal opportunity for Alabama's Negro youngsters in the state's school system.

The struggle opened shortly after the 1954 U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing public school segregation. A formidable obstacle thrown in their path was the weight of the treasury of the State of Alabama, versus the meager resources of the Legal Defense and Educational Fund. Negro parent-plaintiffs and their lawyers were victims also of physical and economic reprisals.

At last, federal courts ordered the admission this month of Negro pupils into the schools of the four Alabama cities. Only the opposition of Governor Wallace and the bombs in the hands of terrorists remained to be overcome.

COURT-ORDERED SCHOOL INTEGRATION IN 21 SOUTHERN CITIES IS PEACEFUL

In contrast to Alabama's shame, previously all white schools in 21 southern communities opened their doors this month to Negro students for the first time in compliance with federal court orders won in actions brought by the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund. The cities include: Charleston, S. C.; Baton Rouge, La.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Savannah, Ga.; Hopewell, Va., and Fort Worth, Texas. In addition 124 other communities began voluntary integration of their school systems.

In no state save Alabama was there violence.

Virtually every school segregation lawsuit from the Supreme Court decision of 1954 until today has been brought on behalf of Negro school children and their parents by the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund. In each case every penny spent for legal action to secure the rights of Negro youngsters was countered on the other side by public state treasuries seeking to block these rights.

THE SNAIL'S PACE OF SCHOOL INTEGRATION

More than 2,000,000 Negro children are still condemned to deliberately segregated classrooms; less than 9% of Negro children in the south are obtaining equal non-segregated education. The snail's pace of integration since the 1954 Supreme Court decision, if not advanced, would mean that not until the year 2054 would all Negro children in the south be free of the crippling effect of inferior educational standards and the humiliation of second-class treatment.

The N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund, working through courts of law, has opened hundreds of schools in the south to Negro youngsters. Today, Fund lawyers in 70 separate law suits in 15 southern states are seeking court orders to speed the day when all schools will be completely integrated.

The essential expenses of school suits now in the courts will come to more than $600,000. With adequate funds, hundreds of additional cases can be filed in behalf of children yearning for that measure of human dignity which accompanies equal opportunity.

LEGAL ACTION IS COSTLY YOUR HELP IS NEEDED—NOW

Negro parents in the south cannot alone bear the tremendous financial burden involved in these suits. They need the help of every American citizen who believes in the rule of law and justice. They need your help and your tax-deductible dollars today.

THE LEGAL STRUGGLE ON MANY FRONTS

The N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund is responsible for 95% of all civil rights legal action in the south. Its lawyers defend Martin Luther King, Jr. and other members of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, as well as officers and members of C.O.R.E., the N.A.A.C.P and the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. It also defends other citizens and groups denied their rights because of race.

N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund lawyers were responsible for the historic decision of the United States Supreme Court in 1954, outlawing school segregation. The Fund has won through court action admission of Negro students to publicly supported universities in every state in the south.

The N.A.A.C.P. LEGAL DEFENSE AND EDUCATIONAL FUND, INC. is dependent entirely on the voluntary contributions of concerned citizens.

Mrs. Maxine A. Smith
Executive Secretary
Memphis Branch -- NAACP

This is in response to your letter of inquiry, to Mr. Dunbar, concerning the possibility of the Council doing a survey of Negro employment in Memphis, similar to the ones we have done on Atlanta, Chattanooga, and Houston.

As you recall, we talked briefly concerning this at the NAACP meeting in Macon last week; however, this is to confirm that we are doing a full-scale study of civil rights progress in several southern cities, Memphis included. The Memphis study will include every aspect of the cause, and I think the employment section of the study will reveal most of what you are looking for in a survey of Negro employment.

Pursuant to this end, Mr. Pat Watters, our director of information or Mr. Ben Muse, Director of our Southern Leadership Project, may be in touch with you at most any time. I am sure that you will cooperate with them in every possible way.

Sorry that I did not get to see more of you in Macon, but I had to leave.

My regards to Vasco and the rest of the Memphis contingent.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

On advice of Mr. Vernon Jordan, I am writing you relative to a survey of Negro employment which we would like to have made in Memphis. I understand such a study has been done in Dallas, Atlanta, and Chattanooga (I'm not absolutely sure that I have cited the cities correctly) by the Southern Regional Council.

I would like to know if it is possible for the SRC to make such a job analysis in Memphis. We have college students who will be available to do the interviewing.

Would appreciate an answer indicating whether this service is still provided by the SCR. Please advise us as to the expenses the Memphis Branch NAACP will incur.

Yours truly,

Dear Clarence:

I would think that we are far enough away now from the passage of the civil rights act for you to be "at home" to accept congratulations. From all that I have been able to hear as well as read, no one deserves more credit than you, both for the fact that we have a civil rights act and that it passed in good shape. We are all in your debt for a really top-notch job.

Statement Concerning Attacks on NAACP and Threats to Civil Liberties

The American Friends Service Committee is deeply rooted in historic testimonies of the Religious Society of Friends regarding the worth and dignity of every human being. In all our programs we seek to minister to human needs and to speak for the rights of man. We cannot be indifferent whenever these needs are unmet or these rights threatened.

In particular, we are concerned with the continued denial of the full privileges of a free society to many citizens because of their color. We try to create the conditions for peace throughout the world; at home we see racial discrimination and segregation as major barriers to that goal and we seek to remove considerations of race from education, housing, employment and other fields of American life. Our approach is through persuasion, education, and the provision of opportunities for men to see each other as valuable individuals, equal in the sight of God.

The problem of segregation is a national one, but the special circumstances of the history in which we all share give it particular poignancy and complexity in some of our southern states. Here is evidenced an inner turmoil which disturbs all Americans and blunts their capacity for objective thought. In such a setting one can understand the vehement opposition to those seeking peaceful adjustment to social change.

To understand is not to condone and we are disturbed by the recent attacks on and legislation against the NAACP which have been particularly evident in the South. We strongly defend the right of the NAACP to work for justice within and under the law, to maintain interracial membership, to organize and to speak out for social change. To penalize the members of any organization in the exercise of such rights endangers them for all. The suppression of liberties is a violence in itself, which leads to counterviolence. We commend to all the example of non-violence and Christian love shown by some leaders in these circumstances. We speak for equal justice under the law and for the freedom of all men everywhere.

MEMORANDUM
TO: DR. JOHNSON AND DR. REID
FROM: A. C. ROBINSON
SUBJECT: MACON SITUATION

There had been so much racial pressure in Macon due to the heavy influx of white and Negro Civilian war workers as well as ~~from the~~ heavy concentration of white and Negro soldiers in nearby Camp Wheeler as to make this place one of the most critical areas in the nation. Macon always had been a prototype White Supremacy Southern town with all the connotations.

There had been a great deal of ruckus between white and colored in riding the crowded buses, and, although it is not generally known, it has been reported that a white bus driver shot and killed two Negro men riders early one morning. That bus driver went down and gave himself up to the law, and was tried and acquitted by ten o'clock that morning. There had been much friction between white and colored war workers on the jobs. The white policemen, always tough on Negroes in this city, became worse as they sought to "put the Negroes in their places". Seizing on the "work-or-fight" ordinances as a tool, they rounded up all crowds of Negroes of two or more people wherever they saw them on the street and carried them forthwith to jail. These Negroes were usually fined eleven dollars, and generally some white man came and paid off the fine in order to have that particuliar Negro work out the fine with him. The race tension finally got so bad that Negro leaders met together for the purpose of forming some kind of closely knit organization to combat the injustices inflicted upon the Negro citizens of Macon. Immediately after formation, the local group petitioned the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, but kept the fact secret from the public until they could be sure they would obtain a charter from the NAACP. This was about the middle of 1943.

Just afterward, race trouble came to a climax when a Negro soldier, after having been arrested by a regular Military Policeman, was taken from the M. P.

by a local policeman and beaten severly. During the beating the Negro took the gun off the local policeman and shot him dead. This happened along withe the reporting of several cases of attack upon white women. The newly formed NAACP came out openly and backed the Negro in defending his life in the courts for the killing of the white policeman. To inflame the situation further, the local group inserted a paid advertisement in the local papers which read "Join the NAACP and smash discrimination". In getting up an Army Day parade, no Negroes were to be represented. The local NAACP therefore petitioned both the city people and the Army for Negro representation in the parade. At first they made no headway, but finally pressure exerted in Washington got the Army officer in charge to include a Negro band in the Army Day parade.

The leading white people undertook to break up this nucleus of Negro organization affiliated with a powerful national organization. The whites, through the newspapers, advocated that this local group abandon its national affiliation, and let a local interracial group be formed instead. Among white members of the local group were Boadus Willingham, a mill executive; Geo. M. McConnel, another mill executive; Father ------- of the Catholic Church; Rev. Harris of the First Baptist Church; and Dr. E. M. Calhoun, Dentist; A. L. Thomas; L. Marshall and Frank J. Hutcheson were among the Negro members.

The Negroes appeared willing to form the Interracial body, although they knew at the time that the purpose of the body was to displace the local Negro NAACP organization.

Among the things asked for by the Negroes (in the new interracial body) were: That juke joints owned and operated by white people in Negro sections be removed. That the Negroes be given better conditions in their schools: better janitor service, lights and water installed in the schools, and buses for rural transportation of school children. In addition the Negroes asked that Negro auxiliary policemen be put on for service in Negro quarters. All these things the whites acceded to.

The whites kept pounding at the Negroes to disband their local NAACP, stating to the Negroes that together they could handle their race problems among themselves in a peaceful manner. They told Calhoun that they objected to local Negroes being connected with these radicals, and that two or three of the local leaders of the NAACP, were radicals. White people in Macon didn't want to have anything to do with Negro radicals.

Finally the grand jury met and decided to look into the new Negro organization that was backing the Negro murder in his trial for his life. The NAACP openly invited the white grand jury to attend their meetings. They did. Finally as a representation in the local group. The Negroes questioned the white Grandjurymen persistently about Negro grievances until the white grandjury members finally said they hadn't expected this grilling since they had been invited as guests.

The local interracial body dried up after about three weeks. But the Negroes had gained some better school conditions, and the auxiliary policemen.

When the trial came up for the Negro soldier who had killed the policeman the Negro was convicted and electrocuted. Two more murder cases involving white victims and Negro perpetrators came up but the Negroes had learned not to let the NAACP openly back the Negroes at trial. Instead the NAACP furnished money through friends for the purpose of hiring lawyers and paying court expenses for appeals. So far they have held the two executions in abeyance until now it is likely that the victims will receive commutations to life imprisonment.

During the past year the State Executive Board of the NAACP and later the State Convention of the NAACP met in Macon. Always the whites are curious and are asking through Hutchins, who is a pivotal person for the whites, all about the meetings and what is going on, but the whites have quieted down and proceed with a great deal more xxxxx caution in their pressures against Negroes.

This fear of a nationally powerful organization may help explain the liberal policy recently embraced by the evening paper, while the morning paper, under the same management, remains pro Talmadge and represents the views of the reacionary wealthy Maconnites, among the worst and most powerful reactionaries in the South, and the first group to be openly anti- Roosevelt.

THE UGLY TRUTH ABOUT THE NAACP
An Address by ATTORNEY GENERAL EUGENE COOK
Before The 55th ANNUAL CONVENTION Of The
PEACE OFFICERS ASSOCIATION OF GEORGIA
HELD IN ATLANTA
* * * * *

PRESIDENT REDDING, DISTINGUISHED GUESTS AND MY FELLOW MEMBERS OF THE PEACE OFFICERS ASSOCIATION OF GEORGIA:

It is always a source of genuine personal satisfaction for me to have the opportunity of appearing before this group. Of all the organizations to which I have the privilege of belonging, none has accorded me a greater degree of support and cooperation than the Peace Officers Association of Georgia.

This rapport, I feel, is due principally to the fact that we share common professional objectives and personal convictions. As servants of our fellow citizens, we are made acutely aware of the grave responsibility inherent in protecting the rights and liberties of the people through vigorous and impartial enforcement of the law. As individuals charged with this solemn duty, we are able to see more clearly than others the threat to those rights and liberties posed by those who would substitute government by men for government by law.

It is because of your demonstrated discernment in this regard that I have chosen this occasion as the proper forum for revealing, for the first time, the authenticated details of the most ominous of these threats to arise during our lifetime. I refer to the subversive designs behind the current crusade of the misnamed National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and its fellow-traveling fronts to force upon the South the Communist-inspired doctrine of racial integration and amalgamation.

It shall be my purpose in this speech to totally disrobe the NAACP and to present this sinister and subtle organization in all its nakedness.

The ugly truth about the NAACP and its origin, aims and manipulators is so shocking as to stagger the imagination, but it is borne out by incontrovertible facts which can be established as matters of official record. These facts have been uncovered, checked, assembled and correlated through many weeks of intensive investigation and cooperative effort by my Staff and the Staffs of Congressman James C. Davis of Georgia and Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi.

I am prepared to prove everything I shall say. And I wish to state for the benefit of those who undoubtedly will attempt to smear me and discredit my findings and conclusions that I would welcome the opportunity to present the evidence I have in hand for determination before a trial jury in a court of law.

At the outset I wish to make it clear that the issue involved is one not of race but rather of subversion. None of the organizations which have exploited the race issue in this country has ever had the welfare of the negro people at heart. They have seized upon this issue as a convenient front for their more nefarious activities and as one with which they could dupe naive do-gooders, fuzzy-minded intellectuals, misguided clergymen and radical journalists to be their pawns.

The record shows that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was neither founded nor is presently directed by colored people. It was originated in New York City 46 years ago as the brain child of a Southern scallawag journalist and Russian-trained revolutionary named William E. Walling. Its principal personalities during its early years were descendants of the rabble-rousing abolitionists who fomented the strife which precipitated the War Between the States, a conflict which could have been avoided but for the activities of those abolitionists.

Of its five founders only one was a negro -- a Communist-sympathizing lawyer named W. E. B. DuBois whose record of participation in Communist, Communist-front and subversive organizations and activities taken from the files of the Committee on Un-American Activities of the United States House of Representatives requires eight pages of single-spaced, typewritten copy to outline. Among his more recent activities of this nature was the donation of his services in the preparation of legal briefs defending since-executed Communist spies Julius and Ethyl Rosenberg and the imprisoned leaders of the Communist Party of the United States. In 1953 he was awarded the International Peace Prize by the "Communist front" World Peace Council in recognition of his participation in the sponsorship of the series of Communist-dominated World Peace Conferences held since 1949 in an attempt to undermine the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

DuBois was Director of Research for the NAACP until 1949 and now is referred to by its officers and members as the organization's "Honorary Chairman."

In addition to Walling and DuBois, the other NAACP founders -- all white -- were Dr. Henry Moskowitz; Socialist Oswald Garrison Villard, grandson of Abolitionist William Lloyd Garrison; and Miss Mary Ovington White, also a descendant of an old-time abolitionist. The first president of the Association was a white Boston lawyer, Moorfield Storey, who was identified in his youth with the abolitionist movement and who served as secretary to the original race-baiter, Massachusetts Senator Charles Sumner.

From that day to this, South-hating white people with long records of affinity for, affiliation with and participation in Communist, Communist-front, fellow-traveling and subversive organizations, activities and causes have directed and subsidized the NAACP. Its present president, Arthur B. Spingarn of New York City, is a white man as are a large number of the current officers, directors and principal contributors.

The files of the House Un-American Activities Committee reveal records of affiliation with or participation in Communist, Communist-front, fellow-traveling or subversive organizations or activities on the part of the following present officials of the NAACP -- the President, the Chairman of the Board, the "Honorary Chairman," 11 of the 28 Vice Presidents, the Treasurer, 28 of 47 Directors, the Chairman of the National Legal Committee, the Executive Secretary, the Special Counsel, the Assistant Special Counsel, the Southeast Regional Secretary, the West Coast Secretary, the Director of the Washington Bureau, the Director of Public Relations and two Field Secretaries.

The transcript of this evidence numbers 121 pages of single-spaced, typewritten copy and would require more than six hours to be read aloud. Time being a factor, it is impossible to present all of this material; but, to give you an idea of the backgrounds and ideologies of the policy-making officials and personnel of the NAACP, I shall cite chapter and verse on the activities of this organization's principal personalities.

(The designations which I shall use in describing the organizations and activities with which these individuals have been identified are those applied to them by the Attorney General of the United States, the House Un-American Activities Committee or the Special House Un-American Activities Committee.)

President Spingarn was a participant in the Conference on Africa held April 14, 1944, in New York City by the "subversive and Communist" Council on African Affairs. In 1945 and 1946 he signed statements favoring the granting of Army commissions to Communists and opposing the use of injunctions in labor disputes sponsored by the "viciously subversive" National Federation of Constitutional Liberties. He is listed as a sponsor of the "Communist front" Public Use of Arts Committee.

Board Chairman Channing H. Tobias was a member of the Executive Board and Co-Chairman of the New York Committee of the "Communist front" Southern Conference for Human Welfare which was charged in 1947 with "serving the Soviet Union and its subserveient Communist Party in the United States." He belonged, prior to 1949, to the "subversive and Communist" Council on African Affairs and was a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of the "Protestant Digest" -- a magazine which "has faithfully propagated the Communist Party Line." He sponsored the "subversive and Communist" People's Institute of Applied Religion and the American Committee for Yugoslav Relief and was a member of the Executive Board of the American League for Peace and Democracy, "the largest of the Communist-front movements in the United States." He has sponsored confer nces and activities of the "viciously subversive" National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, and the "Communist front" New York State Conference on National Unity and the "subversive and Communist" American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born and the National Committee to Win the Peace.

Roy Wilkins -- successor to the late Walter White as NAACP Executive Secretary -- was quoted on June 17, 1936, by the New York Daily Worker, the official publication of the Communist Party in this country, as attaching "greatest significance" to the 1936 National Communist Party Convention and stating that the Communist Party's racial program had had "a very wholesome effect" in the United States. He was further quoted by the Daily Worker on July 15, 1949, as boasting that he had voted in New York City elections that year for since-convicted Negro Communist Benjamin J. Davis. He is listed as a member of the National Committee of the "Communist front" International Juridical Association which has "actively defended Communists and consistently followed the Communist Party line." He was a sponsor of the "subversive and Communist" Conference on Pan American Democracy and of a joint meeting in 1937 of the "subversive and Communist" American League Against War and Fascism and the "Communist front" American Friends of the Chinese People. He has spoken for the "subversive and Communist" International Labor Defense and the Workers' Alliance, the former of which is regarded as the "legal arm of the Communist Party" in this country.

Special Counsel Thurgood Marshall -- the negro lawyer responsible for the NAACP's court attacks upon segregation in the public schools -- as late as 1950 was a member of the Executive Board of the "Communist front" National Lawyers Guild which has been described as "the foremost legal bulwark of the Communist Party, its front organizations and controlled unions." Since its inception, the Guild "has never failed to rally to the legal defense of the Communist Party and individual members thereof, including known espionage agents." And, as a member and policy-making official of this Communist Front, Marshall has served as Associate Editor of the "Lawyers Guild Review" and has criticized this nation's loyalty program. He also is listed as a member of the National Committee of the "Communist front" International Juridical Association which has "actively defended Communists and consistently followed the Communist Party line." And he was among a group of attorneys who, in 1947, protested the issuance of contempt citations against pro-Communist Hollywood writers who refused to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The director of the NAACP's Washington Bureau, Clarence M. Mitchell, protested against being asked whether he was or ever had been a member of the Communist Party at a hearing on proposed legislation to outlaw the Communist Party held before the House Un-American Activities Committee on May 3, 1950. Although he stoutly denied being a Communist, he was quoted as saying that such a question was "unfair" because it "immediately precludes from appearing before this Committee many of the people who would be on trial under a bill of this kind." The transcript further quoted him as saying that: "Presumably there are people who may, for sincere and personal reasons, wish to be members of the Communist Party. They may want to come here and object to this bill, but, I suppose, if they had to answer that question, they very likely would not come."

Director of Public Relations Henry Lee Moon, the Association's propaganda chief, is listed as a member of the "subversive and Communist" Washington Book Shop and the likewise-designated National Negro Congress which is "the Communist-front movement in the United States among negroes." His book, "Balance of Power: The Negro Vote," was praised by the Daily Worker and he was listed in 1949 as a nominee to be commentator for the "subversive and Communist" Voice of Freedom Committee.

Of the NAACP's 28 Vice Presidents, the following 11 have records of Un-American activities:

John Haynes Holmes, 23 citations; A. Philip Randolph, 20 citations the late Mary McLeod Bethune (who still is listed as a vice president) and William Lloyd Imes, 16 citations each; Oscar Hammerstein, II, the composer, and Bishop W. J. Walls, seven citations each; Ira W. Jayne and L. Pearl Mitchell, two citations each; and Willard S. Townsend, T. G. Nutter and Grace B. Fenderson, one citation each.

Of the 47 members comprising the Association's Board of Directors, the following 28 have records of the Un-American activities:

Earl B. Dickerson, 25 citations; Algernon D. Black, 18 citations; Lewis Gannett, 15 citations; Roscoe Dunjee, 13 citations; S. Ralph Harlow and Chairman Channing H. Tobias, 10 citations each; William H. Hastie, nine citations; Hubert T. Delaney, eight citations; Benjamin E. Mays, president of Atlanta's morehouse College, six citations; Robert G. Weaver, five citations; Buell G. Gallagher, four citations; President Arthur B. Spingarn, Earl G. Harrison, James J. McClendon Ralph Bunche, Allen Knight Chalmers and W. Montague Cobb, three citations each; J. M. Tinsley, Wesley W. Law of Savannah, Ga., Norman Cousins , Z. Alexander Looby, Harry J. Greene and Alfred Baker Lewis, two citations each; and H. Claude Hudson, Carl R. Johnson, A Maceo Smith, James Hinton and Theodore M. Berry, one citation each.

Two other Vice Presidents and three other Directors are well-known apologists for left-wing causes. The two Vice Presidents are Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon and Eric Johnston of the Motion Picture Industry. The three Directors are Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, CIO President Walter Reuther and Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

Other officers of the NAACP with Un-American activity records are:

Lloyd Garrison, chairman, National Legal Committee, five citations; Treasurer Allan Knight Chalmers and Branch Department Director Gloster B. Current, three citations each; Southeast Regional Secretary Ruby Hurley, West Coast Regional Secretary Franklin H. Williams, Field Secretary Madison S. Jones and Assistant Special Counsel Robert L. Carter, two citations each; and Field Secretary Tarea Hall Pittman, one citation.

But of all the NAACP officials and policy-makers listed in the files of the House Un-American Activities Committee, none has a record as notorious as that of W. E. B. DuBois to whom I have previously referred as one of the founders and present "Honorary Chairman" of the Association. No less than 72 citations of Communist, Communist-front and subversive activity are entered against his name -- the latest of which was the statement he issued upon the death of Joseph Stalin reading: "Let all negroes, Jews and foreign-born who have suffered in America from prejudice and intolerance, remember Joseph Stalin."

Yet this same W. E. B. DuBois was one of the "modern scientific authorities" whose writings were accepted by the United States Supreme Court as the basis for its decision of May 17, 1954, prohibiting segregation in the public schools. DuBois contributed to 82 different portions of the book, "An American Dilemma," which was cited in its entirety by the Supreme Court as an authority for its ruling.

And, speaking of that decision, let me emphasize in passing that 15 other contributors to "An American Dilemma" also have lengthy records of pro-Communist activity in the files of the Un-American Activities Committee. The same thing is true of two of the six individual authorities cited by the High Court -- Theodore Brameld and E. Franklin Frazier -- who between them have been members of or identified with 28 organizations declared to be Communist, Communist fronts or Communist dominated.

Another of the six individual authorities cited by the Supreme Court -- K. B. Clark -- was, at the time of the arguments before the Court, on the payroll of the NAACP as a so-called "social-science expert."

These records of individual officials and members of the NAACP are not the only source of proof of the subversive influences on and in that organization.

Elizabeth Dilling reported in her book, "The Red Network," that, during the seven years from 1923 to 1930, the NAACP received some $43,000 from the radical Garland Fund among whose directors were Communists William Z. Foster and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn. She also disclosed that the official report of the Fourth National Convention of the Communist Party of the United States held in 1925 stated that "the Party had penetrated the NAACP."

Official records show that the NAACP has consistently affiliated itself with Communist and left-wing movements.

It was a member of the American Youth for a Free World which was organized in 1942 and, in 1948, was described by the California Un-American Activities Committee as "heavily infiltrated and effectively dominated by the Communist Party." The House Un-American Activities Committee in its 1951 Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications described the AYFW as "a Communist clearing house."

In 1945, the NAACP sent its Branch Department Director, Gloster Current to London as an official delegate representing the Association at the founding of the World Federation of Democratic Youth. This Federation was cited by the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1948 as "part of the Communist International "solar system."

A report made at a meeting of the Communist Party of the United States on July 16, 1946, showed that the NAACP was one of a group of left-wing organizations invited by the National Committee of the Communist Party to a meeting held in Chicago to form a "third party." That report, as detailed on pages 150-51 of the 1947 Report of the House Un-American Activities Committee, lists the NAACP as an active participant in the conference at which the Progressive Citizens of America was formed.

And earlier this month, according to the United Press, the NAACP picketed a hearing on Communist propaganda conducted in Chicago by Senator Eastland for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

A pamphlet outlining the Program of the Communist Party of the United States, published in September 1954 by New Century Publishers of New York City, made specific reference on Page 22 to a link between the Communist Party and the NAACP. It stated:

"We call upon wage workers, working farmers, the Negro people, small business and professional people, upon the women and the youth, to join hands in a common fight...for the democratic demands of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People."

Former Negro Communist Foster Williams, Jr., testified before the House Un-American Activities Committee about this matter on June 17, 1954, in Seattle, Wash. He said:

"The Communist Party very sneakily manipulates the negro people for their own purposes..The NAACP has had this trouble."

The racial aims of the Communist Party of the United States and those of the NAACP are virtually identical. The Communist program, as reported in the May 26, 1928, issue of the Daily Worker, calls for :

"Full racial equality.

"Abolition of all laws which result in segregation of negroes.

"Abolition of laws forbidding intermarriage of persons of different races.

"Abolition of all laws and public administration measures which prohibit, or in practice prevent, Negro children from attending general public schools or universities.

"Full and equal admittance of negroes to all waiting rooms, restaurants, hotels and theaters."

Those are the identical demands being made today, 27 years later, by the NAACP.

On the basis of the evidence now in hand -- a minute portion of which I have related to you this afternoon -- no other conclusion can be drawn but that the NAACP is being used as a front and tool by subversive elements in this country. Either knowingly or unwittingly, it has allowed itself to become part and parcel of the Communist conspiracy to overthrow the democratic governments of this nation and its sovereign states.

Through its activities, the NAACP is fomenting strife and discord between the white and negro races in the South and is disrupting relations between these races which heretofore have been -- and at present are -- harmonious and friendly in every respect. These activities, carried to their ultimate conclusion, can only result in conflict, bloodshed and internal revolution, delivering this nation into the hands of international Communism.

The NAACP is being aided and abetted in its agitation by three "front" organizations on the Southern scene -- the Southern Conference Education Fund; the Southern Regional Council; and the SRC's affiliate, the Georgia Committee on Interracial Cooperation. The Southern Conference Education Fund and the Southern Regional Council are both dominated by individuals who, like the officials of the NAACP, have long records of affinity for and participation in Communist, Communist-front, fellow-traveling, left-wing and subversive organizations and activities. Sworn testimony taken by both House and Senate Committees has placed known Communists in both organizations and the Southern Conference Education Fund may soon be designated a subversive organization.

The Georgia Committee on Interracial Cooperation is a perfect example of an organization formed for the purpose of exploiting the names, reputations and services of well-intentioned do-gooders. It is composed of some of Georgia's most distinguished clergymen and most prominent civic and social leaders who have been duped into doing the bidding of the more sinister elements manipulating the Southern Regional Council.

Investigations currently are being made of all three organizations -- the results of which will greatly embarass those good citizens who unwittingly have become involved in their activities. I urge all such persons to take immediate steps to disassociate themselves from these groups and to disavow their programs and leaders before they, their friends and their congregations are exposed to the anguish and embarrassment which exposure of these groups will necessarily mean.

The activities of the NAACP and its local fronts pose a serious threat to the peace, tranquility, government and way of life of our State. And for that reason it is my intention to present the evidence which already has been, and currently is being, compiled about the subversive nature of these activities to the 1956 session of the General Assembly of Georgia convening next January for appropriate action by the elected representatives of the people of this State.

In the meantime I pledge the full resources of my Office to the enforcement of all existing State laws and constitutional provisions relating to subversive activities and our traditional pattern of race relations. And, toward that end, I solicit -- and know I can count on -- the full support and cooperation of you, the peace officers of Georgia.

I thank you.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Your letter of September 15, 1953 mailed to me via the National Office of NAACP was here at the office when I returned from a meeting at the National Office held last week.

I am happy to learn that you will be in Oklahoma October 4-9 and I would consider it a great pleasure to have you visit me and some other persons in this area while here. If your meeting opens on the 4th., it is highly possible that I would be able to drive you down to Norman, if your train or plane is routed to Oklahoma City as is sometimes the case since Norman is only 18 miles to the south, or if you should go directly to Norman, and the meetings are open to the public, I would like to come down for the Sunday session.

I have another meeting in New York for October 8th. and probably the 9th. which will take me out of the office here one or two days. I shall not have to leave here until the night of the 7th. however, so if it is at all possible, I should like to have you as my guest for our United Fund Campaign "Kick-Off" dinner on the night of Tuesday, October 6th. at 7:00 o'clock.

I have left a call at the office of Mrs. Cerroria Johnson, executive secretary of the Urban League, to tell her of your coming. I am sure both of our groups would like to have a chat around the dinner table with you while you are here. Please write me of the possibilities?

With best regards and our wishes for a pleasent trip to Oklahoma, I remain

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

It was unfortunate that the office gave two different hours for the meeting of your committee recently, thus causing the meeting not materialize.

I think that the problems of public school education in Atlanta are so important that a discussion of these problems by our Committee on Education with recommendations for action is necessary if we are going to serve our children in this mostimportant field.

A statement in "The Press" indicated that there are nearly four thousand Negro children in Atlanta on double sessions after $9,000,000 in school bonds has been spent.

Something needs to be done to hold the interest of the two hundred parents who filed suits to break down segregation. The results of that suit are felt in the darkest corners of the State.

The teacher-pupil ratio in Negro schools is still far greater than in White schools.

The number of White teachers employed in the Atlanta system above the State allotment is approximately ten times that of the Negro teachers so employed.

Already six schools in that, house some five thousand Elementary students are second handed schools--schools which were formerly occupied by Whites, but no White children occupy school buildings that Negroes have occupied.

Plans are in the making to turn over to Negro children more old schools now occupied by White children, while new schools are being planned for Whites.

There is only one Elementary school for Negroes between Hunter on the North, the railroad on the South, Walker Street on the East and Gordon and Mosely Drive on the West.

This one school also houses children from the Mechanisville area.

There are nine Elementary schools between Hunter on the South, Simpson on the North, Elliot on the East and Anderson Park on the West. There is not a great difference in the population of the two areas.

There are plans to float $13,000,000 in school bonds next year. Will this money be spent so that the school facilities for Negro children be equalized?

What is being done to see that segregation in the Atlanta area goes, if the United States Supreme Court rules against segregation?

There are many other questions to claim the attention of this Committee. Will the Committee not be called into session at an early date and address itself to these and other problems? It is vitally important that some actions be taken without further delay.

Please let us have a meeting of the full committee.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

You should be pleased to know that our workers are continuing to bring in memberships for the "1954 Crusade for Full Citizenship." This is highly important because, as the attached report will show, we have approximately only 2,000 members whereas we have distributed some 1,500 workers' kits and over 20,000 membership envelopes since the campaign started.

The enclosed report will also show activities of the members of the Executive Committee during the Crusade, as compared with what we should do to secure 10,000 members, and $20,000. Several members of the committee have done excellent jobs, others have been busy with other activities, while still others have given no reason for not helping with the drive.

Our greatest problem is supervision and follow-up; we have over 400 workers, but some one needs to contact them regularly. We would like to close the drive by May 1st. Consequently, if you can give some additional time to the campaign, kindly call Main 6063, and I will be glad to tell you how you can help.

This year is the most important in our history. The 10,000 members are here; we can secure them if we get to them. What will you do to increase your production or to help other members who have taken responsibility?

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Let me be very frank and direct in what I am going to say, because I do not believe you need a lecture.

The Atlanta Branch NAACP cannot complete its program this year with its present depleted treasury. Mr. C. L. Harper, president and chief executive officer, is very much disturbed particularly since the problems of today are even more acute than they were a few months ago. All of us know that legal action will be necessary to safeguard and sustain us.

I am not writing you for money but rather as a fellow member to ask if you won't join with me and other selected members of the Atlanta NAACP in forming an immediate group to raise funds by getting additional new members and contributions. I emphasize new members, because we do not have nearly the number we should in an area like Atlanta.

You will not be asked to spend all of your time walking streets and begging but merely to use your influence to draw others immediately into the group of us who have been fighting and paying for human rights for so long. Freedom is everybody's business and everybody should pay the bill.

If you will agree to join me and others in taking on a special job right now, please sign and return the enclosed postal card right away. It is not so much that I need you as that we need each other.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

We are asking our Executive Committee members to participate in the 13th Annual Conference of Georgia NAACP Branches which convenes in Atlanta this weekend.

Naturally, with members coming to our city from over the state, we want to be good host and be on hand at all the sessions to greet them and give leadership to the discussions.

First conference session is an informal banquet to be held in the Butler Street YMCA at six o'clock Friday evening, December 3. Banquet speaker will be Mr. Gloster Current from the New York Office.

Our Atlanta Branch has the responsibility for making the banquet a success, and we are asking every Executive Committee member not only to attend in person but also to be responsible for getting four other persons to attend the banquet.

Enclosed you will find five banquet tickets. Please call the office not later than Thursday noon and let us know how many tickets you have sold.

Yours very truly,

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Please accept my thanks for your response to my letter asking you and fellow members of the NAACP to assist me in an immediate drive to raise funds for getting additional members.

As I emphasized in my letter, we are after new members, because we do not have nearly the number we should have in Atlanta, and because the problems that effect the Atlanta Branch's operations are even more acute than they were a few months ago.

We are going to ask you to use your influence to draw others immediately into our group of persons who are highly interested in the work of the NAACP.

To this end, I am asking you to meet with me on Thursday, December 9, at 6:15 p.m. in the Butler Street YMCA. Please be present and on time, and we promise you that we can complete our work in forty-five minutes.

Freedom is everybody's business, but there are so few dedicated persons who are willing to make a sacrifice of time and money that we must depend on those such as yourself to get the job done.

I am not writing you for money, but rather to do a job that will call for a small sacrifice of your time.

I shall be depending on you to help and will look forward to seeing you on Thursday.

Dear Executive Committee Member:

We are moving fast to whip our campaign structure into shape so that we may "kick off" our drive as early as possible.

A small group met with Mr. L. D. Milton, general campaign chairman, Thursday night and worked out details in plans for the drive.

As you remember, we voted at our special Executive Committee meeting last Tuesday night to meet again on Tuesday, December 28, at six o 'clock in the Citizens Trust Company.

At that time you, as a committee chairman or vice-chairman, will be expected to have the names of persons whom you have contacted and consented to work with you or your committee.

The meeting will positively last not longer than forty-five minutes.

Please be on time.

Dear Executive Committee Member:

Our first monthly meeting of the Executive Committee will be held on Tuesday, January 11, at seven o 'clock in the Georgia Teachers Building at 201 Ashby Street, Northwest.

As a committee chairman or vice-chairman, you will be expected to report on two major responsibilities:

1. A written proposal or prospectus on what your particular committee's program of activity will be during the year 1955 bearing in mind that the Atlanta Branch's effectiveness this year will depend entirely on the activities of its various committees.

2. Your committee plans and present activities in participating in our current drive to secure 10,000 members and $27,000. You have already been requested to come prepared to give a complete roster of names of persons on your committee. We shall expect this list Tuesday night.

Enclosed you will find a copy of a memorandum from the Campaign Director to the General Chairman which contains suggestions for all Committee activity in the campaign which might be of service to you.

Since the time is late, and it perhaps will not be convenient for all committees to meet prior to our executive committee meeting Tuesday night, we suggest that all committee chairmen and vice-chairmen get their heads together and definitely schedule committee meetings during next week.

We shall look forward to seeing you on Tuesday night.

MEMORANDUM January 5, 1955

FROM : C. A. GREENLEA, CAMPAIGN DIRECTOR, ATLANTA BRANCH NAACP

TO : MR. L. D. MILTON

SUBJECT: SUGGESTIONS ON THROWING THE 1955 MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN INTO MOTION.

It is suggested that at the regular monthly meeting of the Executive Committee which is scheduled for next Tuesday, January 11, every committee chairman be required to have his committee personnel completed. (Chairman should be told that if they have not completed their organization by that time, the Campaign Director or General Chairman will add names from among our list of volunteer workers.)

Immediately upon completion of committee organizations, each committee must hold a meeting and discuss and launch its responsibilities in the campaign.

1. Finance, Administration and Legislation Committees which have charge of solicitation among business concerns will seek to get one or more NAACP solicitors in every office building, insurance company office and every place of big employment in the Negro community. In addition, it is suggested that these committees also divide the city into business sections (Northwest, Southwest, Northeast, Southeast plus Auburn Avenue and West Hunter Street) and assign workers to each street and section where businesses are located.

2. The Transportation and Police Committees which have charge of solicitation of special gifts or big gifts must meet immediately to organize itself to follow up on prospects who did not come across with big gifts on Emancipation Day plus others who may be good prospects.

3. Labor and Industry Committee must meet immediately and organize itself with a view toward getting an NAACP solicitor in every AF of L, CIO, and Independent Union in Atlanta; and in every place of mass employment such as Scripto, the laundries, overall factories, Atlantic Steel, Rich's, Davison's, Sears, and down town office buildings.

. The Church Work Committee should have an immediate meeting (perhaps a dinner) and call together ministers whose names were submitted by Rev. Jackson and Rev. Carswell plus some other denominations. It will be the object of this Church Committee to have every minister in Atlanta designate some active layman of his church to act as NAACP membership solicitor; it will also be the duty of this committee to secure representatives in churches that are not represented at the meeting as such.

. The Entertainment Committee should meet immediately and make plans for securing an NAACP solicitor in every social and civic club in Atlanta and in every fraternal unit. It is suggested that one way of reaching a large number of clubs at one time would be to invite club presidents to a cabaret or some other type of free entertainment where they could be given kits and that the committee work out a machinery to get supplies to those organizations that do not attend.

6. The Veterans Committee should hold an immediate meeting and make plans to get active solicitors in every veterans organization in the city.

7. Youth Work Committee is responsible for getting youth solicitations on every college campus and in every high school in the city and county. These youth solicitors will concentrate on one dollar and fifty cents memberships.

8. The Education and Program Committees which have charge of schools and colleges should meet immediately to set out to get kits in the hands of representatives in each college and each high school in the city and county and also in the hands of each P. T. A. president. It is suggested that the committee contact every school principal first and have the school principal to designate a teacher in his school to serve as an NAACP solicitor.

9. The Parks and Recreation Committee which is responsible for memberships among public employes should meet immediately and project its plans for securing an NAACP worker in every place of public employment except public schools. This includes federal, state, county, and city employment such as D. T. W., Postoffice, City Sanitary Department and other non-school employes, Veterans Hospital, Grady Hospital, Fort McPherson and Connally General Depot, and Motor Base.

10. The Women's Auxiliary along with the Housing Committee is responsible for the house to house canvass. It is suggested that these committees hold an immediate meeting and designate persons who will help distribute work kits to workers in each section town. The overall idea being to secure one thousands workers in this house to house army throughout Atlanta. This committee is expected to immediately begin contacting persons all over the city, particularly, those who already have shown their interest in the NAACP by being present members, and get them to serve as block workers.

11. Special Committees being set up by President C. L. Harper will begin to meet immediately and recruit one hundred or more Booker T. Washington's graduates to work in the campaign.

12. Membership-Registration Committee serving as campaign coodinators and the Legal Redress Committee serving as assistants to the campaign director should meet with all other committees and assist them in projecting their programs.

13. Public Relations Committee should get fifty persons as speakers to be on call to clubs and churches. They should meet immediately and outline uniform speeches on NAACP program and policy. Also, they will handle all newspaper and radio publicity.

Dear Executive Committee Member:

We will have our monthly meeting on Tuesday, February 8, at 7:00 p.m. in the GTEA Building, 201 Ashby Street, Northwest.

This is the last meeting of the Executive Committee prior to the "big Push" of our membership campaign to secure 10,000 members. Business and plans of great importance must be discussed at this meeting and your participation is very necessary.

Three weeks ago, our Campaign Chairman, Mr. L. D. Milton, sent an urgent letter to each executive committee member urging cooperation in the campaign. He asked that each executive show his interest to the extent of supplying the names of ten persons to be solicitors in an army of 1,000 solicitors that we are trying to recruit. We are very optimistic that if we can move into the main portion of this drive with 1,000 workers in the field, we can reach our 10,000 membership goal.

Certainly everyone of our executive committee members has enough influence to persuade ten other workers to work in the campaign, and we must conclude that anyone who has not done so is not sufficiently interested in the organization for the successful outcome of the drive.

If you have not sent Mr. Milton your ten names, please come to the meeting Tuesday night prepared to give them.

Yours very truly,

Dear Friend:

I am told that last year your organization made an outstanding achievement by participating in the annual NAACP Membership Campaign. You are to be congratulated for having such progressive minded members.

The NAACP this year has embarked on the greatest campaign in its history. We are out to get 10,000 in the Atlanta Branch, and we want you and your group to help us do this job.

As you know, the NAACP has accomplished much toward getting full freedom for all American citizens. Segregation has been eliminated in all armed services; you may ride and eat where you may on trains, and greatest of all, the Supreme Court last spring outlawed segregation in public schools. If we keep pushing forward now, before long, we will be free. The Atlanta Branch hopes to tackle the question of segregation on local trolleys and buses this year. All this takes money.

This letter comes as an extra special invitation to the clubs that made such an outstanding showing last year to attend the banquet-cabaret party being sponsored by the Entertainment Committee of the NAACP Thursday, February 10, at the Royal Peacock. We especially want YOUR club represented so that those present can be told of the fine work you did last year.

If you have not already notified our office of your intentions to be present, please return the enclosed postal card immediately.

Dear Community Leader:

Our campaign for 10,000 NAACP members is now in full progress, and we do appreciate all you are doing to help make the campaign a success.

We are having our first workers' report meeting this Friday night in the Butler Street YMCA at seven thirty o'clock. We are trying to complete all of the work and end the drive by March 15. If you have not already made your report, want you do everything possible to get at least ten persons to join the NAACP before March 15.

Minimum membership in the NAACP is only two dollars per year; three dollars and fifty cents per year includes a subscription to our monthly magazine, "The Crisis". Many persons who believe in helping in the cause of first class citizenship will take out $5 and $25 memberships if asked.

Every volunteer worker who reports as many as ten members will receive an honor certificate. These awards make fine trophies when they are framed so that your children and grand-children can see that you helped to tear down segregation and discrimination.

In case you were unable to attend workers' meetings last week to receive your envelopes, or if they have not been brought to you yet, we are enclosing a few so that you may get started. Please call the NAACP Office, Main 6064, if you need more.

Please try to report this Friday, March 4, at 7:30 P.M. in the Butler Street YMCA. Even if you have not had an opportunity to get all of your members yet, we shall appreciate a partial report Friday.

Called 2/4

Our final report meeting will be held in the Butler Street YMCA on Friday, March 11. By all means please do everything you can to enroll at least ten persons in the NAACP by that time.

Dear Mr. Richardson:

Mr. Mays and I were at a sub-committee meeting of the Atlanta branch of the NAACP last night, and between us and with the help of others worked up the idea of inviting a number of white people of the Atlanta area to come into the Atlanta branch.

We thought it would be appropriate if you and Mr. Mays and I sent out a letter. I am prepared to get up a list of people appropriate for the letter to be sent to. Other names will occur to you and Mr. Mays that I would not know of; and they should be added to the list.

My notion would be for the letter to go out over your signature on Gammon stationary, and with Mr. Mays' name and mine coming next. One of the NAACP campaign envelopes, as enclosed, would go with each letter.

Mr. Mays made the point that some people would not care to become members of the NAACP, but would be quite willing to make a donation. I don't know just how to convey that suggestion and so didn't do so.

What do you say?

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

I've no way forgotten the urge I gave you at Quaker Meet-in at Y.M.C.A. Rooms in Atlanta, Ga. to let me name you to Ohio Wesleyan University friends of mine at Delaware, Ohio for a speech such as you gave us that day or some other of your experiences.

I've just escaped March 9. '55 from a sort of prison sentence that began July 12, 1953 careing for my brother Homer worn by 7 years care of an invalid wife. Brother had made considerable gain, but met with a fatal accident, Oct 4, 1954. A bitter loss to me.

I am still in Belmont Co.Ohio, building up health a bit, attending to business matters here among my own relatives. Hope to return to my Apt. which I hold at the address given here.

All the return I had from the naughtyinvalid was the cost of of my board which I earned nine times over. I refused to make a charge because I went expressly to save life. However I got track of a heavy financial loss that escaped my detection while I was escaping from service at Spelman College, August and September, 1942.

For the present I'll put in $2.00

Is the Crisis received or subscribed for at Oberlin College? It should be. Negroes do have much correct treatment in Lorain, Ohio. My prison sentence gave me almost no outside connection.

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Greenlea:

Early in March, Mr. Benjamin Mays, Mr. Harry Richardson, and myself wrote out to about forty-four white persons in the Atlanta area, believed to be inclined toward liberal views, and asked them to make some contribution to or become members of the NAACP. The letter we sent was as follows:

"Dear Friend:

The Atlanta branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is now trying to expand its membership, and it would particularly like to have some additional white members, or supporters.

We think the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asks for what is right and that its efforts should be sustained.

If you will be willing to make some donation to it, please send back the enclosed envelope to the first signer of this letter."

I have received thus far the following amounts:

1. Donations without membership: Odum Fanning

2. Minimun membership: Miss Rhoda O'Meara, Mrs. Chester E. Martin, and Miss M. Mae Neptune. Envelope and payment within.

3. Sustaining membership: Mrs. Harry M. Gershon. Envelope and payment within.

In addition, one of the persons to whom we wrote said that he had for several years been giving a goodish lump sum to the Committee of 100, and preferred to continue his donation through that channel.

This is, statistically, no very high rate, but there may be others later on, in which case I will of course send in what is received.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

Dear Odom:

On April 4th we forwarded to Mr. C. W. Greenlea, the Executive Secretary of the Atlanta branch of the NAACP at 204 Auburn Avenue, N. E., your kind donation. I described it to Mr. Greenlea as a donation without membership. In consequence, Mr. Greenlea has not been supplied with your address, and I suppose the NAACP itself, therefore, has no normal means of sending you a receipt for the donation.

I therefore receipt it personally to you.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

I have been asked by the Executive Committee of the local branch of the NAACP to serve as Chairman of its Transportation Committee. This committee has been charged with the responsibility of developing a program that will lead to a successful attack on racial segregation on local transportation facilities.

I accepted the chairmanship of this committee only because I have been assured that the branch is ready, willing and able to act now. I am asking you to serve on this committee. I am asking you and nine other busy people because I believe you are ready, willing, able and prepared totake the time out for at least two meetings that I think this matter requires. Please let me know immediately if you can and will serve or if you cannot or will not serve.

The first meeting is scheduled for Friday April 29th, at 2:30 P. M. , in the NAACP office at 204 Auburn Avenue, N. E. This meeting will concern itself with:

1. Committee Organization
2. Methods of Procedure
3. Legal Aspects
4. Timing
5. Scope

If you want to be a part of a historic event, be present and on time.

Dear Co-Worker:

The Executive Committee of the Atlanta Branch of the NAACP in its meeting Tuesday Night heard the report and adopted recommendations of the Transportation Committee. These recommendations included a method for selecting the legal staff for a pending transportation case.

It was that the Transportation and the Legal Redress Committees would meet together, select a legal staff and make plans to move forward in promoting the case immediately.

We are happy that the Executive Committee has made the important decision to attack racial segregation in transportation facilities now. We have plans to move immediately because the problems that face us are urgent.

This is an invitation to you as a member of one of these committees to meet jointly at 3:00 P. M. Friday, May 13th, in the NAACP Office, for the purposes indicated above. There are many important steps that must be taken but this is the first.

Please be present and on time. If for any reason you cannot come please call the Branch Office, Main 6064

Dear Bob:

I have written Mr. Parrish and said he could of course go up to the Convention. I have got him only for the two months and I need him so much that I hate to turn him loose for the whole period of the Convention. But I have authorized him to go ahead and be there as long as needful and have told him of your request for his presence particularly June 23rd.

I am very sorry that I was laid up with a bad back last Saturday when you had the meeting here. Nice of Mr. Calhoun to get me word that I could come. And had it not been for the back, I would have been there.

My respect for the job the NAACP does grows a good jump every couple of weeks.

Dear George:

I understand that Prof. Parrish is planning to work with the Southern Regional Council this summer. In view of the decision of the Supreme Court in the School Segregation Cases, it seems to me that he will be able to work most effectively by working with the personnel and branches of the NAACP, and it would be particularly advisable for him to be at the Annual Convention of the NAACP in Atlantic City from June 21st to the 26th. I am especially desirous of his being there on Thursday, June 23, when we will discuss the whole problem of the decision and its implementation and ramifications.

I hope that you will be able to authorize his coming to the Convention, of course, at the expense of the Regional Council.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

THE STATE CONFERENCE OF GEORGIA

Office of the President: 223 Chestnut Street, S. W.

Atlanta, Georgia

June 7, 1954

Mr. Durwood Pye, Secretary
Georgia Commission on Education
Peters Building
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Pye:

On December 10, 1953, the Legislature of Georgia passed a resolution creating a Georgia Commission on Education. Among other things included in the resolution was the following:

> "Whereas the Constitution of the State provides for separate education of the white and colored races, and whereas, necessity for further legislation on constitutional amendments in that regard might hereafter arise," and
> "Said commission shall formulate a plan or plans of legislation . . . for consideration by the General Assembly whereby the State may by taxation continue to provide adequate education for all its citizens consistent with the provisions of the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Georgia."

It is quite apparent that at the time the Commission was established (12/10/53) the doctrine of separate but equal, enunciated in Plessey v. Ferguson (1896), prevailed. Accordingly, there is no inconsistency in the quotated statements concerning "Separate education of the white and colored races," the "necessity for further legislation or constitutional amendment in that regard" and the authority of the Commission to formulate plans in this regard which would be "consistent with the provision of the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Georgia."

If the position of the Commission were legally tenable at the time of its creation, such is not the case today. On May 17, 1954, the Supreme Court of the United States held that:

> "We conclude that in the field of public education, the doctrine of separate but equal has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal. Therefore, we hold that the plaintiffs and others similarly situated for whom the actions have been brought are, by reason of the segregation complained of, deprived of the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment."

In the light of this decision, the quoted statements concerning the purpose of the Commission show glaring legal inconsistencies. After May 17, 1954, the principle of separate but equal came to an end. The Constitution of the United States, as interpreted by the U. S. Supreme Court, is now clearly against segregation in public education. This being true, it is legally impossible for a State to devise plans which attempt to circumvent the Court's decision and still have said plans "consistent with the Constitution of the United States." If it be said that the plans must be "consistent with the Constitution of the State of Georgia," it must be pointed out that in the federal hierarchy of laws, nothing in a State Constitution or State statute can contravene the Constitution of the United States as interpreted by the Supreme Court.

If the legislative act or constitutional amendment does contravene the Federal Constitution, it will be declared null and void if tested. Accordingly, in a society based on law, the lower must give way to the higher.

It is inconceivable for us to believe that in the light of the decision of May 17, 1954, the Commission will deliberately attempt to circumvent the highest law of the land. Believing, as all Americans do, that we are law abiding citizens, the NAACP is happy to submit recommendations to implement the Court's decision. The recommendations are not original with us. They are comparable to other recommendations under consideration. We are confident the recommendations will elicit the support of the people and will succeed. The recommendations to implement the decision of May 17, 1954 follow:

1. Pupils will not be favored nor discriminated against because of race, color or creed.

2. Children in no event shall be permitted to attend schools outside the boundaries in which they live for reasons of race, color or creed.

3. No records of pupils or personnel shall make any reference to race, color or creed.

4. All appointments, assignments, promotions and ratings in the school system shall be based upon experience, qualifications and tenure rather than race, color or creed.

5. All schools shall be used to maximum efficiency without regard to race, color or creed.

The above recommendations not only tie in with the spirit of the Supreme Court pronouncement, but they give Georgia an opportunity to make plans for the needs of school children in a realistic and forward looking way. They definitely give Georgia an opportunity to prove to the nation that our ingenuity and creativeness can be effectively harnessed for constructive human purposes. Realizing the adjustments inherent in the implementation of such a program, the NAACP stands ready to utilize all of its resources toward this end. In good faith and on a basis of equality, we are ready to move forward with the Commission to implement the Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954.

With every best wish, I am,

Sincerely,

William M. Boyd

June 4, 1955

M-E-M O R A N D U M

TO: Emergency Regional Conference,
Atlanta, Georgia

FROM Roy Wilkins, Executive Secretary and Thurgood Marshall, Special Counsel

SUBJECT: Interpretation of Supreme Court Decision of May 31 and the NAACP Program to Implement that Ruling.

The May 31 decision combined with the May 17 decision of last year must be viewed as the latest in a series of steps toward full integration of Negroes into American life. When the N.A.A.C.P. began this campaign, it was met with the state statutes requiring or permitting segregation in public education. These statutory provisions were a complete block to all voluntary efforts to end segregation.

The first cases destroyed the validity of out-of-state scholarships as an excuse for the exclusion of Negroes from professional schools. This was followed by the cases which declared unconstitutional provisions for Jim Crow graduate and professional schools. And then the May 17, 1954, decision declared that segregation in public education was unconstitutional. This was followed by last Tuesday's decision that "all provisions of federal, state or local law requiring or permitting" segregation in public educati on "must yield to" the principle announced in the 1954 decision.

This determination by the Supreme Court clears the way for school boards to desegregate their systems voluntarily. This is being done in many parts of the South. The opinion also gives us the necessary legal weapons to bring about compliance in areas of the South which openly flout the mandate of the Supreme Court.

The question now before us is: Under what conditions and with what directives were the school cases remanded to lower courts? We know the highest court did not (a) set a deadline date for either the beginning or the completion of desegregation in the public schools; and (b) outline a definite by which desegregation must proceed and by which lower courts might judge the efforts of local school boards toward compliance with the May 17 and May 31 rulings. Not having done this, what did the Court do? What language did it use?

Re-Affirmation of Principle

May 17, 1954 decision re-affirmed. "These cases were decided on May 17, 1954. The opinions of that date, declaring the fundamental principle that racial discrimination in public education is unconstitutional, are incorporated herein by reference."

Last year's opinion, as we all know, declared: "We conclude that in the field of public education the doctrine of 'separate but equal' has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal." On May 31 the Court said simply, as an introduction to its opinion, that this principle stands and that everything in the May 31 opinion hangs upon it; that the items in the May 31 opinion must be considered at all times and under all circumstances in the light of the clear principle in the 1954 opinion. The Court refers to the 1954 "constitutional principles" a total of six times in its May 31 opinion, once as "governing constitutional principles."

All school segregation laws are invalid: "All provisions of Federal, state or local law requiring or permitting such discrimination must yield to this principle."

This means that all laws, local, state and federal, requiring or permitting racial segregation in the public schools are now null and void, and that no school or other public official or body is bound by such laws.

Good Faith Required

Local school authorities responsible: "School authorities have the primary responsibility for elucidating, assessing, and solving these problems" (of "full implementation of these constitutional principles").

This means just what it says. It means further that is is right and proper for citizens and community groups to begin the campaign for desegregation with the local school authorities.

Good faith required: "... courts will have to consider whether the action of school authorities constitutes good-faith implementation of the governing constitutional principles."

The Court is saying here that alleged good faith in carrying out the "governing" constitutional principle of non-segregation can be brought before a court for determination and need not rest upon mere assertion by school authorities or newspapers or politicians or others.

Interest of the plaintiffs: "At stake is the personal interest of the plaintiffs in admission to public schools as soon as practicable on a non-discriminatory basis."

Plaintiffs have a right (as set forth in the May 17, 1954, decision) to admission to public schools on a non-discriminatory basis "as soon as practicable." The latter phrase must be taken to mean with only such delay as may be permitted by the lower courts in the context of language elsewhere in the May 31 opinion.

Must Start Promptly

Obstacles to be eliminated: "To effectuate this interest may call for elimination of a variety of obstacles in making the transition to school systems operated in accordance with the constitutional principles set forth in the May 17, 1954, decision."

When the Court says, as it does here, that to protect the right of the plaintiffs "may call for elimination of a variety of obstacles" it must be taken to mean that the Court in effect is ordering that such obstacles be removed. By the strongest inference it means that pleas of the existence of such obstacles cannot be considered valid reasons for denying plaintiffs their rights. The defendants are duty bound, if such obstacles exist, to remove them, whatever their nature.

Must start promptly: "While giving weight to these public and private considerations, the courts will require that the defendants make a prompt and reasonable start toward full compliance with our May 17, 1954, ruling.'

Here the Court says that even while the lower courts may give due weight to the public interest (of the community at large) and to private consider tions (the rights of the plaintiffs) the courts "will require" a "prompt and reasonable start toward full compliance with our May 17, 1954 ruling." "Will require" is strong, definite, positive language in legal terms, a directive which no lawyer or judge misunderstands or underestimates.

Burden Upon Defendants

Disagreement no basis for failure to comply: "Courts of equi may properly take into account the public interest in the elimination of such obstacles in a systematic and effective manner. But it should go without saying that the vitality of these constitutional principles cannot be allowed to yield simply because of disagreement with them."

Very simply this means that just because individual citizens, officials, or groups do not like or do not agree with the May 17, 1954, opinion they may not ignore, evade or defy it. That is, they may not do so in court in a final determination, no matter how much they talk or write about it in disagreement outside of a courtroom showdown.

Burden upon the defendants: "Once such a start has been made, the courts may find that additional time may be necessary to carry out the ruling in an effective manner. The burden rests upon the defendants to establish that such time is necessary in the public interest and is consistent with good-faith compliance at the earliest possible date."

It should be noted that only after a start has been made will a request for additional time be considered. Here, as in other phases under the jurisdiction of the courts, we have the privilege of challenging such requests for time in the courts, forcing a hearing and a determination. We need not depend upon the mere assertion of a school official that more time is necessary.

Administrative Problems

Problems to be considered by courts: "To that end, the courts may consider problems related to administration, arising from the physical condition of the school plant, the school transportation system, personnel...."

Non-Racial school districts: "... Revision of school districts and attendance areas into compact units to achieve a system of determing admission to the public schools on a non-racial basis ..."

Revision of local laws: "...and revision of local laws and regulations which may be necessary in solving the foregoing problems."

In all its pleadings before the courts, the NAACP has granted that allowance should be made for the solving of administrative problems, but it hs insisted that diligent attention to solving these would not require a prolonged period. In its section on administrative problems the court enumerates those which the courts may consider. The time alleged to be required is subject to the burden-of-proof stipulation in the opinion. The nature of the solution of each problem is subject to the "good faith" and "constitutional principles" stipulations. All proposals are subject to challenges in the courts.

It is significant that whereas the Court merely enumerates other administrative problems, it deals in some detail with the possible revision of school districts and attendance areas, in effect saying these should be made "into compact units to achieve a system of determining admission to the public schools on a non-racial basis." This would seem to mean that both school officials and the lower courts are warned against attempting the gerrymandering of school districts through use of wandering boundary lines for the purpose of in suring racial schools.

In referring specifically to the revision of local laws and regulations hitherto requiring racial segregation in the schools, it would appear that the Court, not content with repeated citations of the "constitutional principles" involved, or with its declaration that all laws must yield to these principles, has pressed the point once more upon school officials and the lower courts. It says plainly that in solving administrative problems no local law or regulation may bar the transition to a non-segregated school system.

Adequacy of Plan

Adequacy of plans: "They (the courts) will also consider the adequacy of any plans the defendants may propose to meet the problems and to effectuate a transition to a racially non-discriminatory school system."

After listing administrative problems that may be considered by the courts, the Court includes these and every other item in any plan for transition in this one sentence on adequacy. The test is whether a plan of a given school district satisfies the principle laid down in the May 17, 1954, decision. Here again all such plans are subject to challenge in the courts and the school authorities have the burden of proving adequacy.

Courts retain jurisdiction: "During this period of transition, the courts will retain jurisdiction of these cases."

Until the transition is complete the cases remain in the courts, subject at all times to its hearings and judgments on matters raised. No new actions need be commenced and no old ground re-covered in fresh proceedings.

The May 31 opinion, technically, applies only to the cases before the Court, but as a matter of fact the ruling rendered will be the pattern for all such cases as may be brought in the future.

In the overwhelming majority of instances it can be expected that compliance without legal action will be the rule, perhaps grudgingly and reluctantly in some areas, but compliance, nevertheless.

Legal Weapons Now in Hand

Armed with the powers embodied in the language of the Court's opinion, we look confidently toward the future. We stand ready with qualified experts in public education and community organization to cooperate with any and all school boards willing to work toward desegregation.

We always realized that there are those who would defy the ruling and others who would drag their feet no matter what language the Supreme Court used. We now have the weapons to make them accept the highest court's affirmation of true American principles. This we shall do. We shall not rest until we have ended second-class education for all Americans.

Proposed draft
Subject to action of Regional Emergency Conference
Atlanta, Ga., June 4, 1955.

Directive to the Branches

On May 17, 1954, the United States Supreme Court in a historic decision outlawed racial segregation in public schools. On May 31, 1955, in another unanimous decision, the Court ordered "good faith compliance" with this decision "at the earliest practicable date" and made the lower federal courts guardians in the enforcement of this order and arbiters as to whether good faith is being practiced by school authorities.

A sampling of sentiment throughout the country indicates a generally favorable reaction to the May 31st decision, with Kentucky, Oklahoma, Maryland, Missouri, Delaware and West Virginia promising full compliance. There will be resistance in the rest of the South in varying degrees, but make no mistake about it, this decision in no way cuts back on the May 17th pronouncement. Indeed, the May 31st decision merely affords to law-abiding public officials an easy method to conform to the Constitution of the United States. The decision places a challenge on the good faith of the public officials, on the militancy of Negroes and on the integrity of the federal courts.

For our part, we must be prepared to meet the challenge in a forthright manner. Our branches must seek to determine in each community whether the school board is prepared to make a prompt and reasonable start towards integration of the public schools and whether it will proceed with good faith towards full compliance with the May 31st decision at the earliest practicable date. Promises unaccompanied by concrete action are meaningless; nor can there be concern with the attitudes of individuals towards a change in the school system. Segregated schools are illegal, and the Court is merely allowing school boards time to get their houses in order. It does not allow time to procrastinate, stall or evade. It is the job of our branches to see to it that each school board begins to deal with the problem of providing nondiscriminatory education. To that end we suggest that each of our branches take the following steps:

1. File at once a petition with each school board, calling attention to the May 31st decision; requesting that the school board act in accordance with that decision and offering the services of the branch to help the board in solving this problem.

2. Follow up the petition with periodic inquiries of the board seeking to determine what steps it is making to comply with the Supreme Court decision.

3. All during June, July, August and September, and thereafter, through meetings, forums, debates, conferences, etc., use every opportunity to explain what the May 31st decision means, and be sure to emphasize that the ultimate determination as to the length of time it will take for desegregation to become a fact in the community is not in the hands of the politicians or the school board officials but in the hands of the federal courts.

4. Organize the parents in the community so that as many as possible will be familiar with the procedure when and if law suits are begun in behalf of plaintiffs and parents.

5. Seek the support of individuals and community groups, particularly in the white community through churches, labor organizations, civic organizations and personal contact.

6. When announcement is made of the plans adopted by the school boards, get the exact text of the school board's pronouncements and notify the State Conference and the National Office at once so that you will have the benefit of their views as to whether the plan is one which will provide for effective desegregation. It is very important that branches not proceed at this stage without consultation with State and National Offices.

7. If no plans are announced or no steps towards desegregat taken by the time school begins this fall, 1955, the time for a law suit h arrived. At this stage court action is essential because only in this way c the mandate of the Supreme Court that a prompt and reasonable start towards f compliance become fully operative on the school boards in question.

8. At this stage the matter will be turned over to the legal department and it will proceed with the matter in court.

P E T I T I O N

We, the undersigned, are the parents of children of school age entitled to attend and attending the public elementary and secondary high schools under your jurisdiction. As you undoubtedly know, the United States Supreme Court on May 17, 1954, ruled that the maintenance of racially segregated public schools is a violation of the Constitution of the United States and on May 31, 1955 reaffirmed that principle and requires ''good faith compliance at the earliest practicable date'' with the federal courts authorized to determine whether local officials are proceeding in good faith.

We, therefore, call upon you to take immediate steps to reorganize the public schools under your jurisdiction on a non-discriminatory basis. As we understand it, you have the responsibility to reorganize the school systems under your control so that the children of public school age attending and entitled to attend public schools cannot be denied admission to any school or be required to attend any school solely because of race and color.

The May 31 decision of the Supreme Court, to us, means that the time for delay, evasion or procrastination is past. Whatever the difficulties in according our children their constitutional rights, it is clear that the school board must meet and seek a solution to that question in accordance with the law of the land. As we interpret the decision you are duty bound to take immediate concrete steps leading to early elimination of segregation in the public schools. Please rest assured of our willingness to serve in any way we can to aid you in dealing with this question.

Dear Mr. Carter:

In our last letter, you were informed that your request for our branch's services in helping you to rid our city of the discomforts and inconveniences which segregation on our local transportation facilities causes, was being studied.

Our committee dealing with this matter recently reported that most of the necessary research has been completed. This will probably form the basis for steps toward securing relief for you and others so situated.

Please do not become disinterested or disturbed because you think that action is slow; we are happy to inform you that we will contact you again within the very near future.

At that time, specific instructions will be given regarding your part in the program.

Dear Co-worker:

I have purposely failed to call a meeting of the Transportation Committee of the NAACP in the last few weeks. Many members of the committee, including myself, have been away from the city on vacation and, too, we have been waiting for action of the part of our legal research staff.

We have been recently informed by this staff that they will be ready to proceed with the next phase of this project by the first of September 1955.

However, in order that we might continue to maintain the interest and possible participation of those who have requested our help in the area of segregated transportation, we have sent to them the enclosed letter. I am sending you a copy for your information.

Thank you very much for your continued interest, and I expect to see you in September at which time, a meeting will be called.

Dear Friend:

The Nominating Committee of the Atlanta Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People are currently seeking the names and approval of citizens of our rank who can qualify for Branch officers and members of our Executive Committee.

At our initial meeting last Tuesday evening, October 19, our committee reviewed your services to the Branch during the past year and voted unanimously to ask your permission to allow us to recommend you again to the membership for election of this post.

Very naturally, of course, you understand that the mere fact of our nominating you will not necessarily mean that you will be elected, but we trust that the membership will exercise the good judgment of confirming our recommendation.

Please let us have your reply before Monday, October 24, since at that time we shall have to fill whatever vacancies existing.

November 15, 1955

MY DEAR FELLOW-CITIZEN:

On next Sunday, November 20 at 4:00 P. M., the NAACP will present a "FREEDOM SING," featuring ten gospel and college singing groups, in Big Bethel AME Church for the benefit of the C. L. Harper Memorial Defense and Educational Fund. Mr. Wm. A. Fowlkes will tell about conditions in Mississippi where he visited last week.

There will be no admission charge, but voluntary contributions will be taken for a FUND to secure and defend rights of our people in Georgia. We have never needed your support more than now, when the reactionary forces in the state are trying, by every possible means, to deny us our FREEDOM.

If you find that you cannot attend the "FREEDOM SING," kindly send your contribution to the NAACP Office, 204½ Auburn Ave., N. E., call Walnut 1358, Murray 8-6063 or Murray 8-6064. We will then send for it.

I can think of no better way in which we might memorialize the great and effective fight for FREEDOM, led by the late Prof. C. L. Harper, than by establishing this FUND as a tribute to his efforts in our behalf. May we depend upon you?

Sincerely yours,

Committee attended — will be not of town

Dear Co-worker:

As you know, we agreed at our last meeting to recruit additional volunteers to work with us in the furtherance of our objectives in connection with our Transportation Committee.

We also agreed that the Committee should be called when, in the opinion of the Chairman, each member had had time to complete his recruitment.

Several days have passed since that meeting, and I am sure that everyone has exhausted all of his resources in this matter. In order that we can get reports from each member and plan our next steps, I am calling a meeting of our Transportation Committee, Friday, January 20, 1956, in the NAACP Office, 204 Auburn Avenue, Northeast, at 3:30 p.m.

Many things have happened in the field of public transportation in the recent weeks. Particularly, the Interstate Chamber of Commerce ruling regarding racial segregation on trains and buses. In addition to dealing with matters relating to our past work, we also would like to consider some progress in relation to this recent ruling.

Please come and be prepared to report on your recruited prospects, and help us to develop plans regarding the other phases of our committee assignments.

Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:

Into my office this afternoon came an elderly lady, who had received a postal from you asking her to help in the campaign. She has supported your cause with great vigor among her neighbors, but she says she doesn't think she would get very far in a house-to-house solicitation. But she asked me to turn over to you her contribution of five dollars.

Dear Member:

We are nearing the end of our Membership Campaign, which will close definitely, Sunday, March 11 at 4:30 PM in a mass meeting at Big Bethel AME Church, with Rev. M. L. King as speaker. Some Executive Committee members have worked hard, and that we do appreciate. All may now contribute by offering the use of a car or serving as a worker in the Victory Freedom March, Saturday, March 10 between the hours of 6:00 and 11:00 PM. Regardless of your previous participation, or lack of it, please call the office, Murray 8-6064 if you can furnish a car or help collect.

We are now ready to proceed with the year's program and expect each standing and special committee to be organized by the time of the next committee meeting, Tuesday, March 12, at 7:00 PM in Union Baptist Church, 1765 Mozeley Drive, SW.

If you have not attended a meeting of the Executive Committee this year, have not worked in the membership campaign, or if, as chairman of a committee, you have not organized it, please determine whether or not you will be able to serve in the capacity for which you have been selected. We must have active committees and effective leadership in these crucial times.

Therefore, should either of these conditions apply to you, kindly advise us of your intentions by Saturday, March 10, 1956. Otherwise, we will assume that you cannot serve with us this year and will recommend Tuesday that your position be re-assigned.

In the meantime, there is enclosed herewith a copy of the proposed resolution on policy which was prepared by a special committee authorized by the Executive Committee at its last Meeting. It will be submitted to the group for consideration on Tuesday, March 11. Kindly let us hear from as soon as possible.

RESOLUTION ON POLICY - ATLANTA BRANCH, NAACP

Whereas, mounting tensions, intimidations, evidences of discrimination, violence and death have been occasioned in areas adjacent to, and at times, within our community, by persons who oppose the orderly processes of law as enunciated by the courts,

And whereas, we as members of the executive committee of the Atlanta Branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, are responsible for policies promulgated in this area on behalf of the Association, we deem it necessary and advisable to set forth the following resolutions:

1. That we re-affirm and support the policies of the National Conventions of the organization, which include in part:

   a. Opposition to all forms of segregation and discrimination.

   b. Continued denunciation and eradication of all subversive activity, including Communism as well as Facism, both of which are enemies of the Democracy we love and cherish.

   c. Protection of minority rights through procedures of petition, negotiation, appeal and court action, without compromise of principle, when called upon by victims of oppression.

   d. Continued promotion of equality and justice under the law.

2. That we continue to refrain from any actions or expressions which are not essential to the accomplishment of our common objectives in the execution of the above policies, in our branch influences, public statements, committee activities or relations with other individuals or groups. That we adhere to well considered plans and not be drawn into side issues, but prosecute each case to a final, uncompromising conclusion.

3. That the interests of those we serve in individual and class actions, be protected to the full extent of our several and collective abilities, to the end that the leadership and resources which we represent, may be pledged to safeguard those interests, as well as the welfare of those who might become involved as a result of our activities.

4. That we continue to plan with wisdom and promote with vigor such programs and policies as may best achieve our ends, proceeding with prayer, patience and humility, but without prejudice or compromise, invoking the divine guidance of a compassionate Providence in the maintenance of good will as we seek full rights of citizenship.

5. And finally, that we advocate the withdrawal, without explanation or prejudice, of any person or associate who finds it inexpedient or inadvisable to conform with these pronouncements.

Adopted, this 15th day of March, 1956.

Thunder Through Deep South

By Relman Morin

AP Staff Writer

ATLANTA

The echoes of Little Rock are still thundering through the Deep South today and authorities everywhere see three main effects on the anguished question of desegregating the schools.

They are:

1. A definite hardening of the determination of many Southerners to resist the Supreme Court order. People tell you they were prepared reluctantly to accept integration before but now are ready to battle to the bitter end to avoid it. Tempers are edgy.

A judge in one city said, "I'm really afraid people would be killed here if they try to push integration at this time."

2. As a result, there is widespread talk of a "cooling off" period. Southerners believe—perhaps wishfully—that Little Rock will cause proponents of integration to postpone new actions for court orders to enroll Negro children in all-white schools.

A reliable informant said, "The White House and the Washington echelon of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People are talking about it. This will probably be denied, but it's true."

3. Prior to Little Rock, most of the pronouncements from the South came from the extremists. The North—hearing little else—took this as representative of the whole Southern opinion, a solid, monolithic point of view.

Today, the other points of view are emerging. Men who were silent before on the moral and social aspects of the problem are finding the courage to speak out.

Along with this, there are reports of economic boycotts aimed at the Negro, new state laws to preserve segregation, and much discussion, pro and con, of the desirability of deserting the Democratic party and forming a new one.

With apparent confidence, Mrs. Ruby Hurley, Southeastern regional director of the NAACP, says today, "Segregation is dead."

"Maybe so," say the officers of the Southern Regional Council, a research group working to improve race relations, "but it's going to take a long time to lie down."

So, in many ways, the shadow of Little Rock—especially the use of federal troops to enforce integration there—lies heavily over the Deep South. Southerners quietly tell you that this is all too reminiscent of the tragic days of the Reconstruction.

The picture varies from place to place.

Some of the collateral effects of Little Rock come out in these ways:

1. What is the future of the public school system?

Georgia's Gov. Marvin Griffin—who made a speech in Little Rock just before Gov. Orval Faubus put the National Guard around Central High School last September—told this reporter:

"The General Assembly is absolutely adamant that there will be no integration in Georgia. State law permits us to close the schools. They, the federal government know they can't make us levy a tax to operate a school. There's no necessity for sending troops to a school where the doors are closed."

Reports of economic boycotting of Negroes appear to be true, although hard to pin down.

Mrs. Hurley, regional NAACP official, said however, "The boycott is not indiscriminate. It is aimed at particular Negroes. Like NAACP members, for example, or those who, as they say, 'get out of line.'"

3. Finally, and perhaps most important, Little Rock has brought the great issue into the open and made Southerners examine it in the light of the possibility of federal troops coming to town to enforce integration.

ANNUAL REPORT FROM THE SOUTHEASTERN REGIONAL OFFICE
NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE
1957

THE FIGHT FOR FREEDOM IN THE BEGINNING OF A NEW ERA

INTRODUCTION

The Deep South States in the Southeast Region continued to harden their resistance to the Supreme Court decisions affecting segregation in public education during the year, 1957. The behavior of the protagonists for maintenance of the "Southern way of life" became more erractic causing eruptions of different levels of intensity with effects in varying degrees ranging from the crisis in Little Rock which caused reaction east of the Mississippi River in the South to the issuance of a declaration of beliefs on racial problems by groups of ministers in Atlanta and Columbus, Georgia after a paralysis of silence among white churchmen.

Cracks appeared in the wall of public school segregation in the Region's upper border states of North Carolina and Tennessee, while the Governor of the lower border state of Florida, obtained the spotlight of national attention through his pronouncements on the "moderation" platform.

The acts of vilence, economic reprisals and intimidation, of which Negroes have been the chief victims in the post 1954 period, coupled with the repressive legislative and court actions against the NAACP, resulted in a rise of fear and reticence which began to abate only after the passage of the Civil Rights bill and the President's intervention in the Little Rock crisis.

By the end of the year, it appeared that the successful launching of Sputnick I and Sputnick II by the Russians, the unsuccessful efforts to send the Vanguard into space by the United States, passage of the Civil Rights bill and the sending of Federal troops to Little Rock combined to renew the courage and undergird the efforts to Fight for Freedom.

MEMBERSHIPS AND FUND-RAISING

Investigations by legislative committees and/or passage of anti-NAACP legislation, which came early in the year, had adverse effect on membership campaign efforts in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee. Mississippi branches continued under the hammer of fear generated by the White Citizens Councils and augmented by the activities of the State Sovereignty Commission.

Only, North Carolina, as a state, escaped this vise and suffered no appreciable loss in memberships. However, some branches in each of the states were successful in showing an increase over 1956 in spite of the difficulites. In this group were Pensacola and Tampa, Florida; DeKalb County, Georgia; Laurel, Mississippi; Savannah Grove, South Carolina; Knoxville and Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Charlotte and Greensboro, of the larger branches in North Carolina, almost tripled their memberships over the past year while many of the smaller branches held their own or showed substantial increases.

The Regional Office encouraged increased fund-raising efforts and the solicitation of anonymous or gift contributions to offset the membership loss. Each of the Field Secretaries stimulated Fall drives to bring in more memberships and funds before the end of the year.

Reports from over the Region show that the Life Membership campaign picked up support down to and including the smaller and rural branches. Fraternities, sororities, churches, clubs and organizations were encouraged to become Life Members. The Moles Inc., a women's social club in the Region presented a check in full payment for its life membership to the Regional Secretary.

EDUCATION

The desegregation process continued, however slowly, in the Southeast Region during the year.

A beginning was made in North Carolina and middle Tennessee while efforts to break through went on in Florida. Resistance, open defiance, and conniving to circumvent the Court's decision were in evidence throughout the area.

While Governor Collins of Florida was espousing the cause of moderation outside its borders, his state continued to resist all efforts to begin the desegregation process. The State Supreme Court previously held state school laws unconstitutional, but ruled immediate compliance was unnecessary in the Virgil Hawkins vs. Board of Control case and after a third appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States that body advised the appellant to seek remedy in the federal district court. Following this decision, Governor Collins is reported to have said "The Supreme Court has indicated a more conciliatory and understanding position, and for this I can say thank goodness".

The case of Gibson et al v. Board of Public Instruction of Dade County was remanded for trial by the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court on appeal from a dismissal by the district court. The school board voted to appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court if it loses in the lower courts.

The case of Ward v. Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia, filed in 1952, was dismissed on the grounds that the plaintiff did not pursue all of the administrative remedies after which the plaintiff, now a student in the Northwestern University Law School elected to discontinue efforts to enter the University of Georgia.

The case of Barbara Hunt et al v. Robert O. Arnold in which four Negroes are seeking admission to the Georgia State College of Business Administration still awaits hearing.

North Carolina began desegregation in public schools with the admission of a token number of Negro students in three communities. Greensboro accepted six; Winston Salem, one; and Charlotte, four, one of whom withdrew after she suffered harassment in the school.

The case of Covington v. Montgomery County, where a hearing before a three-judge court was denied, was set for a hearing on its merits before a federal judge.

Another suit was filed by Caswell County Negroes to attack the Pearsall Plan for pupil assignment.

Governor Timmerman of South Carolina signed into law a new statute which repealed a 1956 law prohibiting the employment by the state of NAACP members on the day before the appeal of 17 Negro teachers in Elloree challenging the 1956 law was filed before the Supreme Court.

A combination of factors prevented Nashville, Tennessee from being another Little Rock when the desegregation process began in the first grade of the public schools. Of the 126 Negroes eligible to enter formerly all-white schools, 19 sought admission, 8 withdrew leaving 11 enrolled in five schools.

When the federal district judge approved the plan to start desegregation in the first grade, the Nashville school board was ordered to present to the Court a plan to completely abolish segregation in the schools by December 31. Reports indicated that the board apparently succumbed to the pressure of the pro-segregation Parents' Preference Committee and the Tennessee Federation for Constitutional Government and agreed to submit the plan proposed by those groups calling for a school system with three types of schools - one for white children and one for Negro children whose parents prefer racially separate schools: A third type of school would be established for those children whose parents prefer a desegregated school.

Rumors of impending violence in Anderson County when the Clinton High School began its second year with Negro students in attendance were investigated by the Regional Secretary. Contact was made with community leaders in Clinton and Knoxville who moved quietly to offset any possible outbreak. Subsequently, a student strike encouraged by the segregationists and sympathetic to the Little Rock insurrectionists was abortive.

Toward the end of the year, the Tennessee State Board of Education, in effect, ended segregation in the six colleges it controls when it unanimously adopted a resolution authorizing "the admission of all qualified applicants who meet the entrance requirements of the respective colleges and universities, effective at the beginning of the fall term 1958".

COMMUNITY EDUCATION

By December, reaction to Little Rock and the missile race seemed to have set in and statements showing more sobriety of thought were issued in greater numbers than at any time previously in the past three years.

The Regional Secretary and the Field Secretaries in their respective states met with various leaders and workers in the field of human relations during the year and attended interracial meetings and conferences in an effort to stimulate greater activity toward creating a climate for the acceptance of the Supreme Court decision.

Branches were encouraged to utilize press and publicity media to tell the truth about the NAACP and counteract the false propaganda that was distributed by such groups as the Georgia Education Commission.

LEGISLATIVE ACTION

In most of the Southeastern states' legislatures and general assemblies, the pro-segregation forces worked over-time in regular and extra sessions to avoid the possibility of change to the new order and to kill or thwart the efforts of the NAACP.

The Florida legislature adopted an interposition resolution over the protest of Governor Collins and continued the NAACP investigating committee for two years in the regular session. Labor, Jewish and human relations organizations joined with the NAACP and helped to defeat a package of anti-NAACP bills.

An extra session was called to consider revision of the Florida constitution, but it spent most of its time discussing segregation. The "last resort" bill which allowed communities to abolish public schools by referendum to circumvent the Supreme Court decision was passed at the regular session but was vetoed by Governor Collins. It was revived in the extra session; however, it failed to pass the House. Several other pro-segregation measures were considered but the only bill which passed both houses of the legislature was one calling for the "automatic closing and suspension of operation of any public school in this state upon the employ of federal troops in the vicinity of said school for certain purposes". Contrary to prior expectations, Governor Collins signed the bill into law.

The Florida legislature investigating committee held hearings in Tallahassee and in Miami. Atty. William F. Fordham, former president of the Florida State Conference, Atty. F. A. Rodriguez, Legal Committee Chairman and Field Secretary Robert W. Saunders were among the NAACP personages interrogated.

The Georgia General Assembly in 1957 added six new laws to the long list previously adopted to maintain segregation. These acts: permit the governor to abolish compulsory school attendance laws at his discretion; extend the police powers of the governor; protect teacher retirement benefits in event of transition from public integrated to private segregated schools; give more authority to the Georgia Education Commission which is already empowered to seek legal means of circumventing the Supreme Court decisions, provide for a campaign to disseminate information of a pro-segregation nature; and a resolution called for the impeachment of six of the United States Supreme Court Justices.

In conformity with the legislative provision the Georgia Education Commission caused to be circulated a brochure purported to show that the Highlander Folk School was a communist training school; a pamphlet with the caption, "Association with Communist Fronts" and the title, "Ten Directors of the NAACP"; and an American Legion publication which carried an article tying in the Southern Regional Council with communist-front groups.

The executive secretary of the Commission created a controversy of some proportions when his request for authorization to buy $3200 worth of detective equipment was publicized. T. V. Williams, Jr., son of the Revenue Commissioner, who is trying to extract taxes from the NAACP in a case still pending is reported to have had plans to purchase wire-tapping listening and recording devices and a long range camera. The purpose for which this equipment was desired is obvious.

The attorney general of Georgia drafted a proposed city ordinance requiring information on membership and finances from the NAACP and other organizations. Copies were sent out over the state with the suggestion that mayors have their cities adopt such ordinances following the Little Rock pattern.

The Mississippi State Legislature was called late in the year to consider the question of a convention to revise the 1890 Constitution, but the governor's proposal seemed destined for defeat as this is being written.

The employment of three Negroes, including Editor Percy Greene and Baptist head, Reverend H. H. Humes by the State Sovereignty Commission was exposed during the year. The Commission was established by the legislature in 1956 "to resist federal encroachment", or simply defy the Supreme Court ruling.

The South Carolina General Assembly, with numerous pro-segregation measures on the books, added a number of new laws in the 1957 session.

One measure gave the governor power to discontinue or take over any "transportation or other public facilities" and to secure compliance with his proclamations by "injunction, mandamus, or other appropriate legal action" in addition to his existing authority over the militia and law enforcement agencies. This act further provided: "The governor is hereby authorized and empowered to take such measures and to do all and every act and thing which he may deem necessary in order to prevent violence to the person or property of citizens of the State and to maintain peace, tranquility and good order in the State, and in any political subdivision thereof, and in any particular area of the State of South Carolina designated by him."

Other statutes enacted were: An act defining barratry and imposing strict penalites against persons or organizations which promote litigation with which they are not directly and properly concerned; the act requiring applicants for public employment to apply in writing for such jobs, and to show on their application forms the names of organizations and associations to which they belong as a replacement for the repealed act mentioned previously; and an act permitting the private placement of state institution bonds if other requirements of law are met. This latter act is expected to simplify the placement of bonds if questions arise as to the effect of racial integration upon the continued operation of state institutions of higher learning.

Eight South Carolina communities enacted local ordinances to require organizers and membership solicitors to obtain permits before engaging in such solicitation. Although these local laws are supposed to be general in their application, there is no doubt that the NAACP is their target. In some areas labor unions will be victims, also. The decision in a case stemming from charges against a labor organizer in Florence, South Carolina declareed these acts unconstitutional.

Tennessee's Governor Clement submitted five proposals as his school program which were adopted with three other measures by the 1957 General Assembly. They were: An act authorizing local school boards to maintain separate schools for white and Negro pupils whose parents or guardians "voluntarily elect" that they attend school with children of their own race; an act authorizing local school boards to assign pupils to particular schools on the basis of various sociological and psychological factors, but not on the basis of race; an act authorizing two or more school boards to assign pupils to particular schools on the basis of various sociological and psychological factors, but not on the basis of race; an act authorizing two or more school boards to jointly operate school or schools; an act to amend present statutes regulating transportation of pupils to eliminate reference to race; an act to amend present statutes regulating transfer of students between school districts; an act permitting school boards to segregate students by sex; an act to regulate barratry and "stirring up" law suits; and, the "Tennessee Manifesto" asserting principles of States' rights and denouning the segregation decisions.

Although the NAACP is inoperative in Alabama, it should be noted that the 1957 legislature there adopted measures to strengthen the Pupil Assignment and "Freedom of Choice" laws and to guarantee teacher benefits under the proposed private school plans.

So much segregation legislation has been put on the books of states in the Region that it would seem the legislators, themselves would not know what is law. At the last count, Alabama had passed twelve segregation laws since 1952; Florida, six; Georgia, fourteen; Mississippi, ten; North Carolina, seven; South Carolina, eleven and Tennessee, seven.

While North Carolina is noted as having seven segregation laws on its books, it should be pointed out here that these measures were adopted prior to 1957 in which year additional pro-segregation and anti-NAACP legislation was proposed, but not adopted. Recognition should be given to the North Carolina State Conference and branch leadership who worked assiduously for and were successful in the defeat of those proposals.

VOTER-REGISTRATION

The acts of the several legislatures and assemblies and the behavior of elected officials and politicians in the face of the new laws made it mandatory that Voter-Registration be made the "Number One Project" in the program for the Southeast Region.

Accordingly, the Regional Office prepared charts to show the following information for each of the states: Composition of congressional districts with member counties and their county seats, the total population of voting age, the number of whites and the number of Negroes of voting age, the number of Negroes registered and the percentage of Negroes registered.

The Field Secretaries in Florida and Mississippi increased their efforts to set up voter-registration organizations by congressional districts following the pattern already operative in North Carolina.

In the states where there are no field secretaries, the State Conferences were encouraged to establish the necessary machinery in cooperation with other organizations to increase the number of qualified electors.

Passage of the Civil Rights bill by the Congress provided a ray of light for those who live in areas where the Negro has been consistently denied the right to register and vote.

NAACP leaders from states in the Region joined with representatives from other parts of the South in a conference called by the Executive Secretary on Voter-Registration and the Civil Rights bill.

After the Civil Rights bill was passed by the Congress, White Citizens Council leaders from over the South met to discuss strategy for evading the law and making it more difficult for Negroes to register and vote.

The Georgia election revision committee proposed a constitutional amendment to disqualify persons from voting upon conviction of a felony and many lesser crimes including: Adultery, bigamy, abandoning a minor child, manufacturing, possessing, selling or transporting non-tax liquor, fornication, false swearing, and failure to register for military service. The proposal would also bar the right to vote to persons who give birth to illegitimate children, those who are parties to a common-law marriage, or who have received dishonorable discharges from military service.

The new voter-qualification test approved by the committee would include thirty more difficult questions on local, state and federal government and a potential voter would have to get twenty answers right to pass instead of ten of the thirty as now required. The questions proposed will defy correct answers by many college graduates with Ph.D. degrees.

South Carolina introduced a ten-year registration plan which is bringing complaints from white people because of its time-consuming factor. The Palmetto Voters group, of which the NAACP is a part, reports that larger numbers of Negroes have begun to qualify under the new plan.

Although no new laws were adopted, Mississippi can be expected to continue making registration and voting difficult for Negroes.

POLITICS AND RACE

The NAACP and "Negro bloc voting" were injected in the Atlanta, Georgia mayoralty election by an independent candidate who charged the incumbent, who was the primary designee, with being a "tool of the NAACP" and elected by Negroes. The city's voters rejected the race-baiter and reelected the mayor.

Leaflets carrying the name of the NAACP for endorsement were circulated in Georgia's 7th District during the campaign for a successor to the late Representative Lanham. The Regional Office issued a statement refuting the claim that the NAACP was endorsing any candidate and stating that there was no branch of the Association active in that section of the state.

John Wrighten, a Negro attorney, entered the race for the South Carolina Legislature from Charleston. His campaign resulted in Negroes voting in large enough numbers for him to carry three wards, although he lost his bid for election.

EMPLOYMENT AND HOUSING

Activities in the areas of employment and housing on the part of branches in the Region will be contained in the reports from those departments. However we note here that the Tampa, Florida Branch was concerned with housing and the Atlanta Branch worked with the Labor Secretary on employment and union practices at the Lockheed plant in nearby Marietta.

THE YOUTH PROGRAM

Additional emphasis was placed on the organization of and programs for youth councils and college chapters during the year.

Youth sessions were held in connection with each of the state conferences' annual meetings. A State Youth Conference was organized in Mississippi for the first time and the Florida Youth Conference was strengthened.

Reports from branches over the Region indicate a revival of interest in the youth program and the activation of more councils may be expected next year.

CHURCH WORK

The organization of state church committees was completed in four of the six states. Ministers met in special sessions with the Church Secretary at the annual meetings of the Florida, Georgia and North Carolina State Conferences, while South Carolina made plans to have a state-wide meeting of ministers early in the year.

The Regional Office continued to encourage branches to organize church committees on the local level in order to strengthen the state and regional efforts.

On the state level, subcommittees were set up to project the program as defined by the Church Secretary.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

The Regional Secretary traveled 27,244 miles and filled 107 speaking engagements in 49 communities of 11 states and the District of Columbia during the year in addition to participating in 11 other agency or organization meetings. Included were meetings of branches and their committees, state conferences, college assemblies, church women's groups, churches, social clubs, sororities and professional groups.

A number of recordings were made for and interviews given for radio broadcasts.

Among the visitors to the Regional Office seeking information concerning the Association were reporters and special writers for the ASSOCIATED PRESS, THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, BUSINESS WEEK, NEWSWEEK, MCCALLS, THE SATURDAY EVENING POST and a number of other papers and periodicals. Correspondents and visitors from foreign countries included a member of the British Parliament, a writer from South Africa and reporters from Holland and Denmark.

LOOK Magazine featured a story on the NAACP work in the Region which resulted in a number of letters indicating support and some financial contributions.

Branches in the Region were urged to use the publicity media as far as possible in their communities including public service time on the radio and particularly the "Letters to the Editors" columns of the newspapers.

NAACP literature was distributed in large quantities through the members of the Southern Inter-Agency group, the women of the Fellowship of the Concerned, to individuals whose names are on our mailing lists and to other persons who requested information.

When appearances were made before white groups, it became clear that more lines of open communication would help clarify questions in the minds of persons "on the fence", allay their fears and apprehensions thus increasing the number of potential supporters. We continued our work toward this end.

The problems of slanted stories in the daily press, over-emphasis on Negroes and crimes, racial animosities in other parts of the country and the pro-segregation side of the picture claimed our attention. We were able to influence the Southern Inter-Agency group of the Consultative Conference on Desegregation to begin a fact-finding project in this area of interest with the view of having the findings published in pamphlet form or disseminated in some other way. Such a publication would crystallize the picture of the biased press and stimulate some counteraction.

REGIONAL, STATE AND OTHER CONFERENCES

The 5th Annual Regional Conference was held in Atlanta, Georgia early in the year. The Regional Advisory Board, the Regional Church Work Committee and branch presidents met in separate sessions prior to the formal opening of the Conference. Legal and other Defensive and Offensive Tactics; Developing Technical and Industrial Skills; Organizing and Developing a Program with Young People; Laws and Law-Makers; and Responsibilities of the People under Government of the People, by the People and for the People were subjects for discussion by the several participating panels.

Awards and certificates of merit were presented to outstanding workers at the Freedom Dinner to which Clarence Mitchell spoke and a full audience heard Jackie Robinson at the closing mass meeting.

All staff members in the Region were in attendance at the Associations Annual Convention in Detroit. Approximately 100 persons, of whom 78 were voting delegates, represented branches and youth councils in the Region. The workshops, caucuses and state leadership meetings were informative and stimulating for the participants from the Southeast.

Each of the State Conferences held annual meetings during the fall of the year. Almost three hundred delegates were in attendance at the North Carolina Conference where the Executive Secretary delivered the keynote address and the Special Counsel spoke to the closing meeting.

Although the attendance was not so great at the other state conferences, the interest and enthusiasm of those present was high and an aura of determination to win the Fight for Freedom prevailed.

An undetermined number of delegates from the Southeast Region attended the Prayer Pilgrimage in Washington, D.C. The Atlanta, Georgia, Charleston, South Carolina and Nashville, Tennessee branches were among those that chartered buses or otherwise transported large contingents.

The Regional Secretary attended the Conference on Christian Faith and Human Rights at Scarritt College and Vanderbilt University in Nashville where more than three hundred southern churchmen met for three days. Seminars were concerned with non-violent approaches to Racial Tensions; Opening of Churches to All; The Church and the Public School Issue; and the Church and Community Relations. The conference closed with a Communion service with Negro and white ministers giving the Holy Sacrament to Negroes and whites kneeling side by side.

A Leaders' Conference on Women in Politics conducted by the National Council of Negro Women and the Consultative Conference on Desegregation, both held in Washington, D.C., and the Regional Conference of the Fellowship of the Concerned were attended by the Regional Secretary, also.

LOSSES FROM THE RANKS

Mississippi and the NAACP sustained great loss when several leaders passed from the scene.

Mrs. Ruby Johnson, who was secretary of the Jackson Branch died suddenly while she was packing to attend the Annual Convention in Detroit.

A few days later Rev. W. A. Bender dropped dead. Founder of the State Conference and its president for a number of years, Reverend Bender traveled over the State carrying the message of freedom, soliciting memberships, and organizing branches in the days when many people considered Mississippi a "lost cause".

The president of the Meridian Branch, Mr. J. C. Crowell; Mr. B. G. Olive, president of the Lexington Branch and Reverend E. M. Barnes, a stalwart member of the Laurel Branch passed away also during the year.

CONCLUSION

The die-hard segregationists' activities did not abate in 1957. They were busy in the state legislative bodies and they were influential in the state courts. They spread their propoganda for the maintenance of white supremacy over the South and over the country at the expense of the taxpayers.

The Georgia Education Commission was given $327,000 from public funds some of which was used to disseminate their materials in Cincinnati, Ohio and had the effect of changing the proportional representation system of voting. As a result Atty. Theodore Berry was defeated in his campaign for reelection to the city council.

Reproduction of scurrilous leaflets were found in the making at a federal installation in South Carolina.

Only intensive pressure forced the legislative committee to make a pretense of investigating the Citizens Council; Ku Klux Klan and other hate groups in Florida. John Kasper was discredited, but little or nothing was said about or done to the home-grown hate-mongers who picketed, threatened and harassed a Negro home-owner in Miami. The Miami Branch answered Frank Legree's call for aid. The cross-burners were caught in the act and arrested, but threats and intimidations did not stop.

Equal justice under the law remains a myth in Mississippi. White men who were the admitted rapists of colored girls gained their freedom in at least two cases.

Chattanooga, Knoxville and Nashville were scenes of cross-burnings and bombings in Tennessee.

Laws that will not stand; injustices that are not new, threats, intimidation, pressure and violence may seem to deter, but they cannot stop the Fight for Freedom.

Branches in the Southeast Region may be low in membership on the books, but they cannot be counted out.

The Supreme Court's decision stands. The Congress passed a Civil Rights bill. The Executive Branch of the Federal Government moved. At last, Negroes in this area can feel that there is some measure of support coming from Washington. With the old year behind us, we look to the new year in which we shall move forward to increase the number of Negroes qualified to vote, increase our financial contributions and do all else possible to hasten the day of victory.

Respectfully submitted,

Ruby Hurley
Regional Secretary

INFORMATION ON THE LITHONIA, GEORGIA RAPE CASE

July 17, 1958

According to Mrs. Maggie Woods, 6800 Magnolia Street, Lithonia, Georgia, no telephone and no relation to the child, the following is an account of the rape of little Katie Bell Aycock, age 7½ by Almond Leon Johnson, a white man reported to be about 42 years old.

Mrs. Maggie Woods was not an eye witness but related that she had heard about the rape of Katie Bell that evening of July 15 after 6 P. M. Mrs. Woods has a daughter, Drucilla Woods, age 10, who was accosted by Almond Leon Johnson on July 13, inviting her to come into his trailer, stationed by a road leading to the Vaughn's store in Lithonia, Georgia. Drucilla refused, told her sister LaVerne about it on Sunday and LaVerne told Mrs. Woods after the rape of Katie Bell Aycock.

Mrs. Woods is also familiar with the arrest of Almond Johnson and the hospitalization of Katie Bell Aycock.

Miss Barbara Woods, 6800 Magnolia Street, Lithonia, Georgia, daughter of Mrs. Maggie C. Woods, no relation to Katie Bell Aycock, can be reached by telephone, Lithonia 4802. She supplied the additional information in the following account.

Miss Barbara Woods took Katie Bell Aycock aside and questioned her about why she was bleeding and was told that the white man in the trailer had asked her to come in to see the trailer as Katie Bell was on her way to the store. Katie Bell went in and reported that the man attacked her.

Miss Woods called the police and Almond Leon Johnson (name acquired from police department by Miss Woods) was arrested, and according to what an officer said, Johnson is charged with rape.

Katie Bell Aycock was carried to Dr. Alfred Hart who suggested that she be taken to Grady Hospital in Atlanta. Katie Bell was taken to Grady Hospital and was admitted to the emergency clinic, and operated on by 5:30 A. M. Wednesday July 16. The medical report will be acquired.

Mrs. Alma Reynolds, who lives in the vicinity of the trailer, saw Katie Bell going down the street on the evening of the attack but did not see anything else about the attack.

Mrs. Fannie Henderson, 58 Magnolia Street, Lithonia, Georgia, no telephone, is the aunt of Katie Bell Aycock. The following information was provided by her.

Mrs. Fannie Henderson states that she reared Katie Bell's mother, Leola Aycock, Katie Bell and her mother live with Mrs. Henderson.

Mrs. Henderson sent Katie Bell to the store sometime shortly after 5:30 P. M., July 15. On Katie Bell's return from the store, she saw that Katie Bell was bleeding and Miss Barbara Woods took up the questioning as given in her statement.

Mrs. Henderson stayed with Katie Bell most of the time at the Grady Hospital. On July 16 Katie Bell told Mrs. Henderson that that white man drew a knife on her while she was in the trailer and was going to cut her head off.

INTRODUCTION

While headlines were being drawn from events in Lebanon, Matsu and Quemoy, East Berlin and West Berlin, Ghana and Guinea defiant politicans and their press supporters continued in their efforts to thwart the democratic processes in the South of the United States during 1958. While programs for scientific education were being accelerated in Russia and reports indicated that the United States still trails with Inter-Continental Ballistic Missiles, these same politicans and their sympathizers in the Fourth Estate maintained that they would prefer having no public schools to conforming to the law and working toward integration as they continued efforts to hold on to the extinct "Southern Way of Life".

The effects of repressive legislation, harassing investigations, economic reprisals, and acts of intimidation and violence during the past several years hung over the Negroes in the Southeast Region and caused a temporary set-back in the Fight for Freedom. Memberships and funds decreased and everywhere there was the allegation that people were afraid. This was the first half of 1958.

But then, the Supreme Court ruled that the NAACP was not bound to give its membership lists to a State in the Alabama case. Public schools in Little Rock, and several cities in Virginia were actually closed. The Supreme Court left no hiding place for those who would do legally that which they could not do lawfully. And, dynamite was planted and set off with great damage resulting in several communities. This was not new, but when the Jewish Temple was bombed in Atlanta, we were raised to a new plateau in the Fight for Freedom. The Mayor of Atlanta spoke. Newspapers changed their lines. Ministers issued statements. The protracted silence of "good" white people was broken.

Negroes, generally, appeared reluctant to press forward so that our job was clear. We had to help our people recover from the vicious blows they had been dealt and to engender a new faith in the rightness of our cause.

A dismal picture grew brighter toward the end of the year. It seemed that our leadership approached the realization that Griffin, Vandiver, Timmerman nor any other state, county or city official could invent any gadget or set up any mechanism or contrive any power to keep the rockets of justice and equality out of orbit and away from the planet of Freedom.

OUR LIFE LINE - MEMBERSHIPS AND FUNDS

The renewal of expired memberships and the recruitment of new members lagged considerably during the first part of the year. The pressures of the times will not permit excuses; however, we must take into account the unusually bitter weather during the period when North Carolina branches normally conduct their drives, the absence of strong direction in South Carolina and the preoccupation of Field Secretaries with voter-registration and other responsibilities in Florida and Mississippi. The impetus that might have been expected from the Regional Office during the Spring Campaign period was not forthcoming because of an attack of illness that put the Regional Secretary out of circulation for several weeks.

The membership figures for the Region which were sent down from the office of the Membership Secretary for information at the Southeast Regional Staff Meeting early in September were such that a new line was adopted immediately... NO MORE EXCUSES! Tennessee was the only state that showed an increase. That came as a result of the successful campaign conducted by W. C. Patton in Memphis where almost 2,200 memberships were reported toward its goal of 2,500 and Nashville had reported more than 200 above the number sent in during the year, 1957. Field Secretaries were instructed to concentrate on memberships for the rest of the year; appeals were made at the annual meetings of State Conferences to devote special efforts to renewal campaigns and communications underscoring those that went from the National Office were sent from the Regional Office to all of the branches in the Region.

The North Carolina Conference assigned Mrs. L. L. Graham of Burlington, formerly chairman of the Voter Registration Committee to work on memberships after the annual meeting of that Conference.

A Speakers Bureau was set up under the new administration in South Carolina with the view of making contact with every branch before the end of the year and increasing the memberships in the state.

A tour of branches in Mississippi with Field Secretary Evers substantiated our belief that the membership decline was resultant less from fear in the minds of the masses of people than a reluctance on the part of branch leadership to organize and conduct intensive campaigns. We directed our efforts toward changing attitudes and subsequent reports indicate that some measure of improvement has been shown in those areas.

State Conferences were encouraged to initiate at least one state-wide fund-raising project in an effort to meet our quotas for the Fighting Fund for Freedom. Details for the conduct of the Mother of the Year Contest which had been successful in North Carolina were sent to each of the Conferences from the Regional Office.

Jackie Robinson was presented at public meetings to raise Freedom Funds in Mississippi and Florida early in the year. Mrs. L. C. Bates was presented by the North Carolina Conference.

Current figures for Memberships, Freedom Funds and Life Memberships will be given in a supplementary report.

VOTER REGISTRATION AND POLITICAL ACTION

Memphis, Tennessee comes to the fore again in the area of voter-registration. W. C. Patton worked in the community for a period of a month or six weeks and was successful in getting approximately 12,000 new names on the registration books in that period.

The Crusade for Voters was continued under the direction of Field Secretary Evers in Jackson, Vicksburg, Laurel and Rankin County in Mississippi. Clinics were held in these communities to prepare prospective registrants and some progress was shown.

Field Secretary Saunders continued the work begun in Hillsborough County and worked toward the organization for voter registration in Orange, Polk, Pinellas and Palm Beach Counties in cooperation with the Florida State Voters League.

Soon after Reverend Amos O. Holmes joined the staff as Field Secretary for the State of Georgia, he met with the Voters League and other groups to assist in the program to increase the number of voters in that State.

The Executive Committee of the South Carolina State Conference moved to bring the voter registration program in the Palmetto State under the aegis of the State Conference.

The Regional Secretary sought and obtained the promise of cooperation from the Fellowship of the Concerned, an organization of white women in the South, in an effort to acquaint more people in the white community with the barriers to Negroes registering to vote and thereby strengthen our position when complaints of denial are filed and publicized. A guidance questionnaire was prepared for and distributed to the women through the good offices of Mrs. M. B. Tilley, who will be remembered as a member of President Truman's Civil Rights Commission and a prominent Southern churchwoman.

Race-baiting was used to the fullest in political campaigns by contenders in Georgia and Florida leading up to the primary election. The NAACP and Civil Rights were injected to the almost complete eclipse of honest issues. Supporters of William T. Bodenhamer in Georgia's gubernatorial campaign were reported to have printed and circulated stickers alleging that Vandiver was supported by the Association. Bodenhamer, a Baptist preacher and former executive secretary of the Georgia States Rights Committee was soundly defeated by Ernest Vandiver, the present Lieutenant Governor, but from whom we can expect little in support of a change of policy in the desegregation fight.

The Holland-Pepper Campaign and the defeat of John Orr by a rank segregationist in Dade County, Florida underscored the necessity for more highly organized efforts to increase the number of registered Negroes and get them out to vote. It was, also, one more instance in which it became clear that public opinion had been so influenced that any candidate who espoused the cause of moderation or spoke of law and order was in the same category as "integrationists" and was doomed to defeat in elections this year.

Two Negroes, Attorney J. C. Daugherty, and Dr. C. A. Bacote of Atlanta University were elected to the Fulton County Democratic Executive Committee.

Reverend U. Z. McKinnon, president of the Jackson, Tennessee Branch ran against three white candidates for one of Madison County's two seats in a state constitutional convention. This was the first time since the Reconstruction that a Negro had been a candidate in a county-wide election in West Tennessee where three counties remain that still do not permit Negroes to register.

DESEGREGATION

Schools and Colleges

It would be almost fallacious to report progress in school desegregation in the Southeast Region during the past year since only molecular changes over 1957 were made.

According to reports in the Regional Office, North Carolina's desegregation program remained essentially the same as in its 1957 beginning. The same number of Negro pupils were integrated in the same three cities, although one school formerly for all white pupils was added to the desegregated list in Winston Salem.

The Mecklenburg County Board of Education denied transfers to eight Negroes who had requested them and the Charlotte Board turned down appeals entered for fifteen students who had been refused transfers last year, including one entered by the President of our North Carolina State Conference for his son, Kelly Miller Alexander, Jr.

Nashville, Tennessee began the second year of its stair-step desegregation program with eighteen youngsters in first grade and sixteen in second grade desegregated classes, or a total of thirty-four Negro pupils integrated among 16,729 white pupils.

Publicity accounts indicated that the third year of desegregation began without incident in Clinton, Tennessee. Our investigation revealed that those reports were not true and the subsequent dynamiting of Clinton High School proved that all had not been well in that community.

Russell Herring, who was the subject of disciplinary action at Gillespie Park School in Greensboro, North Carolina reported having the same kind of difficulties experienced by the Negro boys in Clinton High School prior to the bombing. They were subjected to constant harassment and attacks within the school at the hands of white boys who protected themselves from disciplinary action by deploying their forces. At Clinton High, any boy who was involved in three fights was automatically expelled. The white boys took turns in their attacks on the colored boys, so that although a Negro might easily be in three fights as a result of trying to defend himself, the white boys managed to be in only one. From all that we could learn, Principal W. D. Human leaned heavily toward the practice of discrimination in his disciplinary actions, generally.

The State Board of Education postponed desegregation in Memphis State University until the fall of 1959 on the recommendation of a special committee of the board and at the request of the president who said he was convinced the proposal to desegregate was "not acceptable to the majority of the people" in the Memphis area.

After nine years of litigation, one Negro was finally admitted to the University of Florida Law School. Students at the University defeated a motion to restrict membership in the John Marshall Bar Association to "members of the Caucasian race", which leaves the way open for George Henry Starke, Jr., to be a member of that student organization.

The case of Calhoun v. Latimer, in which segregation in Atlanta's public schools is being challenged is still to be placed on the court calendar. When United States District Judges Boyd Sloan and Frank Hooper said that attempts to delay hearings would not be tolerated, it seemed that a decision in this case might be expected before the opening of the 1959 school term. Apparently influenced by the actual closing of schools in Little Rock and Virginia, the first sounds of importance came from the hitherto "silent" South. The Mayor of Atlanta called for local option; other political leaders voiced agreement with him; some four hundred ministers of all denominations issued a new and stronger manifesto on the side of law; PTA's began having discussions on the question and newspaper columns, editorials and more Letters to the Editors expressed a shift away from die-hard defiance and resistance. Even Senator Russell called on the people of Georgia to "try out a private school plan before surrendering to integration." The Vienna News, the hometown paper of the late Senator George had this to say:" In another vital issue facing need for some immediate solution if public education is to be preserved in Georgia, the people themselves are now becoming vocal."

Further,"Perhaps the bland statement of Sen. Herman Talmadge has awakened the people at last to what they can expect from such politicans. In Washington, Talmadge suavely washed his hands of the matter and left on a junket trip to Paris and the Mediterranean.

Talmadge was asked whether Georgia needs to "rethink" its position and see whether new laws and new ideas should be formulated. He replied that he is no longer governor of Georgia and if any rethinking needs to be done, the incoming governor and Legislature are competent to do it.

"It was during Talmadge's administration as governor that he led the legislators and the electorate into passing the laws he now admits are inadequate, except for closing school doors in Georgia. Though still holding a high office in the state, he disclaims anyfurther responsibility.

"It is a rude awakening for many who have followed him blindly as some sort of savior, but it may bring on some thinking and rethinking by the masses, and that is most urgently needed now."

School officials sought a way to delimit the desegregation program while a decision was being awaited in the case of Gibson et al. v. Board of Public Instruction of Dade County in Florida. It called for a study of the "practicability" of integrating one school, the Orchard Villa Elementary School to which white children are now going in a rapidly changing neighborhood. Everything that has happened in Dade County should make it crystal clear to the Negroes in this area that, like every place else in the South, public schools will be desegregated only when and to the degree that they, themselves, press for their rights. The school board proposal is an "ingenious and ingenuous" attempt to avoid full compliance with the Supreme Court decisions and to effect a compromise with Negroes. It came on the heels of the assertion that Dade County schools are not racially segregated which was made by School Superintendent Joe Hall in his testimony during the hearing before Judge Lieb in the United States District Court on the Gibson case in August. Hall alleged that the fact that all the Negro children and all the Negro teachers were in certain schools and all the white children and all the white teachers were in other schools was due to geographical factors and the choice of parents despite testimony from principals and parents to the contrary. It followed, also, in the wake of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals reversing the decision of Judge Emmett C. Choate and remanding the case of William M. Holland v. Board of Public Instruction of Palm Beach County.

A growing restlessness among parents who want their children to benefit from the Supreme Court's decisions became evident in several sections of the Region. A new petition was filed in Clarendon County, South Carolina; a number of parents made application for the transfer of their children to "white" schools in Dade County; and several parents in various sections of Mississippi sought information on the procedures they should take to get their children in the schools that are nearest their homes but are presently attended by white children.

Transportation

Branches in the Region were urged to renew their activity in bringing to an end segregation in transportation, interstate and intrastate. An educational program of the widest scope is necessary to acquaint Negroes with their rights, privileges and responsibilities if the established laws are to be meaningful. Observation and reports show that Negroes tend to follow the old Jim-Crow pattern of using waiting rooms and seating on the carriers, even where signs have disappeared.

In Florida, the Miami Branch supported the case of Maggie Garmon el al. v. Miami Transit Company in which the plaintiffs asked that city ordinances and state laws requiring segregation in transportation facilities be declared unconstitutional and that the defendants be restrained from requiring them and other Negroes similarly situated to occupy segregated seating. The Fifth Circuit Court upheld the lower court's ruling that the statute complained of was unconstitutional, as violative of the equal protection and due process clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment, and issued a permanent injunction against their enforcement.

The president of the Miami Branch led the way in showing Negroes that they were privileged to sit where they choose on the city's buses.

An appeal is being taken in the case of O. Z. Evers et al. v. John T. Dwyer et al. which was lost in the Federal District Court which said that there was no actual controversy and no real interest on the part of the plaintiff because the plaintiff admitted that "he had never previously ridden a bus in Memphis and that he had not ridden one since the incident in question".

Another Evers, Medgar W., was instrumental in obtaining the only desegregation that has taken place in Mississippi, even though he suffered an assault and it lasted for just one night. He rode in the front of the bus for the ninety-four miles from Meridian to Jackson.

Housing and Recreation

Recognizing that segregation in housing will perpetuate segregation in education and that slum clearance and redevelopment projects in a number of communities will affect Negroes more than any other group, branches in the Region have been urged to activate housing committees to protect the interest of Negro citizens.

The Tampa Branch, guided by Madison Jones, conferred with city officials relative to the plans for slum clearance, relocation and redevelopment during the early part of the year.

The Florida State Conference sought and obtained an agreement from Governor Collins to have Negroes present at a state-wide housing conference which was held late in the summer. An advisory committee on housing was appointed out of that conference with Reverend A. Leon Lowry, president of the State Conference and Mr. Aurelio Fernandez, a member of the Tampa Branch in the membership.

The Savannah, Georgia Housing case was dismissed on appeal to the Fifth Circuit Court which held that in the absence of any attempt to apply for admission to the housing project, Queen Cohen, the appellant had no standing to maintain action. An appeal for certiorari has been made to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the decision of the lower court which had issued a permanent injunction against the city requiring the admission of Negroes on the same basis as white persons in the case of Elmer A. Ward et al. v. the City of Miami, et al. Previously, the city of Miami had permitted Negroes to use the city-owned Miami Springs Country Club golf course on Mondays of each week and excluded them on other days. The Miami Branch supported this case on appeal.

Negroes in other sections of Florida sought the use of public beaches, and in some instances did use them, but in most cases the communities retaliated by either closing or selling the facilities.

Edisto Park was closed after the Charleston, South Carolina Branch took legal action to open it for the use of Negroes and the sale of the golf course in that community was threatened if Negroes insisted upon using it.

LEGISLATION AND INVESTIGATIONS

Those state legislatures and general assemblies which met during the year were more concerned with politics than civil rights in this election year, but some new segregation legislation was passed.

The General Assembly of Georgia worked forty days during which period it passed a new law which was designed to further delimit the number of Negroes who could qualify to register and vote. Persons desiring to register must indicate to the registrar whether they wish to register on the basis of literacy or on the basis of good character and understanding of the duties and obligations of citizenship under a republican form of government. Applicants on the basis of literacy are required to read and write a section of the Constitution of Georgia or of the United States. Applicants on the basis of good character, are required to answer twenty of thirty questions correctly. Among the thirty questions are: What does the Constitution of Georgia provide regarding the suspension of the writ of Habeas Corpus? What is the name of the State Judicial Circuit in which you live and what are the names of the counties or county in such Circuit?; How many representatives are there in the Georgia House of Representatives and how does the Constitution of Georgia provide that they be apportioned among the several counties?; How does the Constitution of Georgia provide that a county site may be changed?

Several members of the League of Women Voters attempted to answer the questions and found that they would have failed the test which was set up for illiterates.

The Georgia Assembly refused to repeal the compulsory school attendance law, but agreed to suspend it in districts where public schools are closed following integration orders and amended it to provide that no child will be required to attend school with a child of another race; it adopted a resolution to investigate Koinonia; and passed a facetous resolution that New York City's school problems were up to New York to solve without federal interference. Several segregation bills were permitted to die in committee, primarily because of the political fight between the governor and the lieutenant governor.

The Georgia Assembly hit a new low when speaker Marvin Moate shouted an order "Move those "Niggers", we have segregation in Georgia and if they don't know it, have them to leave", upon his seeing a group of students from Spelman College accompanied by white instructors in the gallery. And the height of asininity was reached when Representative Charles Gowen, during debate on a local bill charged that a Fulton County measure to eliminate the use of different colored paper to prepare tax returns for Negro and white citizens would be the "opening wedge" in breaking down segregation.

During its seventeen-weeks session, the Mississippi Legislature passed eleven additional bills in its wild efforts to maintain segregation. There are now laws authorizing the attorney general to appoint special counsel and investigators to assist in litigation to which the state may be a party before any state or federal court or federal commission or agency; authorizing the secretary of state to require an investigation by the attorney general or the General Legislative Investigating Committee of certain organizations or associations and to require the filing of membership lists with the secretary of state; authorizing the governor to close any school or schools, including colleges or public parks, "to promote or preserve the public peace, order or tranquility"; requiring the teaching of Mississippi history in high schools; (the Citizens Council of Mississippi has appointed a woman as chairman of its committee to see that the "right" kind of history is taught in the schools and Judge Brady's "Black Monday" is on the list of required reading") providing alternate methods of disposing of public school buildings no longer used for school purposes; authorizing the attorney general to render services in representing state officers involved in litigation under the federal Civil Rights Act; authorizing the attorney general to render services to any school official involved in litigation "the ultimate purpose of which challenges or seeks to invalidate any statute or provision...dealing with the establishment or control financing" of public schools; establising a legislative recess committee to study and prepare any necessary legislation concerning accrediting public schools and certifying teachers therein; directing the Mississippi Department of Public Health to study heredity and infectious diseases affecting child health; and requesting the General Legislative Investigating Committee to investigate the activities of the NAACP.

One of the one hundred proposed amendments to the state's charter was adopted: This was one to make it easier to amend the charter to help maintain segregation.

A bill aimed specifically at the NAACP, which would have authorized the attorney general to inspect any and all records of any corporation, was vetoed by Governor Coleman who said that it was not needed at the time. He indicated, too, that he would veto a bill which was proposed to permit the use of public funds by the Citizens Councils in a nation-wide campaign to "tell Mississippi's position on segregation".

The South Carolina General Assembly was in session for three and one-half months during which time it adopted a resolution condemning the use of federal troops to enforce integration in Little Rock and a bill authorizing the attorney general to investigate the records of non-profit corporations operating in the state. This brings the number of segregation bills up to twenty-four in South Carolina, plus four resolutions.

The joint legislative committee that gained new life and an additional $75,000 from the regular session of the Legislature in 1957, embarked upon its farcical investigation of the "activities of organizations that advocate violence or a course of conduct which would constitute a violation of the laws of Florida" early in the year. The principal witness at the hearing in Tallahassee was J. B. Matthews, former investigator for the McCarthy Committee, who charged that one hundred forty-five national officers or board members of the NAACP "have records of affiliation with Communist organizations". Representative W. C. Herrell of Miami threatened to resign from the committee when an officer of the Tallahassee Council on Human Relations was not allowed to read his statement. Dr. Emmett Bashful, who was at that time on the faculty of Florida A & M University and adviser to the NAACP Chapter there, was allowed to read a statement into the record.

Newspapers reported that fireworks were expected when the committee headed toward Miami and they were right. More than thirty witnesses were issued subpoenas. Included were Father T. R. Gibson, president of the Miami Branch, Mrs. Ruth Perry, secretary of the Branch and Mrs. Vernelle Albury, Branch treasurer. When Mrs. Perry's answer to a question was not satisfactory to the committee, the same Representative Herrell who had threatened to resign from the committee in Tallahassee said that any person refusing to cooperate with the committee and answer all questions "was not fit to be a citizen of this state", whereupon Father Gibson refused to submit to questioning and walked out, followed by Mrs. Albury and a number of others. They were subsequently cited by the committee for contempt, which case is presently on appeal, but the work of the committee was indefinitely postponed.

The committee to investigate barratry authorized by the Georgia General Assembly was constituted with Representative Harold L. Murphy of Haralson County as chairman. As was expected, the NAACP was the immediate object of scrutiny and attack. Lt. H. A. Poole of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation and Shelby Myrick, who was special counsel for the Savannah Housing Authority, charged the Association with soliciting in the public housing integration lawsuit in violation of Georgia law. Myrick said that in his opinion there was a continuing conspiracy going on to institute these suits "and that the NAACP supplied the money." Poole asked the committee not to reveal the names of seven Negroes who allegedly told him that they had never applied for admission to a white project, they had never authorized anyone to use their names in a lawsuit, and they did not know they were to be involved in integration litigation. He indicated to the committee that he had "fear these helpless Negroes who already have been unwittingly used by the NAACP would be subjected to abuse, reprisals, intimidation and possible violence by the militant NAACP Branch in Savannah." Interestingly enough, the hearings on this case were held immediately before the Georgia State Conference was to open its annual convention in Savannah. The solicitor general of the Eastern Judicial Circuit, which includes Chatham County, said that he was willing to conduct an investigation of charges against the NAACP, but Attorney General Cook's plans to send him evidence, which were reported the day before seemed rather tardy. The case went into the courts in 1954 and Cook had promised to send the solicitor general the charges against the NAACP in 1955.

INTIMIDATION, THREATS, VIOLENCE

While Florida and Georgia continued to use the power of their legislative bodies to intimidate Negroes through reckless charges and investigations of the NAACP, Alabama's Attorney General, who is the governor-elect, persisted in his use of the state courts to pervert justice. Not satisfied with having enjoined the Association from operating in the state of Alabama, and fanatical in his efforts to become governor on a "kill the NAACP" platform, Patterson charged that the Alabama Coordinating Association for Registration and Voting was the "alter ego" of the NAACP and that the Association was guilty of further contempt. W. C. Patton, president of the Coordinating Association, W. P. Mitchell of Tuskegee and Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins were subpoenaed to appear at a hearing in the court of the same Judge Walter E. Jones who had initially signed the injunction against the NAACP. A motion was filed requesting Judge Jones to recuse himself on the grounds that he was personally biased as was shown in his writings, political advertisements and campaign statements on television. The judge admitted his beliefs and statements but denied that he was partial and refused to disqualify himself. Following a series of legal maneuvers culminating in a petition for mandamus in the Supreme Court of Alabama to require Judge Jones to disqualify himself, the case was continued indefinitely.

In the interim, the Supreme Court of the United States handed down a decision in the first Alabama case. The Court held that "the immunity from state scrutiny of membership lists which the Association claims on behalf of its members is here so related to the right of the members to pursue their lawful private interest privately and to associate freely with others in so doing as to come within the protection of the Fourteenth Amendment." The judgment of contempt and the fine were dissolved and the case was remanded for proceedings not inconsistent with the opinion.

The Alabama state courts might be expected to sit on both of these cases for the next several years, inasmuch as Attorney General Patterson will become Governor in January and his right-hand man, Gallion, will become the new attorney general.

The Southeast Region might do well to give a vote of thanks to General Counsel Robert Carter for his work in establishing the legal precedent which gives us the right to protect our members from the pressures that have been known to come through public identification.

The NAACP was not the only focal point for continued attack in Alabama. Bombings, wholesale arrests and protracted threats of violence were the order of the day in Birmingham, particularly, and other sections of that state.

Mississippi threw its intimidating forces against children during the year. Officers and members of the Laurel Youth Council, whose choir participated in the Southeast Region's Annual Conference in Greensboro, were subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury in Jones County. Contrary to what must have been their expectations, the young people supported by Branch president, Dr. B. E. Murph were not frightened by the interrogation, but, rather, were stimulated to increase their NAACP activity.

Again, in Mississippi, a new dimension was added when the principal of the Negro High School denied Amos Brown the right to enter school at the beginning of the fall term. Brown was not seeking admission to a white school; he sought to return to the school in which he was to enter his senior year, where he had been elected president of the student council, and he was an honor student. The principal felt that he had been maligned in a speech made by Brown at the Association's Annual Convention in Cleveland and Brown was a threat to him. After some pressure was applied, Brown was admitted, but the student council was abolished rather than permit the young man to serve as president lest he wield too much influence on the students.

There were numerous instances of intimidation, threats and violence against individual Negroes in the Region which came to our attention during the year. As has been true in the past, in some instances the reports came to us from relatives or friends of victims within the Region; in other cases, the requests for investigations and action came from branches or other sources outside the South. Where bombings occurred, members of the staff were informed through various channels and made their investigations as a matter of routine.

The several field secretaries will report in more detail on the cases which developed within their provinces, however there were several to which we shall call attention here. One of these emanated from Terrell County, Georgia where reports indicated that Saturday night was "open season" on Negroes at the hand of law enforcement officers and where the rights of Negroes were being abridged at every turn. Believing that the situation and the climate of public opinion were such that the NAACP could not operate openly, we established contacts which exposed some of the machinations and outrages against Negroes in that Southwest Georgia, black-belt community. Negroes were beaten and killed with precision by the police; teachers, college graduates and graduate students were denied the right to register to vote; school funds were diverted and equipment removed from the Negro school to the white schools. Negroes who complained about the removal of the equipment from the schools were subjected to economic and other pressures to the extent that a teacher in a neighboring county who was married to the son of one of the complainants was refused her contract even after she had begun to work in the fall term. In another instance, where it was believed that a colored woman incarcerated in the jail might give information relative to the fatal beating of a Negro by an officer, the authorities kept her incommunicado until she gave still-birth to a child believed to have been conceived while she was imprisoned, after which she was sent to an institution for the tubercular.

The Department of Justice moved on Terrell County and sought indictments from a federal grand jury in Macon. As might have been expected, the jury returned a "no bill". Reports indicate that a large number of Negroes have left the community seeking asylum in less antagonistic areas.

The bombings inspired by the vociferous politicans and perpetrated by the lunatic fringe were the subject of much comment and coverage in the press and on the air. The furor which surrounded the bombings of Jewish synagogues, in Miami, Jacksonville, Nashville and finally in Atlanta, and the excitement caused by threats to houses of worship and different public places in a number of communities, completely obscured the bombings of Negro homes and churches that have gone unsolved over the years. Almost nothing was said about the bombing of the new Methodist Church, parsonage and the house next door in the Negro section of Clinton, Tennessee on the Saturday night before Clinton High School was demolished by dynamite. When the church was dynamited, the town's police chief or sheriff said that there was nothing racial involved; that someone was probably getting even with the woman in the house next to the church because it was rumored that she was a police informer. Subsequent events seemed to show that the dynamiters were interested in removing all doubt as to their intentions.

CONFERENCES - REGIONAL, ANNUAL AND STATE

Annual Regional Conference

A total of one hundred fifty-three delegates, adult and youth, from sixty-one branches and twenty youth groups in the six states registered for the Sixth Annual Southeast Regional Conference which met in Greensboro, North Carolina, March 7-9, 1958. Approximately one hundred other persons attended the sessions as observers from branches and communities in the Greensboro area.

The Conference emphasis was on voter-registration with other workshops devoted to branch administration, membership campaigns and raising quotas for the Fighting Fund for Freedom. Field secretaries in the Region, the Executive Secretary of the Virginia State Conference, the Director of the Association's Voter-Registration program, the Director of the Washington Bureau and the President of the North Carolina State Conference were leaders in the various workshops.

The Regional Secretary delivered the keynote address; the Church Secretary spoke for the Freedom Awards Dinner and assisted in several workshops; and the Executive Secretary delivered the speech for the closing mass meeting before an over-flow audience. Against tremendous odds before, and suffering repercussions after, the Laurel, Mississippi Youth Council Choir appeared on the opening night and was featured at the closing meeting on Sunday.

State Conferences

Following agreement reached at the 1957 meeting of the Regional Advisory Board, the annual meetings of state conferences were scheduled so that no two conferences conflicted on dates this year.

The Tennessee State Conference held its meeting in Oak Ridge the last weekend in September with the largest number of delegates in recent years representing ten of the eleven organized branches in attendance. In addition, twenty-five youth members represented the Knoxville Councils; there were four from Nashville and a number of young people from Oak Ridge who were working toward the organization of a council. The Conference theme was: The Responsibilities of Freedom.

The Director of Branches delivered the keynote address and the Director of the Washington Bureau spoke for the closing mass meeting. The Freedom Fund Dinner speaker was the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, which is one of the several churches in Oak Ridge which maintain an open-door policy.

The Memphis Branch will be host to the Thirteenth Annual Meeting of the Tennessee State Conference, September 24-27, 1959.

The Fifteenth Annual Convention of the North Carolina State Conference of Branches met in Raleigh, October 9-12. The topics for consideration in the several workshops were designed to help in carrying through on the theme, Full Freedom - Now. Branch Administration: Memberships and Fund Raising, Budgeting and Bookkeeping; the Negro Wage Earner: Discrimination and Opportunities in Employment; Voter Registration: Politics and Legislation for Civil Rights; Legal Action in Education and Other Public Facilities - Desegregation, Legal Problems Relating to Farmers and Homeowners; and Socio-Psychological Factors in Reference to Desegregation were subjects discussed in the Convention workshops. The Regional Secretary gave the keynote speech and made the appeal at the closing mass meeting in the municipal auditorium where the Executive Secretary delivered the featured address.

The Eighteenth Annual Convention will go to Asheville, October 8-11, 1959.

South Carolina held its Seventeenth Annual Meeting in Charleston, October 16-19 with its emphasis on voter registration as was indicated in the theme: Your Participation in the Program of Voter-Registration Today Will Determine the Quality of Your Government Tomorrow. Workshops centered around The Participation of Churches in the Voter-Registration Effort; Community Organization for Voter-Registration Campaigns and Political Action and the Involvement of Women in Programs of Voter-Registration and Political Action.

The Regional Secretary met in a closed session with Branch presidents and officers to map out plans for reviving the NAACP in the State and she, also, delivered the keynote address.

The Director of Branches spoke at the Testimonial Banquet honoring Mr. J. M. Hinton, who retired from the State Conference presidency after eighteen years of devoted and untiring service. The Regional Secretary presented a leather bound scrap book to Mr. Hinton as a token of appreciation from the Region. Clarence Mitchell addressed the closing mass meeting and the President of the Georgia State Conference, Mr. W. W. Law, installed the new officers, who include, the Reverend I. DeQuincey Newman as president, vice presidents, the Reverends H. F. Sharper and M. D. McCollom and secretary, J. Arthur Brown. Mr. Levi G. Byrd, who was responsible for organizing the South Carolina State Conference, and has been treasurer through the years continues in that position.

October 15-18, 1959 will be the period during which the Eighteenth Annual Convention will meet in Sumter.

When we look at the ages of the State Conferences in the Southeast Region we can see how ridiculous it is that efforts be made to put us out of business at this late date.

The Florida State Conference met in its Nineteenth Annual Convention October 23-26 in Daytona Beach. Workshop sessions were designed for the training of branch leadership as was true in each of the other state meetings. One session was devoted to Planning Our 1958-59 Membership and Freedom Fund Program; another, Implementing the Desegregation Rulings in the State of Florida, Meeting the Challenge Through Better Branch Administration and Record Keeping; and time was given to a review of the resolutions which were adopted by the 49th Annual Convention of the Association which are the guide for our activity. Voter-registration Director, John M. Brooks, conducted a clinic to give guidance to the program to increase the number of registered voters.

State Conference president, Reverend A. Leon Lowry made the keynote address which was covered by press and television under the most favorable circumstances; the Regional Secretary spoke for the Freedom Awards Dinner and Dr. John A. Morsell, Assistant to the Executive Secretary delivered the address at the closing public meeting.

Among the awards presented at the State Conference was one to Virgil D. Hawkins, who was the center of litigation for nine years in the effort to open the University of Florida Law School.

Conference delegates participated in a ceremony in memory of, and observed the placing of a wreath on the grave of Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, who was one of the Association's vice presidents at the time of her death.

Pensacola will be host to the 1959 session of the State Conference.

Seventy-nine delegates registered for the Thirteenth Annual Convention of the Mississippi State Conference in Jackson, October 31-November 2 and approximately $2200 was received during the meeting. Memberships and Fund Raising, Desegregation, Youth Work and Registration and Voting were subjects discussed in the workshops. This was considered one of the best attended conferences in the history of the NAACP in the Magnolia State.

Once again, the Regional Secretary delivered the keynote address, the Church Secretary gave the Freedom Fund Dinner speech and Clarence Mitchell addressed the closing mass meeting.

Savannah was host to the Seventeenth Annual Conference of Georgia NAACP Branches, November 6-9. A Problem Clinic, and Workshops on Civil Rights; Registration and Voting; Branch Organization, Membership Campaigns and Fund Raising were presented to give guidance to the branch leadership. Dr. Morsell was the keynote speaker, substituting for the Executive Secretary, who was unable to attend; the Regional Secretary spoke at the Freedom Fund Dinner in the enforced absence of the Church Secretary and Attorney A. T. Walden was the featured speaker at the closing public meeting.

The Savannah Branch was unique in the entertainment features for the delegates: A seafood dinner was prepared on the opening night and a most enjoyable boat-ride on the Savannah River was arranged on Saturday afternoon, during which the guests were given the historical highlights of the areas by president, W. W. Law.

The Annual Convention

The entire staff and approximately sixty delegates from branches in the Southeast Region were in attendance at the 49th Annual Convention of the Association in Cleveland. We were encouraged, too, by the presence of a number of observers from communities where we had branches when we were operative in Alabama.

CHURCH WORK

Our efforts continued to have the branches in the Region organize and activate Church Committees in order to better implement the Churches for Freedom program. Real progress was shown in this area of interest during the year.

Approximately one hundred ministers and laymen participated in the meeting of the Regional Church Work Committee at the Regional Conference in March. The ministers' conference reelected Reverend Frank R. Gordon of Knoxville, Tennessee as chairman. The statement adopted by the group emphasized the need for increased voter registration in the South to implement the Fight for Freedom.

For the first time, each of the state conferences in the Region, was successful in having ministers' conferences in connection with their annual meetings and organizing their state church work committees. The following ministers will serve as chairmen in their respective states for the ensuing year: C. K. Steele, Tallahassee, Florida; J. W. Cook, Marietta, Georgia; G. N. Haughton, Jackson, Mississippi; Dean Grady Davis, Shaw University, Raleigh, North Carolina; M. D. McCollom, Orangeburg, South Carolina and Frank R. Gordon, Knoxville, Tennessee. The secretary for the Georgia Committee is Dr. J. N. Harris, one of the few women ordained ministers and pastor of the Fonvielle A.M. E. Zion Church in Savannah.

The executive committee of the Regional Church Work group met in the Regional Offices in November and made plans for a South-wide Conference of Religious Leaders to be held at Morehouse College, April 29-30. The objectives for the meeting are to further the creation of a climate of acceptance of the desegregation program and to give emphasis to the moral interpretation of the desegregation enterprise.

The report from this meeting was sent to the members of the Regional Church Work Committee and to the presidents of the state conferences.

YOUTH WORK

Miss Lois Baldwin, who was assigned as field secretary to work with the Southeast Region's youth councils and college chapters in February left the employ of the Association at the end of August. During the period of orientation, she assisted in the preparation of and directed the youth program for the Regional Conference in Greensboro and accompanied the Regional Secretary on a number of field trips. Later, she visited and worked in Tennessee commuities with Mr. Patton, in Florida with Mr. Saunders, and in Georgia with Reverend Holmes.

Youth sections were held in connection with each of the annual meetings of state conferences and more young people were in attendance than in previous years.

The Regional Secretary and the field secretaries will continue to give as much attention as possible to this very important phase of our work.

LEGAL COMMITTEE

Lawyers from the several states in attendance at the Greensboro Conference considered the legal program for the Region. Attorney Donald Hollowell of Atlanta, Georgia, was elected chairman for the Regional Committee and Floyd McKissack of Durham, North Carolina was named secretary.

IMPLEMENTATION THROUGH COOPERATION

In addition to participating as a workshop consultant at the Summit Conference sponsored by the National Negro Publishers Association, the Regional Secretary worked with the steering committee of the Southern Interagency Conference, the full Interagency Conference and the Fellowship of the Concerned, during the year. As has been done in previous years, she met with conferences of Methodist Church women in a protracted effort to involve more organizations and individuals to assist us in the Fight for Freedom.

The Southern Regional Council was particularly helpful in working with us on the Terrell County case. The American Jewish Congress, the American Jewish Committee and the Dade County Human Relations Council were cooperative on the Miami School case.

We have referred to the cooperation which came from the Fellowship of the Concerned in our Voter Registration program previously in this report.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

A total of 5,340 communications, including answers to letters that came from branches, youth groups, other organizations; answers to letters of inquiry from various parts of the United States, Canada, England and South Africa and periodic News and Action Letters to the branches and youth groups went out from the Regional Office.

The Regional Secretary was able to do more field work than had been possible during the last two or three years. She traveled 31,085 miles to fill 80 speaking and other engagements in 37 communities in 12 states. Visits were made to a number of branches, each of the state conferences and engagements were kept with several church women's groups, denominational annual conferences, schools, colleges and other organizations. In several instances, she appeared on television and radio programs.

A clipping file being maintained in the Regional Office was the source for a portion of the material used in a report on violence, reprisals and intimidation in the South which was the subject of a Joint Fact-Finding Project and participated in by several other agencies in the Southern Interagency Conference.

Vistors to the Office seeking information relative to the work of the Association and Civil Rights included a student group from the University of Nebraska, students from Emory University, reporters from London, England, the Wall Street Journal, Time, the New York Times, Associated Press, a newspaper editor from Stockholm, and writers from Denmark and South Africa.

We were not in a position to concentrate too much on employment during the year, but we did work with representatives of the AFL-CIO and the President's Committee on Government Contracts on several cases.

Ebony published a feature story on the work of Field Secretary Medgar Evers during the year. And, the Regional Secretary received a citation from Wilberforce University.

IN MEMORIAL

Several of the state conferences conducted memorial services during their annual conventions for officers and members of their branches who died during the year.

Among the deceased were Reverend A. R. Raiford, former secretary of the Marion County, Florida Branch, Reverend W. J. Johnson, former president of the Bay County, Florida Branch; the secretary of the Jefferson County, Florida Branch; Mrs. Ruth Stewart, a staunch supporter of our Greenville, S. Carolina Branch; Mr. George Washington, who was a right hand to Mr. Blackman, the president of our Elloree, South Carolina Branch; and Mrs. Carrie Chapman, a former president of the Chattanooga, Tennessee Branch.

The NAACP suffered further loss upon the tragic death of Dr. J. E. Walker, president of the Universal Life Insurance Company and a Life Member of the Association in Memphis, Tennessee. Field Secretary Holmes and the Regional Secretary represented the Association at the funeral of Dr. J. H. Lewis, president of Morris Brown College.

Condolences were extended to the secretary of the Miami Branch, Mrs. Vernelle Albury, who lost her husband; to Miss Bernice Robinson, secretary of the Charleston, South Carolina Branch, whose mother passed and to Miss Willie Mae Winfield of the Roper, North Carolina Branch, whose mother passed, also.

If there were others, we regret the omission of their names, but the information has not come to our attention.

CONCLUSION

We are deeply appreciative of the wonderful cooperation that has continued to come from the officers and members of the many branches, youth councils and college chapters in the Region. We are indebted to them for the spirit of loyalty and willingness to serve whenever they have been called upon to accept even more responsibility than they were carrying to the end that the Fight for Freedom might be won.

We appreciate, too, the loyalty of our hard-working field staff: Bob Saunders, who has been under the hammer in Florida; Medgar Evers, who is constantly under fire in Mississippi; Charles McLean, who covers North Carolina "like the dew"; and we are expecially happy to have with us our old friend, a former president of the Mississippi State Conference and a long-time laborer in the field of human rights, the Reverend Amos O. Holmes, who joined us in June as Field Secretary for the state of Georgia. We were fortunate to have the able assistance of the "displaced person", W. C. Patton.

All of us in the Southeast Region have had to work under extreme handicaps over the past three years. There have been times when each of us has felt that were our Fight only with the Griffins, Timmermans, Eastlands and their kind, it would not be so bad as it is during those times when we have to work over-time to convince our people that they should not fight among themselves and that they should accept the responsibilities which go along with the rights for which we are struggling.

We are hopefully expectant that our production in the Southeast Region this year has been an improvement over 1957, and we are confident that before we finish the observance of the Association's Fiftieth Anniversary we will have moved closer to the top of all the Regions where we rightfully belong.

We rededicate ourselves to the task of winning the Fight so that we shall be Free by '63.

In the words of Abraham Lincoln, on whose birthday we celebrate our NAACP birthday:

With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in.

Respectfully submitted,

Ruby Hurley
Regional Secretary

Dear Mr. Cook:

Thank you for your letter of July 12, and the invitation to take part in the Georgia State Conference of Branches. Unfortunately, I am committed to a meeting in St. Petersburg, Florida on those dates and so must decline with regret.

I am sure I could arrange for another member of our staff to fill this assignment, if you wish. It does strike me, however, that one of the intergroup relations workers in the religious field -- who are also clergymen -- would be more suitable for this particular workshop; for example, the Rev. John Morris, executive director of the Episcopal Society for Cultural Unity, 50 Whitehall Street, Atlanta. As you probably know, Mr. Morris and his organization are promoting integration within the Episcopal Church, as well as in religious institutions generally.

If Mr. Morris isn't available, another suitable choice would be the Rev. Edward Brown, who performs a similar function for the Congregational Christian Churches, with headquarters at 41 Exchange Place.

While we feel that these and other persons we could suggest are more competent to discuss the role of ministers, if you would like to have a member of our staff participate in this or another workshop, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming

Dear Mr. Fleming:

The NAACP Church Department, in cooperation with the Southeast Regional Office, is sponsoring a Southwide Conference of Religious Leaders on April 19-20, 1961.

This conference will convene at Clark College, Atlanta, Georgia. The theme of the conference will be "Religious Cooperative Action and The Civil Rights Crisis in The South". We will be placing emphasis on the school desegregation crisis, the problem of desegregation of public facilities and the problem of employment bias. These issues will be discussed in relation to the religious dimensions involved.

Two years ago we held a similar conference in Atlanta, which was well attended and resulted in practical action in local situations in the South. We are extending to your organization an invitation to participate in this conference by sending a representative. I assure you that such representation from your organization would dramatize the broad, liberal resources that are available for meeting the problems which are to be discussed.

Please indicate on the enclosed form if we can expect participation from your organization, and the name and address of your representative. Looking forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience regarding this request.

Best wishes for the continued success of your organization's program and work.

Yours truly,

Edward J. Odom Jr.

Dear Mr. Wooley:

Charles McDew is a student at South Carolina State in Orangeburg, South Carolina. He is chairman of the Student Non-violence Coordinating Committee with a mailing address of 197½ Auburn Avenue, Atlanta, Georgia. His home address is 105 Tremont, S.W., Massillon, Ohio.

We got a home address for Marvin E. Robinson from SNCC although they were not sure that it is still correct: it is 720 East 21 Avenue, Gary, Indiana.

I do not know of any other students who may be in the area in October. One possibility is Edward D. King, Jr. who has just resigned as administrative secretary of SNCC in order to enroll at Wilberforce University. I have known Ed pleasantly and you may wish to call on him. I suppose he will be at Wilberforce later this month.

Regarding the possible race relations conference at Earlham you should write to Professor Joe Earl Elmore, Assistant to the President.

Best wishes, and give my regards to Professor Grimshaw.

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

Thank you for your letter of August 31, 1961 and for the information regarding possible student speakers. I wonder if you could get me the addresses of Charles McDew of Ohio (recommended by PR) and Marvin Robinson who is in law school in St. Louis (recommended by DM). These seem to be the most likely to be in our area. If, however, you have any reason to suppose that any of the other students recommended by PR and DM will be in this area in October we would be interested in having their addresses also. Unfortunately our funds are limited so that we cannot afford to pay transportation from a long distance. If you can get this information to us soon it would be greatly appreciated.

I note with interest that there may be a race relations institute at Earlham sometime around March. The Indiana Chapter of the NAACP is developing a training program which we expect to have ready by the spring. (We will test it on some of our own students in the fall). Earlham and Antioch might be interested in combining with us. In any case we would be interested in corresponding with them about their race relations institute. If you know who I should write to regarding this I would greatly appreciate that information.

Our program is flexible so that if your engagement at Earlham works out we will be able to arrange a date for you to speak to us.

Thank you again for agreeing to send us someone between November and March if you are unable to come.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

Please excuse us for continuing to tax you in this way. We are most appreciative of the time you have taken to help us. I will certainly be looking forward to your visit — and am optimistic now that chances seem to be doubled. Mr. Wolley is, indeed, getting an impressive program together. But I would rather be doing research where you are — than reading about events here — and listening to others tell about what is going on. Thanks again.

Dear Ruby:

I am enclosing a piece from the Raleigh News and Observer for March 3, 1963 which I thought you might like to see if you had not already. I found it an interesting report, and was especially impressed by what it tells of the important role of the NAACP Youth Councils.

Dear Ruby:

I am one of those who has not "clicked" for the Atlanta NAIRO chapter. Uncannily, every meeting has coincided with something I could not get out of, and I'm afraid that on June 15 I'll be out of town. Thank you for keeping the chapter alive under the difficulties you have had.

NEGROES ASK FEDERAL MISS.
COURT TO ORDER END TO FIRINGS AND EVICTIONS

Greenville Air Force Base "Sit-Inners" Among Plaintiffs

VICKSBURG, Miss.---Negro parents and children of nearby Sharkey and Issaquena counties today asked the U. S. District Court here to order an end to a reign of firings and evictions.

White landlords and employers are charged with firing adults and evicting families who sought school integration in accordance with an earlier court ruling.

Some of the Negro plaintiffs were among those who sought food and shelter at de-activated Greenville Air Force Base two weeks ago.

The suit was brought by attorneys of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc.

Legal Defense Fund lawyers assert that the number of whites participating in the harassment campaign is "so numerous as to make it impracticable to bring them all individually before the court."

The Negroes seek "injunctive relief against the defendants (whites) restraining them from conspiring to, and from performing acts of intimidation and harassment."

The Negroes also asked the court to order the landlords and employers "to undue their past illegal acts by making the plaintiffs whole; in cases of wrongful discharges, plaintiffs should be awarded back pay; in cases of wrongful evictions, plaintiffs should be compensated for injuries sustained."

The same court ordered integration of Sharkey Issaquena schools in May of 1965 as result of the suit of Jeremiah Blackwell and others against the county school boards.

The Boards subsequently filed desegregation plans, which, after extended hearings, were accepted.

Negroes began to enroll; and, the intimidations began.

Legal Defense Fund attorneys in the new suit are Carsie A. Hall, Henry M. Aronson and Marian Wright, Jackson, Miss.; Jack Greenberg, Director-Counsel, Derrick A. Bell, Jr. and Melvyn Zarr of New York City.

MEMORANDUM

TO: WEEKLY EDITORS

FROM: Jesse DeVore, Jr., Director, Public Information

SUBJECT: EVALUATION OF THE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE'S NEW SCHOOL DESEGREGATION GUIDELINES.

NEW YORK---Jack Greenberg, director-counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, this week released the following evaluation statement in response to HEW's school desegregation guidelines, issued Monday, March 7th.

"The new guidelines' effectiveness in desegregating public schools will depend fundamentally on whether the Administration is willing to make a powerful political commitment on manpower and funds to achieve desegregation. We have had no encouragement in this area.

"Paper promises over the past decade have meant nothing because unfortunately local school officials have not hesitated to lie. Enforcing the guidelines, even with a great commitment of appropriations and manpower, will nevertheless be difficult because of their complexity, permissiveness in many areas, and wide scope of exceptions.

"The exception, which permits school boards which have been operating under court orders to continue as in the past, even though such orders fall far short of the guidelines, is extremely unfortunate.

"Millions of children in every major city in the South and many small towns and rural areas in which the Negro community is most active now are covered by court orders entered well before the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

"Negroes will be paying a penalty for insistence upon their civil rights in the fifties and early sixties. The only remedy which the guidelines offer is that victims of segregation can go back to court.

"Beyond that, we fail to see specific standards for eliminating gerrymandering, selection of school sites for new construction or expansion of existing facilities, favorite tactics of districts that want to continue segregation far into the future.

"We are shocked by the admitted total failure to treat northern segregation problems.

"We are happy, however, that finally the Department has retreated from its position that it can do nothing about the wanton firing of Negro teachers and has adopted a regulation forbidding it."

However, it is my privilege to enclose a small check in support of the Atlanta Branch and all of the excellent work of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. My only regret is that it could not be larger.

Dear Mr. Anthony:

I hope I am not being too presumptuous, but your name was suggested to me as a possible friend and supporter of the N.A.A.C.P. Consequently, I am writing to ask your support in our present fund raising effort. This is not a membership drive, but a local effort to raise funds so that our local and national office may continue to operate effectively in the vital area of civil rights.

Need I remind you that the N.A.A.C.P. continues to be one of the few such organizations speaking sanely and clearly about human, educational and employment problems confronting our city and our nation.

While your check of $10.00 payable to the Freedom Fund Banquet, entitles you to a ticket to our Freedom Fund Dinner-Dance to be held on November 30 at the Atlanta Cabana Motor Hotel, contributions in excess of this amount would, of course, be greatly appreciated.

We need your support and your presence would mean much to us.

Thank you for your kind consideration.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

This is a belated acknowledgment of the communication and pamphlet copy which you sent to me under date of August 25. I think it is very good and I certainly hope that its distribution will be sufficiently wide to have the desired effect.

I have been giving some thought to the organization of local bi-racial discussion groups and I must confess that I can come up with almost nothing outside of church and student groups about which you must have already thought. If we can get the Committees on Christian Social Relations in the various Woman's Societies for Christian Service in the Methodist Churches to take some action, that might be a beginning point. This stands out in my mind because I have just been made president of our Wesleyan Service Guild in our church here in Birmingham.

The Alabama State Conference is holding its annual Convention in Mobile November 6-8, and though I may be premature your name has been suggested as a participant and Molly O'Steen from the University of Alabama as another. I imagine that in her position she should be able to give some help so far as student groups are concerned.

We shall have other state meetings in North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee on the week end of October 24-25 and in Mississippi November 6-8. If we can get the pamphlet distributed in those meetings and a guidance sheet for setting up bi-racial groups we might be able to stimulate some further action through them.

You may remember that Henry Moon wrote to you about a plan submitted by an anonymous person who was interested in devising some means through which those persons of the majority ethnic group who were on the side of right in human relations might come to recognize each other. I had a letter from this gentleman this morning and we might be able to use him and a few others whom I know in Florida.

Sept. 9, 1953

I shall be coming into Atlanta on the Seaboard Friday evening and will be there until Sunday when we will go down to Fort Valley. If you are not in your office on Saturday will you leave a message either at the Waluhaje Hotel or at the NAACP office to tell me how I may reach you by telephone?

The program committee has requested me to invite you to share our program as a discussion leader, Saturday, November 7. You are requested to discuss DE-SEGREGATION under the main topic, ACHIEVING EDUCATIONAL DEMOCRACY.

Dear Mrs. Hurley:

Nice of you to write.

We are truly going to miss you at the meeting at Williamsburg, and I will let you know what may be the outcome.

The Fund for the Republic is willing, I think, to help us get paid personnel into each of twelve Southern States, and to keep them there for three years or a shade longer. Each State outfit will have to raise not a slight amount of money toward meeting its own budget, and we here will have to raise a lot to keep this office afloat. I hope each of the State programs can be under way by October or thereabouts. Meanwhile their job is to plan carefully for the right personnel and the best program. Ultimately each outfit must stand on its own legs.

We will need, and the State outfits will need, the advice and cooperation of the NAACP straight through. I know we can count on help from you in getting effective programs going.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

I have been planning to write to you about NAIRO especially since I learned that it was your suggestion that I was named chairman of the South.

Now I have a memorandum from John Feild relative to a Board meeting to be held in Chicago on August 13-14. In a personal note he indicates that he is aware of the distance involved for me but suggests "maybe George Mitchell could help in some way." I do not know what he has in mind but if you can and write me I would appreciate it, and also give me a bit more information on what you think we should be doing in this region through NAIRO. I do not like to have a title for a job which I am not doing and I would like to do something.

Dear Mr. Fleming:

During the past several days we attempted to contact you by long distance telephone service, phone Walnut 7963, but failed, evidently due to the time we called in the afternoons.

We wanted to advise that in view of the suggestion offered by you with regard to the crowd factor during midsummer, the executive board requested that an expression be conveyed to you to the effect that the Mobile NAACP should like to afford you the same kind of a reception that was accorded Mr. Thurgood Marshall on May 16. Further, that the executive board feels that a meeting arranged for the latter part of September or early October would enable us to achieve our desire. It was the consensus of opinion in the board meeting that we should hold in abeyance your visit until after the public schools open for the 1954-55 year, for we believe your message will be of importance to school teachers as well as the general public. We should prefer your coming at that time, if such plan meets your approval.

The intense heat, many persons being away on vacation, and a large number of teachers taking summer courses at distant points, are regarded as angles which would likely not be to the best advantage of all concerned for a successful meeting at this time. Nevertheless, we have some regrets that the meeting may not be held as scheduled for next Sunday. You may be surprised to know that we have an increasing number of prominent whites who are liberal in the viewpoints about the race question. Perhaps a dozen or more had planned joining us in honoring you with a smoker Saturday, July 17. We are quite certain, however, that the same persons will be available for a similar get-to-gether affair in September or early October. Frankly, I feel that we may be able to have a larger number at that time.

Please advise at earliest convenience if the late September or early October meeting will meet your approval. We certainly regret this, the second, postponement of your coming to Mobile as our guest, but we believe you will be in accord with the fall date for the reasons outlined above.

With every good wish, I am

Dear Mr. Fleming:

This is to acknowledge with thanks your letter of May 27, advising us that you will speak to the citizens of Mobile on June 27.

Your acceptance of our invitation to speak here in connection with the 29th anniversary program of the Mobile NAACP is highly appreciated by all of us. We feel that your speaking in Mobile subsequent to the epoch-making decision of the United States Supreme Court relative to the unconstitutionality of segregation in our public school system will certainly do much to create good will and understanding between white and Negro leaders who shall probably have to deal with any problems that may arise as a part of integration .

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m., on June 27. We shall inform you of the place in our next letter.

With every good wish, I am

Only the swirl of activity in the wake of the Supreme Court decision has kept me from answering your letter before now.

I will be glad to speak to the Mobile Branch on June 27. The only cost would be actual travel expense there and back. I will look forward to hearing from you further about the exact time and place of the meeting.

Dear Mr. Fleming:

Pursuant to our long distance telephone conversation several weeks ago relative to our invitation to you to address a public meeting under auspices of the Mobile NAACP, we shall appreciate your consideration of the matter at this time.

We think it was explained during the telephone conversation that the Mobile NAACP is observing its 29th anniversary, with a plan to bring several outstanding authorities on race relations to Mobile during the months of April-May-June. You were selected as one of the persons. In view of the United States Supreme Court decision last Monday, it is definitely felt in the wake of that ruling against public school segregation that you could do much to cushion sentiment here in the direction of integration. That is, that acceptance of the epoch-making decision of the nation's high court may be realized with little rancor.

Thurgood Marshall spoke here last Sunday. About 1500 people, including about 25 whites, attended the meeting.

We should like to have you speak here on either June 20 or June 27, if convenient to you. If not, the date may be June 13.

We sincerely hope you may be able to accept our invitation to be our guest speaker on one of the Sundays mentioned.

Please advise as to acceptance date, total expense charges, and the like.

Dear Mr. LeFlore,

You will remember the talk Miss Barbara Gardner from Talladega gave at the meeting last fall of the Alabama Conference of the NAACP. We asked her for permission to print it, and she very kindly made it into a MS for us. We think it is good, as so obviously the audience did the day she gave it.

I've sent some copies to Mrs. Hurley, but thought you should have some, too.

Dear Mr. LeFlore,

My warmest thanks to youx and your friends for my warm reception and much enjoyment of the visit to Mobile. IT was a good and responsive crowd, and I had a good time talking to them.

Next day in Greensboro I found much interest among responsible people in appointing a courageous Negro person to the city school board. And the same resposible people thought that their city could and would set an example in getting unsegregated schools. Nice experience!

Cordially,

George S. Mitchell

Dear Mr. LeFlore,

All straight. You letter duly came in yeasterday, but had been put in some attention-catching place where it didn't catch my attention!

I have taken a seat on EAL's plane 575 leaving Atlanta 8.40 A.M. January 1 and arriving at Mobile 11.27 A.M. Will come direct to NAACP headquarters 570 Davis Avenue, or, better still, will camm there for directions. If weather should be threatening I will light out by car about 1 A.M. and drive down, arriving about 10.00 A.M. Intend to take Northbound flight 572 leaving Mobile at 7.06 in the evening of the 1st, and get some sleep in Atlanta before going on next day to Greensboro - which is why I don't give myself the luxury of a longer stay in Mobile.

All straight about the pamphlets. Your folks duly settled. We had a similar account outstanding with Mrs. Hurley's office, and we in error applied you check-in-full to her account. Will straighten out with Mrs. Hurley.

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

Pursuant to previous correspondence we shall expect to be honored with your presence here on January 1, 1954, as principal speaker for our Emancipation Day program.

The meeting is scheduled to be held at 3 p.m. A parade will precede the program, and will begin about 2 p.m.

We, too, feel that the theme should embrace a retrospection of the Negro's life in America and what be hope the future may hold for our nation in the field of race relations at the time of the hundredth anniversary of the Emancipation.

The Branch shall comply with your suggestion relative to the honorarium to the Council.

Kindly advise by return mail the time of your arrival in Mobile.

That's all straight about being at your service for the Emancipation Day program January first, 1954.

It would help the Council considerably if the Branch could undertake, in addition to my (never extravagant) expenses, an honorarium of $25.00.

Let me know exactly when and where and I will plan the travel.

I am never a long-winded speaker and would hardly use more than thirty-five minutes. I assume that the theme ought to look backward a bit over progress and look forward to what we all hope for by the time of the hundreth anniversary.

Dear Mr. LeFlère:

Many thanks for your letter and your check for membership dues. That makes you a member in good standing of the Alabama Council on Human Relations, our affiliate in the state, and of course we'll get New South and our other publications to you.

Since we last communicated, SRC's state programs have gone forward significantly. The Alabama Council has a full-time director in the person of the Reverend Robert Hughes, a young Methodist minister, who is working hard to unite the forward looking elements of the state. If he has not been in touch with you and your associates in Mobile, he should be and I'm sure would want to be. That leads me to offer the suggestion that you bring him to Mobile as a speaker. Or you might want to relate to the Alabama Council through its elected chairman, the Reverend Duncan Hunter of Montgomery. His address is First Methodist Church, Alexander City, Ala.

I might also let you know that we now have on the central staff here in Atlanta an assistant director for state organizations named Fred Routh, former professor of human relations at the University of Miami. He is a very able and articulate person and has made several trips recently to Alabama. I'm sure that he too will want to make contact with you and the Mobile Branch at a convenient time.

I would welcome the long deferred visit with you there, but I make these suggestions because I feel they would lead directly to more fruitful organizational ties that should be knitted up as soon as possible.

Let me know your reactions and meanwhile my very best regards.

Citizens here are elated that you have consented to be principal speaker on the occasion of our first anniversary celebration of the epoch-making United States Supreme Court decision declaring unconstitutional segregation of the races in public schools. We also will commemorate the 30th birthday of our Mobile NAACP at the time.

Announcement of your coming to Mobile has aroused quite a bit of interest and we are hopeful of a fine meeting at the time. The Mobile NAACP may arrange a parade with several school bands and other such groups participating in connection with our May 15 program.

The meeting will be held at the Big Zion AME Zion Church at 3 PM, May 15. With regard to the nature of your address, we feel you are fully capable of affording the community the kind of talk it needs toward the acceptance of desegregation and the principles of equality.

I shall probably be in Atlanta next Friday, April 29, in a civil service case. The hearing may last all day. However, if it adjourns no later than 2 PM, I may contact you by telephone merely to say " hello."

Dear Mr. Fleming:

This is to acknowledge with thanks your interesting letter of March 17.

We appreciate immensely the information afforded us in your letter, also the suggestions offered therein. The Reverend Robert Hughes was in Mobile several weeks ago, we were advised by the Reverend J. Echols Lowery, pastor of the Warren Street Methodist Church here, but we did not know he was coming to this city and were disappointed that it was not our pleasure to meet him. However, we are quite certain such will not be the case on his next visit here.

With regard to the invitation extended by the Mobile NAACP for you to speak here. It may be of interest to you to know that we hope to have the Reverend Hughes speak at one of our NAACP meetings this year. However, the Mobile NAACP desires your presence here in connection with its first anniversary celebration of the historic Supreme Court decision ending racial segregation in the public school system. We feel that what you may say will have great significance in the direction of mitigating racial tension and developing understanding in this area. The national office of the NAACP has suggested the Sunday nearest May 17 as a date for such a meeting. This is desired in connection with the 1st. anniversary of the Supreme Court decision outlawing public school segregation. Therefore, May 15 would be the appropiate date for the celebration.

If, for any reason, you cannot come to Mobile at the time, we would be happy to have Mr. Fred Routh come instead.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

As you undoubtedly know, the five cases involving the constitutionality of segregation per se in public schools have been postponed by the United States Supreme Court for reargument in December.

One of the non-legal aspects of these cases which is of immediate concern is to obtain all of the facts concerning transitions from segregated to non-segregated situations, e.i., to determine exactly what has happened in those areas where such a transition has actually taken place.

We know that this might be a generally inconvenient time to seek your assistance, but the time pressure and the importance of the data which you could help us obtain make it imperative that we call upon you for assistance. We would very much appreciate it if you could send us whatever relevant material you have available concerning such transitions.

Some of the relevant information needed is as follows:

1) What are the actual mechanics which were used in order to change from a segregated to a non-segregated pattern?

2) What were some of the problems which arose in this transition?

3) How were these problems effectively dealt with?

4) What were the immediate and long-range consequences of such a change?

It would be a great help if you could suggest other persons who might have additional relevant information on similar transitions.

I might add that the use of this information will not be restricted to the immediate practical situation, but will be of value for general social science interest and may also be helpful to many communities that are now facing and will be facing in the future similar transitions. We will be glad to send you, if so desired, a copy of the final analysis of all the material obtained.

As you can see, we have an extremely limited time within which to obtain this information. It would be of utmost importance, therefore, if it would be possible to hear from you within the following week.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

Before you have an opportunity to answer my first letter I am sending a second one concerning a request for more specific information. Your article entitled, "The South Charts Its Course" which appeared in the May, 1953 issue of The Interracial Review has come to my attention and I am now concerned with obtaining additional data on several of the situations you describe in that article. The information I am seeking is as follows:

1. The names of the five or six school boards which you state have had Negro members - to include state and local school boards.

2. A listing of those southern communities where Negroes have been elected to city councils or other municipal offices.

3. A listing and, if possible, an analysis of those trade unions in southern communities where there has been a change in any sense from segregation to non-segregation.

4. A listing of the formerly all-white eighteen state-supported institutions of higher education which now admit Negro students.

5. A listing of the private and parochial schools in southern communities that admit both Negro and white children.

6. Any listing of communities or documentation of schools in remote counties that are maintained on a non-segregated basis.

We realize that this information may be difficult for you to obtain and for that reason all the more appreciate your assistance.

Thank you for your kind consideration of this matter.

Miss June Shagaloff,

Educational Fund, Inc.
107 West 43rd Street,
New York 36, N. Y.

Dear Miss Shagaloff:

I will do my best to answer your two letters. The second one is easier than the first.

On the first one: SRC's area is 13 Southern States from Virginia to Texas and Oklahoma. We do not cover and do not know much about Maryland, Delaware or Missouri. Within the 13 Southern States in SRC's area there has been almost no change from a segregated to a non-segregated pattern in public schools. I will list the exceptions later.

Now for the second lot:

1. Harrold Trigg has been a member of the North Carolina State School Board for two or three years. Raleigh, North Carolina has or has had lately Negro school board members.

New Port News, Virginia appointed C. W. Scott to its school board, March 1952. Lynchberg, Virginia appointed Carl B. Hutcherson to its school board April, 1953. Richmond, Virginia appointed Booker T. Bradshaw to its school board.

Nashville, Tennessee appointed Coyness L. Ennix to its school Board January, 1952. Darlington, South Carolina appointed G. Perry Gandy to its school board January, 1951.

Maryland appointed Dwight O. W. Holmes to its State Board of Education June, 1951.

Kentucky has had Negro representation on its school board since 1944. Atlanta, Georgia elected Rufus E. Clement to its City school board May, 1953. Augusta, Georgia elected W. C. Ervin to its City school board November, 1952.

2. The following towns have elected Negroes to the City Council or Board of Aldermen.

Richmond, Virginia had a Negro City Counselor for one term about 1951-52. Also, Atlanta, Georgia in May 1953 elected A. T. Walden and Miles G. Amos to the City Executive Committee, which is to say elected them to serve on the Executive Committee of the Democratic party for the City. Winston Salem, North Carolina similarly elected Mrs. Sarah Marash to serve on its City party executive committee, April 1953.

Nashville, Tennessee has had two members of its City Council for a couple of years. One is Z. A. Looby and the other is Robert E. Lillard.

3. Too big a question to answer. In the CIO, steel, automobile, packing house workers, textile workers, wood workers, wholesale-retail and other principle unions customarily operate without separate local unions.

In the A.F. of L., it is my general observation that those unions which organize industrial plants having largish proportions of Negro workers form local unions with comparatively little distinction along lines of race. Some have mixed locals and some still have separate locals, but the tendency toward mixed locals that would go, typically, for the A. F. of L. paper workers and chemical workers. I do not know acurately the situation in the industrial wing of the Machinists. Old-line craft unions in the A. F. of L. in the South either do not admit Negroes or organize them in separate locals; that is my observation in the building trades and the shop-crafts and in the printing trades. So far as I know, all Southern State Federation of Labor have now for years past had numerous Negro delegates or officers. Same would be true for State Industrial Union Councils (CIO).

4. See attached list.

5. Burgundy Farms County Day School, Alexandria, Va.; Catholic Parochial schools in Fort Smith, Arkansas, St. Louis, Missouri, Washington, D. C., Wilmington, Delaware, Elkton, Maryland, Salisbury, Maryland.

The only public ones I know of a certainty are those at Hockessin, Delaware and Arden Delaware.

I have been told that the public High School at Fayetteville, Arkansas intended to admit, this fall, the six Negro high school children residents in the town, but I do not know whether they have admitted them or not. Last year they hauled the seven Negro high school children forty odd miles each week over the hump of the Ozark Mts. to a Negro high school at Fort Smith and boarded several of them therefor the weekdays.

It is rumored that in some other Ozark mountain county in Arkansas, one or more Negro children are attending public, otherwise-white schools, but I have no means of varifying the rumor.

I strongly suppose that in some counties in Western Texas Negro children are attending other-wise white schools, but I have no proof.

I see that in answering number five I have answered as best I could number six.

We are anxious to be just as helpful to you as we can and will gladly send you what we can get toward answering similar questions.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell,

What we have done recently are the enclosed two pamphlets.

We are trying very hard these used by local discussion groups. Wherever even a small number of people come together and explore the issue and then find the facts, the chances are that that group will influence public opinion in the community when the Court gives its decision.

So far, we have not been able to turn up much actual information. However, I am searching through the audit reports for the state of Georgia. Information there, however, is quite brief. Dear Mr. Constable:

Thanks for your letter of September 22, concerning information on the question of the costs incurred by Southern states and political subdivisions in the civil rights cases. I agree that this would be more than worthwhile in the present struggle. However, I doubt that the information is available. I have checked our files and find nothing which will help. The only thing I remember more concrete in fashion is that South Carolina paid approximately $55,000. on its primary cases. On checking the files I do not find anything in writing to support this fact.

I am sorry that I cannot help on this, yet I can assure you that we would like very much to see it done.

Sincerely,

Thurgood Marshall

Dear Mr. Marshall:

In the Texas Observer for August 30, 1955, we find the following news script, "The Week in Texas", page 8.

> An independent Houston theater owner has already been awarded $20,000 damages from twelve major motion picture companies, is now charging in the courts that the companies refused to furnish him with first-run movies.

My question is, how does this apply to those Negro petition signers in South Carolina who are being refused services by the Coca Cola and other similar companies?

Best personal regards.

Dear Miss Merritt:

As to Thurgood Marshall. I have had dealings with him on matters of law and policy in government agencies since 1940. It so happens that in personal and social relationships our paths have crossed infrequently and I am not a particularly good source of information as to the more private side of his character. But on the public side I offer high testimonial.

The upward thrust of the Negro movement in the United States long ago and everyday again now had and has the choice of using angry and sometimes violent pressure tactics (the kind of thing which in Colonial countries has resulted in assassination, sabotage, rebellion, etc.); or of constantly asking for full enforcement of the Constitution of the United States. It sought the second. And Thurgood Marshall has been the principal instrument of this most praiseworthy effort.

It has been his brains that have steered this whole effort of the NAACP to press segregation against the Constitution of the United States and to have the Constitution triumph.

The United States of America should thank its lucky stars that the Negro movement has pursued this channel and with this man.

In my every contact with him I have found him gentlemanly.

Sincerely,

Gentlemen:

Our Conference has been asked to prepare a character report on Thurgood Marshall, 48, who states he was born and reared in Baltimore, received his LL.B. from Howard University in 1932, and practiced law in Baltimore until 1936. Since October 1936 he has been with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, as a special counsel to 1940 and thereafter as director-counsel of the Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Incorporated. We believe he has had his office in New York City since the fall of 1936. He now wishes admission to the bar of New York.

FBR - are you willing draft a reply to Miss Merritt?

Do you know Mr. Marshall? If so, we wish any information you may be able to furnish which will aid in determining his moral character, professional reputation, and the nature and extent of his legal experience with the NAACP, and any facts which may have a bearing upon his fitness for the practice of law.

All data will be for the confidential use of the NewYork admitting authority, and your early reply will be much appreciated.

Yours sincerely,

Marjorie Merritt

I appreciate your kind letter of October 28. I am delighted to have a copy of "The Negro Voter in the South" by Margaret Price and other related materials.

I have a very special mailing list of approximately 600 persons. I am wondering about the possibility of placing a copy of "The Negro Voter in the South" in the hands of each one of these persons. Would your office be interested in sending a circular or advertising matter concerning this publication to the persons whose names are on the list in my office? If so, I can provide you with such list. "The Negro Voter in the South" contains information which should be useful to persons who are interested in improving racial and economic conditions in the South.

Please know that I will be delighted to receive regularly from your office your monthly publication - The New South. In addition, send other materials which you think will be helpful to me.

Dear Thurgood:

I tried to call you today but you were out of the office, and my trying to reach you at home was also unsuccessful. I did talk with Jack Greenberg, however.

The purpose of my call was to discuss with you the proposals which Christopher Mercer will bring to you from Little Rock. The proposal is to seek court injunction naming specific white students enjoining them from harassing Negro students at Central High.

The Chairman of our state group, the Rev. Colbert Cartwright, and the Executive Director, Nat Griswold, both feel this would be a helpful move. They feel though it would have some impact in the community it would take the initiative away from the pro-segregation groups and throw it back to those seeking compliance with the court decision.

Chris Mercer, who is now NAACP field representative in Arkansas, is the former Associate Director of the Arkansas Council on Human Relations, our state affiliate. It is my understanding that he is en route to New York to see you and apparently would not be coming had he not made an appointment. It is my understanding he will be there the morning of February 13th.

Continued . . .

Mr. Thurgood Marshall February 12, 1958

There is some feeling on the part of our people out there that the school administration may use the disciplinary question to oust the Negro children from the school and ask the court for a delay in compliance. This would play directly into the hands of the segregationist element in the State Legislature. They would then take legislative steps to delay further desegregation in Little Rock.

We have heard, off the record, that the parents of Minnie Jean have been asked to withdraw her voluntarily from the school to assist in maintaining discipline. We think this would be most unwise and would only encourage the unlawful element among the whites in the school.

I am no legal authority so don't know if the proposals Chris Mercer will make are possible. But as a person with some community organization experience I believe, on the basis of the information now at hand, that such action would be constructive and desirable.

Warm personal regards.

Dear Harold:

As you may know I have been writing a study of law and race relations under the auspices of the Columbia University Council for Research on Social Sciences which is administering a grant of the Fund for the Republic. The study is virtually completed and is now being edited and manicured. Although it is a legal study I have felt that I cannot treat law in a vacuum apart from the facts of what is going on in society and so I have incorporated into it a substantial amount of factual materials drawn from newspaper clippings, letters of inquiry and other sources. I realize, however, that such materials often tend to give an incomplete picture and often may be misleading.

I wonder, therefore, whether you could do me the enormous favor of reading the manuscript with a view to making suggestions about the non-legal - and indeed to the extent that you would like - the legal materials. On the basis of these suggestions I would then, of course, make necessary revisions.

I could send you a copy of the manuscript immediately and come to Atlanta within a couple of weeks to consult with you on it should you be able to undertake this - to me - important task.

With every good wish.

Very truly yours,

Jack Greenberg

Dear Jack:

It's about time I acknowledge receipt of your manuscript. I have read about half of it and am impressed by the comprehensiveness of your research and the sound interpretation that you have brought to the facts. I hope to finish it fairly soon.

At this point, it seems unlikely to me that my suggestions will be sufficiently basic ar numerous to warrant your making the trip to Atlanta solely for the purpose of the conference. I must be in New York for a meeting on July 18, and there is a fair chance that I could arrive on the 17 in time for us to discuss the manuscript, if that timing will be convenient for you. The only trouble is that I probably won't know for sure about my arrival until a day or two before. If you will send me the phone number where you can be reached the week beginning July 14, I will call you before leaving Atlanta. If we don't meet in New York, I believe I could give you my comments satisfactorily in writing.

Dear Harold:

I am sorry that I have not yet formally thanked you for your kind helpfulness in connection with the book I am preparing. I thought this would be a suitable occasion to do so because I have also, I assume through your kindness, received a copy of James Dabbs' book which I have almost finished.

I thought you might be interested in what is my, perhaps, curious reaction to it. Of course, I agree with almost all of what he says, but I imagine that it is indisputably book by a southerner for southerners because my continuous reaction as I read it is: "What's all the argument about?" The argument from the Old Testament is perhaps an extreme case in point. I know that people do argue from this premise and I know that the argument must be met and Dabbs, of course, meets it on all possible levels; but as I read it I look at the pages in bewilderment.

At any rate,many thanks and I look forward to seeing you sometime soon.

Dear Mr. Davis:

My apologies for this delay in replying to your letter of October 24, but I wanted to be as certain as possible of my facts before writing.

We were virtually certain from the outset that there is no integration, either of pupils or teachers, in the parochial schools of Georgia. The results of our further inquiries support this negative conclusion.

While the Catholics have pioneered in integration in various parts of the South, they have so far done little in Georgia.

I should not have been so cautious about writing you if it were not for the current tendency, as you no doubt know, to make such changes as quietly and confidentially as possible.

Dear Friend:

Martin Luther King, Jr. is at this writing in jail.

Albany, Georgia's Mayor, Asa D. Kelley and Police Chief Laurie Pritchett have filled the jails of their city and surrounding towns with sober men and women who chose peaceful public protest as the only way to make their voices heard. 1067 had been arrested by July 30th.

In this tragic situation, the wonder is that Albany's tortured Negro citizens have stood firm in their faith in the orderly processes of the law in our country.

Jailed when they seek "redress of grievances", a right guaranteed by the Constitutions of their State and Nation, Martin Luther King, Jr. and his colleagues put their reliance in the courts to vindicate their rights as equal citizens in the world's leading democracy.

The N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund is defending Dr. King and every other Negro who has been unfairly arrested by Albany officials. Our lawyers have filed suit to restrain the city government from abandoning constitutional government.

We do not know how great will be the expenses of litigation in behalf of hundreds of our fellow citizens driven to peaceful mass protest by Mayor Kelley and his administration. But we do know that our country's precious heritage is in danger as long as democracy is abandoned in one of our states. Please help with your contribution.

Sincerely yours,

Harry Emerson Fosdick

Dear Mr. Chalmers:

I have been inexcusably slow in responding to your kind invitation of October 8 to attend the Capahosic meeting of the Joint Consultative Council. I wanted very much to be able to accept, and have held your letter hoping that certain problems in my schedule could be worked out. I am afraid that this will not be possible, and at any rate, I should not longer delay in letting you know.

Much as I would like to come and need to enter into discussion with your invitees, I will not be able to do so on the dates selected.

I hope that you will extend me an invitation another time.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar

Dear Mr. Dunbar:

Some of us with responsibility in the civil rights efforts got together nearly three years ago in an informal group of top executives of what are popularly thought of as the Negro organizations. Roy Wilkins, Jim Farmer, Martin King, Oscar Lee, Jim Forman, Whitney Young, plus Jean Fairfax of the American Friends Service Committee, Glenn Smiley of F.O.R., Bill Oliver for Labor and Frank Graham for the U. N. are involved. We have met every couple of months or so as a Joint Consultative Council, with Fred Patterson of Phelps-Stokes and myself as co-chairmen.

We have felt the need of having extended discussion in depth over a forty-hour period and had one such conference last year at the Episcopal Center in Greenwich, Conn. We feel the need now for an enlarged group discussion in which we have planned far enough ahead for schedules on November 29th and 30th. The place will be the Phelps-Stokes Conference Center in Capahosic, Virginia, and we shall be their guests for the conference.

You are one of ten extra people we are inviting to take part in this discussion. It will be unprogrammed but with Negro unity (particularly in the grass roots), Negro-white communication methods, and the follow-up and implementation of coordinated programs as central to our search.

We want you there as a person (not as an organizational representative) because in our consultation on plans, we felt that you have much to contribute.

Can you come?

Time: Friday, November 29 (Supper)
Saturday, November 30

Place: Conference Center
Capahosic, Virginia

Contributions are deductible for U. S. income tax purposes

If you can accept, I will send you further details later; but we want now to find out if it's possible for our selected group of added guests to come.

I can only add that both officially and personally I would be delighted if you can plan to be with us for this important discussion.

Sincerely,

Allan Chalmers

Dear Leslie:

We shall miss you at the conference, but you'll be glad to know that Harold Fleming is planning to come so that he can represent the general field in which you are so much concerned. The conference has great possibilities in it of the original list of 27 that we asked accepting almost in full. We had only 2 that had to decline for reason of schedule conflicts, and of the 27 23 so far have positively accepted. We had intended to keep the number at 25 or below, so that actually we are very full up. I will report to you in other ways some of the things that happened.

We are mainly concerned with an effective grass roots program, which none of us feel is being adequately pushed at this time. I was recently in Washington talking with people, both in the voluntary associations and in the Government itself on this important matter.

Looking forward to seeing you in the not-too-distant future.

Dear Jack:

We thought it best to make a preliminary check, to see if there were likely ore to mine. A letter we sent out tried to make clear that Macon and Gerard were not on all squares with each other, but as you will see from the replies this did not altogether get across. Not all of our addressees have replied, but enough have to give you a picture. Paul Johnston of Birmingham telephoned his answer, which was negative.

I am sending you copies of the replies, because they suggest to me that there is probably not enough to go on to embark on an SRC report, at least not a quick one. On the other hand, one or two places might be investigated carefully, and if the situation warranted documentary evidence obtained; e.g. Tampa and Durham.

At any rate, we'll be glad to do more on this at your suggestion. And if more information turns up, I'll be in touch.

Sincerely,

Leslie W. Dunbar

Dear Jean:

At the conclusion of the Interagency Conference today it was agreed that the Steering Committee would meet prior to the next meeting of SIC in March. The purpose of the meeting would be to determine whether or not the group continues and if so, for what purposes and under what format.

Oscar McLeod suggested that perhaps you could alert us to a time when you will be in Atlanta so that we could hold the meeting when you are available. I understand that you will be here next week. I will be in town on Tuesday, and if you are here then I would appreciate a call from you, if you have time.

Would it be possible for you to attend an off-the-record conference in our office here with Helen Hiett Waller who is in charge of the annual Herald Tribune Forum on Thursday, June 10 at 11:00 A.M? I do hope you can.

Mrs. Waller came to see me today about a most exciting and valuable idea. She and the others responsible for the annual Herald Tribune Forum are planning to devote part of this year's discussion to the affirmative approach of racial integration in education instead of the negative one of desegregation. As a part of the program Mrs. Waller is thinking of a closed session of selective representatives of about 100 of the top organizations of the United States. She wants to discuss and to get the benefit of the ideas and criticisms of a few of the top experts in the field. Will you let me know by return Airmail if it will be possible for you to join us.

The closed session will be on Monday, October 18.

Ever sincerely,

Dear Mr. Offutt:

Apologies for being Augusty in answering your helpful letter of August 5.

The Manual (Cooperative Work in Race Relations) is a good job, giving practically all the suggestions that would be useful to a local group. Whatever committees get set up will go battling off on their own, but it would be well for some on the Committee to have read the pamphlet, and to have made mental notes from it of useful things they could and should do.

The next big job in the South is to get just such local groups a'going, among Church people, about schools.

Come to see us if you are in Atlanta, and call on us for any help we can ever give you in the New York job. And don't forget to get word to Mr. Jackson in Chicago that we need and wish his help.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

It was certainly a pleasure to have had an opportunity to meet and talk with you in Atlanta. Since our first meeting, I have heard your name mentioned in a number of discussions pertaining to better race relations in the South and your illustrious father, who is a churchman.

With this being the case, it is not difficult to understand your knowledge of the importance of proper church-community relations in any program for community betterment. My session on "The Role of the Church in Implementing the Supreme Court's Decision" was quite interesting, but not as productive as I would have liked to have seen it.

Since returning from the convention, I have had many inquiries from interested ministers in the South, requesting information on what the church can do in the implementation program. I have sent them the enclosed copy of "A MANUAL FOR COOPERATIVE WORK IN RACE RELATIONS", which is one of a series of pamphlets put out by the Department of Race Relations of the former Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Will you let me know what you think of this pamphlet as an outline of suggestions and activities that might be used in connection with an implementation program for city, county, and state groups.

As I told you in Dallas, I am leaving on September 15 to fill the position of Associate Director to the Manhattan Division of the Protestant Council of Churches. Nevertheless, I want you to feel free to call on me for any assistance that I might be able to give in the great work that you are doing, and allow me the privilege of doing likewise. There is so much work to be done in this area with so few to do it.

With best wishes, I am

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

This letter will serve to confirm your speaking engagement with the Youth and College Division of the NAACP at our National Youth Legislative Conference on Friday evening, February 4th at 8:00 P. M. The meeting will be held at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, 1225 R Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. If you arrive in the city during the day, our sessions will be going on at American University, 4500 Massachusetts Avenue, N. W., Washington.

The Conference has as its theme "Youth and the Challenge of Integration", and will bring together approximately 1500 Negro and white high school and college students as well as young adults from almost every state in the Union.

The objective of the Conference is to arouse the interest of young persons in the role which they can play in helping to bring about an end to racial discrimination and segregation, not only in the public schools, but in all other areas of endeavor.

We would like for you to make a 15 - 20 minute presentation on some phase of this Conference theme that will be applicable to our young people. Roy Wilkins of our staff will also be on the program with you. At the conclusion of the speeches, we will have a question and answer session from the youth and college representatives in the audience, as well as those adults from the local communities who might be present.

The Association will take care of all of your expenses incidental to this trip. Please let me know if you will require your expense money in advance of your coming to Washington and if so, what amount will you need?

Your Holiness, Pope Pius XII
Vatican City
Rome
Italy

Your Holiness:

It was a great pleasure to read in the New York Times and other American papers of the magnificent stand which the Vatican has taken with respect to racial discrimination as evidenced by the refusal of some Roman Catholics in Louisiana to permit a Negro priest to conduct mass.

Speaking for myself personally and on behalf of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, I wish to express our appreciation for the leadership you have given in efforts to eradicate racial discrimination in the Christian church. My conference with you in January, 1952, convinced me of your sincerity and of your dedication to the utter destruction of racist practices and ideologies. As a result, the Roman Catholic Church in this country has played a vital role in the desegregation of schools and churches under the leadership of such representatives of the church as Bishop Vincent S. Waters of North Carolina, Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of Louisiana, Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of Chicago, and others.

To those of us who have long been engaged in this struggle, the support of the Vatican is most heartening, for when the head of the Roman Catholic Church speaks out the Christian community the world over cannot remain indifferent.

As a Protestant clergyman who has felt it his Christian obligation to combat racial segregation in all its forms, I am happy to felicitate you upon the great contribution the Vatican is making to this Christian cause.

Most sincerely yours,

Channing H. Tobias

Dear Friend:

Our hearts are heavy as we read of lawlessness and violence in Little Rock. At issue is the future of all our children, white and Negro, and the future of our nation that has chosen justice and equality as its goals. What has happened to our young people that they gang up a hundred strong against defenseless youngsters who only seek a chance for education? We grieve for grown men and women who have led their children in mean and brutal acts.

In spite of these outrages, perhaps because of them, I believe we are coming closer to our goal. Only a small group of Americans have taken part in the fearful events of the past weeks. Yet every one of us shares responsibility for the wave of hate that demeans our country. Unless we act to secure an equal right to education for every American child, a minority of embittered, ruthless men will be the voice of America.

You can help by sending your gift to the "Committee of 100" for the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund. Our attorneys have represented the school children of Little Rock as they have Negro children in scores of other communities throughout the South. In the democratic way, through the orderly processes of the courts, this organization seeks to gain for every child the full educational benefits which have been promised him by our Constitution and reaffirmed by the Supreme Court.

Our goal can and must be achieved. More than 700 school districts in the South have been integrated in three years. In less than twenty has violence marred the acceptance by white children of their Negro classmates. To combat through legal means the minority of lawless individuals who bar school doors to American youngsters, the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund needs your financial support.

As the New York Times has said the "heaviest battalions" are on the side of decency and justice. Your tax exempt gift will strengthen these battalions. Please help today.

Sincerely yours,

Allan Knight Chalmers

RICHARD RICHARDSON and HAROLD SMITH, both seventeen, two of six Negro boys turned away from North Little Rock High School by a crowd of white students on September 9th. The school administration had ordered integration and reversed the order after Governor Orval Faubus had called out the National Guard, preventing integration in nearby Little Rock.

Last night Elizabeth Eckford, fifteen, sat in her home on the southwestern fringe of Little Rock, her mother, sisters and brothers nearby in the sparsely furnished living room, and told how she walked the longest block of her life that morning.

"At first I wasn't afraid," Elizabeth said. "I came to the school corner and asked the guard what time it was. He said 'Six minutes to eight' and told me to cross the street." She did, then veered back toward the line of Guardsmen along the curbing directly in front of the school entrance. The Guards closed ranks and Elizabeth walked wordlessly away, pursued by whining chants of "Don't let her in" coming from a motley group of white schoolgirls, a few curious adults and a score of newsmen and photographers.

"I was afraid then because somebody right behind me said: 'Push her'," Elizabeth recalled. "They didn't touch me but I thought they might." All along the double block of Park Avenue in front of the school she had said nothing but "No comment." At the end of her brisk, dignified walk she sat down on a curbstone bench to wait for a bus home. "I was afraid I'd bust out crying and I didn't want to in front of all that crowd." She didn't.

Elizabeth was the first of the nine to appear. The others arrived about twenty minutes later. All were turned away on orders from Governor Faubus.

"I knew this was a major decision, that going over there wouldn't be easy," Elizabeth said. "I remembered my pastor once saying you should take advantage of every opportunity. And I believe in being independent. I don't like to wait for somebody else."

Elizabeth, who intends to be a lawyer, bolstered her courage the night before her big walk by reading Psalms, including the 27th, which begins: "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I fear?"

Asked if she had ever been afraid before, Elizabeth replied: "I often get scared in class. I volunteer to recite or answer something and then when I'm standing up with every one looking at me I wonder why in the world I ever volunteered. But I keep on doing it."

Her father is a "railroad man," specializing in dining cars. Her mother, besides rearing six children, works in a laundry and takes correspondence courses in psychology and English literature. If Elizabeth isn't admitted to Central soon, her mother plans to buy her some study books, lest she get behind. "I'm not going back to Horace Mann," Elizabeth said softly, but very firmly.

THE HEAVIEST BATTALIONS

It has been said that God is on the side of the heaviest battalions. The sentiment has been ascribed to Napoleon, who certainly acted upon it. Previously it had been discussed by Voltaire, who did not altogether sympathize with it. It comes to mind as our attention is called to the Central High School of Little Rock, Ark., surrounded by a cordon of National Guardsmen in order to prevent nine Negro students from entering in accordance with the order of a Federal court.

These militiamen, dressed in Federal uniforms and carrying rifles toward which every taxpayer in the United States has contributed at least a fraction of a cent, were successful. They kept the nine Negro students out. They kept out Elizabeth Eckford, 15 years old, a scared little Negro girl who nevertheless had the supreme courage to walk through a jeering crowd to ask for rights that were hers by virtue of a decision of the United States Supreme Court.

Where the militia left off the crowd took over. One humane and civilized voice was heard, that of a white woman, Mrs. Grace Lorch, who crossed over to the bench where Elizabeth Eckford was waiting for a bus and tried to comfort her. Mrs. Lorch spoke back: "She's scared," she protested. "She's just a little girl. Six months from now you'll be ashamed at what you're doing."

In Charlotte, N. C., another Negro girl, Dorothy Counts, the daughter of a clergyman, walked into the Harding High School through another jeering crowd of juvenile delinquents, and this time with no bayoneted riflemen to keep her out. In the school auditorium she took an end seat in a vacant row and our story tells that "a blond white girl sitting in front of Dorothy turned round, smiled and asked her what courses she was taking."

Stories different in their details but touching the same issue come from Sturgis, Ky., and Dallas, Tex. We cannot think of such methods of opposing a court order as characteristic of the America we have been brought up to love. The militia in front of the Central High School in Little Rock and those guarding the Executive Mansion where Governor Faubus of Arkansas seemed to be standing siege against non-existent Federal marshals — these are not the United States of the Declaration, of the Bill of Rights or of the Gettysburg Address. Some day the people of Arkansas, North Carolina, Kentucky, Texas, Georgia and other states north and south of the line will recognize the quality of heroism in such persons as Elizabeth Eckford and Dorothy Counts.

It is difficult to change long-established folkways. Most sensible Northerners realize this and, as we firmly believe, most public-spirited Southerners of both races are doing their best to make the transition possible and peaceable. Inquiry will probably show in many cases that much of the trouble has been caused by foolish and vicious organizations, often coming in from the outside to stir up communities that had been at peace.

What all should recognize is the simple fact that the Supreme Court did not order and cannot order people who don't like each other, of whatever race they may be, to be on calling terms. What the court did order, and the ideal toward which we must move, is equal opportunity under law. In the end we believe the heaviest battalions will be those unarmed persons and forces that move toward justice.

DOROTHY COUNTS, 15 year-old daughter of a Charlotte, N. C. clergyman, entering the Harding High School with a family friend on September 4th, the first Negro student to be admitted under court order. A week later Dorothy withdrew, after a piece of tin thrown at her struck her on the head. Dorothy said: "They never came in front of me. They always stood in back. If I turned around there were 20 or 30 of them . . . I think it will be easier for other Negroes to go to Harding some day, because I did go . . . even if I didn't go back . . . I have to walk by myself. There's nobody to walk with me."

WE STRUGGLE THROUGH CONSTITUTIONAL MEANS FOR EQUAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY FOR EVERY NEGRO CHILD

The courageous teenagers in today's news were little children in 1950, when the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund filed the first suit for equal education in behalf of 45 Negro school children in Clarendon County, South Carolina. After four years of court action the Supreme Court, on May 17, 1954, ruled that segregation in public schools had no place in American life.

The parents of these girls and boys were among the many who rejoiced then that their children would have the chance to fulfill, through education, the greatest potential that was in them.

An integrated class in a Louisville, Kentucky Junior High School

MORE SUCCESS HAS COME THAN PEOPLE REALIZE

742 school districts have already been desegregated of a total of 3003 previously segregated by law. 347,000 Negro children now attend school in integrated districts. The N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund has since 1954 acted in law suits representing school children in 76 communities. Through the orderly processes of the courts, attorneys of the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund will continue to fight for the constitutional rights of Richard Richardson, Harold Smith, Elizabeth Eckford, Dorothy Counts and all other American children who have been denied an equal education because their skins are brown.

The "Committee of 100" is privileged to provide for the N.A.A.C.P. Legal Defense and Educational Fund, funds needed for essential legal expenses. Hundreds of suits will have to be filed in behalf of disadvantaged Negro children. Costs in a single case have run as high as $17,000.

YOU MAY HELP to secure equal educational opportunity for every Negro child by sending your tax exempt contribution.

Dear Mr. Fleming:

On April 29-30, 1959, the Southeast Region of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will sponsor a South-wide Conference of Religious Leaders on the campus of Morehouse College, Atlanta, Georgia.

The Conference will emphasize the moral elements in the desegregation enterprise. An attempt will also be made to survey methods of establishing interracial lines of communication between organized religious groups as one resource for creating a climate of acceptance for integration.

The Planning Committee is particularly concerned about securing representatives from Human Relations and Social Action Agencies such as yours to share the Conference activities and serve in a consultative capacity. We need not remind you of how much this type of enterprise is necessary during this challenging period in the area of race relations in the South.

I would like to emphasize the fact that the mere presence of a representative from your agency will give moral support to the enterprise. In addition, this representative could make available to the Conference the fruits of your groups practical experience in intergroup relations.

Enclosed is a form on which we are requesting you to list certain data regarding Conference participation. We will be happy to keep you informed on matters related to the approaching Conference.

Best wishes for the continued success of your constructive endeavors.

Yours truly,

Edward J. Odom, Jr.

Dear Harold:

Mr. Charles Humana, a British free-lance writer, who comes very well recommended, plans a southern tour during the month of April. If he gets in touch with you, I would appreciate your helping him get as much of a balanced picture of things as he can. He is fully aware of the limitations of his mission and of the facts of life where your own time and commitments are concerned.

Many thanks.

LIFT EV'RY VOICE AND SING

Lift ev'ry voice and sing
Till earth and heaven ring
Ring with the harmonies of Liberty;
Let our rejoicing rise
High as the list'ning skies,
Let it resound loud as the rolling sea.
Sing a song full of the faith that the dark past has taught us,
Sing a song full of the hope that the present has brought us.
Facing the rising sun of our new day begun,
Let us march on till victory is won.

Stony the road we trod,
Bitter the chast'ning rod,
Felt in the days when hope unborn had died;
Yet with a steady beat,
Have not our weary feet
Come to the place for which our fathers sighed?
We have come over a way that with tears has been watered,
We have come, treading our path thru the blood of the slaughtered,
Out from the gloomy past,
Till now we stand at last
Where the white gleam of our bright star is cast.

God of our weary years,
God of our silent tears,
Thou who has brought us thus far on the way;
Thou who has by Thy might
Led us into the light.
Keep us forever in the path, we pray.
Lest our feet stray from the places, our God, where we met Thee,
Lest, our hearts drunk with the wine of the world, we forget Thee,
Shadowed beneath Thy hand,
May we forever stand.
True to our God
True to our native land.

Feb. 13, 1953.

Dear Walter:

...

My swift reaction was that you had a swell idea on an advance, and sub rosa, conference of public relations personnel to help on the reaction to the court decisions. But on second thought it also struck me rather forcefully that the dear old South doesn't have the really integrated public relations picture that prevails up East, and in which high-minded people get together for the commonweal and pool the skills to do a job that has to be done in these times of crisis and world impingement. I'm so afraid that there is no solid integration of public relations operations in this region, and that whatever you could put together for conference and planning would find that the court decisions, if they uphold the plaintiffs all the way, would, in the southern sense, act like the centrifugal force experiment we used to do in school laboratories, and the varying pressures and problems in each section of the south would result in each public relations group flying off like segments thrown away from the core of the centrifugal force. I can see them weasel-wording all over the place when the politicians waved the bloody shirt and threatened to smear them before the folks at home. Some would scare and some wouldn't, all would have their separate points of no return. I cite that as a point to keep in mind; I think you could get a conference together; but I do urge that you show much wisdom and forbearance with the weak links along the line, recognize that each link would have just so much strength before it folded up under the strain or threat peculiar to its particular setting. Which brings us to whom to invite; I think of the Southern Regional Council, with Dr. George Mitchell, director, and Harold Fleming, information man; of the Southern Regional Education Board, with Dr. John Ivey at the head, which by now has put together some terrific cement with not only school men and public school leaders and groups in the South, but also outstanding school leaders all over the country, which, in turn, means inside channels and connections for swift work when it is needed (but then of course the regional education board has an albatross in the southern governors it must deal with to keep the fiscal doors open, and just how far they can go is a real problem, but many of their people are mighty fine people, Walter;) then there are parent-teacher groups in some key communities, say, like a Durham, N.C., where the understanding is broad and wise and practical and even experienced (your organization would know just who to deal with on that level, and I'm sure it wouldn't go beyond a few key, progressive communities, nothing on a state-wide level in the South; there is Jim Dombrowski's Southern Education Fund outfit in New Orleans (I think Jim and Aubrey Williams are great guys, but maybe they could be a little too "swift" for an exploratory conference, where you would be learning your links of strength and weakness; and yet can NAACP brush off Williams and Dombrowski -- you know best how to handle that). Then there are Negro spokesmen, Dr. Johnson at Fisk and Dr. Patterson at Tuskegee, who know how to approach a lot of southern legislators and state officials and give sage counsel in time of crisis; I don't know what the hell you so about newspapers, they just don't stand up on some of those things in personal participation, but they will in the main give it plenty of editorial support when the program is worked out as you have envisioned it; perhaps the best bet on them is to call in some key editorial figures like a Ralph McGill and Mark Ethridge and Hodding Carter, varying shades, but even so they could help influence a lot of newsmen into trying to do the right thing. Other than that, Walter, what the hell do we have in the South except bushwah publicity men with the growing industrialization patter and Eisenhower-Democrats who just lucked into a successful deal. You don't have the professional approach that is minus the skeletons in the closet the south has to live with from day to day. I say within that framework you might get the exploratory work done. Workshop discussions would be good for the agenda, but don't forget the South always has a crying need for leadership in such matters, so perhaps above all you would need a personality or two to cut through the morass of honey-dripping double-talk you are likely to get in discussion groups, someone who can make a sound synthesis of the whole problem and spark some of the brighter ones to seek out the answers as long as they hold their link in the chain against the bombardment of the white supremist at home. Maybe, Walter, that would call for a southern political figure to do some talking about it to the groups, whose very presence might do some sparking of resolve by all hands. It'd have to be home folks to sell it, as you know. For instance Brooks Hays, to give the Scriptural overtones and plead with the ones from the deeper South to seek some light on the matter; Estes Kefauver, to give it a more sophisticated pitch for the citified folk; Frank Graham to sppeal to the old school teacher crowd and touch on the Preshyterian social conscience. Walter, I throw at your desk all those possibilities, people to round up, ideas to keep in mind as to group strength and intentions, personalities that might serve to tie up the loose ends for all the disparate groups and give a general synthesis of the problem for the special needs of the southern mind. It could help, Walter, if done without publicity at the exploratory stage.

In closing, let me also say that I have in my mind a feeling that it is also very likely that this Supreme Court decision will come with such a bang that a state of shock will result with nothing being done other than fast quotes gathered by newspapermen from political figures like Byrnes and Talmadge, which won't really mean a thing at that particular moment. It could be that the NAACP could link with some educators groups, say, move swiftly into the facuum and initiate your program in an atmosphere in which the most intransigent and the most race-minded would turn for the moment for help and counsel, or in which a bewildered man-in-the-street would tell the politician to shut up and try to work out something decent and fair with your group. What I mean is that if you don't prepare too obviously in advance, or don't prepare at all, you might just avoid that southern truculence which might attend some early exploratory meeting, and you might find your best bet is to come roaring in when the shock has a lot of people off guard and looking for a friend. That's just one of those southern twists that you know as well as anyone do exist in the white mind. They are much easier swept off their feet emotionally than they are appealed to in reason in many instances. It's a hard one to come up with a definitive answer, Walter. I sure hope it works out for the best for all hands, and I think its smart and fine for you to see it in this light, but I can't be of much help because I have to sit here and think about it alone, I can't sit down with a group and refine the idea with much discussion pro and con, and step by step know that I cam creating the right answer and program and tactic. I just hope I have been of some assistance by merely putting all this down for your deliberation and refinement as you kick it around conversationally with your crowd.

Best regards always

John Popham

Dear Mr. White,

I think the discussion idea is a fine one. There is no question but that a favorable decision on the school case would raise a hell of a lot of problems.

My thought about the meeting, however, is that it would be extremely difficult to hold without your story leaking out probably in distorted form. You know the propensities of your public relations people and your friends in newspaper, radio, and TV to leak something to a friend even if they don't write it themselves. My feeling is your meeting, if held in the south, would just about have to be public unless you called the meeting for some other purpose that could be publicized and discuss the problems you have in mind at a private bull session during or after your meeting.

If you want to get opinions privately, the best way is to travel around and see the people. That would take a lot of your time.

Some I would suggest to be seen or to be met with are: George Chaplin, exec editor New Orleans Item, Ralph McGill, Atlanta Constitution, George McLean, publisher Tupelo, Miss., Journal or Hodding Carter, Dr. Andrew D. Holt, assistant to the president of Univ of Tenn., and president of National Education Association, Harry Ashmore, exec editor, Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock, Mark Ethridge or Barry Bingham, Louisville Courier-Journal, and my own boss, Coleman Harwell, exec editor of the Tennessean. An awful good head to talk to on the matter in Washington is Dick Wallace, Kefauver's secretary, and Vance Johnson, Wash. correspondent for San Francisco Chronicle, who keeps pretty close tabs on his home territory in Texas.

Your should choose the Negroes with an idea of their educational value on the whites. I suggest that you have at least one or two extremely conservative Negroes, whose ideas the whites could protest against as too conservative.

Why couldn't even your initial meeting be open? The very fact such a meeting was held would help to begin preparation of the public's mind.

I am afraid my TVA story has been stricken and by TVA insiders. That makes me wrathy. I am getting more information on the Mayfield, Ky., plant application. Understand they have located tentatively a factory that will use Negro workers.

Sincerely,

/s/ Nat Caldwell

Dear Henry:

I just haven't got the lines to Faulkner that would move him. If I tried it, my approach would be through Hodding Carter, and I don't think that Hodding Carter would want to do it or would do it.

I really know very little about Faulkner. I gravely doubt that he would make a statement really helpful. My guess would be that what he would say would have some twist to it that would take away the benefit of whatever else he would say.

I will remember it and I will take any opportunity that comes along to get him sounded out but if you really want to explore it you had better try it with somebody else nearer to him. He has never shown any interest in us or in really modern solutions.

I hope circumstances will bring me to New York before long and if I come I will hunt for you.

Sincerely yours

Dear George:

I have been toying with an idea which you are in a much better position to implement than I am if it can at all be carried out. It occurs to me that some public statement by William Faulkner indicating the doom of segregation in the South and the need to adjust to a new pattern would be most helpful to our cause.

My impression of Faulkner, derived solely from his books, is that basically he is sympathetic towards the Negro. I know that in his "Intruder in the Dust" he took the traditional position that change cannot be forced from the outside by political pressures. He indicated clearly, however, that he thought the existing patterns were inequitable and that in due time the South would itself lift these restrictions.

In the light of recent indications that the passing of segregation is finding more and more acceptance among southern whites, it may be that Faulkner could be induced to write a magazine article or to make some public expression to the effect that it is time for a change.

Do you think this is possible? I wish you would think it over and let me know if you have approaches to Faulkner through which this idea could be presented. If you think well of the idea, I hope that you will proceed with it.

Henry

Dear George:

I don't know exactly what your plans are for participation in the Thursday morning session of our convention.

If you are preparing a statement, and I think it would be a good idea to do so, I would appreciate receiving an advance copy in order to facilitate press coverage of the session.

Ordinarily we do not ask that speakers at the day sessions submit advance texts. However, because of the importance of the whole issue before us I believe that it would be well for you to have a prepared statement and to let us have it in advance so that we can have it mimeographed and ready for distribution upon delivery to press and radio.

Itwould help us a great deal if you could get it to us by Tuesday, June 29. Send it to me at our convention headquarters, St. John Baptist Church, 2019 Allen Street.

Shall be looking forward to seeing you in Dallas.

Dear George:

I am enclosing copy of a new pamphlet, "It Can Be Done," which we have just published. It deals with the very important problem of public school desegregation. We are sending it out to our branches throughout the country for the information of our members and friends.

It occurs to us that your organization might be interested in obtaining copies for circulation among your membership. We can make the pamphlet available at cost which would be $32.50 per thousand. If larger quantities are wanted, the pamphlet could be issued over the imprimatur of your organization at a slight additional cost.

Please let me know if you are interested in securing copies of this pamphlet for distribution among your membership.

Sincerely,

Henry

If it is now available, or will be in the near future, will you please send us 100 copies and let us know about the cost.

Dear Mr. Moon:

It has been suggested that the Southern Regional Council devote one of its future New South articles to "costs incurred by Southern states and political subdivisions in defending civil rights suits."

Mr. Marion A. Wright, president of the Council, suggests the article. He lists his reasons as (a) the reluctance of nearly everybody to pay attorney fees and (b) the professional jealpusy of attorneys resulting from seeing other members of the bar, usually politicians, pick up easy money out of the public trough.

As Mr. Wright sees it, the article would include the names of attorneys, both private and public, representing defendants in such cases.

Mr. Wright sees the proposal as an excellent chance for cooperation between the NAACP and the Southern Regional Council.

I would appreciate it if you will write me your views on the matter concerning the usefulness of such an article and just how difficult you deem it will be to gather such information as would be needed for such an article. It would seem, as Mr. Wright suggests, that your organization would come nearer having such material on hand than any other organization.

Please let me know your thoughts on the matter.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Constable:

Allow me to acknowledge your letter of August 29 which I found upon my return from vacation last week.

I think your idea for an article on "costs incurred by southern states and political subdivisions in defending civil rights suits" is an excellent one, particularly if the futility of such suits is pointed out. In recent years these suits have served merely to delay inevitable desegregation action. The proposals now being put forth in the South of spending huge funds to defend these cases is the worst sort of extravagance and should be exposed.

I think that for information as to names and addresses of attorneys you will have to write to Mr. Thurgood Marshall, our special counsel, and make that request of him.

Please keep me informed on developments in this area.

Dear Henry:

Here we come again.

We want to run something in New South that our people can use effectively to properly represent the NAACP to their brain washed fellow southerners. I recall hearing about a transcript of a broadcast interview between Roy Wilkins and the man Debnam of North Carolina. Would this transcript and authorization to excerpt it be available from you? If not, have you any comparable "live" material that we might use?

Of course, we could simply do a straight factual piece on the NAACP, but I believe the kind of give and take represented by the broadcast would be more effective.

Sorry to bother you about this at such a busy time, but you are the guy that can help us.

I hope I don't have to wait for another Aaronsburg Meeting to see you again.

Dear Henry:

Here are several copies of our release on Negro registration in the South. I think the Times story followed the release pretty closely.

This merely represents such overall figures as we were able to skim off the various state reports we have received. We are working on a much more detailed analysis which will give (I hope) a much clearer understanding of the status of Negro voters today. You can be sure that when the full analysis is completed, you will be one of the first to receive it.

Unfortunately, we weren't able to get very much that bears on the question of civil rights violations. In Mississippi we weren't able to get any appreciable findings at all. But I think that the general results of our survey will help a good deal to up-date what is known about registration and, to some extent, discrimination.

Best regards.

Four-day Observance

The Philadelphia NAACP held a four-day celebration beginning on May 15 and highlighted by an open-air rally in Independence Square on May 17. NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins told the rally that the Association intends to continue unabated its fight for school desegregation and other civil rights utilizing every legal means at its command. Other speakers included Judge William H. Hastie, Raymond Pace Alexander, Bishop Edgar A. Love, Rev. Leon Sullivan and Lenerte Roberts.

The four-day program also included a music spectacular, under the direction of Dr. Eugene Wayman Jones, featuring Miss Camilla Williams of the Vienna State Opera and Earl Hyman of the American Shakespeare Festival.

Largest and most publicized of the celebrations was the outdoor rally in New York City which attracted 5,000 persons who heard addresses by Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Jr.; Manhattan Borough President Hulan Jack; Russell Crawford, president of the New York City NAACP branch; Dr. John A. Davis, member, New York State Commission Against Discrimination; and Jawn Sandifer, chairman, legal redress committee of the New York State Conference of NAACP branches.

Motley, assistant special counsel, NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Memphis; Medgar Evers, NAACP field secretary for Mississippi, Milwaukee; Madison S. Jones, NAACP special assistant for housing, Lansing.

CLARENCE MITCHELL CITED FOR LEADERSHIP IN CIVIL RIGHTS

May 22, 1958

BALTIMORE, May 22.--In recognition of his "outstanding leadership in the field of civil rights," Clarence Mitchell, director of the NAACP Washington bureau, has been honored by the Maryland State Conference of NAACP branches.

Presentation of a plaque hailing Mr. Mitchell's service was made by Carl Murphy, publisher of the Afro-American Newspapers, at a luncheon here on May 17 in observance of the fourth anniversary of the United States Supreme Court's decision banning segregation in public education.

Also cited for consistent support of the Civil Rights Act of 1957 were four Maryland members of Congress who had voted for the bill and against all crippling amendments. The awards were made to Senator J. Glenn Beall, Republican; and to Representatives George H. Fallon, Edward A. Garmatz and Samuel N. Friedel, all Democrats.

FOR RELEASE SATURDAY P.M. PAPERS, MAY 24, 1958:

CONFERENCE SEEKS TO END BIAS IN TECHNICAL JOBS

PITTSBURGH, May 24.--An urgent need today "is to make possible the full realization of the individual Negro's talents and abilities in terms of industrial and engineering skills," Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary, asserts in an address prepared for delivery here today at an NAACP-sponsored conference at the University of Pittsburgh.

The conference, one of a series organized by the NAACP national office in conjunction with local branches, seeks to secure the admission of Negroes into apprenticeship training programs, to obtain more effective vocational guidance counseling for Negro youth, and to develop an orientation within the Negro community for technological skills.

In his prepared text, Mr. Hill cites as a major NAACP goal, "the full realization of the Negro potential, that is, to make it possible for competent, highly trained Negroes to compete on an equal basis for managerial, scientific, skilled, professional and other desirable employment."

"If this goal is not achieved," the NAACP labor secretary warns, "the Negro may well be frozen out of many industries and forced into an even more marginal position in American society even though the expansion of the economy increases opportunity for other groups within the community."

Other scheduled speakers include Mrs. Maida Springer of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL-CIO, who has recently returned from an assignment in Africa and the Middle East; Dr. Oscar Swarm, director of vocational guidance department, Pittsburgh Board of Education; John Allwyne, Bureau of Apprentice Training, U.S. Department of Labor; George Palmer, personnel director, Joseph Horne Company; James Jordon, manager, transportation, research and development, The Koppers Company; Mrs. Jeanne Scott, Pennsylvania State Employment Service and Melvin L. Murchinson, Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation.

Among the many supporting organizations participating in the Conference are the Pennsylvania State Fair Employment Practices Commission, the Pittsburgh Human Relations Commission, the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, and the Pittsburgh Urban League. The Reverend Charles S. Foggie, president of the Pittsburgh NAACP branch and Mrs. Marion Bond Jordon, executive secretary, were announced as chairmen of the conference sessions.

NEW NAACP YOUTH UNITS ORGANIZED IN MIDWEST

May 22, 1958

NEW YORK, May 22.--Organization of five new youth councils of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was announced here this week by Herbert L. Wright, the Association's youth secretary.

The new councils, located in Denver and Colorado Springs, Colo.; St. Joseph and Kansas City, Mo.; and Des Moines, Ia., were organized earlier this month during a tour by Mr. Wright. Plans were also made for revival of NAACP youth councils in Omaha, Nebr. and Wichita, Kans., and for the establishment of a college chapter at Drake University, in Des Moines.

WILKINS URGES UNIONS TO CURB RACIAL BIAS

May 22, 1958

NEW YORK, May 22.--Racial discrimination in some trade unions is a blight which the labor movement should take prompt and effective steps to eliminate, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told delegates attending a convention of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, AFL-CIO, here this week.

Addressing the convention on May 21, Mr. Wilkins cited the action of the AFL-CIO in admitting two railroad brotherhoods whose constitutions exclude Negroes from membership. He noted also that while many unions have national policies against racial discrimination some locals in such industries as steel, paper, oil and chemicals continue to permit discrimination.

"There are some unions," the NAACP leader pointed out, "that pass resolutions for civil rights, hold conferences on civil rights, show movies on civil rights, but nevertheless stumble at the bargaining table."

Among unions with good records on civil rights, Mr. Wilkins cited the Packinghouse Workers and the United Automobile Workers. The UAW, he said, recently succeeded in eliminating the discriminatory separate line of progression in St. Louis plants with which the union has collective bargaining agreements.

Mr. Wilkins also called upon organized labor to oppose the pending Senate bill to curb the authority of the United States Supreme Court. The provisions of this bill would endanger the rights of trade unions as well as those of civil rights organizations, he said.

The bill which has been favorably reported out of the Senate Judiciary Committee,headed by Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi, would prohibit Supreme Court review of state regulations governing admission to the bar and would also ban review by the court of congressional investigating power.

NAACP LIFE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE LAUNCHED BY NEW YORK UNITS

May 22, 1958

NEW YORK, May 22.--Members of the Greater New York life membership committee of the NAACP were honored at a soiree launching a citywide drive to solicit life memberships at $500 each.

Dr. George D. Cannon, chairman of the committee, was host at the affair which was held on May 21 in the penthouse terrace lounge of the Carnegie International Endowment Center overlooking the United Nations Plaza and the East River.

A plaque, denoting a life membership, was presented to Hilton G. Hill, president of the Hilton G. Hill travel agency, which recently conducted a fund raising contest for the benefit of the NAACP. A total of $715 was raised, $500 of which was used to purchase a life membership in the name of the agency.

Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, spoke briefly on the importance of life memberships in the fight for freedom. Others who made remarks were Dr. Cannon, Mr. Hill, Assemblyman Ivan Warner, Miss Florence Lucas, Sanford Lewis, Mrs. Alice Reed, Dennis Coleman and Dr. V. McKinley Miles.

Mr. William M. Boardman of New Haven, Connecticut, together with his wife and six other students will be arriving in Atlanta on March 19. The purpose of their visit is to gain some first-hand knowledge of the race relations situation in your city.

I have included your name among a suggested list of persons Mr. Boardman should contact while he is in your city. Any guidance you can give to this group will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Jesse DeVore

Dear Mr. Fleming,

By now, Mr. DeVore of the New York NAACP has probably written you concerning our group's trip to Atlanta. We plan to arrive on March 19 and will number eight, including my wife. We will stay in Atlanta a week.

Our purpose in coming to Atlanta is to learn about the racial situation there first-hand, for we don't feel that it receives full coverage in the northern press. We are especially interested in meeting with other young people concerned with the problems involved. If you could help us meet such groups, and adults as well, it would be very helpful.

If you are not too busy, it would be nice to hear from you before we leave, but in any case I will call you once we get to Atlanta.

Thank you for your time and trouble.

Yours,

William M. Boardman

Dear Mr. Hill:

we enjoyed your visit too and appreciate the help you have given us on our desegregation survey. We have finally completed the first draft of our findings and are exploring publication possibilities. When it is printed or duplicated in some other form I will send you a copy.

We had read your article in the New Leader when it appeared. It was a good vigorous job of laying out the real issues.

Do come by to see us again the next time you are in Atlanta.

I was very pleased to have had the opportunity to meet with you during my last visit to Atlanta and hope it will be possible for us to have a discussion soon again.

I am enclosing, for your information, an article I recently did for the NEW LEADER Magazine which I hope you will find of some interest. I should appreciate your comments.

I have written to Miss Irving today informing her of a rather significant development which took place in Lake Charles, Louisiana, last month when a majority of white workers at the Cit-Con plant, who are members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, AFL-CIO, voted to eliminate segregation within the plant. I have given Miss Irving the details on this.

I shall look forward to meeting with you during my very next visit to Atlanta. Please feel free to call upon me for any assistance I might render.

Dear Herbert:

Thanks for the copy of your memorandum on the Lockheed situation and the letter in response to your proddings from Al Hayes.

I would welcome further word from you on the whole situation and on your reactions at this time to the proposal to integrate the locals.

You may wish to turn over in your mind the possibilities of my being in touch with the regional I.A.M. staff or a somewhat different approach. I have no concrete suggestion at this point due to the pressure of things here, but will keep you informed if a useful angle appears on the scene. I would in the due course of time be in touch with McGlen in any case. Keep prodding.

Dear Herb:

It was good to see you in Atlanta the other day. I understand that the local NAACP branch announced the opening up of Lockheed and the need for applicants.

Almost accidentally I have the name of an applicant for a secretarial job:

Mrs. Hazel A. Hardy
650 Simpson Street, N.W., #5
Atlanta, Georgia.

She has 15 years of secretarial experience, is personable, and remembers her last speed test as follows: typing - 83.6; shorthand - 76.8. She was approached by Dr. Robert E. Williams at the Hungry Club yesterday after I had had conversation with him. Dr. Williams is Chairman of the Division of Education and Psychology at Morris Brown College. He indicated that he could produce a number of competent applicants for secretarial positions.

Thought I would pass this on to you directly; you can let me know about a local channel for such information. I'm presuming that Local 2016 officials may not want to get involved in the clerical end of the move.

With personal best wishes.

Dear Herb:

The inter-agency employment opportunities idea is not dead. I am personally sorry that no program, or even a meeting, has yet been activited. A little more time may do it.

In the meantime perhaps you could tell me if the mammoth industrialization projects between Baton Rouge and New Orleans have come to your attention. These developments are taking place on what previously were sugar cane plantations. At this point Kaiser Aluminum has a plant under construction; I am told that a total of $350 million of construction is under way in the area. Other companies with sites on this strip are DuPont, Dow, and Grace Chemical. The economy of Louisiana has been undergoing serious changes as you know. This new spurt of industrialization should go a long way towards putting the state's economy in something like a prosperous balance. The question, simply: is this a ripe field for a concerted area wide merit employment program push? I would be glad to share ideas or information with you; meaning, you write me.

Dear Emory:

I do hope you and the family are well and that you will forgive the delay in my answer to have your letters of October 4 and December 6. As I think you know I have been away from my desk in the National Office and this is the first opportunity I have had to reply.

In your letter of October 4 you indicate your interest in the vast new industrialization taking place in the Baton Rouge area. I have been aware for sometime of these developments especially in the oil refining and chemical industry in the Gulf area. I think you will recall that the Association has filed a series of complaints against several large oil refining and chemical manufacturing plants operating in that area with the President's Committee on Government Contracts. I certainly agree with your suggestion that this be a field for some concerted action in attempting to open new job opportunities for Negro workers.

Incidentally I understand that the American Friends Service Committee is seriously considering the opening of a Houston office and they have discussed the desirability of beginning a campaign for Negro employment in the very plants you mention in your letter. I have, of course, encouraged them in this projected undertaking.

At the present time I do not contemplate any new activity in this area mainly because of the limited operations of the Association in both Louisiana and Texas. I am sure you know of the harassment and intimidation of the Association in these states and for the moment the National Office is prevented from any widespread operation in these areas. However, I have recently attempted to reopen the matter of our pending complaints with the President's Committee against oil refineries in Texas and Louisiana. This series of complaints were filed the week of April 20, 1955 and after a rather strong letter to Nixon requesting information Seidenberg recently answered with the comment that our request was being referred to the appropriate subcommittee and he was sure than an answer would be forthcoming. This, two-and-a-half years after filing the complaints.

If you are planning any new action in the Gulf area I should certainly like to be of every possible help and for this and other reasons I do hope we can arrange a meeting quite soon.

You may be interested to know that I have just returned from Greensboro, North Carolina where I received complaints from Negro workers against the Southern Bell Telephone Company, Western Electric and Cone Mills. I am now formulating these as complaints to be filed with the President's Committee.

I am sure you know of the meeting of the President's Committee scheduled for January 15 in Washington. I have held discussions with several of the persons planning to attend and have made recommendations for the raising of certain issues assuming that there will be an opportunity to do so.

Thank you for sending me the listing of Negro employment in the Federal agencies operating in Atlanta. I hopefully await some new developments on the idea of an inter-agency employment conference in the South as we discussed at the Fisk University meeting.

Please give my warmest regards to Harold and Marge Manderson. With best wishes for a very Merry Christmas, I am

Dear Herbie:

Thanks for the copy of your recent letter to John Hope and for your letter to me in response to my earlier communications.

Harold and I agree that you have done an excellent job in summarising some of the Association's relations with the President's Committee. It is a gross understatement to comment that the matter of delays is a real frustration to all interested parties. We greatly appreciate having the round-up.

We have had an opportunity to talk with John regarding other aspects of your letter and it is our hope that he will soon find time to discuss them with you.

It is safe to say that the attempt to get the agency persons responsible for employment concerns together for a real head-knocking session has died aborning. However, I believe that there will be other efforts which we will either stimulate or participate in which will be of interest to you. I still feel that some approach to developing a regional view of the employment opportunities field is much needed. We need the kind of solid concepts that will aid a variety of organizations to understand the ways in which they can contribute to the solution of a total problem. But this is ground that we have gone over before, and when I come up with an approach that offers some possibilities I will certainly be in touch with you. I am sorry that this whole idea became so hopelessly bogged down. I have had a lot of interesting two-way conversations, but could not find just the right common ground for a fruitful general confab.

Except for the possible slow-down in the economy as a whole, I am generally optimistic about the future for fair employment practices. There are a few indications that much of the plugging and gadflying has been worth the effort.

Best personal wishes, and I trust that it will not be too long before you are able to find your way here again.

Mr. John Hope

Dear John:

Thank you for informing me of your intention to attend the forthcoming conference of the President's Committee on Government Contracts in Washington, D. C. on January 15. The following is the information you have requested concerning NAACP cases currently pending with the President's Committee and our evaluation of the Committee's effectiveness.

On April 20, 1955 the Association filed complaints with the President's Committee against four of the nation's largest oil refining companies operating under contractual agreements with the United States Government and with three goups of trade unions holding collective bargaining contracts with these companies. The companies charged with violating the anti-discrimination clause in contracts with the federal government were the Esso-Standard Oil Company, Baton Rouge, Louisiana; Cities Service Refining Corporation, Lake Charles, Louisiana; Carbide and Chemical Company (Division of Union Carbon and Carbide Corporation), Texas City, Texas and the Lion Oil Company in El Dorado, Arkansas. Named as defendants with the oil refineries were the Independent Industrial Workers Association of Baton Rouge, (Ind.); Lake Charles Metal Trades Council, (AFL); Galveston Metal Trades Council (AFL) and the Oil Workers International Union, (CIO).

In the course of filing these complaints the Association documented an industry-wide pattern of discriminatory practices including the operation of a 'separate line of progression', wage differentials based upon race, unfair job classification, limitation of Negroes to unskilled job categories and non-admission to apprenticeship training programs, violation of seniority rights, etc.

As a result of law suits initiated by groups of Negro workers against the Shell Oil Company in Houston and against the Texas Company in Port Arthur and because of independent work by the NAACP with the Oil Workers International Union, some significant progress was made in those plants where the collective bargaining agent was the Oil Workers International Union. However, in those plants where the agreement was held by unions affiliated to the AFL Metal Trades Council the discriminatory practices continue as before the filing of these cases.

After more than two years had elapsed without any action, report, exchange of information or consultation by the President's Committee with the plaintiffs in these important cases, the Association in a letter dated June 5, 1957 to the Chairman of the Committee, requested information concerning the status of these cases. Jacob Seidenberg, executive director of the President's Committee, answered the Association in a letter dated July 8 stating that "the Defense Department has been requested to review the current hiring and employment practices and policies...and report their findings to the Committee." The letter continues, "you of course will be further advised as soon as we have received the Department's report concerning the matter." As of this date no report or information has been received.

An examination of the record clearly indicates that the Committee has not performed its responsibility of enforcing the anti-discrimination clause in the federal government contracts in the oil refining industry.

Currently pending with the President's Committee are complaints filed by the NAACP against the following aircraft companies. In Wichita, Kansas, the Boeing Aircraft Corporation, Beechcraft Company and the Cessna Aircraft Corporation; Hayes Aircraft Company in Birmingham, Alabama; Rohr Aircraft Corporation in Riverside, California; and Lockheed Aircraft Corporation in Marietta, Georgia.

Some of these cases have been pending with the Committee well over two years andunfortunately it is not possible to report any action by the Committee in any of these cases beyond that of a formal note of acceptance of the complaint. The Association and its branches has filed other important cases including an action against the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

As you perhaps know on several occasions the Association has charged that major national corporations, operating wholly or in part with federal government funds, are flagrantly violating the anti-discrimination clause found in all federal government contracts. Recent figures of Negro employment in the four southern plants of the Ford Motor Car Company are most interesting in this regard. In the Atlanta Ford plant there is currently employed a total of 1,599 persons, of these there are twenty-one Negroes, all in unskilled job classifications. At the Dallas, Texas plant there is currently employed a total of 3,991 persons and exactly nine Negro sweepers. In the Memphis plant there is employed a total of 1,458 persons, of which there are thirty-five Negro janitors. In the Norfolk-Portsmouth plant of the Ford Company there is a total of 1,626 workers and nine Negroes, all in menial job capacities. Similar data can be supplied for other manufacturing companies in almost all important sectors of the national economy.

I note from the invitations distributed by the President's Committee for the conference that they intend to devote a major portion of the discussion to the question of developing industrial and technical skills among Negroes. The Association fully appreciates the need to develop an orientation within the Negro community for the development of technical skills, however, it is clear that the President's Committee must first perform the basic function for which it was originally created, that of enforcing the anti-discrimination provision in federal government contracts.

We are forced to note that the President's Committee has not at any time approached the major question of the federal government's responsibility in the field of apprentice training. The Government through grants-in-aid from the U. S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, provides funds which subsidize apprentice training programs in the various states. The Federal Government therefore, is directly subsidizing racial discrimination in the skilled trades wherever the respective labor-management apprenticeship program excludes Negroes and members of other minority groups from admission into such training programs.

Additional U. S. Government participation in the apprentice training field is promoted by the Federal Committee on Apprentice Training which is an operation of the U. S. Department of Labor. While this Agency evidently makes no direct subsidy to apprentice training programs it encourages and develops such programs for various craft unions and management groups which deliberately exclude Negroes. The President's Committee has been strangely silent in this decisive area of governmental responsibility.

May I suggest that civil rights advocates within the labor movement seriously consider the advisability of continued trade union participation in the President's Committee on Government Contracts. The identification of national trade union leaders with the President's Committee and the participation of AFL-CIO staff persons in the Committee's operations serves to provide a facade of action and responsibility which is found to be wholly lacking on the basis of the record of the Committee's operation.

I should appreciate your comments on these matters at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

Herbert Hill,
Labor Secretary

Dear Mr. Vice President:

At the present time there is pending with the President's Committee on Government Contracts many significant complaints filed by the Association on behalf of its members charging violation of the anti-discrimination clause in Federal government contracts. Early in July the Association will convene its 49th Annual Convention and it is necessary that we be able to report to our officers and members the status of the many cases we have filed with the Committee.

In order to make this report as rounded and fair as possible I would like to request that the Committee provide an opportunity for our Labor Secretary, Mr. Herbert Hill, to appear before it and review all complaints that have been pending for more than one year. Mr. Hill has been intimately involved with these matters and I am sure his appearance before the Committee to review our cases will be of mutual benefit.

This is a matter of great importance to the national leadership of the NAACP and we hope you will give it your earliest favorable attention.

Address Delivered by Herbert Hill, Labor Secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at the Tenth Constitutional Convention of the United Furniture Workers of America, AFL-CIO, May 13, 1958, Hotel Belmont-Plaza, New York, New York.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has taken a clear and forthright position in opposition to the so-called "Right to Work" bills now pending in several state legislatures. Negro wage earners in the North as well as in the South are deeply concerned with the right to work, the right to equal job training and the right to work at their highest skills. But an analysis of all the existing "Right to Work" laws makes very clear that while the slogan sounds fair and equitable, in reality it is based upon a total disregard for truth.

The phrase "Right to Work" sounds good and honest. Through the use of semantics, it has been formulated for the purpose of capturing the sympathy of those who favor a square deal for wage earners. But when such a slogan is advanced by the National Association of Manufacturers, by the United States Chamber of Commerce and by union busting open-shop employers and takes root in states where civil rights and civil liberties are systematically violated and where governors and congressmen have openly announced their defiance of basis constitutional guarantees, then working people and indeed every citizen has a right to view the slogan with great suspicion and to determine whether it is for or against the best interests of working people and their families.

Does the slogan "Right to Work" mean that every person has an inalienable right to work? If that is so, we have certainly reached the millennium, for the problem of unemployment has at long last been solved for all time simply by enacting a "Right to Work" law in the various state legislatures. Does the slogan mean that every worker has a right to a job and to receive work at fair wages, reasonable hours and under other decent labor standards? Does the slogan mean that every worker has a right to work and secure employment with proper provisions for paid vacations and insurance safeguards against sickness and old age? Does the slogan mean that every worker is protected against arbitrary discharge?

Or does the slogan mean that workers have a right to work but only under conditions unilaterally established by their employers? Is the slogan "Right to Work" a revival of the old concept of "liberty of contract", namely, that the worker merely has a constitutional right to work where he can find it and at sub-standard wages, long hours and unfair labor conditions if those conditions prevail? Is the slogan "Right to Work" intended to strengthen the individual worker's bargaining position through a union of his own choosing, or is it intended to effectively weaken his bargaining position by keeping unions out of his employer's factory or office? The simple truth is that the slogan "Right to Work" is nothing more than the old phrase "Open Shop" which the powerful industrialists of America used in the early days of the 20th Century to prevent trade union organization. At that time the "Open Shop" was the ideological weapon which was used to justify violence and terror in the attack against trade unionism and which for a period resulted in a kind of industrial barbarism, associated with the tragic names of Ludlow, Colorado; the Homestead, Illinois plant of the McCormack Reaper Company; Harlan County, Kentucky and the infamous 1937 Memorial Day massacre of steelworkers in Chicago. The issue then was the right of unions to exist and function in the American society and the right of workers to secure collective bargaining agents of their own choosing. As Perlman and Taft stated in their "History of Labor in the U. S.":

> "What the open shop sought was the effacement of the organized labor pattern from the consciousness of the average American citizen. That object could be achieved by placing organized labor on a moral defensive. Instead of labor being viewed as a victim of oppression, the propaganda of the employers sought to convince the public that labor was both the aggressor and the oppressor...This idealistic propaganda, appealing as it did to the traditional American individual was very influential in shifting public support from the worker to the employer."

A half-century has passed. Trade unionism is now an established institution in American life, but there is still a sizeable group of recalcitrant employers who persist in their efforts to destroy unionism or to make it entirely ineffective. They have refurbished the old slogan "Open Shop" and employing the techniques of the Madison Avenue hucksters are now selling the new slogan "Right to Work" and have caused such laws to be adopted by legislatures in eighteen states.

Do these laws provide the workers with any guarantee of employment? They do not. Do any of these "Right to Work" laws embody a code of fair employment practices? They do not. Do these laws attempt to determine wages, hours of labor or other terms and conditions of employment? They do not. Do they contain provisions against arbitrary discharge? They do not. Do they provide for equitable distribution of work or guarantee that lay offs shall be in inverse order of seniority? They do not. Do they provide for vacations with pay, disability benefits and retirement pensions? They do not. What then do they do? In their commonest form they prohibit any kind of union security. They make it impossible for a labor-management agreement to provide for any form of union security. Eighteen states today have gone beyond the limitations contained in the Taft-Hartley law of 1947. They have not only outlawed any form of union security in a collective bargaining agreement, but have made it a crime to even enter into any agreement which contains such a provision.

The states which enacted "Right to Work" laws are in the main non-industrial areas. Their primary purpose in adopting these laws is to suppress and prevent union organization and to bring about the return of the era of the "Open Shop." Employers in these states know that without a union security provision the workers in their plants are less likely to join unions and even if the majority of them do so, a large minority will refuse because as "free riders" they would be entitled to precisely the same benefits as those being received by the majority through union auspices.

Under these circumstances the urge of workers to join a union becomes dissipated or entirely lost. In this way "Open Shop" employers again hope to efface "the organized labor pattern from the consciousness of the average American citizen" and by adopting the high sounding slogan "Right to Work" they attempt to convince the public that the union busting employer is the protector and benefactor of the workers and that the labor movement is their aggressor and oppressor. The result of the suppression of unionization as the result of "Right to Work" laws is that wages are kept low, hours long and conditions of work sub-standard.

The truth is that the forces supporting the "Right to Work" laws have no interest in the welfare of working men and women, they have only one purpose. By weakening the organized labor movement they hope to systematically lower wages, lengthen hours of work and otherwise prevent decent and wholesome labor conditions.

Whatever may be the name by which these laws are called they are simply a union busting offensive which must be stopped in the interest of all who work for a living in the United States.

In many states where campaigns have been conducted for the adoption of "Right to Work" laws, special efforts to secure support for passage of these union busting proposals were carried out within the Negro community. At the present time in both California and Ohio, vigorous efforts to secure the support of Negro workers for the enactment of "Right to Work" laws are taking place. Recent events in Ohio are most interesting. In the course of circulating a so-called "freedom of choice" petition to place a "Right to Work" bill before the state legislature spokesmen for the "Right to Work" movement tried to sell the bill as "a little fair employment practices law" and "a substitute for fair employment practices legislation" within the Negro community. This effort was immediately denounced by the Cleveland branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in a well publicized statement which declared that "the passage of 'Right to Work' laws not only endangered the organized labor movement but also has a most detrimental effect on the rights of colored wage earners and the economic well-being of the entire Negro community" and further called upon "all of its members to refuse to sign the so-called 'freedom of choice' petition." Similar activity has taken place in California where the NAACP West Coast Regional Office has been directly involved in a vigorous campaign to defeat "Right to Work" proposals. The action of the NAACP organization in Ohio and California is a result of the clear and unequivocal position taken by the national organization which adopted at its last Annual Convention the following policy resolution concerning so-called "Right to Work" laws; this states in part:

> "We call upon our members, branches and state conferences to use their influence in cooperation with organized labor to repeal and defeat state laws and proposed laws which tend to hamper organized labor, often under such high sounding names as 'Right to Work Law,' 'Anti-Violence Laws,' etc., and to help instead to get enacted laws which are fair to organized labor and will aid labor's work..."

Because the Negro citizen is playing such a decisive role in the current civil rights conflict the matter of developing a firm and secure economic base within the Negro community is of the greatest importance. The disparity in the economic status between Negro and white workers and their vulnerability in terms of economic distress are clearly indicated by the facts on unemployment and income distribution.

During the week of March 9, 1958, 14.4% of the total non-white civilian labor force in the United States was unemployed. The comparable rate for white workers was 6.9%. Although only one out of every ten persons in the labor force is non-white more than one out of every five persons currently unemployed is non-white. The non-white unemployment rate as estimated by the Census Bureau is higher now than at any time during the last eleven years in which the Census Bureau has reported unemployment statistics by color.

The non-white unemployment rate today is approaching the level recorded at the time of the 1940 census when the United States was still recovering from the post 1929 depression. Non-white unemployment was then 18%, today it exceeds 14%. Unemployment among non-whites since the 1949-50 recession has remained consistently high. At no quarterly point has it fallen below 6% and on a number of occasions even prior to 1957 it exceeded 8%.

Almost without exception during the entire period since the 1953-54 recession the unemployment gap between white and non-whites has been greater than prior to 1954. During the past three years the non-white unemployment rate has been almost consistently more than double the white unemployment rate. This would indicate that very limited progress has been made in securing for the Negro worker the same relative degree of employment stability that the white worker enjoys. It is clear that the differential in employment stability between white and Negro workers has been extended both in years of prosperity as well as in years of economic decline. All available data clearly indicates that the ratio of unemployment among non-whites as compared to that of whites has been steadily increasing since 1951.

In 1953 the typical Negro worker earned an average of $364 a year in wages or salary; the white worker in that year earned $956; that is 2½ times as much. By 1954 the average wage or salary income of a Negro worker had risen to $1,589 while the average white worker earned $3,174. This means that the income of the white wage earner was still twice as much as that of the Negro. (STATISTICAL ABSTRACT-1956, Page 311)

In 1954, 17.6% of all white families in the United States were living on an annual income of $2,000 or less but of non-white families 42.3% were living on an annual income below $2,000.

It is therefore, evident that despite great changes in the employment and occupational characteristics of Negro workers in the last decade, the economic level of Negroes remains substantially below that of the white population.

In many industries in basic sectors of the American economy the racial practices of the trade union certified as the collective bargaining agent will be the decisive factor in determining the status of Negro workers. All too often there is a significant disparity between the declared public policy of international unions and the day-to-day reality as experienced by Negro wage earners in the North as well as in the South. It is not enough simply to formulate proper convention resolutions and policy statements. It is not enough to make speeches and distribute civil rights tracts. It is not enough to hold interminable civil rights conferences with more speeches and resolutions. What is needed today is to invoke the full power and authority of the organized labor movement in eliminating discriminatory racial practices where they exist in the work shops of this country.

Statements are policy are necessary and welcome but totally inadequate in resolving conflicts unless backed by decisive organizational authority. Unfortunately, there has been a tendency to substitute hollow ritual for vigorous action when conflicts develop within local unions in matters involving the rights of Negro workers. Invariably the leadership of most national unions will take the right position but frequently too late and often will invoke the necessary action only after a prolonged crisis. When a local union brazenly defies an order of a state or municipal fair employment practices commission and refuses to end its discriminatory practices, the national trade union leadership must act immediately, not one year, not two years or three years after a valid complaint has been filed with a governmental agency or with the Civil Rights Department of the AFL-CIO or after a fair employment practices commission has issued a cease and desist order. Such delays often permit the enemies of organized labor to mobilize support for anti-trade union measures and serves to alienate Negro workers from the trade union movement. It is no accident that newspapers in Ohio have cited the discriminatory practices of some building trades unions in urging that Negro workers support "Right to Work" proposals in their own interest.

The organized labor movement in America has made many important contributions in the struggle for full civil rights for all citizens. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People deeply welcomes this support and is proud of its long years of cooperation and joint activity with many trade union organizations. Now more than ever before when this country is faced with a grave national civil rights crisis it is most important that the trade union movement give top priority to eliminating the vicious evils of racial discrimination and segregation at the work place and within the entire American community.

NATIONAL REPORTS

Violence Checks Southern Industry Boom

By Herbert Hill

BEFORE the historic events at Central High School in Little Rock, the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission had been uniquely successful in bringing new industry to the state. The Commission, whose chairman is Winthrop Rockefeller, had conducted an unusually effective campaign directed at multi-plant corporations operating in important sectors of the national economy. Arkansas, like other Southern states, has vigorously solicited Northern manufacturing companies—offering unusual land subsidies, free plants, generous tax exemptions and "loyal, native-born, productive workers."

The significant expansion of industry and commerce in Arkansas has now perhaps come to an end for an extended period. The collusion between Governor Orval Faubus and the white mobs that brought violence to Central High School and led ultimately to the use of Federal troops was, in the words of Dr. Charles H. Carpenter, industrial engineering consultant to the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, "a terrible misfortune." Dr. Carpenter further states that racial violence has "wiped out" the gains made by the Commission in its campaign to attract new industry.

Commission Chairman Rockefeller stated that it would take at least six months "to accurately estimate the damage that has been done—and damage there has been." In a later interview, Dr. Carpenter said that the integration riots had "cost Arkansas thousands of new jobs."

Spokesmen for Northern manufacturing communities that had lost payrolls through the relocation of plants in the South were quick to comment. Oswald D. Heck, Speaker of the New York State Assembly, told a meeting of the state's Small Business Advisory Council:

"All of us have been concerned about the efforts of Southern states to seduce industry out of New York with fantastic lures describing the advantages of locating in peaceful, bucolic, low-cost Southern towns. One of the most aggressive of the states playing the pirating game has been Arkansas. Certainly it would be no easy task to be an employer in the capital city of Arkansas at this time."

An example of this "pirating game" was recently exposed by Irving J. Fain, Vice President of the Apex Tire and Rubber Company of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, who made public a letter received from the Hattiesburg, Mississippi Chamber of Commerce. Fain's company was invited to "enjoy" the advantages of that state's so-called "right-to-work law" and was informed that "in this section of Mississippi our population is predominantly white."

Soon after Winthrop Rockefeller conceded in a nationwide TV interview that great damage had been done to the drive for new industry in Arkansas, Leonard C. Yaseen, senior partner of the Fantus Factory Locating Service, one of the nation's leading consultants, told the press that many clients had eliminated Little Rock and Arkansas from their future plans for industrial investment. Yaseen said:

"Any company contemplating an investment of millions of dollars in a town must make certain that law-enforcement agencies can and will control extremist elements in the community. Mob action and civic irresponsibility over any issue place a community on industry's black list."

Yaseen revealed that Montgomery, Alabama and Clinton, Tennessee—two other communities with widely publicized racial difficulties—were also now shunned by industry.

The annual meeting of the Southern Governors Conference at Sea Island, Georgia coincided with the dramatic events at Little Rock. Governor LeRoy Collins of Florida warned the conferees that, if the South "wraps itself in a Confederate blanket and consumes itself in racial furor," it will destroy its political and economic future.

From the businessman's point of view, racial conflict in the South presents two main dangers. First, turmoil and violence resulting from racial bigotry often result in serious interruptions and stoppages of vital production—as in the rubber manufacturing plants in and around Tuscaloosa, Alabama during the riots which occurred when Autherine Lucy appeared on the campus of the State University.

Second, there is the economic boycott used by both races against merchants and companies accused of having partisan interests in the segregation question. Increasingly, newspapers and leaders in Southern communities are expressing concern about the effects of boycotts on economic development.

Mississippi State Senator William Alexander, addressing a group of business leaders in his state, recently commented: "We have raised the banners of bitterness and prejudice above our sense of common sense and decency against some people and companies. We cannot afford boycotts. We have the problem with us of sustaining and augmenting the tremendous advances we have achieved in the postwar period."

After interviewing a broad selection of Southern industrialists, the Wall Street Journal stated: "The present Southern boycotts are the most far-reaching ever faced by American businessmen. Many Southerners, including some firmly committed to continuing segregated schools, deplore the use of economic pressure by either race. The boycotts and other things now happening definitely are not a solution."

In addition to the problems resulting from racial violence and economic boycott, Southern business institutions are burdened with the extra cost of conducting business in a segregated world. Added to the heavy taxes of providing separate facilities in public institutions such as schools, business institutions must pay the expense of building and maintaining duplicate facilities in many private business operations. Recently Vance Greenslit, president of the Southeastern Greyhound Lines, stated: "It frequently costs 50 per cent more to build a terminal with segregated facilities." The Wall Street Journal commented: "The total cost of observing the color line obviously can be considerable to a business such as Greyhound."

Many other serious difficulties arise to plague business firms in their Southern operations as a result of the race issue in local communities. A recent example was the experience of Scripto, Inc., whose home offices are in Atlanta, Georgia. This manufacturing company purchased 40 additional acres to build a new $1.5-million plant in an area on the outskirts of Atlanta which for the past 28 years had been zoned for industrial use. When it was discovered that large numbers of Negroes were to be employed, city officials rezoned the area as residential, thereby excluding the new factory. Charles Lovejoy, Scripto's executive vice president, observed: "We lost $41,000 because we had to sell the property for less than we paid for it. We don't know how much the litigation cost us."

Another Southern community adversely affected by racial conflict is Birmingham, Alabama. A major center of heavy industry in the South, it has attracted many important manufacturing operations because of its advanced and diverse steel production, good location, excellent transportation facilities and tax inducements. But, in the past two years in Birmingham and its industrial environs, many episodes of racial violence provoked by the large and highly organized Alabama White Citizens Council have caused deep concern among those responsible for Birmingham's industrial expansion.

William P. Engel of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce told the Birmingham Post-Herald: "We must face up to our own deficiencies. The hoodlumism here has hit headlines throughout the nation. As a result, we have lost one major plant in Birmingham and several smaller installations. Place yourself in the shoes of a man who wants to bring a plant to Birmingham. Would you, under the circumstances, do it? If we object to interference from outside interests, we should object to interference from within."

Later Cooper Green, vice president in charge of industrial development for the Alabama Power Company, stated that "two major and two minor installations have shelved 'temporarily' plans to move into Alabama. The [racial] publicity has hurt Birmingham and Montgomery. Prospects on whom we call in an effort to get them to locate in the state have asked us about the trouble we are having here. No industry wants to move into a troubled area."

The Post-Herald observed editorially: "Now Birmingham can see the price which must be paid for the racial outbreaks and the resulting hoodlumism. . . . It is understandable that plant officials would hesitate to move a plant into a city where there has been such violence. This points up the necessity for our public officials to apprehend and bring to trial those persons who have been guilty of this violence."

The retarding effects of racial conflict on Southern industrial development are just now becoming evident. The South's proportion of the nation's manufacturing facilities increased from 9 per cent in 1900 to 22 per cent last year. Some 22,000 new industrial plants (employing 50 or more persons) have located in the area since 1939, and its industrial output has increased from $11 billion to $62 billion during the same period. Industrial construction in the Gulf states area accounted for one-sixth of all industrial construction in the country during the past ten years. The value of this construction was $3.25 billion—six times the value of all industrial construction in the New England area.

But the profound industrial revolution in the South, which in the past decade dramatically raised living standards and made possible a very high level of employment, has now been interrupted. In refusing to accept peaceably the recent decisions of the Supreme Court on school segregation and transportation, the white South finds itself in a great dilemma in which once again it is its own victim.

Dear Bill:

Thank you for your note of May 19th. The following data is in response to your request for information.

In a letter dated April 2 addressed to Vice President Nixon (copy enclosed), Roy Wilkins, NAACP Executive Secretary, requested that the President's Committee on Government Contracts "provide an opportunity for our Labor Secretary, Mr. Herbert Hill, to appear before it and review all complaints that have been pending for more than one year." Copies of the letter were sent to all members of the President's Committee. This request was made by Mr. Wilkins because the NAACP National Office has repeatedly noted the wide-spread violation of the anti-discrimination provision contained in Federal government contracts and the lack of vigorous enforcement of the Presidential Executive Order establishing the President's Committee on Government Contracts.

In a letter dated April 10 (copy enclosed), R. E. Cushman, Jr., Executive Assistant to the Vice President, informed Mr. Wilkins that "in view of the tight agenda of the President's Committee, it would not be feasible to have Mr. Hill appear in person before the full committee. However, Deputy Attorney General Lawrence E. Walsh, Chairman of the Subcommittee on Review, the group charged with the specific responsibility of reviewing complaints, is agreeable to have Mr. Hill appear before the Subcommittee on Review at its next meeting, on April 15." On that date, in the Attorney General's office in Washington, D. C., I appeared before the Subcommittee on Review to examine the status of the many pending cases filed by the Association with the President's Committee on Government Contracts.

Among those participating in the conference, which was chaired by Deputy Attorney General Lawrence E. Walsh, were Ivan L. Willis, vice president, International Harvester Company; George B. McKibbin, Consultant to the Administrator, General Services Administration; George L-P Weaver for the AFL-CIO and representatives of the Atomic Energy Commission, the Department of Defense and other federal agencies. Dr. Jacob Seidenberg, Major General C. E. Ryan and Dr. Joseph Houchins, represented the staff of the President's Committee.

Early in the discussion I called attention to the failure of the Committee to provide either complainants or the NAACP with progress reports and determinations. I indicated that in some instances more than three years have elapsed in which neither the complainant nor the NAACP received reports from the Committee. It immediately became apparent that the Committee's staff had not prepared reports for the conference and I stated that I could not engage in a review of NAACP cases without formal reports from the Committee.

Dr. Jacob Seidenberg, executive director of the President's Committee, stated that it was extremely difficult for the Committee to make reports in cases filed by the NAACP because the Committee received cases from so many different units of the Association. Dr. Seidenberg protested that cases were sometimes filed by the NAACP Washington Bureau, the Legal Department, the Labor Department and also by local branches and state organizations. In reply to Dr. Seidenberg's comments I stated that if the President's Committee had made reports to either the complainant or to the unit of the Association that filed the complaint the NAACP National Office would not be demanding reports and that the simple fact of the matter was that the Committee did not make reports to either the Association's Washington Bureau, Legal Department, Labor Department, local branches or state conferences. I indicated furthermore that the Association does attempt to coordinate the activities of its various units and that if Dr. Seidenberg had sent a report to a local branch or to the Washington Bureau it would be known to the National Office.

As an example I cited the oldest NAACP cases currently pending with the Committee, those in which complaints were filed against the Esso Standard Oil Company, Baton Rouge, Louisiana; Cities Service Refining Corporation, Lake Charles, Louisiana; Carbide and Chemical Company (Division of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation), Texas City, Texas and the Lion Oil Company in ElDorado, Arkansas. These cases were filed with the Committee on April 20, 1955 and no report has yet been received regarding the specific charges together with the extensive documentation and analysis of the status of Negro workers in the oil refineries named in the complaint. Dr. Seidenberg's answer was that he had in fact sent a report to the Association's Legal Department concerning these cases. I thereupon asked Dr. Seidenberg to read a letter dated June 11, 1957 (copy enclosed) which was sent by him to the Association's General Counsel in answer to a request for information dated June 5, 1957. After Dr. Seidenberg read the letter, which consisted of two brief paragraphs, I inquired if this was to be regarded as a report from the Committee on a most important series of cases. Dr. Seidenberg stated that it was " a kind of a report."

After a rather extensive and lengthy discussion of the Committee's procedure in issuing or not issuing reports it was agreed that the Committee would provide the NAACP Labor Secretary with a formal report on all cases filed by the Association that have been pending for more than one year, that this report would be made available during the week of May 20 and that thereafter Mr. Hill would confer with members and staff of the President's Committee on the substance of the Committee's report in each case. At the conclusion of the conference the NAACP representative urged the Committee in terms of its own public relations to fundamentally alter its procedures and to make available to complainants reports of its findings and progress where indicated.

The following are pending complaints filed by the NAACP with the President's Committee:

Chesepeake & Potomac Telephone Company, Baltimore, Maryland - September 26, 1952

Dear Herb:

It is my understanding that you are in touch with Bill Peters regarding articles he intends to write relative to the Federal Government's lone posture in matters of equality of opportunity.

Your summary of the meeting with Lawrence Walsh, et. al., and the report of cases pending in your letter to William Carp seemed to me to be good documentation for Peters if it is available for such use.

Perhaps you have already supplied him with the information. One extra job which I am attempting to do here which will be of interest to you is to uncover the employment patterns in federal establishments in about seven or eight southern cities. I am interested in Richmond, Greensboro, Atlanta, Miami, Knoxville, Nashville, Houston, Birmingham, and New Orleans. Suggestions from you or leads to possible competent informants would be welcomed.

Best personal wishes.

Dear Sasha:

Please find enclosed my memorandum re trade unions and racial discrimination. This memorandum is the result of our discussions just before and during the recent Jewish Labor Committee National Trade Union Conference and I hope you will find it helpful as a preliminary statement of the problem. I strongly believe that the AFL-CIO must now begin a direct frontal attack against segregated locals, exclusion practices and separate lines of progression based upon race in collective bargaining agreements.

This must be done on a systematic basis proceeding through each international union. In many communities the day-to-day practices of AFL-CIO affiliates on racial matters is often at great variance with the declared civil rights policy resolutions of the Federation. The current practice of the Civil Rights Committee in limiting its activity to complaints will at best have an extremely limited effect in eliminating racist practices and will not prevent these internal conflicts from becoming public scandals as in Cleveland with the IBEW, in Milwaukee with the Bricklayers, etc.

I hope you will soon call upon me for further discussion regarding the necessary activity in these matters.

Sincerely,

Herbert Hill

Re: Trade unions and racial discrimination.

AFL-CIO UNIONS EXCLUDING NEGROES BY CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISION OR BY-LAWS:

Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen
Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen
National Postal Transport Association

AFL-CIO UNIONS WITH LOCALS EXCLUDING NEGROES BY TACIT CONSENT:

American Flint Glass Workers Union of North America
America Wire Weavers Protection Association
Granite Cutters International Association of America
International Association of Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers
International Association of Railroad Telegraphers
*International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (no uniform pattern)
United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry of the United States and Canada

*The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has recently admitted Negroes into some hitherto "lily-white" local unions. However, in many areas in the North as well as in the South, qualified Negroes are either totally excluded or admitted only into Jim Crow "auxiliary" locals. The lack of a uniform pattern of racial practices in this and other international unions is due to recent progress made in invoking state and municipal fair employment practices laws and through other activities.

AFL-CIO UNIONS CONFINING NEGROES TO SEGREGATED OR "AUXILIARY" LOCALS:

Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees
Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America
Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America
(In January of 1953 all-white Lodge 364 in Washington, D. C., voted to admit three Negro carmen who had refused to join the all-Negro Lodge 716. This resulted from the union "being under attack by non-union Negro carmen at the Union Station, and by the United Railroad Workers, AFL-CIO, which is challenging the AFL union's jurisdiction over the carmen at the Washington terminal." --Washington Post, January 29, 1953.)
Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees
International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders, Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers
International Union of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers

COPY

Sheet Metal Workers' International Association
United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America
United Brotherhood of Paper Makers and Paper Workers

National Federation of Rural Letter Carriers - Independent.

Traditionally in the unions listed above there has been a rigid pattern of segregation. However, because of court action as in the cases against the Boilermakers Union (Marineship Case, etc.), the use of state and municipal fair employment practices enactments, there are now some integrated local unions but by an large the national pattern remains one of segregation.

A clause requiring union membership as a condition of employment is to be found in virtually all collective bargaining agreements in the building and construction trades industry. Because unions perform certain managerial functions in the construction industry the refusal to admit into membership because of color completely denies qualified Negroes the right to work in their chosen trades.

In Terre Haute, Indiana, Negro mechanics have been systematically denied admission into building trades unions and therefore have been denied the right to secure employment in those job classifications where AFL-CIO affiliates hold exclusive bargaining rights.

In Cleveland, Ohio, Negroes were admitted into Local 38 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers only after a three-year struggle. This local union defied an order of the Cleveland Community Relations Board, which administers that community's fair employment practices statute, to admit qualified Negro workers. Finally the national leadership of the AFL-CIO did intervene but for a period of three years and more, skilled Negro mechanics were denied the right to work on all major construction installations in the Cleveland area. These included huge construction projects erected with federal government funds including six NIKE launching and control sites for guided missiles under construction for the U. S. Army and a large Vetrans Administration hospital. A similar comment might be made about Local 8 of the Milwaukee Bricklayers Union which at first defied a decision of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission to admit qualified Negroes and finally did so only after intervention by the National AFL-CIO.

In many industries in basic sectors of the American economy the racial practices of the trade union certified as the collective bargaining agent will be the decisive factor in determining the status of Negro workers. All too often there is a significant disparity between the declared public policy of the international unions and the day-to-day reality as experienced by Negro wage earners in the North as well as in the South.

At the present time there is pending with the President's Committee on Government Contracts charges against the Galveston (Texas) Metal Trades Council of the AFL and Local 347 of the International Union of Operating Engineers charging collusion with the Carbide and Chemical Company (Division of Union Carbon and Carbide Corp.), in maintaining separate lines of progression for Negro and white workers which limits Negro employment to some few menial jobs, wage differentials based upon race and other forms of job discrimination. Similar complaints are pending against the Lake Charles (Louisiana) Metal Trades Council, AFL-CIO, and the Cities Service Refining Corporation in maintaining also a rigid pattern of separate seniority lines which limits Negro employment to laborer classifications and which denies seniority and other rights. The same condition exists at the Lion Oil Company plant in ElDorado, Arkansas, where the collective bargaining agreement is held by Local 381 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, AFL-CIO.

In some industrial unions which generally maintain desirable civil rights practices there is often found to be significant examples of discrimination and segregation at the work place. Recently the NAACP National Office filed complaints with the President's Committee charging collusion between the Western Electric Company, Greensboro, North Carolina and Local 3062 of the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO. In the complaint filed with this federal agency, the Association described a rigid pattern of job discrimination based on separate lines of progression, the limiting of all Negroes however well qualified to menial job classifications, and the denial of equal seniority rights. A similar situation currently exists at the Atlantic Steel Company in Atlanta, Georgia where the collective bargaining agreement is held by the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO. In this plant, because of the operation of separate seniority lines, hundreds of Negro workers suffer dishonest and false job classifications, are limited to some few production and menial job classifications and are denied the right to develop job skills which would permit employment in more desirable prodiction jobs.

At the present time there are literally hundreds of local unions that remain segregated and therefore deny equal seniority and job rights to Negro workers. The following are some specific examples involving the United Brotherhood of Paper Makers and Paper Workers and the International Union of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, both AFL-CIO affiliates. In all of the following plants these two unions hold joint collective bargaining agreements and maintain a rigid pattern of racially segregated local unions with separate seniority lines which limit Negro employment to laborer's classifications and deny seniority and other rights. These are in plants of the International Paper Company in Mobile, Alabama; Georgetown, South Carolina; Natchez, Mississippi; Moss Point, Mississippi and Bastrop, Louisiana; at the Hudson Pulp and Paper Mill in Palatka, Florida and at the Crown Zellerbach Corporation plant in Bogalusa, Louisiana.

I strongly believe that the AFL-CIO must now begin a direct frontal attack against segregated locals, exclusion practices and separate lines of progression based upon race in collective bargaining agreements.

This must be done on a systematic basis proceeding through each international union. In many communities the day-to-day practices of AFL-CIO affiliates on racial matters is often at great variance with the declared civil rights policy resolutions of the Federation. The current practice of the Civil Rights Committee in limiting its activity to complaints will at best have an extremely limited effect in eliminating racist practices and will not prevent these internal conflicts from becoming public scandals as in Cleveland with the IBEW, in Milwaukee with the Bricklayers, etc.

I hope you will soon call upon me for further discussion regarding the necessary activity in these matters.

Sincerely,

Herbert Hill

MEMORANDUM TO: CHARLES F. ZIMMERMAN, Chairman, AFL-CIO Civil Rights Committee

FROM: HERBERT HILL,
Labor Secretary, NAACP

Re: Trade unions and racial discrimination.

AFL-CIO UNIONS EXCLUDING NEGROES BY CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISION OR BY-LAWS:

Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers
Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen
National Postal Transport Association

AFL-CIO UNIONS WITH LOCALS EXCLUDING NEGROES BY TACIT CONSENT:

American Flint Glass Workers Union of North America
America Wire Weavers Protection Association
Granite Cutters International Association of America
International Association of Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers
International Association of Railroad Telegraphers
*International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (no uniform pattern)
United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry of the United States and Canada

*The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has recently admitted Negroes into some hitherto "lily-white" local unions. However, in many areas in the North as well as in the South, qualified Negroes are either totally excluded or admitted only into Jim Crow "auxiliary" locals. The lack of a uniform pattern of racial practices in this and other international unions is due to recent progress made in invoking state and municipal fair employment practices laws and through other activities.

AFL-CIO UNIONS CONFINING NEGROES TO SEGREGATED OR "AUXILIARY" LOCALS:

Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees
Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America
Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America
(In January of 1953 all-white Lodge 364 in Washington, D.C., voted to admit three Negro carmen who had refused to join the all-Negro Lodge 716. This resulted from the union "being under attack by non-union Negro carmen at the Union Station, and by the United Railroad Workers, AFL-CIO, which is challenging the AFL union's jurisdiction over the carmen at the Washington terminal."--Washington Post, January 29,1953.)
Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes
International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders, Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers
International Union of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers

Sheet Metal Workers' International Association
United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America
United Brotherhood of Paper Makers and Paper Workers

National Federation of Rural Letter Carriers - Independent.

Traditionally in the unions listed above there has been a rigid pattern of segregation. However, because of court action as in the cases against the Boilermakers Union (Marineship Case, etc.), the use of state and municipal fair employment practices enactments, there are now some integrated local unions but by and large the national pattern remains one of segregation.

A clause requiring union membership as a condition of employment is to be found in virtually all collective bargaining agreements in the building and construction trades industry. Because unions perform certain managerial functions in the construction industry the refusal to admit into membership because of color completely denies qualified Negroes the right to work in their chosen trades.

In Terre Haute, Indiana, Negro mechanics have been systematically denied admission into building trades unions and therefore have been denied the right to secure employment in those job classifications where AFL-CIO affiliates hold exclusive bargaining rights.

In Cleveland, Ohio, Negroes were admitted into Local 38 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers only after a three-year struggle. This local union defied an order of the Cleveland Community Relations Board, which administers that community's fair employment practices statute, to admit qualified Negro workers. Finally the national leadership of the AFL-CIO did intervene but for a period of three years and more, skilled Negro mechanics were denied the right to work on all major construction installations in the Cleveland area. These included huge construction projects erected with federal government funds including six NIKE launching and control sites for guided missiles under construction for the U. S. Army and a large Veterans Administration hospital. A similar comment might be made about Local 8 of the Milwaukee Bricklayers Union which at first defied a decision of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission to admit qualified Negroes and finally did so only after intervention by the National AFL-CIO.

In many industries in basic sectors of the American economy the racial practices of the trade union certified as the collective bargaining agent will be the decisive factor in determining the status of Negro workers. All too often there is a significant disparity between the declared public policy of the international unions and the day-to-day reality as experienced by Negro wage earners in the North as well as in the South.

At the present time there is pending with the President's Committee on Government Contracts charges against the Galveston (Texas) Metal Trades Council of the AFL and Local 347 of the International Union of Operating Engineers charging collusion with the Carbide and Chemical Company (Division of Union Carbon and Carbide Corp.), in maintaining separate lines of progression for Negro and white workers which limits Negro employment to some few menial jobs, wage differentials based upon race and other forms of job discrimination. Similar complaints are pending against the Lake Charles (Louisiana) Metal Trades Council, AFL-CIO, and the Cities Service Refining Corporation in maintaining also a rigid pattern of separate seniority lines which limits Negro employment to laborer classifications and which denies seniority and other rights. The same condition exists at the Lion Oil Company plant in ElDorado, Arkansas where the collective bargaining agreement is held by Local 381 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, AFL-CIO.

In some industrial unions which generally maintain desirable civil rights practices there is often found to be significant examples of discrimination and segregation at the work place. Recently the NAACP National Office filed complaints with the President's Committee charging collusion between the Western Electric Company, Greensboro, North Carolina and Local 3062 of the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO. In the complaint filed with this federal agency, the Association described a rigid pattern of job discrimination based on separate lines of progression, the limiting of all Negroes however well qualified to menial job classifications, and the denial of equal seniority rights. A similar situation currently exists at the Atlantic Steel Company in Atlanta, Georgia where the collective bargaining agreement is held by the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO. In this plant, because of the operation of separate seniority lines, hundreds of Negro workers suffer dishonest and false job classifications, are limited to some few production and menial job classifications and are denied the right to develop job skills which would permit employment in more desirable production jobs.

At the present time there are literally hundreds of local unions that remain segregated and therefore deny equal seniority and job rights to Negro workers. The following are some specific examples involving the United Brotherhood of Paper Makers and Paper Workers and the International Union of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, both AFL-CIO affiliates. In all of the following plants these two unions hold joint collective bargaining agreements and maintain a rigid pattern of racially segregated local unions with separate seniority lines which limit Negro employment to laborer's classifications and deny seniority and other rights. These are in plants of the International Paper Company in Mobile, Alabama; Georgetown, South Carolina; Natchez, Mississippi; Moss Point, Mississippi and Bastrop, Louisiana; at the Hudson Pulp and Paper Mill in Palatka, Florida and at the Crown Zellerbach Corporation plant in Bogalusa, Louisiana.

Dear Herb:

Perhaps you will recall that I wrote you some time ago regarding a proposed vocational training program in Georgia. The Georgia State Board of Education is planning to establish area vocational training schools. The plans seem to indicate that the State Board is making a more realistic approach to the kinds of training which will have meaning for today's youth and the industrial requirements. Though I have not seen the plans in detail, and would not be a proper judge in any case, I take it that they are doing about what public education can do regarding vocational training. However, in all the planning there is no provision for the training of Negroes. No separate but equal; no separate and unequal; and no integrated do-what-you-can.

There are two groups interested in this problem plus an informal group of Negro leadership persons who may be cranking up to take some action. The Atlanta Council on Human Relations has at least a passing interest in what is taking place and with a proper presentation of facts and needs would probably be willing to provide some white or bi-racial voice of protest. The Georgia Teachers Education Association through its director Lucious Pitts is concerned about this situation and has already done more towards uncovering what is going on than anyone else. They feel a need to work confidentially behind the scenes. Pitts is in touch with some Negro leadership who may come up with a plan of action. He would welcome a consultation with you if it is possible even though he feels, and I would agree, that the ball should be carried at this point by the local group. My guess is that they need their thinking sharpened, the lines of argument more fully developed, and to consider possible alternative actions if a "community approach" does not work. The suggestion has been made that injunctive relief might be sought if needed. This would mean an invoking of equal protection as applied to concrete plans rather than waiting for overt discrimination.

It would be too bad to have a reasonably good training program cast so as to exclude Negroes. It is none too soon to shape plans for action. I will not be able to keep close touch with this situation, chiefly because I will be moving to other pastures in the near future - a decision reluctantly made in the light of a number of practical family problems.

I trust that your schedule and plans will allow you to give this Atlanta (and Georgia) problem some attention. If at all possible, be in touch with Pitts on your next trip to town.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Pitts:

I have been informed by the Southern Regional Council of a proposed vocational training program to be conducted by the Georgia State Board of Education. I understand that in the revisions for the state vocational training program there are no plans to provide adequate vocational training facilities for Negroes.

You may perhaps know that the NAACP National Office is greatly concerned with the matter of developing industrial, technical and scientific skills within the Negro community. Last year I met with several leading educators in the Atlanta area to discuss the tragic lack of adequate technical and scientific educational facilities for Negro students in Georgia. In Atlanta, as well as elsewhere in the South, the limited programs offered in Negro vocational schools were found to be obsolete in terms of current industrial technology.

If you think it desirable I should like very much to meet with you to discuss this matter as I understand you have been involved with the plans proposed by the Georgia State Board of Education. May I hear from you at your earliest convenience regarding this important matter so that I might arrange to confer with you in Atlanta.

Dear Herbert:

My letter of October 14th was not meant to be cryptic except that I did not know finally what my future arrangements would be. For a number of reasons, mainly related to the practicalities of my personal circumstances, I am accepting an offer with the School for Workers at the University of Wisconsin. The assumption is that after clearing up my Ph. D. I would have a joint appointment with the Political Science department. Since this is work for which I am specifically prepared and in which I have a great deal of interest, and since the offer was an extremely good one and the university is a good place to work from, I felt that I should take the opportunity when it presented itself. I was most reluctant to decide to leave the South and the Southern Regional Council. Certainly the work here has an interest level and sense of urgency which is not likely to be equalled elsewhere.

So you can see that it was not the national AFL-CIO civil rights job that was in the offing. And as much as I appreciate the endorsement, I thought we had already agreed that your endorsement was likely to be "the kiss of death" with most labor groups. Of course this "agreement" took place after your suggesting me and I raise it only as an observation and not as a chastisement. The tone of voice tells all and you are not here to hear.

I trust that you will be able to do some follow-up work regarding my last letter and am glad to see that you are interested in it. My departure from Atlanta will come around the end of December; you might wish to keep this date in mind in case there is anything you want from me before I leave SRC.

Best personal wishes.

MEMORANDUM TO: BORIS SHISHKIN, DIRECTOR
Civil Rights Department, AFL-CIO

FROM: HERBERT HILL, LABOR SECRETARY, NAACP

Please find attached affidavits and other data from members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charging racial discrimination and segregation by unions affiliated to the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations.

AFFIDAVIT OF BARRY J. HENDERSON
vs.
BROTHERHOOD OF RAILWAY AND STEAMSHIP
CLERKS INTERNATIONAL UNION.

Mr. Henderson is a member of Local Lodge 6115 of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks in East St. Louis, Illinois. Local Lodge 6115 is a segregated local of Negro workers employed by the Wabash Railroad in the St. Louis area. White persons are in Local Lodge 5221 which denies membership to Negroes. In the St. Louis area there are fourteen all-colored locals and fourteen all-white locals.

In addition to the rigid pattern of segregation in local lodges there is maintained a pattern of segregated joint councils as the "East St. Louis and St. Louis Joint Council" is composed of the segregated Negro locals and "the St. Louis District Council" is composed of the all-white locals. As Mr. Henderson indicates in his affidavit "the system of segregated locals and segregated seniority rosters denies Negro union members equal promotional rights and does serious harm to their economic status."

Investigation by the NAACP indicates that the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks maintains segregated local lodges in the North as well as in the South. The existence of segregated local lodges and separate racial seniority rosters seriously limits Negro job mobility and violates the seniority rights of Negro union members.

Repeated efforts by Negro members of this International Union to secure the elimination of discrimination and segregation have been to no avail and, therefore, they have now requested the assistance of the NAACP.

SEGREGATION AND DISCRIMINATORY RACIAL PRACTICES - BROTHERHOOD OF RAILWAY AND STEAMSHIP CLERKS, TULSA, OKLAHOMA.

Officials of Local Lodge 6257, which is a segregated Negro lodge, affiliated to the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks in Tulsa, Oklahoma, have requested the assistance of the NAACP national office in attempting to eliminate discriminatory practices suffered by Negro workers employed by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad in Tulsa. The Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks maintains Lodge 777 for white employees of the Railroad and Lodge 6257 for Negro employees.

On March 3, 1956 the President of the Negro local in a letter to the General Chairman of the Union's Frisco System Board requested the elimination of segregated locals and stated, "At a meeting held February 15, members of this organization decided that it would be to our best interests to merge with Lodge 777 and surrender our charter. Since the schools of our city and state have integrated without incidents, we are sure the same would happen between our Lodges." The Brotherhood has refused the request of the Negro Lodge to merge with Lodge 777 and continues to maintain racially segregated lodges for white and colored workers employed by the same railroad.

Negro workers belonging to Lodge 6257 have frequently charged violation of their seniority and promotional rights by the white local. The collusion of the all-white local, Lodge 777, with the Railroad has caused great harm to many Negro railway workers, some with 12, 17 and 37 years of seniority and is typical of the discriminatory practices engaged in by the Brotherhood of Steamship and Railway Clerks throughout the United States.

An analysis of the Union's operation in Tulsa and elsewhere indicates quite clearly that because Negro workers are admitted into membership only in segregated local unions they are denied equal representatio and bargaining rights and are in fact denied the full benefits of trade union membership. Because representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks have repeatedly refused to eliminate the discriminatory practices suffered by Negro workers attorneys for the NAACP in Tulsa are prepared to initiate legal action if the practices of discrimination and segregation are not eliminated by March 1, 1959.

It is necessary to note that the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, together with other international unions, engages in discriminatory racist practices in violation of the stated civil rights policy of the AFL-CIO and unfortunately alters these practices only when forced to by state statutes or courts of law. An example of this was the year long refusal of Lodge 364 in Minnesota to accept one Negro worker into membership. This complaint was filed with the Minnesota State Fair Employment Practices Commission which directed that the Negro complainant be accepted into membership by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks with seniority beginning on the date of acceptance. The respondent union accepted the Negro into membership more than a year after the initial complaint was filed and only after the State of Minnesota, through its Fair Employment Practices Commission, indicated its intent to use the full penal power of the law. It is ironic to note that the President of this Union, Mr. George Harrison, is a member of the Civil Rights Committee of the AFL-CIO.

AFFIDAVIT OF WILLIAM GAMBLE
vs.
INTERNATIONAL HOD CARRIERS,
BUILDING AND COMMON LABORERS
UNION OF AMERICA.

Since 1953 Mr. Gamble has attempted to secure membership in Local 100 of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union in East St. Louis, Illinois. Officials of Local 100 have continuously denied him such membership and in addition refused to honor the travelling permit issued to him by Local 110 in St. Louis, Missouri.

As Mr. Gamble states in his affidavit, "This is in violation of the established practices of the International Union and has prevented me from securing employment. Membership in other locals and travelling permits held by white persons are recognized."

Negro workers are currently denied employment in the major construction projects in the St. Louis and East St. Louis area because of the discriminatory practices of unions affiliated to the Building Trades Council of the AFL-CIO. If within ninety days Mr. Gamble and other qualified Negroes are not admitted into membership by this Union attorneys for the Illinois State Conference of NAACP Branches will initiate legal action.

AFFIDAVIT OF JETHRO SMITH
vs.
INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS.

Mr. Jethro Smith is a qualified electrician and has worked as such for over thirteen years. Because the Union has consistently refused to admit him into membership he has been permitted to work only on minor jobs within Negro residential areas and has been prevented from securing employment in major construction installations including federal government projects in the St. Louis area. Membership in Local 309 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers is limited to white persons only.

If within ninety days Mr. Smith and other qualified Negro electricians are not admitted into membership attorneys for the Illinois State Conference of NAACP Branches are prepared to initiate legal action.

AFFIDAVIT OF HENRY DENSMORE
vs.
OPERATIVE PLASTERERS & CEMENT
MASONS INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

Local 90 of this Union like several others in the St. Louis and East St. Louis area maintains a rigid policy of excluding Negroes from membership thereby preventing qualified colored mechanics from securing employment on major construction projects.

Mr. Densmore states in his affidavit that, "Mr. L. H. Ellis, the busines agent on the premises, refused to give me an application form and after some discussion I was told to appear at a meeting on August 8 at the Broadview Hotel to apply for membership. Upon my arrival at the designated time and place, I found there was no meeting, nor had any such meeting been arranged for."

If within ninety days Mr. Densmore and other qualified Negro mechanics are not admitted into membership attorneys for the Illinois State Conference of NAACP Branches are prepared to initiate legal action

AFFIDAVIT OF FRANK T. LYERSON
vs.
UNITED ASSOCIATION OF JOURNEYMEN AND APPRENTICES OF THE PLUMBING AND PIPE FITTING INDUSTRY OF THE U. S.

Local 630 of this Union like the majority of those affiliated to the Plumber's Union limits membership to white persons exclusively thereby preventing qualified Negro workers from securing employment in their chosen trade. Local 630 has repeatedly refused membership to Mr. Lyerson and all other Negroes in the East St. Louis area.

If within ninety days Mr. Lyerson and other qualified Negro mechanics are not admitted into membership attorneys for the Illinois State Conference of NAACP Branches are prepared to initiate legal action

The complaints cited above are typical of the continued discriminatory practices engaged in by building trades unions throughout the country. Union membership is a condition of employment in the construction industry, therefore, the refusal to admit into membership because of color completely denies qualified Negroes the right to work in their chosen trade. It is essential that the National AFL-CIO vigorously proceed to eliminate the well-known pattern of discrimination and segregation in the many unions affiliated to the AFL-CIO Building Trades Council.

UNITED PAPER MAKERS AND PAPERWORKERS
UNION AND INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF PULP, SULPHITE AND PAPER MILL WORKERS.

Members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People who are members of both the United Paper Makers and Paperworkers Union and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers have requested the assistance of the Association's National Office in eliminating the rigid pattern of segregation and discrimination maintained by these two international unions. At the present time a great many local unions affiliated to the United Paper Makers and Paperworkers and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers are segregated and deny equal seniority and job rights to Negro workers.

Typical of such practices where these two Unions hold joint collective bargaining agreements and maintain a rigid pattern of racially segregated local unions with separate seniority lines limiting Negro employment to laborer classifications and denying Negroes seniority and other rights is at the Union Bag-Camp Paper Corp. in Savannah, Georgia. All of the Negro workers are limited to membership in two segregated locals, Local 601 and Local 615, affiliated to the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers. All white workers hold membership in Local 388 and Local 435 of the same Union and Local 408 of the United Paper Makers and Paperworkers Union.

These Unions maintain segregated locals with discriminatory seniority lines, negotiated into the collective bargaining agreement in many other manufacturing plants. Among these are the plants of the International Paper Company in Mobile, Alabama; Georgetown, South Carolina; Natchez and Moss Point, Mississippi and Bastrop, Louisiana; at the Hudson Pulp and Paper Mill in Palatka, Florida; and at the Crown Zellerbach Corporation plant in Bogalusa, Louisiana.

OIL REFINING AND CHEMICAL INDUSTRY.

At the present time there is pending with the President's Committe on Government Contracts many complaints against trade unions. Among these are actions filed by the NAACP against the Galveston (Texas) Metal Trades Council, AFL-CIO, and Local 347 of the International Union of Operating Engineers charging collusion with the Carbide and Chemical Company (Division of Union Carbon and Carbide Corp.), in maintaining separate lines of progression for Negro and white workers which limits Negro employment to some few menial jobs, wage differentials based upon race and other forms of job discrimination. Similar complaints are pending against the Lake Charles (Louisiana) Metal Trades Council, AFL-CI( and the Cities Service Refining Corporation in maintaining also a rigid pattern of separate seniority lines which limits Negro employment to laborer classifications and which denies seniority and other rights. The same condition exists at the Lion Oil Company plant in ElDorado, Arkansas, where the collective bargaining agreement is held by Local 381 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, AFL-CIO.

COMMUNICATIONS WORKERS OF AMERICA-WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY, GREENSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA.

In some industrial unions which generally maintain desirable civil rights policies there is often found to be significant examples of discrimination and segregation at the work place. The NAACP national office filed complaints with the President's Committee on Government Contracts charging collusion between the Western Electric Company, Greensboro, North Carolina, and Local 3062 of the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO.

In the complaint filed with this federal agency the Association described a rigid pattern of job discrimination based on separate lines of progression, the limiting of all Negroes, however well qualified, to menial job classifications, and the denial of equal seniority rights. A similar situation currently exists at the Atlantic Steel Company in Atlanta, Georgia, where the collective bargaining agreement is held by the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO. In this plant, because of the operation of separate seniority lines, hundreds of Negro workers suffer dishonest and false job classifications, and are denied the right to develop job skills which would permit employment in more desirable production jobs.

In addition to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen which exclude Negroes by constitutional provision many international unions affiliated to the AFL-CIO continue to exclude Negroes by tacit consent and other AFL-CIO unions limit Negro membership in most instances to segregated or "auxiliary" locals. Among these are the:

International Association of Railroad Telegraphers
International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers
United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry of the United States and Canada
Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees
Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America
Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America
Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes
International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders, Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers
International Union of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers
Sheet Metal Workers' International Association
United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America
United Brotherhood of Paper Makers and Paperworkers

In many industries in basic sectors of the American economy the racial practices of the trade union certified as the collective bargaining agent will be the decisive factor in determining the status of Negro workers. All too often there is a significant disparity between the declared public policy of the National AFL-CIO and the day-to-day reality as experienced by Negro wage earners in the North as well as in the South.

Today many affiliated unions are blatantly violating the declared civil rights policies of the AFL-CIO and increasingly Negro workers are experiencing a significant alienation from the organized labor movement. As I have urged in previous memoranda it is totally inadequate for the Civil Rights Department to proceed from individual random complaints which often take years to resolve if ever. What is clearly necessary is a direct frontal attack against segregation and discrimination within trade unions conducted on a systematic basis by the AFL-CIO. Obviously a policy has meaning only to the degree that it is enforced, otherwise one must conclude that it is simply a matter of empty ritual.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in fulfilling its obligations to its own membership and to all Negro workers, will continue to bring these matters to the attention of the responsible leaders of the AFL-CIO, to call upon public opinion when it is deemed necessary and finally to initiate litigation against trade union organizations responsible for discriminatory practices which deny Negro workers equal job rights and do serious harm to the well-being of the entire Negro community.

Dear George Meany:

Please find enclosed copy of memorandum from Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary, to Boris Shishkin, director, AFL-CIO Civil Rights Department. This memorandum contains complaints from members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charging racial discrimination and segregation by unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations.

For the past three years the Association has cooperated diligently with the Civil Rights Department and with affiliated international unions in attempting to resolve problems of discrimination and segregation. In addition, representatives of the NAACP national office were active in efforts to defeat "right to work" legislation in Ohio, California and elsewhere. I received a kind letter from James L. McDevitt, National Director of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, thanking the Association for the efforts of our labor secretary in helping to defeat "right to work" proposals in Ohio.

We recall that the merger convention of the AFL-CIO incorporated the following provision into its constitution:

> "To encourage all workers without regard to race, creed, color or national origin to share in the full benefits of union organization."

However, three years after the merger agreement there is clear evidence that many unions continue discriminatory racial practices. Some affiliated international unions which have eliminated constitutional provisions limiting membership to white persons today exclude Negroes by tacit consent. Other AFL-CIO affiliates limit Negro membership to segregated or "auxiliary" locals. Some international unions have moved sincerely to eliminate inequalities but progress has been slow.

Increasingly, we are receiving complaints against trade unions from our members and from Negro workers throughout the country charging racial discrimination and segregation. Careful investigation by our staff has in most instances sustained these individual charges and, in addition, has revealed a pattern of racial discrimination and segregation in many affiliated unions.

Among the valid complaints received by us are those against the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry, Communication Workers of America, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union of America, United Paper Makers and Paperworkers Union, International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, International Union of Operating Engineers, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, etc. I am sure you are aware that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen continue to exclude non-white persons from union membership by constitutional provisions.

A typical example is the complaint received from Barry J. Henderson who for many years has been a leader in the NAACP in East St. Louis, Illinois. Solely because of his race Mr. Henderson and other Negroes in the St. Louis-East St. Louis area are forced to belong to segregated local lodges maintained by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, AFL-CIO. As Mr. Henderson states in the affidavit submitted to the AFL-CIO Civil Rights Department, "the system of segregated local and segregated seniority rosters denies Negro workers equal seniority rights and does serious harm to their economic status."

I am sure you realize that the NAACP is obligated to its own membership to press vigorously for the elimination of discriminatory practices within trade union organizations. In previous memoranda and in discussions with responsible AFL-CIO officials we have expressed our conviction that the problem is of such magnitude that it cannot be resolved by the present procedure of taking up random individual complaints. We believe discrimination can be eliminated only through a systematic program on the part of the leadership of the AFL-CIO to enforce its basic policy of non-discrimination throughout the organized labor movement.

This problem will be cited in our staff reports to the Annual Meeting of the NAACP January 5, 1959, and may be treated in a resolution by our Board of Directors meeting later that same day.

We would be pleased to have any comment of yours which could be cited with our January 5 report on the situation as we see it.

We are not unaware of some of the difficulties faced by the AFL-CIO in implementing the just policy it has set for itself. Some of these difficulties stem from long-established, but unjust traditions and practices within certain international unions themselves. Some are rooted in the present climate of opinion in the South and in other sections of the country. Some, undoubtedly, are connected with politics within unions and with the general program and priorities of the organized labor movement.

We remain convinced, however, that the only way to attack is to attack, and, as in the school desegregation problem (which presents similar obstacles) to make a beginning. As I have indicated, we have certain inescapable responsibilities to our members. We must present their cases and press them toward a solution. Naturally, we stand ready, as always, to cooperate fully in an active and continuing program looking toward elimination of those practices which both our organizations deplore and denounce.

With kind personal regards, and with greetings of the Holiday season, I am

Very sincerely yours,

REPORT TO NAACP ANNUAL MEETING

by

THE LABOR SECRETARY

JANUARY 5, 1959

Because 1958 was a year of economic decline Negro employment gains especially in heavy industry and manufacturing were limited. The vulnerability of the Negro worker to serious economic distress is clearly indicated by the facts on unemployment. During the week of March 9, 14.4% of the total non-white civilian labor force in the United States was unemployed. The comparable rate for white workers was 6.9%. Although only one out of every ten persons in the labor force is non-white, more than one out of every five persons unemployed during 1958 was non-white. The non-white unemployment rate as estimated by the Census Bureau was higher during 1958 than at any time during the last eleven years in which the Census Bureau has reported unemployment figures by color.

During the past year the non-white unemployment rate has approached the level recorded at the time of the 1940 census when the United States was still recovering from the post-1929 depression. Non-white unemployment was then 18% and during 1958 at times it has reached 14%. In 1958 and in the preceding three years the non-white unemployment rate has been almost consistently more than double the white unemployment rate. This would indicate that very limited progress has been made in securing for the Negro worker the same relative degree of employment stability that the white worker enjoys. It is clear that the differential in employment stability between white and Negro workers has been extended in both years of prosperity as well as in years of economic decline. All available data clearly indicates that the ratio of unemployment among non-whites as compared to that of whites has been steadily increasing since 1951.

However, as a direct result of NAACP activity some specific instances of progress can be reported. At the Boeing Aircraft Company plant in Wichita, Kansas for the first time Negro workers were admitted into the Company's apprenticeship training program and a limited number of colored persons were employed in technical and clerical positions. This advance was made after the NAACP national office in conjunction with the Wichita Branch initiated action involving the Boeing Company's management, the International Association of Machinists and state and federal agencies. Similar progress can be reported at the Hayes Aircraft Corporation plant in Birmingham where a small number of Negro workers were moved into some job classifications formerly held by white workers exclusively. The Association was also responsible for securing the admission of colored workers for the first time into the apprenticeship training program conducted by the National Cash Register Company in Dayton, Ohio and for the employment of Negroes in technical and clerical positions.

In many industries in basic sectors of the American economy the racial practices of the trade union certified as the collective bargaining agent is the decisive factor in determining the status of Negro workers. All too often there is a significant disparity between the declared public policy of the National AFL-CIO and the day-to-day reality as experienced by Negro wage earners in the North as well as in the South. Three years have now passed since the merger of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations resolved to "encourage all workers without regard to race, color, creed or national origin to share in the full benefits of union organizations." However, three years after the merger agreement there is clear evidence that many unions are engaged in a variety of discriminatory racial practices. Some international unions which have eliminated constitutional provisions limiting membership to white persons today continue to exclude Negroes by tacit consent. There are AFL-CIO affiliates like the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks which limit Negro membership to segregated or "auxiliary" locals while other unions enter into collective bargaining agreements establishing separate seniority lines limiting Negro employees to menial job classifications and denying Negro workers seniority and other rights. The Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, both affiliated to the AFL-CIO continue to exclude non-white persons from membership by constitutional provision. During 1958 the NAACP national office presented many complaints to the National AFL-CIO Civil Rights Department together with extensive memoranda urging vigorous action to eliminate discrimination and segregation within trade union organizations.

In many communities in the North as well as in the South qualified Negro mechanics are unable to secure employment in major construction installations including government projects because of the discriminatory practices of building trades unions affiliated to the AFL-CIO. It is indeed ironic to note that because of the "lily-white" exclusion policies of Local 26 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and other building trades unions in Washington, D.C. Negro mechanics were barred from employment in the construction of the AFL-CIO National headquarters building and today Negro workers are denied job opportunities in major public and private construction installations in the Nation's Capitol.

The leaders of some international unions operating in the South in seeking to avoid conflict over racial issues are permitting racist elements to gain control of local union operations. Direct observation indicates that in many instances union shop stewards and business agents openly solicit funds and support for the White Citizens Councils and in Front Royal, Virginia a local affiliated to the Textile Workers Union of America has provided space in the Union's building for classes to be conducted by the private school corporation.

We are forced to note the inability of the AFL-CIO Civil Rights Department to effectively enforce AFL-CIO policy resolutions against discrimination and segregation as these racist practices continue especially in the building trades, the railway industry and in other sectors of the economy where union membership is a condition of employment.

In the course of filing complaints with the President's Committee on Government Contracts the Association documented industry-wide patterns of employment discrimination in aircraft manufacturing, textiles and in the chemical and oil refining industry. Over forty complaints filed by the NAACP are currently pending with the President's Committee. Some of these cases were filed in April, 1955 without any significant intervention by the Committee resulting in the elimination of discriminatory employment practices. NAACP experience indicates that the Committee has failed to enforce the anti-discrimination provision in federal government contracts vigorously and consistently. As a result many national multi-plant corporations are blatantly violating the federal government's non-discrimination policy.

Upon a request from the Executive Secretary to Vice President Nixon, who is Chairman of the President's Committee on Government Contracts, the Labor Secretary appeared before a meeting of the Sub-Committee on Review of the President's Committee which was attended by representatives of the major governmental agencies awarding contracts to private manufacturers for goods and services. As a result the Association for the first time received reports on many cases including those which had been pending for more than three years without any meaningful action by the Committee. The NAACP insisted that the Negro workers filing complaints be interviewed and that their statements be entered into the record and that such interviewing take place not on Company property. We are able to report that Negro workers are now being interviewed privately, in some instances in NAACP branch offices rather than in the office and in the presence of the personnel manager of the company against whom the complaint has been filed. We also strongly urged that the Committee cancel contracts where employers refuse to eliminate discriminatory hiring practices.

At the Boeing Aircraft Company plant in Wichita, Air Force personnel including an industrial relations consultant were removed from the installation after the NAACP national office vigorously protested and presented affidavits to the Federal Government establishing that persons investigating complaints for the President's Committee were guilty of racial bias and intimidation of NAACP members for the purpose of securing the withdrawal of charges against the Boeing Aircraft Company.

Because the American economy is predominantly interstate a basic responsibility for eliminating discriminatory employment practices must fall upon the federal government. The NAACP will continue to take every possible action to secure more effective enforcement by the President's Committee on Government Contracts.

The Association was active in the field of migratory farm labor in many states along the Atlantic Seaboard and on the West Coast. Last June the Labor Secretary conducted an investigation beginning in Homestead, in southern Florida, through Georgia, the Carolinas and into Norfolk, Virginia, where the federal government maintains a check point for vehicles bringing migratory farm workers into northern states. Labor contracts were examined and working and living conditions were investigated at first hand. The pathetic and tragic conditions of thousands of Negro agricultural workers were observed as the Labor Secretary joined these caravans along the open road, in the fields and at labor camps. At the conclusion of the investigation reports were submitted to various federal and state agencies including an extensive conference with the Chief of the Enforcement Division and staff representatives of the Social Security Administration and the Treasury Department regarding the almost total lack of Social Security coverage for agricultural laborers as required by recent amendments to the Federal Social Security Act. Specific recommendations were made by the Association for more vigorous enforcement of various federal laws and regulations relating to agricultural labor. Extensive memoranda was submitted to the Governor of the State of New York and to Industrial Commissioners of other northern states. In several instances the Association succeeded in closing farm labor camps and in voiding labor agreements and contractor's licenses.

The work of the Association on behalf of migratory agricultural workers on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line and on the West Coast has had a direct effect in eliminating abuses, in securing the passage of state social welfare and protective labor legislation and in sharply posing to the entire nation the exploitation and the misery of America's "Forgotten People."

Dear Herb:

I read your Buffalo Law Review article on my way back from Airlie House, but what with one thing and another have been slow in responding to it. I pretty well agree with all of it. Can these Commissions, however, realistically do much more than (a) provide a few employers with a climate in which to do what is for them economically rational; and (b) keep others and the unions on the defensive (but as you show, they have hardly done this)?

I took note of your promise that you would come by when you are in Atlanta.

Dear Roy,

I had a good and an instructive time at the Dallas Convention, and am deeply grateful for being askedto come. The whole occasion seemed to me pitched on just the right note.

Expenses were as follows:

Airport limousine	1.00

hotel	7.00

taxi	.75

Total	107.40

That hotel was high for me, but my office booked me in a grand one, and that seemed to be minimum rate! Dallas, and all of Texas, has a little too much money for my blood!

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

We are very pleased to have a telegram today from Mr. Fleming stating that you have accepted our invitation to take part in a discussion at our 45th annual convention in Dallas, Texas, on Thursday, July 1.

The entire day will be devoted to a discussion of the Supreme Court decision in the public school segregation cases. In the morning all the delegates will be assembled to listen to three discussion leaders: Thurgood Marshall on the legal meaning and implementation of the decisions; Dr. Kenneth Clark on how desegregation has worked out on certain community and state levels in recent years; and yourself on the resources in, and approaches to, the Southern white community.

We expect to devote three hours to this, from 9:30 to 12:30 noon. If the leaders will content themselves with about 20, and not more than 25, minutes each, we will have an hour and one-half for discussion from the floor.

In the afternoon we plan two separate discussion groups, one on the implications of the decision not only as to schools but as to other forms of segregation existing in northern communities. Here we will attempt to work out an action program suitable to northern cities and states. The second discussion group in the afternoon will have for its job the formation of an action program which southern communities can put into effect. If it is possible for you to remain for the whole day I am sure you would be helpful as a resource person in the afternoon workshop addressing itself to southern communities.

In common with all organizations of our type, we are not able to offer an honorarium, but of course we will take care of your travel and hotel expenses. If you wish these in advance and will send me a statement I will be glad to mail you a check. If it will be all right with you to receive the amount after the convention is over, you can give me a statement at Dallas and I will mail you a check when we return to New York.

Very sincerely yours,

Roy Wilkins

When people get back to the office, do take up with them whether you can get more.

I met with your Savannah branch a few days ago and they gladly took on a hundred, notwithstanding that they are disposing of three or four hundred of the Public Affairs pamphlet too.

I think you would find it a popular and useful document in the South. It is done with an eye to making itself useful in local interracial discussion groups on how to bring about unsegregated schools. We have sent a copy to Dr. Butcher with the enclosed letter.

Dear Roy:

Confirming our phone conversation of today, the first team effort of agency personnel, planned at Atlanta University in January, will take place in Charlottesville, Virginia, on March 4th and 5th.

We plan this as a two day meet. Our proposed procedure is: (1) staff people come together with local "coordinator" Mrs. Sara Patton Boyle to get briefed in the situation; (2) staff people go out into the community to get their own picture of the situation and to contact members of their local constituency; (3) staff people meet together (second morning, for progress report and to plan afternoon meeting); (4) each staff person brings in one key person from own constituency to meet with others in closed session to determine: (a) what more can be done, (b) what part of task each local group can best perform, and (c) how they can best cooperate and coordinate their efforts.

First meeting takes place at 10:30, Monday, March 4th, at Mrs. Boyle's home, 171 Mimosa Drive (on Route 29, South, near University).

This exploratory effort has exciting possibilities, for Charlottesville is an "opportunity" community. I look forward to seeing your Virginia man there.

I am glad I saw you in New York last week and learned that the letter was written with an eye to readers in addition to me. Otherwise, I might have thought you felt I needed all that convincing.

By the way, I ran into Ralph McGill the other day and he mentioned receiving a copy. I also sent him a copy of the pamphlet reprinting Matthews testimony calling his attention to the section which attempts to qualify the charges against the NAACP.

As you know, we are old hands at appraising this kind of "evidence", since it has been used so widely against us by the segregationist propaganda. If they stopped, we would get worried.

All the best.

Dear Harold:

I appreciate your thoughtfulness in sending us copies of some pages of the pamphlet being distributed by the Georgia Commission on Education.

J. B. Matthews knows better about the NAACP and communism, but I suppose it is worth something to have him declare flatly that the NAACP is not a communist front.

The interesting aspect is that he took only Herbert Hill's recent pamphlet and our 1956 convention resolution, whereas there is available a Crisis editorial of March, 1949, a letter from me to the Civil Rights Congress of November, 1949, our stated policy and screening action in connection with the January, 1950, Civil Rights Mobilization in Washington, our 1950 convention resolution (after a bitter, wide-open floor fight in Boston) and my article in the American Magazine in late 1951.

He could have gone back to the Scottsboro case of 1932 when the communists ran the NAACP ragged with attacks as vicious and lying as any that have come from the White Citizens Councils.

What amuses us (when it does not infuriate us) is that the Dixie anti-communist crusaders are so naive on the issue that they think a name here and there on a letterhead or a committee roster proves something. They don't know (or don't care) how these names were appropriated.

The real fighters against communism among Negroes were people like us who fought the communist program every step of the way, who checkmated them, needled them, exposed their use of the Negro problem to further Soviet policy, and who met their infiltration with techniques that froze them out without using the McCarthy methods.

It was the NAACP which pointed out in 1932 that the Scottsboro case illustrated perfectly that communists were interested not in helping Negroes, but in using them (even unto the death sentence) for communist purposes.

Well, Eugene Cook and the White Citizens Councils who wouldn't know communism or a communist from a Missouri mule are yelping at the NAACP. Everyone knows that the communists want separation (segregation) and independence for a Negro American "Republic." Anything to break up the U. S. A. The last thing the Communist Party wants is integration, unity and progress on race relations.

Cook and his "never, never" gang are playing into their hands by smearing the NAACP.

With best wishes,

Very sincerely yours,

Roy

P.S. Incidentally, twenty-nine out of the forty-six persons named by Matthews to the Florida legislative committee as among the "top leadership" of the NAACP with fifteen or more "citations" are not officers or committee members of the NAACP--and I doubt that many of them are even dues-paying members.

Dear Roy:

You have probably seen a copy of J. B. Matthews testimony in Florida, as printed and circulated by the Georgia Commission on Education. But, in case you haven't, I have thermo-faxed several pages from our lone copy. Note the special word on the NAACP beginning at the bottom of the page numbered 40. I am most impressed that you and Herbert Hill have made it necessary for Matthews to absolve the NAACP of the communist front charge. I am even more impressed that this bill of good health is being circulated by the Georgia Commission. With testimonials like these, how can you lose?

Best regards.

Dear Roy:

Many thanks for sending me a copy of the reply you received from the Department of Justice. Henry had earlier sent me a copy of your letter, which I thought was extremely well done. Clearly it was, since it elicited from the Department of Justice the nearest thing yet to a repudiation of Manning Johnson. This gives us all something we can use to good effect.

All the best.

MEMORANDUM February 6, 1959

To: Mr. Roy Wilkins
N. A. A. C. P.

From: Harold C. Fleming, Director
Southern Regional Council

Re: SOUTHERN OPINION

It is, of course, improbable that any of the organizations working meaningfully for desegregation can do much to counter their unfavorable public image in the South. This is especially true of the NAACP as the chief advocate of civil rights and, by the same token, the chief scapegoat of the segregationists. But it is also true of the Southern Regional Council and even some groups that are uncommitted on desegregation as such.

On the positive side, it's not necessary for any of us to be generally liked in order to do a useful job. Again, this is especially true of the NAACP. Therefore, I'm assuming for the purposes of this hasty and fragmentary memorandum that we're interested in two things: (1) To be understood by "people of good will" and, so far as possible, by people in leadership positions; (2) To counteract the false charges that embarrass, hamper, or confuse our own friends and constituents.

Here are some fairly obvious things that have occurred to us as SRC has tried to deal with these problems:

We are handicapped by lack of sophistication and public relations skill among our "grassroots" people. I suppose the NAACP is, too. More of our efforts might well be directed toward improving their performance. Key state and local leaders ought to have a "kit" of materials which properly interpret the organization's purposes and program, and which refute the most common charges made against it. These materials would have to be updated periodically. Perhaps the biggest problem is getting our local people to digest such information and to keep it available for use when needed.

Most non-professionals are inept in handling the press. A carefully prepared press-relations guide -- plus attention to this question in annual and special conferences -- will help. There's no point in my spelling out the content, but I'm thinking of such things as the importance of writing out public statements, how to prepare and issue a news release, when and when not to comment, cultivating one or two local reporters, handling press coverage of meetings, and so on. I am enclosing a copy of a memo on public relations techniques that SRC prepared for the state councils on human relations some time ago. It might have some value as a suggestive exhibit.

It's probably superfluous for me to mention the importance of careful screening of plaintiffs in civil rights cases. Legally, the character and background of the plaintiff may often be unimportant; but in public relations terms, these are factors to be considered. Since the local branches are usually involved long before the national offices, this too is perhaps basically a matter of local leadership training.

I have been impressed by your public offer on several occasions to go anywhere in the South and speak in any forum on the NAACP and its work. This technique is excellent and might be used by regional, state, and local leaders as well. Even when nothing comes of it, it points up the fact that the detractors of the NAACP are afraid to give it an honest hearing.

As a final note, what is said by national figures obviously affects Southern opinion (E.g., Chet Huntley.) The use of influential friends and board members of the organization as spokesmen is much to be desired. The NAACP is fortunate in having an executive who is eloquent, personable, and statesmanlike -- in short, an excellent public spokesman. But the professionals should not carry too much of this burden. The public is likely to discount, at least, partly the arguments of any person in the pay of the organization; they can't discount the testimony of influential laymen who are voluntarily championing it.

I'm sorry time doesn't permit a more carefully thought-out and written memorandum, but I hope these random observations will be of some help.

Thank you for your note about the committee. We understand perfectly the reasons why you feel it best not to serve as a member.

However, I do hope that we can take advantage of your knowledge of the problem and seek advice from you from time to time.

The committee is to hold its first meeting February 9, at 11 AM here. I do not want to burden you with extra work or to crowd in on your schedule of activities, but if you should feel moved to send me a memorandum, however brief, on the situation or any aspect of it, I am sure the Chairman, Alfred Baker Lewis, would be grateful.

Dear Roy:

I am complimented by your letter of December 15 and the invitation to serve on a special committee concerned with Southern opinion.

Such a committee is well conceived, and I will be more than happy to give any advice on suggestions I can. But since I wouldn't be able to attend the regular meetings of the committee, I'd rather not take on the responsibility of formal membership. If it's equally satisfactory, I should prefer to be considered an adviser whom the committee can call on whenever it wishes.

Considering both the distance and my status as a staff member of a cooperating organization, I believe this would be the way in which I could best serve.

Let me know whether this will work.

Dear ~~Mr. Fleming~~ Harold:

There has been considerable discussion in meetings of our Board of Directors on the need for recruiting additional public opinion among Southern white people. As a result, at the December 8 meeting of our Board, a committee was appointed to study methods of accomplishing this, to be composed of both members of our Board and non-members.

It is not anticipated that the committee will meet regularly each month. The chairman of the committee will probably consult with out-of-town members by mail but at least one meeting might be held during the year for which the travel expenses of out-of-town members would be provided.

I am writing you at the instruction of Dr. Channing H. Tobias, Chairman of the Board, to inquire whether you would be willing to serve on such a committee.

It is our hope to call a meeting at an early date.

LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE ON CIVIL RIGHTS

20 West 40th Street New York 18, N. Y.

May 12, 1961

TO: All Participating Organizations

FROM: Roy Wilkins, Chairman

On May 10, a New York Times dispatch reported President Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, as stating that the Administration dissociates itself from the package of civil rights bills introduced a few days earlier by Senator Clark (Pa.) and Representative Celler (N.Y.) embodying the civil rights pledges of the 1960 Democratic platform.

A key phrase in the dispatch noted that there had been "very little pressure" for new civil rights legislation.

In my capacity as Executive Secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, I released the enclosed statement making it clear that in our view this decision of the White House is "mistaken and regrettable."

It is essential that the Administration and the Congress know that the national civil rights groups question both the logic and the strategy reflected in this decision. I am therefore urging that your organization, both nationally and through its local constituency, make immediate representations to the President, if possible along the lines suggested in the NAACP statement.

All the signs are that we shall obtain no more in the way of badly needed new legislation than we elicit by the breadth and strength of our indicated interest. I should appreciate receiving a copy of any communication your organization sends to the White House.

Statement of Roy Wilkins, Executive Secretary,
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on the White House attitude towards civil rights legislation, May 10, 1961.

The decision of the Kennedy Administration to dissociate the White House from the package of civil rights bills introduced in the Congress on May 8 is mistaken and regrettable.

It ignores the fact that accomplishment of statutory compliance with the school desegregation ruling by 1963, as pledged in the Democratic platform is impossible unless legislation to that effect is approved and moves forward without delay in the present session.

It would seem to reject the proposal that the Civil Rights Commission be made permanent, which was also a pledge in the Democratic platform. Since the term of the Commission expires next September, legislation is necessary and the need for it was demonstrated last week when a Louisiana registrar took the Fifth amendment rather than answer the Commission's questions on denying registration to Negroes.

The Kennedy Administration has made an excellent beginning on civil rights on the executive level through the Justice Department, through appointment of Negroes to office, and through the attitude and pronouncements of the President himself.

The judicial branch has stood fast on the constitutional aspects of the civil rights question.

But we have three branches of government and the White House decision ignores the fact that the dramatic actions on voting rights that have been taken by the present Attorney General have been made possible by the 1957 and 1960 legislation enacted under the Eisenhower Administration.

It ignores also the fact that on school desegregation, which has become the critical emotional civil rights issue, the legislative branch has lagged far behind the judicial and executive branches.

Indeed, the legislative branch has sabotaged the Supreme Court ruling of 1954 and, in effect, has given its allegiance instead to the Southern Manifesto of defiance promulgated in 1956 by Dixie Senators and Congressmen.

The decision to leave this sorry legislative history undisturbed constitutes an offering of a cactus bouquet to Negro parents and their children on the 7th anniversary next Wednesday of the Supreme Court school desegregation ruling.

As for practical politics, the record is conclusive that whether a President sponsors civil rights legislation or not, his general legislative program is subject to hatchet treatment by Southerners and their allies.

There is no better time than now to have the American people find out how far the Southern representatives in the Congress will go in placing their color-line code ahead of the national security of their country.

And the phrase national security is not an exaggeration because both the jackals and the bears are reaching for our vitals and the United States needs desperately to preserve something more than whiteness.

Senator Paul Douglas introduced in March a civil rights bill, S. 1434, which is jointly sponsored by many Democratic and Republic Senators. Senator Joseph S. Clark and Representative Emanuel Celler who introduced the May 8 bills deserve thanks for their effort to carry out the platform pledges of their party on this issue, even though the White House, for tactical or other reasons, has refused them its blessing.

Dear Roy:

We don't like to "raid" anyone's staff, Particularly the NAACP's.

As you know better than I, the position of Assistant to the Director requires a man who has both the necessary qualifications and is also someone whom the Director knows well enough to be confident he can work easily with. I have offered the job to Vernon solely because, of all the people I know, and who are perhaps available, he best fits these two requirements.

I believe that Vernon, if he takes our job, will get invaluable experience and training. He will get a regional background, and he will learn something -- maybe a good bit -- about a lot of functions he is not now doing. I have told Vernon that a staff as small and specialized as ours cannot promise a man sure advancement. My observation has been that fellows like Vernon often have to move around in order to move up. If he takes our job we hope he will stay. But whether he does or doesn't, I sincerely believe that he will get here excellent training, which will help him personally, and help all of us in the future.

But if you succeed in holding on to him, we think you've got a damn good man.

Best wishes.

Dear Roy:

Enclosed are some data which I hope may be of some help to you. I trust you got the things we sent up yesterday.

I think it is great that you have this chance to speak with Mr. Satterfield, particularly before the Bar Association audience. The American Bar Association should be eternally ashamed of having elected a man who years earlier had led in the formation of The Circuit Riders, and who, by every subsequent act, demonstrated his basic ignorance of American constitutionalism; for that matter, so should the Methodist Church of which he is a high figure.

It is hard to believe that 300,000 Negro Mississippians could own their own homes. This would be about one-third of the state's population.

If we think of anything else that might help you in time, we shall send it up.

Dear Leslie:

At the moment it appears that I will have the extraordinary opportunity of discussing the civil rights issue, including the civil rights bill, from the same platform with John C. Satterfield of Mississippi, former President of the Mississippi Bar Association, former President of the American Bar Association, Counsel to Governor Ross Barnett in the Meredith affair.

This discussion is scheduled before the St. Louis, Missouri Bar Association on Monday, November 18.

I am asking for all the help I can get. Naturally, we have some material on Mississippi and on the general resistance to the Brown decision. We also have material on the state's rights position and the opposition to Federal action in this field.

However, I am looking for all the material that it is possible to get together in the next few days so that we here can shape the best possible statement of our side and the most effective rebuttal of the other side.

If you have any data about Mississippi which you think would be helpful, I would appreciate your having your research people send it to me. I am interested in the ranking of Mississippi among the states in a variety of categories. This morning the Times carried the story of the state's contribution of $20,000.00 to an anti-civil rights bill lobby in Washington.

I seem to recall that while the Mississippians argue vehemently that they (the white people) pay the taxes that support the schools, a film used by the State Sovereignty Commission in its lectures to northern groups on how fine the segregation system works allows itself to brag that 300,000 Negro Mississippians own their own homes. Of course if this is true, then these 300,000 are real estate as well as property tax payers. It sort of destroys the argument that the white people are paying all the taxes to support the Negro schools and the Negroes ought not to be ungrateful enough to demand an end to segregation.

I have such an unconscionable schedule of speaking engagements for November that there will be very little time to put together a suitable talk and I will have to have help here from my colleagues on the actual drafting of it. Therefore, I would appreciate your office sending this contribution as promptly as you are able to do so.

I look forward to being with the Southern Regional Council on November 25. Although, like tens of thousands of similar events, I suspect that the diners had better rely on the food, instead of the speeches if they hope to have a satisfactory evening.

Sincerely,

Roy

Dear Roy:

Vernon Jordan is a great man. We are moving our offices from the second to the fifth floor of this building, and he has scheduled the move for the day after the Annual Meeting. This is probably very wise, because everybody is too exhausted to work anyhow. But it means that my secretary will have to type this letter of thanks to you in the growling faces of the moving men who want to take her typewriter away from her. I cannot tell you how grateful we are to you for coming down to Atlanta and giving the talk you did. I have never heard more genuine expressions of appreciation and admiration from members of an audience as I have since Wednesday evening.

As you will see from the enclosure, I am taking the liberty to transmit your remarks to a few notables. I hope that you will not mind it. I am doing it because what you said does seem to me to be necessary reading by persons in high positions who have to make judgments about the developments you discussed.

Late yesterday afternoon Mayor Allen's offices called. The Mayor wanted to see you, and was greatly disappointed that you had already left town. He asked me to transmit to you his regrets at not having seen you while you were here, and to tell you that whenever you may again be in Atlanta the Mayor would be delighted to have you visit him.

Again, my thanks, which I am sure all members of the Southern Regional Council share, and my best wishes.

ROY WILKINS
EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

HENRY LEE MOON
DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

FOR RELEASE: UPON RECEIPT July 10, 1964

TAKE STRONG RIGHTS STAND, WILKINS URGES REPUBLICANS

SAN FRANCISCO. — The Republican party has been challenged to live up to the equalitarian principles upon which it was founded.

Testifying before the resolutions committee of the Republican National Convention here, July 7, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, urged the Republicans to adopt a strong civil rights plank in their 1964 party platform.

Speaking not only on behalf of the NAACP but also for the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights of which he is chairman, Mr. Wilkins lauded the contribution made by Republicans in both Houses of Congress to the passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. That bill, he said, "could not have been enacted without Republican support." He cited specifically the roles of Senators Everett McKinley Dirksen and Thomas H. Kuchel and Representatives Charles Halleck, William McCulloch and Clarence Brown.

"In their support of the 1964 civil rights bill, the Republican members of the Congress were not only being true to the historic Republican party principles, but they were making good on the pledges contained in the civil rights section of the party's 1960 platform," Mr. Wilkins told the committee.

In light of the party tradition, its platform declarations and the pivotal role Republicans played in securing enactment of the civil rights bill, it would be unthinkable, the NAACP leader said, for the party to fail to affirm the constitutionality of the Civil Rights Act and to call for its "vigorous enforcement, adequate appropriations to insure an effective and dedicated staff, and particularly to provide for the expansion of the civil rights division of the Department of Justice."

Two major titles of the bill, Mr. Wilkins pointed out, "have been attacked as unconstitutional, not by jurists or constitutional authorities, but by — among others — aspirants to public office. To permit these attacks to go unchallenged, or, worse still, to have this convention, through any vote or selection, seem to endorse such a charge will be doing, first of all, a disservice to those Republican Representatives and Senators who worked and voted for the bill after a full year of study and debate."

He cited the party's endorsement of fair employment practices legislation, and the April, 1964, recommendation of the Republican Citizens Committee for "passage of public accommodations and fair employment titles in almost the precise language" of the law as finally enacted.

"Any comfort given" the assertion that the law is unconstitutional, Mr. Wilkins warned, "threatens peace, justice and order in the nation by providing an excuse for those who would defy law, generate tension and stir actual strife and bloodshed."

Already, he said, the governors of Alabama and Mississippi have joined in declaring the act unconstitutional thus, "inviting defiance of the law on their mere assertion of its unconstitutionality. This encouragement to anarchy must find no home in this convention."

Equally disquieting, Mr. Wilkins said, is the exclusion of Negroes from the Mississippi and other southern state delegations for the first time in many Republican conventions. As desirable as the growth of a two-party system in the South may be, "it would be an irony if this development were to be furthered by abandonment of the very principles upon which the party was founded," he asserted.

Further, he urged the convention "to make unequivocally clear that the Republican party in every state must be open to all and that the party will refuse to recognize or to seat any state delegation chosen under a system of racial exclusion."

In addition to calling for full support of the civil rights law, Mr. Wilkins asked the convention to adopt a platform calling for affirmation of the right of arrested civil rights demonstrators to trial in Federal courts and reasonable bail pending trial; enactment of a law making "state, county and city governments jointly liable in damages for misconduct of their officers"; establishment of "uniform standards for criminal defense ... in state courts"; and abolition of "senatorial courtesy" as a device for denying Senate approval of appointment of "upright jurists, dedicated to the Federal protections," to the Federal bench.

Moreover, Mr. Wilkins said, "the Federal government must move at an accelerated pace on programs designed to broaden opportunities for the great deprived segments of our whole population." There are millions of both races, he said, who "need re-education, training in vocational skills, public works and health programs, slum clearance and improvement in the quality of schools."

The NAACP leader called for "modernization of Congressional rules of procedure" and recommended that "the Republican party pledge action at the opening of the 89th Congress" to assure:

1. A majority cloture rule in the Senate;
2. The 21-day rule and 7-day conference rule to overcome the veto power of the House Rules Committee; and
3. Abolition of seniority as the sole qualification for committee chairmanships.

Other recommendations by Mr. Wilkins urged home rule for the District of Columbia, inclusion of conventional mortgage loans in the ban against housing discrimination, and reduction of representation in Congress of states which disfranchise citizens because of race or color.

WILKINS URGES SELECTIVE TEST CASES OF NEW LAW

July 10, 1964

NEW YORK. — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People fully supports President Johnson's proposal for cooperative effort "to promote greater understanding of the [Civil Rights] law and to achieve a spirit of compliance."

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins made this announcement at a news conference here, July 3, on his return from Washington where he had witnessed the signing of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and attended an after-ceremony conference with the President.

The President's proposal, the NAACP leader pointed out, is in line with a resolution on implementing the new bill passed at the Association's 55th annual convention in Washington, June 22-27. The resolution calls upon branches of the Association to move for immediate implementation of the various provisions of the law, to confer with local officials and businessmen, and to launch an educational program designed to win wide community acceptance of the law.

The NAACP, Mr. Wilkins told the newsmen, will test the law. However, he called for "carefully selected" legal tests. "Not just any case should be filed for court action," Mr. Wilkins warned. He indicated that court action should be based on cases where the facts and evidence are substantial and irrefutable, the issue clear and the situation favorable.

In response to a reporter's question, Mr. Wilkins said that Senator Barry Goldwater's reported concern about the probability of racism being introduced into the election campaign was belated. Racism, he said, "has already been introduced by some of the Senator's followers. Speaking of it now, especially with reference to possible violence will serve as a stimulant to racism, rather than a deterrent. It is unfortunate, ill-advised and ill-chosen."

NAACP TO PRESS AUTO INDUSTRIES ON HIRING

July 10, 1964

WASHINGTON. — In light of a recent move by the four major automobile corporations — General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors — to integrate Negroes into technical, professional and managerial positions, the NAACP has called on its branches to insure that this policy is implemented. The industry action followed a series of conferences with a special NAACP labor committee.

In a resolution passed at the Association's 55th annual convention held here, June 22-27, branches in those cities where any of the auto companies have plants were directed "to contact the collective bargaining agents at these plants to make sure that this program is carried out ... and to report any failure of the companies to do so to the new Civil Rights Commission and the Attorney General."

NAACP GENERAL COUNSEL PRAISED AT CONVENTION

July 10, 1964

WASHINGTON. — NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter was praised by delegates to the Association's 55th annual convention held here June 22-27 for his part in important legal victories gained by the NAACP during 1963.

In a resolution citing the Supreme Court decision allowing the Association to resume operations in Alabama, a new tax-exempt status for certain contributions to the NAACP and other victories, Mr. Carter and his associates were commended "for the skill and perseverance in accomplishing" these objectives.

NAACP TO WAGE BOYCOTT AGAINST LEVER BROS.

July 10, 1964

WASHINGTON. — As a result of the discriminatory hiring policy of Lever Bros., the NAACP has announced a selective buying campaign throughout the nation.

The campaign which was formulated in a resolution passed at the Association's 55th annual convention held here June 22-27 is in support of the St. Louis Metropolitan Council of NAACP branches which has protested the fact that Lever Bros. in St. Louis has only seven Negroes on its payroll of 500 employees.

ASK FEDERAL HOSPITAL AID FOR MISSISSIPPI VICTIMS

July 10, 1964

NEW YORK. — President Lyndon B. Johnson has been asked to make Federal hospital and health facilities in Mississippi available to injured civil rights workers in that state.

In a telegram, dispatched to the President on July 8, Roy Wilkins executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Dr. Kenneth W. Clement, president, National Medical Association; and Dr. Alonzo Yerby, president, New York City Public Health Association, cited the violence in that state and the lack of "adequate and prompt medical attention" for the victims of that violence.

"We respectfully urge you to take steps to ensure that the protective arm of the United States includes guaranty of emergency treatment for civil rights workers who may suffer injury from Mississippi racists," the telegram said.

The full text of the telegram follows:

MONDAY NIGHT'S SHOOTING OF A 16-YEAR OLD GIRL ATTENDING MEETING IN MOSS POINT, MISSISSIPPI, UNDERSCORES OUR APPREHENSION REGARDING EXPANDED VIOLENCE AND RISK OF PERSONAL INJURY TO CIVIL RIGHTS WORKERS IN THAT STATE. OF ESPECIAL CONCERN IS LIKELIHOOD THAT PERSONS SO INJURED MAY SUFFER FOR WANT OF ADEQUATE AND PROMPT MEDICAL ATTENTION. WE BELIEVE THAT, IN ADDITION TO MAXIMUM FEDERAL EFFORT AT PROTECTION AND PREVENTION, ALL AVAILABLE FEDERAL MEDICAL FACILITIES SHOULD BY PRESIDENTIAL ORDER BE MADE ACCESSIBLE TO CIVIL RIGHTS WORKERS IN CASE OF EMERGENCY NEED. AMONG FACILITIES WHICH COULD BE SO ASSIGNED ARE THE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE 32-BED HOSPITAL FOR INDIANS AT PHILADELPHIA, VETERANS ADMINISTRATION HOSPITALS AT JACKSON, BILOXI AND GULFPORT AND AIR FORCE GENERAL HOSPITALS AT BILOXI, COLUMBIA AND GREENVILLE. WE ARE CONVINCED THAT MISSISSIPPI SITUATION TODAY IS BOTH NOW AND POTENTIALLY A PERSONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY EMERGENCY FULLY JUSTIFYING THE SPECIAL ACTION SOUGHT. WE RESPECTFULLY URGE YOU TO TAKE STEPS NEEDED TO ENSURE THAT THE PROTECTIVE ARM OF THE UNITED STATES INCLUDES GUARANTY OF EMERGENCY TREATMENT FOR CIVIL RIGHTS WORKERS WHO MAY SUFFER INJURY FROM MISSISSIPPI RACISTS.

NAACP URGES GOLDWATER TO TOUR MISSISSIPPI

July 10, 1964

MERIDIAN, Miss. — Members of the NAACP Board of Directors who have been touring the State of Mississippi this week have urged Sen. Barry Goldwater to visit the state "to determine for yourself whether state officials here are giving adequate protection to the Constitutional rights of Negroes."

In a telegram sent to the Republican Presidential aspirant, the NAACP Mississippi Investigating Committee stated "that Negroes are being intimidated, terrorized and are afraid to exercise their basic right to register and vote.

"We have been appalled at the poverty, misery and degradation in which Negroes are forced to live in this state," the telegram continued. "There is a general feeling of physical insecurity among Negroes and we have been asked to underwrite the cost of supplying our top civil rights leaders with bodyguards to protect them against sudden assassination," they said.

Because of the Arizona Senator's contention that enforcement of civil rights should be left to the states, the NAACP sincerely urged him "to make this trip so that when you insist that enforcement of Negro rights be left to such states as Mississippi, you will be fully aware of the consequences."

Members of this special NAACP Board Committee are Dr. H. Claude Hudson, chairman, Dr. Eugene T. Reed, Kivie Kaplan, John F. Davis, Alfred Baker Lewis, L. Joseph Overton and Chester I. Lewis.

NAACP ASKS U.S. AGENCY TO PROBE MISSISSIPPI

July 10, 1964

BILOXI, Miss. — The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights has been urged to hold hearings in Mississippi on the denial of constitutional rights to Negro citizens in that state.

The request for such hearings was made here, July 8, by the NAACP Board Mississippi Investigating Committee in a telegram to Dr. John A. Hannah, chairman of the Federal agency.

Negroes in the state, the NAACP committee reported to Dr. Hannah "are terrorized, intimidated and live in fear for their safety and lives at all times. Even the exercise of their most fundamental rights takes great courage.

"In view of the passage of the civil rights bill and the growing aggressiveness and assertiveness of Negroes in this state, they face a major crisis."

The NAACP group asked the U.S. Commission "to make immediate plans for hearings in Moss Point, Philadelphia, Laurel, Greenwood and in such other areas as the Commission may decide. We trust that such hearings will be held with the urgency that the situation here requires," the telegram said.

Signing the telegram were Dr. H. Claude Hudson, chairman of the special NAACP Board committee; Kivie Kaplan, Alfred Baker Lewis, L. Joseph Overton, Dr. Eugene T. Reed, Chester I. Lewis and John F. Davis.

FEDERAL AID SOUGHT TO CURB MISS. BIAS

July 10, 1964

JACKSON, Miss. — In efforts to speed desegregation in Mississippi, Charles Evers, NAACP field secretary for the state, has called upon two Federal agencies to take action to correct present discriminatory practices in Mississippi.

Citing the Neshoba County Courthouse in Philadelphia, Mr. Evers asked the U.S. Department of Justice to instruct "local police and city officials in Mississippi to remove Jim Crow 'White Only' signs from public buildings, parks and other publicly-owned properties along with the establishments coming under the new civil rights bill."

He sent another wire to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare urging "that no more grants or loans to hospitals or medical centers be given in Neshoba County." He also called for "an immediate investigation."

Mr. Evers accompanied the NAACP Board Mississippi Investigating Committee on its tour of this state.

PHILA. NAACP MAPS DRIVE FOR NEW JOBS

July 10, 1964

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — With this summer's crop of 1,000 high school graduates now in the labor market, the Philadelphia branch of the NAACP announced plans this week for an increased drive for Negro employment here.

In a series of telegrams to Railway Express Agency, Barr's Jewelers, Fox-Weis, Peck & Peck, Lerner's and the Pennsylvania Railroad, Cecil Moore, NAACP branch president, stated that the continued absence of Negro personnel in these establishments "is an affront as well as an insult to the Negro population of Philadelphia."

Mr. Moore called on each of these concerns to rectify immediately the existing pattern of discrimination by integrating their staffs.

BLACK HEROES OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

A Weekly Feature By

HENRY CHRISTOPHE

America's struggle for its independence was aided by freedom-loving peoples all over the world. Many came to this country to involve themselves personally in the military effort; some to return to their respective countries with new concepts of liberty and justice; others to give their lives in the cause of American freedom. Henri Christophe went home to become a leader in Haiti's fight for its independence. Lafayette returned to France imbued with democratic ideals. But Casimir Pulaski, the Polish general, was killed in the same battle in which Christophe was wounded.

On September 8, 1779, a combined Franco-American fleet arrived off the approaches to Savannah intent on regaining that important Georgia city from the British. Included in the French contingent of 3,600 soldiers were 545 Haitian free Negroes formed in what was known as the Fontages Legion, "Volunteer Chasseurs." The allied force, which also contained an Irish brigade and a Polist legion, was under the command of the French admiral, D'Estaing.

After a naval bombardment failed to dislodge the defenders, D'Estaing determined that the city could be taken only by storm. The land assault took place on October 9, 1779. But a strong British counterattack was so successful the entire landing force was faced with annihilation. A general retreat was ordered and the Fontages Legion was assigned the task of stemming the British onslaught. In what was called the "most brilliant feat of the day," this Negro detachment contained the British attack and permitted their comrades to carry out an orderly withdrawal.

Christophe's role in this action was cited in the official rolls of the Order of the Cincinnati, the Military society of American and French officers who served in the war: "During the War of American Independence a large number of persons served either under Counts d'Estaing or de Rochambeau, in subordinate capacities, which prevented their admission to the Cincinnati, but who subsequently attained high rank. ... Henri Christophe ... served as a sergeant in the Legion of Mulattoes and Free Negroes, commanded by the Viscount de Fontanges at the seige of Savannah, Ga., in 1779, where he was wounded, and ... subsequently became General-in-Chief in Hayti, and then President for life and finally King of Hayti."

Christophe learned his first lessons in war and freedom at Savannah and returned to his island home to become a confidant and then successor to Toussaint L'Ouverture, the "George Washington" of Haiti.

Dear Roy:

I am pleased to submit to you a copy of our audit for 1964; also a copy of my annual report for the same year. You will find pertinent information on the Voter Education Project throughout the audit, but particularly in Schedules 3 and 4; VEP is discussed in the early pages of my program report.

We are at the point of concluding a contract with one of the leading publishers to bring out the book planned for under VEP, dealing with Negro voting and its growth during these last few years.

I know that I speak for all the officers and members of the Council in saying that VEP has been, in our estimation, a fine success and that much of this success is owed to NAACP.

I am sure that you know that Wiley has been appointed Executive Secretary to the President's Council on Equal Opportunity. We have all had great service from him as director of the Voter Education Project, and it is good to know that a man of his ability and strength will be in this new and key job.

All the best.

Your letter and invitation of June 27th received and I was most pleased to learn that our staff plans such an affair. As you no doubt know, the evening session for Friday will be devoted to our youth members with Dr. Ralph Bunche delivering the principal address. However, barring tieups due to committee meetings, I am sure there will be good response to the invitation.

This will be a duel role for Dr. Mays and myself in that we are both members of the NAACP board, however by Friday afternoon a welcome from one's self would probably be appreciated. Due to limited hotel accommodations, most of our board is assigned to Brawley and Kresge Hall on Clark College campus. I will be in room 233 at Brawley. Pass on to Margaret Long my thinking that her article "Strictly Subjective" in the May issue of New South was strictly great.

Respectfully yours,

Jimmy Stewart

Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Paul:

I want to confirm my endorsement of Dick Wenner's suggestion for a conference of southerners to discuss the strengths and weaknesses of the proposed Community Self-Determination Act. This Act, or some modification of it, seems to me to be a distinct possibility for legislation in 1969, whoever is elected president.

None of the dates suggested by Dick Wenner will really meet my convenience, but I doubt that any dates between now and November 30 would. What you should do is to fix dates that are convenient for the majority of the group, and if it is impossible for me to come, I will send a representative.

Sincerely yours,

George H. Esser, Jr. (ARW)

Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Paul:

It was good to talk to you yesterday, and this is to confirm our discussion where we talked about you and I calling a group of about twenty-five together in Atlanta to discuss the strengths and weaknesses of the proposed Community Self-Determination Act. I am enclosing a copy of that Act and a summary of it.

Some of my ideas of who might be invited are as follows: George Esser; Nathan Garrett; Clifford Ingram of LBJ & C Development Corporation in Tennessee; L.J. Palmer of Fayette County Economic Development Commission in Somerville, Tennessee; Randy Blackwell, and perhaps one indigenous person from Crawfordsville; the rural person from SWAFCA; Jesse Morris; James Mays; Ken Deane; Father McKnight; the right person from the South Carolina Farmers Association; the right person from the Penn Community Center in South Carolina; Loyal Jones; Milton Fogel; Huey Perry, a great rural CAA Director from West Virginia.

If we decide that it is not important to keep it just rural, which it may be, I might suggest Bill Allison or somebody from Atlanta, Marie Carl of Miami, Washington Butler from Memphis, Hartzell Gray from Houston, Pepe Lucero from San Antonio, William Walker from Little Rock.

Wednesday, October 30 is a possible day or the 31st, or any day the week of November 4, or November 11-13.

After you have a chance to think about it, please give me a call.

Sincerely,

D. Richard Wenner

Dear Dick:

Please forgive me this long delay in responding to your letter and your idea.

In addition to several unplanned crises and the planning for our Annual Meeting November 13-15, I simply have not had an opportunity to do any work on your idea for a meeting, although I support the idea completely.

I would greatly prefer your going ahead and making plans for a meeting and planning on our participation and support. Should you prefer for us to take a more active part on the planning it would be late November before we would be in a position to do so. Again, I regret this but our work load has given us no choice.

Best.

Gentlemen:

The following three persons are full or part-time paid officials of voluntary unofficial statewide race relations agencies in southern states:

Mr. Cyrus M. Johnson, Director
North Carolina Commission on Interracial Cooperation
P. O. Box 1208
Raleigh, North Carolina

The Rev. Mr. Emerson Smith, Director
Department of Interracial Cooperation
Virginia Council of Churches
1444 East Main Street
Richmond, Virginia

Dr. R. L. Russell, Director
Georgia Committee on Interracial Cooperation
Room 424, 63 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta, Georgia

The Georgia and North Carolina agencies are affiliated with the Southern Regional Council.

The following persons are unpaid presidents or chairmen of state divisions of the Southern Regional Council:

Dr. A. D. Beittel, President
Talladega College
Talladega, Alabama

National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials October 12, 1948

Mr. Edgar Ray, Managing Editor

Mr. J. M. Tydings

Lincoln Ridge, Kentucky

The Rev. Mr. H. Brent Schaeffer
1525 Robinson Street
Jackson, Mississippi

Mr. James McBride Dabbs
R. F. D. #1
Mayesville, South Carolina

Mr. Alfred D. Mynders, Editor
The Chattanooga Times
Chattanooga, Tennessee

The Texas Commission on Interracial Cooperation is a voluntary unofficial statewide race relations organization, having an unpaid chairman who is:

Mrs. James S. Crate
2410 Inwood Drive
Houston 6, Texas

The only persons in the above list who, in my judgment, would in any likelihood attend your Chicago meeting November 18-20 are Cyrus Johnson and Emerson Smith respectively in North Carolina and Virginia. However, it would be a good educational thing to invite the others.

As a delegate from the Southern Regional Council, I will in some sense represent all of these various committees and divisions above listed.

Another local group which you might suitably send correspondence to is the New Orleans Council on Race Relations, which could be addressed through President A. W. Dent, Dillard University, New Orleans, Louisiana. This is an independent body affiliated with nothing, though friendly with us.

A similar group is the Daytona Beach Good Neighbor Club, c/o Herbert M. Davison, Editor, News-Journal, Daytona Beach, Florida.

National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials October 12, 1948

Little Rock, Arkansas, has a local interracial committee, not particularly active. It could be reached through Mr. J. R. Ewbank, Philander Smith College, Little Rock.

If in writing these persons you care to mention my name as the one who notified you of them, that is all right.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

RELEASE NO. 3

Subject: Summary of Community Reports on Experience With the Visit of the FREEDOM TRAIN

Introduction

The NAIRO Board of Directors, recognizing the important contribution which the Freedom Train was designed to make to individual and community understanding of and support of the American Creed, initiated a study of community participation in and response to the Train's visit. The nationwide display of documents reminding the American people of their democratic heritage seemed specifically and intimately pertinent to continuing agency programs to improve racial, religious, and other intergroup relations. It afforded not only an opportunity for rededication and renewed effort, but an opportunity for self-examination and community audit to disclose the good practices and the gaps between ideals and actual local conditions.

The Heritage Foundation states its purpose as follows:

"The American Heritage Program is a plan to help raise the level of citizenship in our country. Its objectives are:

> 'To develop a greater awareness of the advantages we enjoy as Americans, emphasizing the relationship of our hard-won personal freedoms to our development as the strongest nation of free people in history.
> 'To persuade all Americans that only by active personal participation in the affairs of the nation can we safeguard and preserve our liberties and continue to demonstrate to ourselves and to the world that the way of free men is best'."

The study was made as a service to operating agencies and others desiring an objective summary of the experience of communities visited by the Freedom Train during the first nine months, (A) to develop effective follow-up programs to bring the ideals of the American heritage home to the American people and stimulate them to use the ideals more effectively as guides for every day conduct, and (B) to provide those communities still scheduled for the Train's visit with additional suggestions and program ideas for the most effective participation of all agencies and individuals.

Two members of the NAIRO Executive Committee served as an advisory committee to the staff which carried out the assignment: Miss Edith Alexander, Mayor's Committee on Unity, New York City; and Mr. John B. Sullivan, New York State Commission Against Discrimination.

The American Heritage Foundation was consulted during the planning stages of the study; made its files available to the NAIRO committee providing copies of schedules, program kits and program reports; and reviewed the summary report in draft form.

June 4, 1948, a five-page questionnaire on the Freedom Train was mailed to the 192 communities visited during the period from September 17, 1947, to June 1, 1948. They represented a geographic coverage of 41 states and the District of Columbia. On July 2, 1948, a follow-up letter was sent.

Response of the Communities

This release is based on 56 replies received from individual communities located in 32 states (the District of Columbia did not reply). The 56 returns were prepared by the following agencies:

19 Intergroup Councils or Associations

18 Mayors' Offices

7 Freedom Train Committees

6 Chambers of Commerce

6 Miscellaneous (a civic club, a historical society, a minister, a professor, an attorney, and a CIO representative).

While the response was good in that 30% of the 192 communities in the sample returned information, and in that 80% of the 41 states in the sample replied — the material is not offered as a comprehensive picture of the total American Heritage Foundation program. The study is limited in scope and in purpose to provide some summary observations and some suggested techniques which one community can share profitably with another; and by which organizations such as National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials, American Council on Race Relations, and American Heritage Foundation can be guided in servicing continuing agencies in the field; and in developing similar publicity devices to reach the attention and conscience of large numbers of people.

Approximate Number of Visitors Admitted to the Train or Turned Away

The approximate number of visitors reported as admitted to the Train ranged from the lowest of 1,100 to a high of 20,000 and represented an average of about 9,000 visitors admitted in the 56 communities. The American Heritage Foundation's records which are based on official and more reliable reports show a range of from 5,483 in Harlingen, Texas (a small community) to a high of 14,615 in Bristol, Virginia. The report on the numbers turned away indicates that large crowds were unable to see the exhibits in most of the communities. When related to the numbers admitted, this means that a majority of the persons who tried to visit the Train could not be accommodated and were of necessity turned away - a fact about which most respondents expressed great concern.

American Heritage Foundation records show that in some large communities tens of thousands of people were turned away. This is amply illustrated from our returns in which only five of our sample reported being able to accommodate all who came. Twenty-two did not comment but the balance, 27, reported turning away from 75 to 100,000 visitors!

Of the 27 who turned people away:

5 turned away 200 or less,

5 turned away between 500 and 1,000,

9 turned away between 1,000 and 5,000,

6 turned away between 5,000 and 11,000,

1 turned away 20,000,

1 turned away 100,000.

In addition to the chief reason reported by a majority of them - the Train could not stay long enough - the following reasons were listed:

Inclement weather - rain storms, heavy rains, snow, sleet, exceptionally cold and windy, people could not stand the elements, etc.

Slow movement through Train - school children moved slowly and visitors took time to read documents, etc.

Long waiting lines outside train - three to five hour waits, average wait in line five hours, etc.

One community reported notifying the waiting line an hour before closing so that people did not stand in line unnecessarily. In another, the Train was able to accommodate everybody by staying open an extra fifteen minutes.

I. Auspices

A. In the 48 communities reporting the local agencies which carried primary responsibility for sponsoring the Train, 29 had Freedom Train Committees created solely for the purpose and no longer functioning, and 19 delegated the responsibility to existing agencies or organizations:

8 to the Chamber of Commerce,

7 to the city government,

1 to a civic association,

1 to the YMCA,

1 to the inter-club council,

1 to the League of Women Voters.

The American Heritage Foundation staff pointed out in this connection that,

> "All of these organizations included in their program planning and execution, representatives from the important citizen groups in the community. None of the organizations tried to sponsor the Freedom Train experience by exclusive use of its own membership."

Forty-three communities answered the question, "What agency had responsibility for follow up?"

26 communities stated "none."

6 communities stated the Freedom Train Committee.

2 communities stated the Chamber of Commerce.

The following were each listed once only:

American Citizens Committee,

American Legion,

City government,

Civic association,

Community relations group,

Historian,

League of Women Voters,

Public Schools,

YMCA.

One community commented as follows - "The American Heritage Foundation did not recommend a follow-up, therefore no agency was appointed for this purpose."

B. Many and varied were the local organizations participating, indicating widespread interest and activity which the American Heritage Foundation officials fostered as a matter of policy. To the question: "Did any relevant organizations fail to participate?"

35 answered "no"; 4 answered "yes"; and
1 said "all were not asked".

Comments range from "too busy with their own affairs", "apparent disinterest and complacency", "disagreement about the use of religious songs", and "haphazard cooperation due to preoccupied and uncertain leadership" to "all were invited; all participated", and "participation whole-hearted".

C. To the question: "What local budget was set?", 32 gave budget figures ranging from the lowest of $200 to the highest of $20,000.

1. Thirty-seven reported the amounts actually raised - the lowest $200 and the highest $14,250. (Four reported that no funds were raised at all from any source and the balance did not report on this item.) These reports are partly (and perhaps entirely) modified by the fact that staff, materials, supplies, space, advertising, etc., were often donated and amounts raised represent only actual cash and usually by no means the total contribution of the community.

2. The sources of funds were mainly private, but about 20% were from public sources - the city or county treasury. Eleven reported such contributions of public funds, ranging in amount from $200 to $3,000. Private contributions from individuals, corporations, merchants, unions, clubs, and agencies were reported by 33 communities reporting receipts, ranging from $45 to $14,250. Several communities mentioned profits from concessions but did not give details; others reported devices for receiving contributions at the Train site in barrels for free-will offerings, etc., and that these funds were usually turned over to the American Heritage Foundation.

3. Fund raising methods were reported by 30 communities. Fifteen used mail appeals; 16 listed personal solicitation; 8 named other methods such as assessments by merchant associations or club councils, phone and newspaper solicitation, bazaars, concessions and barrels for free-will offerings.

D. Expenditures

Thirty communities reported funds turned over to the American Heritage Foundation, but only two reported expenditures for American Heritage Foundation literature. A number indicated that organizations and agencies had purchased the literature in quantity for special distribution among school children, churches, clubs, etc., and indicated that literature was widely purchased and distributed.

Twenty-two communities listed local expenditures for general administration and other incidental expenses, a fact which must be related to the kinds and amounts of material and staff services furnished by local agencies without cost. Only three communities reported a surplus of funds. One turned the surplus over to the Christmas Tree Fund, one made a contribution to the Community Chest, and one bought the schools a film strip. Three reported indebtedness, saying "we are still attempting to make up the deficit", "the Chamber of Commerce is assuming the unpaid local bills", and "the City Council covered the deficit".

E. Four-fifths of the reports state that material and staff were furnished by local agencies: "All contributions of floats, flags, banners, services, etc., volunteered; Mayor's office supplied stationery". "American Heritage Foundation supplied literature"; "numerous firms donated trucks, bull-dozers, etc. to prepare area". "Local concessionaire donated net profits for the day to city to offset city's appropriation", "city government took care of cost of extra police, municipal band, special lighting, telephone and telegraph, and furnished equipment needed such as ropes, barricades, etc.; also use of Convention Hall". "State Fair furnished facilities at fairground for caring for crowds, which were seated in grandstand until their turn to go in line to Train, parked near".

Others listed: free cabs, snow fences, ropes, speakers, music, first aid provided by American Red Cross or U.S. Navy, Red Cross refreshments for train crew, advertising space, police services. The major contribution appears to have been staff time donated by agencies, city offices, schools and universities, neither the volume of which nor the value of which can be determined from this study.

II. Advance Preparations

A. Committees

Forty-four communities reported that in addition to the over-all sponsoring agency they used committees suggested by the American Heritage Foundation, the number of committees ranging from a low of four to the full 20 recommended. The average was 16 different committees.

1. Asked "Were minorities and intergroup agencies represented on committees?" - 31 replied "yes"; 5 replied "no"; one qualified by stating "on some"; 2 stated "none in the city", and one said, "a Rabbi only; no further thought was given to that aspect". One of the 31 communities reporting "yes" gave these details: "Negroes were asked to appoint their own committees from churches, schools, etc., and were glad to do so".

B. Description of advance preparations indicates that communities followed the American Heritage Foundation outlines, instructions, and suggestions "in every detail" or "as closely as possible", and that meetings for planning often took place over periods of several months, the longest period reported being four months in advance. Communities apparently relied heavily upon the guidance of the Foundation representative, accepting the program as outlined and following it with little or no deviation. This willingness to follow a program "blueprint" suggests that in future programs wider participation of minorities might easily be achieved by the relatively simple device of offering additional, practical, and detailed plans for their inclusion, and specific guides for measuring the extent to which the initial plans and the ensuing program actually include all groups.

It further indicates that more detailed suggestions from the Foundation in the area of follow-up long-range programs to make the American Creed more effective locally might be another important way in which the Foundation could implement its initial program, and it indicates that follow-up programs will be more effective wherever the idea of long-range goals can be tied into the Train plans as early as possible, or can now be inserted in those communities where the Train is already becoming history.

C. How were visitors limited or encouraged?

A majority of the replies indicated "First come, first served" with no specific limitation or special invitation. As one said, "The Train and its contents belonged to everyone and it was stressed that all who cared to do so should and could visit it". Another said, "No group or individual was given prior right". A majority, however, said that because of the limited stay of the Train they were forced to turn many people away.

Admission of school children represented both a limitation and an encouragement but usually followed the American Heritage Foundation stated policy of excluding children under 12 years of age. Plans included:

One student elected from each home room or from each school,
First hour for school children in groups,
One hundred and fifty school children chosen by the superintendent,
High school groups given preference in the morning,
School teachers encouraged to bring their classes,
Schools limited to winners of essay contest on our heritage,
Quotas for each parochial and public school.

Further study on correlation between numbers of school children admitted and numbers of adults turned away might yield valuable data for future decisions about the length of the Train's stay and about the admission of children in relationship to the total population.

Nine communities reported modified school schedules; 20 reported that school had gone on as usual or that (in the case of four reporting) the Train had been there Saturday or Sunday only and had not affected school schedules for that reason. Only one reported modified business hours in stores, banks, etc., while 21 reported no modification and the balance did not answer this question.

A number noted that committees and/or special guests and dignitaries were admitted first. Opinion on this practice was sharply divided with some approving and with others declaring it undemocratic and inappropriate. (A few comments are quoted under the heading of suggestions.)

III. Activities During Train's Visit

A. Were any difficulties encountered? How were they handled?

People were turned away: only five communities said that they were able to accommodate all who came where 31 gave the actual numbers that were not accommodated. As one said, "Train could not accommodate crowd and nothing could be done about it". Many referred to the long wait in line, where only one reported arrangements for persons to sit in a nearby grandstand until their turn arrived. One comment was caustic, stating that people were turned away one-half hour early by "alert guards" who wished to leave.

The weather, to which a number of adjustments were made: rain modified opening ceremonies; inclement weather, so exercises were moved to the auditorium; unusually cold weather, so improvised outdoor heaters were used for those in line. Heat, snow, rain, all suggest that wherever the Train can be available near shelter and/or exercises planned indoors, this difficulty will be lessened.

Traffic: "Too many people were allowed to get close to the Train the first day". "Hard rains jammed traffic but the police and county officers and state patrol handled the crowds admirably".

Other: One group which tried to hand out a leaflet was prevented by the police from continuing the distribution but the report did not say what the grounds for objection were. "It was difficult to eliminate the hawkers, peddlers, etc., who follow the Train". "Something every day, too numerous to mention, and too unimportant to list". "Two bands playing at once!"

Thirty communities reported no difficulties other than larger numbers than could be accommodated. A few noted problems or incidents which they successfully avoided or handled:

Hawkers and venders were not allowed.

When the waiting lines were cut to admit disabled soldiers, the crowd cheered.

Red Cross emergency station ready, but needed only once.

Went off like clock work. Busses and cars from rural districts handled well by police and firemen.

B. Segregation at ceremonies did NOT occur according to every report received. It is interesting that several returns mentioned that committees were allowed to see the Train first, listing this fact on the questionnaire in response to the question about segregation, and apparently confusing the word with special privilege. The fact that no segregation occurred, even in states where such is the practice or the law, illustrates most forcibly the potential power of the concept of the Freedom Train and the effect that clear policies may have on even the most delicate questions. Agencies concerned with eliminating segregation may wish to explore further the methods used by the Foundation in achieving this end during the Train's visit and may find that this visit can be used as an effective wedge in breaking down restrictive laws and practices.

C. Efforts to relate the Train to local problems and programs were described so generally that they are not easily summarized. Perhaps the most significant finding is that some communities saw no need for such efforts and often conceived of the Train as a splendid patriotic display that that in no way challenged their failure to apply democratic ideals to everyday living. One said, "Since our city has no special problems racially or otherwise, except those of economics general in the country, there was neither occasion nor necessity to relate documents to any local problems..." Another states, "No special effort was made to relate to local problems", and this may be more or less typical as the emphasis seems to have been upon the documents and ceremonies surrounding the exhibits rather than upon inconsistencies in the local situation.

There were a few reports that indicated a concerted effort to use the occasion to point up local shortcomings, local efforts at improvement, and local agency programs and sources. Special newspaper editions, movies, exhibits, speakers, and programs brought out many facts that should provide useful background for follow-up programs by various intergroup agencies. For example, the activities in one community describe good groundwork for further effort:

> "Special speakers at all civic clubs, business groups, theatres, special sermons in churches, daily programs over radio. Speakers' committee included Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, Greek, Syrian, Mexican, Negro, Republican, Democrat and Socialist".

D. To Secure These Rights was distributed in nine of the reporting communities. One community reported that copies had been available but arrangements had not been completed for their distribution; another stated "were not advised they were available"; four noted that the Train was in their community before the publication date or before the report was sufficiently well known locally.

This pamphlet was not distributed by the Heritage Foundation as part of its literature. Distribution of To Secure These Rights was under local auspices in communities where it occurred.

IV. Was a Follow-up Program Developed to Improve Intergroup Relations?

A. Only five replied "yes". Thirty-nine replied "no". The five in the affirmative reported that follow-up plans were under way in the schools and libraries, sponsored by the schools themselves, the Chamber of Commerce, and a Community Relations group.

The 39 who replied "no" gave such comment and explanation as:

> Not necessary here. Fine conditions and respect exist now.
> No intergroup problem.
> Nothing new that grew out of the Freedom Train.
> Nothing specifically tied in with the Freedom Train.
> Freedom Train's visit only gave opportunity to more fully realize and express what we already have here.

These reports were confidential and therefore places are not identified in this release, but it should be noted that some reports may not be completely true pictures of local situations even though the writers believed them to be. There are those who think (and can document the opinion) that even the "best" communities fall down at some point, and, upon careful self-examination, can find ways in which relations between various groups could be improved.

B. Actual results. None reported actual changes in legislation, administration, or practice as a result of the Train's visit. A few reported increased individual awareness of their freedoms, an interest in voting, increased interest in brotherhood, general good feeling, patriotic stimulation, historical value. One stated, "The community relations group has promoted some activities; the general impression is good; the fundamental idea and purpose are excellent and timely". One noted "renewed interest against communist aggression".

Half, however, replied in this vein: "none readily apparent", "none known", "no outward indication" or"none so far".

These responses are of special interest to NAIRO since they indicate clearly the community job to be done in all parts of the country if this stimulation is to be of permanent value, eventually expressed in better laws, better administration, and "more American" behavior.

C. No undesirable consequences were reported. This fact also is of special importance when it is related to the policy of no segregation at the Train. It indicates that the Foundation decision not to allow racial segregation was timely and acceptable and that it was able to help the communities prepare for this democratic behavior even in the face of many counter forces of law and tradition.

D. Suggestions to other communities yet to be visited and to all communities for follow-up programs, include many already considered by the American Heritage Foundation and a number that NAIRO should explore for related efforts.

The main suggestion was to allow more time for persons to read the documents, have the documents on display longer, and give people time to read and think about what they are seeing.

Others were in the area of physical set-up, i.e., adequate toilet facilities, first aid, shelter, parking and traffic control, police and fire protection.

Thorough advance planning was stressed by many, including such advice as "select workers not social climbers", and "keep committees small enough to be effective", "advise paid clerical staff".

The waiting line problem worried most and for most the solution was a longer stay; first come, first served; and some plan whereby people did not have to stand all the time they were waiting. Comments about the weather indicate that schedules are most satisfactory if planned with the seasons and sections of the country in mind.

The "first come, first served" idea was developed by quite a few and included such suggestions as "Discontinue preview visit by committees, etc." One complained that not only the committee but friends and relatives swelled this privileged group.

"Be sure to include in the preliminary planning representatives of all groups".

"Be sure to consult the existing intergroup agencies. The Foundation staff could promote this effectively".

"Develop permanent local organization as needed".

"Relate Freedom Train's coming to local problems. Here it was handled as though we did not live in 1948"!

"At all costs, two groups should be given the opportunity: first, the school children for they are the future standard bearers of America; and second, veterans, for they fought for democracy".

"Try as we did to distribute literature on civil rights and to tie the Train in with existing civil rights programs and violations".

Perhaps the following brief suggestion can be of most immediate and direct use in every community regardless of whether it has few or many intergroup agencies - "Be sure to form a continuing, permanent committee to attend to cases of violation of basic freedoms". This suggestion may well be lost unless some able committee, organization, or group takes the responsibility for working out procedures in this area as carefully and fully as the Foundation worked out every detail of Dedication Week and the Train's visit. It may develop that this will prove one of the areas in which this study of community experience with the Train may eventually yield the most practical assistance to agencies and extend experience of the Train even to some communities which could not arrange to have it. Any device that reaches as many individuals, community organizations, and communities as this one did should not be allowed to be dissipated for lack of sustained, patient, and persistent follow-up efforts to which NAIRO and its members must contribute tested techniques and combined energies.

SUBJECT: A PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION OF SOME ASPECTS OF THE FINANCING OF LOCAL PRIVATE AGENCIES LISTED IN THE DIRECTORY OF AGENCIES IN INTERGROUP RELATIONS.

NAIRO Release No. 4 is a preliminary survey of the financing of local private agencies based on the material gathered for the Directory of Agencies in Intergroup Relations, which has just been published by the American Council on Race Relations. The sources of information were the questionnaires returned by the agencies in the field, and, while only one of the questions (drawing responses from over 190 agencies) dealt with financing, certain facts about the characteristics of 663 agencies are included in some of the calculations. The information is by no means complete and is not necessarily representative. It will provide certain facts and experience which should facilitate the proposed and more complete study to be made this winter.

The questionnaire for the Directory included a request for the agency's annual budget and sources of income and the fact that the information was to be included in the Directory listing may have caused some agencies to leave it unanswered. Furthermore, the wording of the question allowed some confusion over the exact nature of the information desired, the headings under which sources of income should be listed, the importance of complete returns.

For these reasons and others, this preliminary study will be followed immediately by a more comprehensive one. A new questionnaire will be sent out and agencies will be encouraged to cooperate fully in order to provide data from which generalizations can be made and suggestions given to the operating agencies.

RELEASE NO: 4

SUBJECT: A PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION OF SOME ASPECTS OF THE FINANCING OF LOCAL PRIVATE AGENCIES LISTED IN THE DIRECTORY OF AGENCIES IN INTERGROUP RELATIONS

At the February, 1948, meeting of the Board of Directors of NAIRO, it was resolved that a schedule and questionnaire designed to determine the methods of financing local and state private intergroup relations agencies be prepared at the office of the Association and be properly pre-tested and sent to the agencies; and that the information returned by the agencies be compiled, summarized, and made available.

The Directory of Agencies in Intergroup Relations provides a listing of 663 local private agencies with some data on budgets and sources of income compiled from a questionnaire returned by the various agencies.

While the information in the Directory is not necessarily complete or representative, data are provided for a preliminary review of the financing of a good sampling of the local private agencies and give some indication of the size and variety of local agency budgets and fund raising.

Scope of the Study

The present preliminary study is limited to agencies created voluntarily and operating as private organizations, whose geographic area of operations is local - i.e., one county, township, city, borough, village, or even neighborhood. Of the 663 local agencies included in some or all of the tabulations, 141 are completely independent, while 522 are affiliated, however closely or loosely, with some national, regional, or state body (477 of the affiliated agencies provided only name and address, other pertinent facts being reported under the parent body listings, and these affiliates are included only in the tabulations of geographical location and of population of city or town in which located). The forty-five affiliated agencies returning more complete data are included in tabulations.

Location of Agencies

The greatest concentration of local private agencies appears in the census regions: Middle Atlantic (114 agencies), East North Central (183 agencies), and Pacific (130 agencies).

California (with 106 agencies), Illinois (56), Pennsylvania (48), New York (46), and Ohio (46) are the states reporting the greatest number of local private agencies. Illinois (28) and California (20) report the largest number of independent agencies. California (86) and Ohio (38) report the greatest number of affiliated agencies.

No local private agencies of any type are reported from Maine, Nevada, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Vermont, and Wyoming.

For the distribution of local private agencies listed in the Directory by population of the cities or town in which the agencies are located, four official census groupings are used: population under 2,500, between 2,500 and 10,000, between 10,000 and 100,000 and over 100,000. Four hundred and eight agencies (62% of the total) were located in cities with a population of 100,000 or more; 29% of the remainder (195 agencies) were located in cities with a population of 10,000 to 100,000; 5% (31 agencies) were located in cities with a population 2,500 and 10,000; and only 29 agencies (4%) were in towns with a population of less than 2,500, and most of these 29 agencies were branches of national organizations,* only three being independent.

Annual Budgets

More than half (95) of the agencies reporting more than name and address (186 in all) listed their 1947 annual budgets. Forty-eight percent of the unaffiliated agencies and 60% of the affiliated agencies replied to this particular question. Only one independent agency and one affiliated agency located in towns with a population of less than 2,500 reported. Three independent agencies in urban places with a population of between 2,500 and 10,000 reported an average budget of $917, with no affiliated agencies reporting. Nineteen independent agencies located in cities with a population of between 10,000 and 100,000 listed an average budget of $1,346, while eight affiliated agencies listed an average of $138. Forty-five independent agencies located in large cities (with a population of over 100,000) reported an average budget of $6,728, while eighteen affiliated agencies reported a $32,379 average budget.

Data on Financing

The questionnaire for the Directory was sent out to known agencies in the field for the purpose of securing basic information for the listings in the Directory and, for this reason, only one (of 14 questions) dealt with financing, and it received no special emphasis:

> "Amount of 1947 annual budget.....Check sources:
> Contribution...Membership Fees...Foundations...
> Public Funds....Others...."
> (Specify)

There may have been some doubt among the respondent as to just what constituted a budget as well as some hesitancy about having it listed in a directory, and some questions, i.e.: Just what are "Public Funds"?

---

* Eight of these were branches of the Southern Negro Youth Congress and seven were branches of the Japanese American Citizens' League.

Under which category should such items as trust funds, legacies, Community Chest grants, contributions from parent agency, etc., be listed? Just what miscellaneous receipts should be specified under "others"? Furthermore, a lack of sufficient space after the word "others" may have discouraged respondents from listing all miscellaneous items. Such limitations are recognized in this preliminary report and accompanying tables.

The range of budgets found in every area and in every size city indicates that mere location in a larger city does not insure a high budget, although the average large city (over 100,000 population) budget is higher than that found in cities with a smaller population.

It seems that the agencies which draw their support from Community Chest or Welfare Fund sources, as did 22 of the 90 agencies located in cities with a population of more than 100,000 which reported on sources of income, had a higher 1947 annual budget than those agencies which are primarily dependent on dues and contributions and which must, therefore, appeal more specifically to the public.

Sources of Income

One hundred forty-four agencies indicated the various methods by which they had raised the money reported in their 1947 budget statements. Sixty-five per cent of the independent agencies and 63% of the affiliated agencies reported dues and contributions as sources, in whole or in part, of their revenue. A little over 6% had received money from foundations: 6% from benefits and socials; and 3% received public funds.

Twelve of the independent agencies and four of the affiliated agencies reported receiving money from the Community Chest or Fund in 12 cities. Two of the independent agencies and nine of the affiliated agencies reported some Jewish Welfare Fund or appeal (in nine cities) as a source of revenue.*

 Of 22 affiliated agencies reporting from cities with a population of over 100,000, 13 had Community Chest or Welfare Fund support; of 68 independent agencies reporting from cities with a population of over 100,000, nine had such support. It is interesting to note that only one of the 45 affiliated agencies returning the questionnaire reported receiving money from the parent body.

 Independent agencies in Binghampton, N. Y. (2); Bloomfield, N. J.; Chester, Pa., Chicago (3), Cleveland; Los Angeles, Pasadena, Pittsburgh, and Trenton, N. J. Affiliated agencies in Chicago; Milwaukee, Philadelphia, and San Francisco.

* Independent agencies in Cleveland, and Waterbury, Conn. Affiliated agencies in Boston, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Los Angeles, Oakland (Calif.), Philadelphia (2), and St. Louis.

Closely related to budget was the number of agencies employing full-time paid personnel. Fifty-three of the agencies reported such personnel in their employ, 30 independent agencies and 23 affiliated. The average number of employees in those agencies employing one or more was three with an average of two in independent agencies and almost four in the affiliated agencies. Fifty-one of the 53 agencies reporting the employment of full-time paid personnel were located in cities with a population of over 100,000.

Dates of Organization

Classification of the dates of organization of the 168 local private agencies reporting this fact shows that 71% were founded during the six war years, 1941-1946. Nine were organized in 1941, six in 1942, 26 in 1943, 25 in 1944, 24 in 1945, and 29 in 1946. Thirteen agencies were founded in 1947, and two in the early months of 1948. The oldest agency reporting was the Chinese-American Citizens' Alliance, which was organized in Los Angeles in 1895.

Plans for Further Study

A more detailed study is now being planned and the questionnaire will be forwarded to local private agencies in the near future. The questionnaire will be designed to yield more detailed information on local financing.

A. Program Content
1. Conference attempted to cover too many areas	16	24	14
2. Conference omitted important considerations (such as):	24	5	25

"Standards" for personnel, and definition of the field of intergroup relations and functional areas.

College research programs oriented to action.

Attempts of our educational system to build for good intergroup relationships through intercultural education in school programs: its benefits vs. its drawbacks if taught carelessly or by unqualified persons.

Techniques for the South; state of Civil Rights in the South. How to sell northern advances to the South - without imposing legislation.

Importance of labor organizations in this field.

Psychological implications of inter-group tensions and ways of dealing with them; tools and techniques for use in changing behavior and attitudes.

Presentation of positive program accomplishments.

Suggestions for programming among religious groups.

Techniques of securing community-wide cooperation on intergroup programs; the specifics in achieving definite gains and the evaluation of forces in the community that were exploited in the interest of progress; what to do and what not to do. The casual manner with which certain progress was discussed suggested that there was perhpas not an awareness of why and how success was achieved.

Techniques of managing the local committee, public or private: how to do work quietly and yet secure adequate financial support.

Services needed by agencies: national, state and local; techniques required for combatting public criticism.

Problems of minorities in small communities.

The role of the individual citizen.

4. Additional topics to include in next year's agenda (checklist of the suggestions follows):

Reports on research in progress or completed during the year.

Race relations in the international scene.

Getting information to masses. The whole subject of communication in reference to intergroup relations. How television may be utilized; radio and publicity.

Professional future and security. How to evaluate intergroup professional personnel in relation to attitudes and performance on the job. Unionization of executive secretaries and directors.

Intergroup education. Group relations in the university curriculum.

Special roundtable on methods of handling cases of discrimination. Soundest procedures for action on complaints received. Standards to be followed in investigation. Qualifications of investigators.

Legislative approaches to intergroup problems.

Cooperation between agencies in the field and of duplication areas.

Community organization for education and action. Methods for evaluating community activities. More time on methods and techniques that get desired results.

Psychiatry and race relations; the meaning of prejudice.

Group relations in rural areas.

National strategy for eliminating segregation.

Budgeting.

How the individual citizen can help promote better relations between majority and minority groups.

NAIRO as an action organization.

B. Conference Scheduling.

		Yes	No
1.	Too much time allotted for round table discussion	3	31
2.	Too many general sessions	14	17
3.	Too little free time	21	9
4.	Too many luncheon sessions	14	19
5.	Would prefer dinner sessions	6	22
6.	Would like for some sort of entertainment to be scheduled	9	18
7.	Would like a period for informal mixing and discussion	30	6

C. Additional comments or recommendations (actual quotes or summarized):

One of the few conferences I would call useful. Well set up and well conducted. Amazed and delighted with the conference. Constructive, enlightening and very well organized--only criticism that schedule perhaps a bit too tight. Facilities excellent. Planning this conference was a masterful job due to the newness of the organization. A highly desirable conference to which all of us who work in the field of human relations should look forward to each year. Contacts and attendance at conference quite worthwhile. Conference valuable contribution toward implementing work of professionals in field. Sense of common interests and concern among persons of wide variety of orientations.

More time for exchange of information and experiences on a day to day working level. Not enough free time. More time for discussion.

Little free time is expected.

Much of discussions were too technical and professional though aimed at professional people in the field.

Need good discussion leaders rather than successful people in the field.

Panel discussions should begin promptly as scheduled. Generally, however, the conference was conducted excellently.

Some groups were too large.

When organizing conference sessions, only persons should be scheduled who are likely to be in attendance.

Hold conference and house people all in one hotel.

The first evening might be left free for a dinner (with speeches and drinks) followed by a social evening.

At luncheon, food not good and too expensive. Well managed however; suggest people be seated to mix. Suggest voluntary groups make up own dinner groups.

Some general sessions filled with short reports that added more political value than interest. One or two general sessions "failed to come off" as result of speakers not understanding what they were to do or the purpose of that particular session. Believe too many of the general sessions dealt with the problem on an elementary level. Feel that talks should be more specific and loaded with suggestions and recommendations re: projects, etc.

Believe that a general pattern of general sessions to begin the day with such topics as "Professional Standards", "Housing for Minorities", "Employment for Minorities" or an objective and intelligently critical discussion of "What, actually, is the role of a private (or public) agency in a community" or "What, actually, are official agencies accomplishing" with plenty of opportunities following for the personnel of agencies to discuss, define and look for solutions to their problems.

Well impressed by the session attended. Small enough to permit active discussion but not headed toward definite objectives or conclusions. Suggest meeting of chairmen just before the sessions open.

Session attended badly set up - room dim, tables far from speaker. No group feeling. Some speakers made good points but speeches not tield together.

Topics for round tables were too broad. Hope they can be more specific next year. Need for two main emphases in roundtables aimed at (a) persons most concerned with administrative and technical problems and (b) those whose interest is that of laymen.

Rather than having round tables set up according to subject matter, I would have preferred having two or three half-days when all directors of official agencies, for example, would have discussed what they do, why, how; some background about the situation in which they work.

Our methods and techniques in eliminating discriminatory practices in housing and urban development, for example, would or should be quite different from the methods used by a citizens' private agency. It seemed that time was wasted not from the point of view of the topic discussed but how each of us in our particular jobs could best work at it in terms of what we had to work with.

Conference should be graded and official status be given consideration. Too many miscellaneous groups which did not allow representatives of specific recognized agencies an opportunity to exchange mutual problems.

Study groups should be appointed from among the membership to explore, with the aid of the total membership, unanswered problems. There exists considerable differences of opinion about the functions of official agencies even though legislation setting up such agencies appear to be similar. Even when there is agreement on the functions of the agency and methods of approach in carrying out these functions, there exists a difference in emphasis and in scope of operation. If one wished to explore the possible areas of operation, regardless of whether or not agencies considered these areas important, much could be done to study the factors which lead to success as enumerated under the section of program content above.

Presentation of carefully prepared statements, studies or operating projects deemed destructive during the year in the field of racial relations for detailed discussion, appraisal and evaluation. Areas covered could be local, state or national; administrative or substantive; delineation of an operation or a study in significant detail with the generalizations involved. A situation described, the adjustment called for, the steps taken and techniques invoked, evaluation of successes and failures—principals learned.

What started out to be a rather specific and professional effort has become a mass meeting. Not opposed to this but offers little value as compared to other conferences using the same speakers.

Please avoid becoming a functional agency. Let the ACRR and other agencies fulfill that role.

Not so heavy on New York contingent. Try to get some leaders from the South and Southwest.

Emphasize lay participation more.

Principal addresses and discussions on technique reduced to writing for permanent record.

Be sure the directory of those present is as complete as possible—at least more complete than the past roster.

A monthly or bi-monthly circular to members pointing to specific current event important to intergroup relations.

More use of religious bodies working in the field of better human relations. The role of religious groups seems very important and might merit, another year, a place on the general program. A panel discussion that would be representative of the top organizations in the three faiths could do a good job of presenting this.

Use problem approach. Cite problems and discuss how they have been handled successfully.

Include the educational approach in next year's agenda.

Suggest that "adult education" and "mass media" are not synonymous terms and that they cannot comfortably be combined in a single session.

A section for special problems found in the South.

Local agencies describe tools needed to national ones.

Need great emphasis on professional standard; until developed much of the rest of the program must remain of indefinite value.

D. Suggestions for securing wider representation.

Meeting so large, first reaction is no more people need attention. Recognizes, however, widest coverage of agencies and geographical units is valuable. It is doubtful whether wide representation is indicated. If anything, a narrowing of representation is indicated. It became obvious to some, that the clamor on the part of certain national representatives for legislation for which they were particularly interested tended to de-emphasize the other questions of the Conference. Another group that added to the impression of the tail wagging the dog were the social scientists. It may be that it is not a matter of weighting as a fact that social scientists are able to show more in the area of accomplishments. Whatever the reason, the tendency is that of districting from the basic needs of local official agencies, namely the exchange of experiences and the improvement of knowledge and ability to attain social progress.

By cooperation with similar conferences and combined meetings, e.g., with Fisk. Representatives from Protestant, Catholic and Jewish church groups and their affiliates, Masons, K. C., public affairs committees of YM and YW. Groups whose program is partly concerned with intergroups relations as AVC and ADA. Prominent women's organizations as well as civic groups. Rotary, Kiwanis, AAUW, Junior Chambers; the press. Sent invitations to officers and members of local councils on Human Rights, official and unofficial; labor. Unorganized white collar workers. Management. Cooperatives in both small and large communities.

Take up a theme. Approach it from a functional viewpoint.

Make specific efforts to invite southern representatives.

It would be helpful, probably, if more youth were in the conference. They could be official representatives of the agencies in which they are lay workers.

Wide enough horizontally (nation, state, local and private) but lack increase in depth (small and rural communities).

Anti-discrimination or race relations committees of veterans groups.

Bring in a limited number of important community leaders who are resistent to our efforts.

Persons representing organisations which play minor roles were in complete control and succeeded in perpetuating themselves in authority. Two persons with whom I talked felt they would not be interested in that kind of set up next year.

Conference has become market place for people with programs and pamphlets and no one knows how and if they are used. Specific program job to be done in local communities is not being helped by these mass meetings.

A campaign to begin at once by the people on the membership committee. It seems to me each member of that committee ought to send at once the names of people and organizations who are not now members of NAIRO; they ought to get a report of the last conference, and a new folder on NAIRO. Almost immediately I think the members of the membership committee ought to submit suggestions for that folder.

Regional conferences.

Have separate sessions for professional and amateurs with joint meetings interspersed.

Herbert R. Northrup, Assistant Professor of Industrial Relations
The New York School of Social Work

New York 10, N. Y.

... let me congratulate NAIRO on the splendid week-end meeting. I think you had a most representative group and the discussion was excellent. ... (11/23/48)

Mrs. A. B. Counselbaum
Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith
Chicago 4, Illinois

The success of the Second National Conference on Intergroup Relations was indeed inspiring. The greater the light shed upon this area in our national life, the greater will be our national security. ... (12/1/48)

James C. Evans
Advisor to the Secretary of Defense
Washington, D. C.

I was very happy to be present at the conference of NAIRO in Chicago November 17-20. It was stimulating and provocative of program, and in months ahead I shall be referring to my memories of it and to the wealth of material I gathered there.

The mechanics of the conference were very smooth indeed, and on that my admiration goes to you. I have done enough of the "legwork" of such conferences to know the immense amount of time and thought that must go into details that make meetings go along so without hindrance to the delegates and with seeming ease of the staff. (12/22/48).

Lucile Ellison, Administrative Assistant
National Education Association of the United States
Washington 6, D. C.

Thanks for them kind words, thanks for the opportunity to say the things I said to such a representative group.

The conference was well conceived. The follow-through by the participants should prove to be fruitful. ... (11/24/48)

A. Abbot Rosen, Director
Chicago Executive Offices
Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith
Chicago 4, Illinois

NAIRO would be a dead dodo already if it were not for the services of the ACRR and when I say that I am talking not only of the advantages of the financial resources existing there but of the admirable guidance and direction which Louis Wirth, you and the staff have given. A professional organization requires funds, knowhow and good sense.

Personally I am very enthusiastic about the future of NAIRO. The conference I thought was a good one and I insist that most of the credit goes to you. I will also confess that my optimism for the future of the organization is not based so much upon the value of the conference itself as upon the indications of interest on the part of the people who attended. Nothing could have buoyed me up more than that business session we had on Friday morning. (12/2/48)

George Schermer, Director
City of Detroit Interracial Committee
Detroit, Michigan

I had an exceedingly beneficial time at the Intergroup Officials Conference, and I am very glad I stayed over. ... (12/7/48)

Dr. Fred G. Holmes
Arizona Committee for Civic Unity
Phoenix, Arizona

... I have just returned from a very fine meeting in Chicago of Intergroup Officials Conference at which about 300 to 400 people throughout the United States attended. They were heads of mayors' committees, governors' committees, National Jewish Committee, Anti-Defamation, etc. leaders. I had a chance to confer with many people who are on the legislative battlefront in the different states. I discussed this quite fully with Mr. Udall, and I would be very happy if you would talk with him about it. I probably will be coming down to Tucson soon also. As a result of the things picked up at this meeting and our own conversations here with the men in Phoenix and with Mr. Udall, I would say that it would seem best to choose one piece of legislation for which we would be willing to work hard and try to get its passage. ...

Letter written December 1, 1948 to:
Mrs. Hubert H. d'Autremont
Box 650 Route 4
Tucson, Arizona

By:
Dr. Fred C. Holmes
Arizona Committee for Civic Unity
Phoenix, Arizona

... You did a great job at Chicago. (12/21/48)

... You did a grand job with the Conference. My hat is off to you! Have you anything for a person like me in your neck of the woods? (12/13/48)

John B. Hanna, Executive Director
Council for Unity of New Rochelle
New Rochelle, New York

... I can say by way of overall comment that I thoroughly enjoyed it; feel that it is a highly desirable conference to which all of us who work in the field of human relations should look forward each year. Certainly, as in all activity of this kind, there is always room for improvement and always a need for change. Your effort to do this in terms of the questionnaire is commendable.

Illness of my mother prevented my attendance throughout the conference but I certainly look forward with much enthusiasm to attending the entire session the next time. ... (12/27/48)

SECOND NATIONAL CONFERENCE

ON

INTERGROUP RELATIONS

RECEIVED
JAN 19 1949
Southern Regional Council

NOVEMBER 18,19,20

1948

4901 ELLIS AVE. CHICAGO 15, ILL.

PREFACE

The Second National Conference on Intergroup Relations was held in Chicago, November 18-20, 1948, under the sponsorship of the American Council on Race Relations, the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials, and the National Citizens Council on Civil Rights, with 300 delegates in attendance. These represented 61 different local communities in 25 states, plus Washington, D. C., Canada and the United Nations. There were 23 universities and colleges represented and 129 agencies and organizations classified as follows:

National Private	35
Federal	7
Regional	4
State Public	8
State Private	5
Local Public	16
Local Private	54

Three-fourths of these are actual operating agencies in the field of race relations or intergroup programs and one-fourth are functional agencies in such fields as education, housing, employment, religion, recreation, health and legislation. Three-fourths are financed in whole or in part by voluntary methods and one-fourth are public agencies operated as units of federal, state or municipal government.

This report is not designed as a verbatim conference proceedings but as a summary statement on each of the 13 round table discussions and the 7 general sessions, one of which was the NAIRO business meeting for which minutes are available upon request. At the business meeting by-laws were adopted and the Board of Directors and officers for 1949 were elected. The officers and Boards of Directors of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials and of the American Council on Race Relations are listed at the end of this report.

A copy of the program and a complete list of delegates are available from NAIRO. Appended is a list of program chairmen, speakers, discussion leaders and panel participants.

Reports of the general sessions and round tables are summarized in the following pages.

CONFERENCE GENERAL SESSIONS

Summary and Review of Current Activities in Intergroup Relations

THE NATIONAL PICTURE We are living in a time of major strains and tensions, a time which has raised serious questions of war and peace, of the continuity of democratic living and development. As American citizens, we are faced by the necessity to make many readjustments in our political, economic, and social life not only because we are suffering the consequences of world-wide warfare, but also because science has presented us the challenge of atomic energy.

TASKS OF INTER-GROUP AGENCIES It is within this context of turmoil and change that we who are dedicated to the ideal of the full and democratic life for all must operate. We must continually take careful stock of the total situation with respect to individual liberties and the climate of public opinion; with respect to intergroup democracy, to the actions of courts and Congress, White House and state capitol; and the actions which are taken by other organizations in our society.

EVENTS ON THE NATIONAL SCENE During the past year, we have had the encouragement of the reports of the President's Committee on Civil Rights and the President's Commission on Higher Education; the issuance of Executive Order 9980, establishing fair employment policies in the federal government, and Executive Order 9981, establishing an advisory committee to explore means of effecting equality in the armed forces; the National Health Report; and decisions of the United States Supreme Court declaring unconstitutional the enforcement of restrictive housing covenants by action of the courts; voiding California restrictions on land ownership by aliens ineligible for citizenship on racial grounds, sustaining the right of Negroes to vote in the South Carolina Democratic primary, and supporting the right of Negroes to equal educational opportunity.

Despite the failure of the 80th Congress to enact the legislation called for by the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, we can look forward to more favorable action by the 81st Congress. Both major parties included promising civil rights sections in their platforms, and certainly President Truman himself took a firm stand on this and related issues throughout his successful campaign.

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE STATES

On the state level, we can now point with pride to the functioning of fair employment commissions in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Wisconsin, [redacted], and Indiana, as well as to the operations of official interracial agencies in 13 other states. New York State has taken the lead in equalizing educational opportunity with the passage of its Fair Educational Practices Act, which went into effect September, 1948. The accomplishments of each of these agencies are felt far beyond the scope of the initiating agent, and are increasingly reflected in activities in other states and cities and the federal government itself.

LOCAL ACTIVITIES

A survey of developments on the local scene is a source of encouragement. At present there are 48 local public agencies operating in the field of intergroup relations, and nearly a thousand local private agencies. These organizations report considerable progress in achieving greater equality of opportunity for all. Some have concentrated their efforts on legislative action to secure civil rights; others have developed specific programs to oppose discrimination in housing, employment, health and welfare services, and education; and many have learned the value of utilizing research findings and self-survey techniques in the development of their action programs.

Events in several southern states afford special encouragement. In Tennessee, Negro policemen are being used, teachers' salaries are being equalized, and intercultural courses have been integrated in the curricula of certain schools. Kentucky reports that Negro girls are receiving nurses' training in fully accredited hospitals and that a study course in race relations has been instituted in the police training program of one city. In Richmond, Virginia, a Negro councilman was elected, and several Negroes serve on commissions at both state and local levels. North Carolina is using Negroes for jury duty.

With the knowledge of these advances made through both public and private channels, we can move forward in a spirit of optimism toward the accomplishment of our purposes. Substantial progress has been made, and will continue to be made despite all counter forces, so long as we in the field keep our aims high and continue our coordinated efforts.

Professional Standards in the Field of Intergroup Relations

FIELD IS NEW The field of intergroup relations is a relatively new field of professionalization and therefore only in the initial stages of developing a body of verified knowledge and standardized techniques. Knowledge to guide workers in handling conflict situations and other phases of intergroup relations is still too limited; the field offers wide opportunity for experimentation and study to create the body of knowledge concerning the dynamic factors in intergroup relations and the techniques for using them.

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS A basic minimum without which no one should undertake to work in this field is:

- a knowledge of the facts concerning race (biological), free from folk superstitions and generalizations regarding a relation between race and culture of "inevitable" stages in the cultural evolution of races;

- a knowledge of minority communities and their relation to the larger community: the physical basis of the community life, its organization and cultures, and the various relationships and contacts at different levels;

- an understanding that race prejudice is not instinctive and a knowledge of the agencies and institutions that perpetuate stereotypes and attitudes;

- an acceptance of variation in the structure of race relations without perpetuation of static concepts of a "natural pattern" and with appropriate definitions of each situation and sectional variations;

- a knowledge of the dynamics of intergroup relations and of the nature of tensions and conflicts as social situations - unrest, frustration, desire for status, etc. - not explained by any one isolated factor such as the economic;

- an understanding of one's own economic, social, and cultural background as it determines one's outlook, "role" and philosophy about the ends to be achieved - complete and unqualified integration of all minorities into the total American community;

- an imaginative and scientific approach, free from dependence upon clichés such as mores, caste and class, frustration, "scapegoat", and based upon the accumulation of knowledge of processes and techniques, recorded and tested;

- a defined relationship between the intergroup organization and the community itself, other agencies and institutions with the emphasis upon cooperation rather than competition and with avoidance of extraneous issues; and

- a constant realization that the situation is one of social change, never static, and influenced by various factors, each significant and related to others.

Organization for Legislation

IMPORTANCE OF ORGANIZING FOR CONGRESSIONAL ACTION

Local communities must not overlook the importance of national legislation. In the last analysis, it is the interests of people who work on the grass-roots level that will effect congressional action implementing the Report of the President's Commission on Civil Rights. Though the passage of laws may not eliminate or reduce prejudice, it does remove the legal basis of discrimination, and is consequently of basic importance to minorities who should not be required to wait for the slower process of education to end discrimination.

QUESTIONS OF STRATEGY

Organizations must combine forces for the coming congressional battle. They must decide on methods of strategy, for instance, whether to support an omnibus civil rights bill or to work on one measure at a time. If they decide on the latter, and previous experience indicates it as the wiser course, they are faced with the problem of deciding which specific measures should have priority. Obviously, it is easier to gain support for such measures as anti-lynch and anti-poll tax bills; but, on the other hand, if FEPC can be passed first, the major resistance to civil rights legislation will be broken.

NEED FOR COORDINATING PROGRAMS

The establishment by some national organization of a clearing house on civil rights and social legislation would be of material aid to the many agencies attempting to unify their political action programs. Such a clearing house would have responsibility for reporting on congressional sessions and suggesting the most effective policies and techniques to policy makers and to organizations which can communicate authentic information to citizens at large.

ORGANIZING FOR STATE LEGISLATION

In January, 1949, all state legislatures with the exception of those in Mississippi, Louisiana, Virginia, and Kentucky will be in session. It was suggested that agencies prepare programs early, be ready to present bills on the first day of the legislative session, and be well organized to provide all necessary information and supporting evidence to legislators.

DECISION ON TYPE OF LEGISLATION

Organizations must first decide on the basis of their needs what type of legislation has priority. They may choose to work for laws affecting housing, employment, education, or places of public resort, or to work for the repeal or amendment of existing discriminatory laws. If it is impossible to secure passage of an action bill, efforts can be directed toward the establishment of investigating commissions to study and publicize findings regarding discrimination in some specific area or possibly in the broad area of civil rights.

STRATEGY

In drafting bills some strategists include more exacting provisions than may be required in order to clarify issues through debate by the opposition and sometimes to allow for bargaining. An early decision on the minimum that is acceptable is desirable. Introduction of bills providing for the establishment of an administrative body with adequate staff and authority to issue cease and desist orders is urged in contrast to laws providing only civil sanctions or no enforcement powers. It is also desirable to specify that the administrative agency can initiate action without receipt of complaints, and that organizations as well as individuals can file complaints.

Successful organization of a state compaign by agencies with authority to engage in such activities depends largely on proper financing. Full-time trained personnel is far preferable to volunteer personnel. It is very important to extend organization to rural areas where the returns are proportionally greater.

In planning public relations for a campaign, reliance upon press releases only is not as effective as creating newsworthy situations. Publicity should be scheduled so that campaigns become educational in themselves by virtue of the fact that the issue comes to the attention of the entire citizenry.

ORGANIZING FOR LOCAL ORDINANCES

Organization for the passage of local ordinances is frequently a simpler matter than organization for state or federal legislation. There are, however, serious limitations to the effectiveness of city ordinances. They are limited in scope, and without power to control businesses engaged in interstate commerce or located just outside city limits. City budgets are much smaller than those of states or the federal government, and it is hard to get enough money for adequate performance of duties. In addition, the calibre of city employees may be a serious limitation on legislation requiring administrative action.

POSSIBLE TYPES OF ORDINANCES

Fair employment ordinances are high on the list of priorities for citizens striving to achieve better conditions in their communities. At the very least they must include clauses barring discrimination in employment in firms receiving city contracts and in the administration of public utilities.

Other important types of city ordinances are those establishing local public agencies in human relations or providing for a policy of non-discrimination in urban redevelopment. City ordinances may punish propagation of racial and religious hatred, or require non-discriminatory practices by licensees before licenses are granted to places of business.

LOCAL ORGANIZATION A NUCLEUS

Finally, the resources organized for passage of a city ordinance provide a nucleus which can be utilized for action on state and federal legislation.

Implementing the Recommendations of the Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights

TIME RIPE FOR NEW BILL OF RIGHTS

The 80th Congress chose to give consideration only to the more controversial and politically charged phases of the President's civil rights program, neglecting significant proposals which did not lend themselves as readily to attack. With the November election, the opposition to the civil rights program has been reduced to its real proportions. The most timid of legislators may feel free to act according to his conscience, having been assured in advance of the desires of his constituents. The time is ripe for the writing of a new Bill of Rights for the American people.

LEGISLATION GUARANTEEING RIGHT TO VOTE

Legislation providing for federal protection at every stage of the electoral process of the right to vote would in large measure assure the democratizing of elections in areas where the franchise is too often denied to minorities. Free elections would lead to readier solutions of many of the social, economic and political problems afflicting these areas than would laws designed to accomplish narrower purposes.

CIVIL RIGHTS LAWS

The civil rights laws must be made more comprehensive in scope and must be amended to define clearly the constitutional and legal rights which they protect. The President should be urged to submit, early in the next session of Congress, bills already drafted in the Department of Justice and his own executive offices to implement the civil rights proposals contained in his ten-point civil rights message of February, 1948.

ESTABLISHMENT OF CIVIL RIGHTS DIVISION

Finally, there should be established in the Department of Justice the office of Assistant Attorney General in charge of a Civil Rights Division. Existence of a federal Civil Rights Unit would make an impact upon public opinion that is lacking when operations are recognized as a comparatively minor function of the Department of Justice.

Reports on Current National Issues by National and Federal Agency Representatives

FEDERAL CIVIL RIGHTS

Although all recommendations of the President's Committee on Civil Rights are of great importance, the creation of a Federal Commission on Civil Rights stands forth as a prime necessity. There are many reasons for the establishment of such a Commission. It would be able to devote much more time and money to the study of intergroup relations than private groups can afford. Its activity should lead to improvement in practices within the federal government itself. It would exercise tremendous influence toward the enforcement of existing civil rights legislation. And, finally, its very existence would give status to the entire civil rights movement.

In addition, extension of the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Justice is necessary for proper enforcement of existing civil rights legislation and executive orders as well as those which are forthcoming.

ANTI-POLL TAX Federal anti-poll tax legislation has, among civil rights legislation, the dubious distinction of having been closer to passage more times than any other. There is no doubt that the fight for the right to vote has made more progress in the last five years than in the previous forty. Since some states have voluntarily repealed the poll tax, it remains in use in only seven states. In preparing for the next campaign, it is important to get senatorial support for the revision of cloture rules to prevent filibustering.

FAIR EMPLOYMENT PRACTICES Experience shows that revision of cloture rules is necessary for passage of fair employment legislation also. The opposition of the South, when added to that of other organizations, presents a formidable front against the efforts of those working for a permanent FEPC. In order to secure passage, compromise may be necessary in the drafting of the bill. Although it is known that the bill might be passed without enforcement provisions, such a bill would be more a gesture than an effective instrument of control.

ANTI-LYNCHING An anti-lynching bill similar to those introduced in years past will again be introduced in the 81st Congress. All rumors to the contrary, there is no plan among its sponsors for making a deal in its favor at the expense of the rest of the civil rights program. Despite the traditional opposition of the southern bloc, the chances for the bill seem good in view of wide support from minorities, organized labor, and all citizens concerned with the world reputation of the United States.

SEGREGATION IN WASHINGTON The National Committee to Abolish Segregation in the Nation's Capital has just completed a two-year study of conditions in Washington, and has released in December, 1948, a publication on its findings. The Committee report shows that the often-shocking discriminatory patterns existing in the Capital do not represent the views of the inhabitants, but rather the exercise of power by groups which dominate the city and which find it to their interest to maintain segregation. Subsequent to the publication of this report, corrective action will be initiated.

SEGREGATION IN THE ARMY

The office of the Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War was re-established to assist in the "formulation, development and administration of policies affecting the fair and effective utilization of Negroes in the Army and with policies involving their employment as civilians in Army installations and by Army contractors." A Negro Interest Section was established in the Bureau of Public Relations to provide effective contact with the civilian populace. A staff committee on policy regarding Negro troops was organized at the Secretarial level. Negro officers and units were called to active duty from the Reserves and from the National Guard.

Though rapid demobilization occurred at the cessation of hostilities overseas the War Department continued interest in weighing the Negro potential in a peacetime program for national strength, safety and security. In October, 1945, the Secretary of War appointed a board of officers headed by Lieutenant General A. C. Gillem, Jr., to prepare a broad policy for the future utilization of Negro manpower in the military establishment. The report of this committee, "Utilization of Negro Manpower in the Post-War Army Policy" continues in effect as the authoritative policy statement on participation of Negroes in the Army.

CONFERENCE ROUND TABLES

Administrative Problems and Techniques of State Official Agencies

PROBLEMS Representatives of state official agencies stressed the following as important problems: public relations; cooperative relationships with other departments and with educational groups; elimination of segregation and discrimination in the fields of employment, housing, medical services and education; needed changes in the militia; and a new approach to civil rights legislative controls. Most agencies agreed that basic handicaps are their insufficient budgets, lack of authority, and the need for more adequate legislation.

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE There was extensive discussion regarding the most advantageous type of administrative structure. The advisability of having a bi-partisan commission of lay people to hold public hearings in the matter of civil rights and to make recommendations to the government was suggested. Another delegate mentioned the Florida Citizens' Education Committee, which brings in specialists to provide particular data; and the representative from Connecticut mentioned the effective work done by a ten-man lay volunteer commission appointed by the governor. It was generally agreed that most satisfactory results are obtained when the policy-making body consists of unpaid volunteers and the agency staff of paid professionals.

The difficult problem of extension of authority of state official agencies is reported to have found one answer in Wisconsin, where the new Attorney General has agreed to set up a civil rights section to see that the law is enforced through the actions of the district attorneys.

RELATIONSHIPS WITH OTHER GROUPS — The relationship of state public agencies to local and regional bodies was reviewed. Wisconsin affords an example of the stimulating influence a state public agency can have. The Governor's Commission there has activated several Mayor's Councils similar to the Madison Council on Human Rights, established to carry on educational work and community investigations. These local councils have been very helpful to the state agency. New Jersey reports that they have used their regional councils to draw citizens with general community interests into the field of race relations. A program to promote FEPC legislation is one excellent means of securing wide community support and cooperation.

USE OF PUBLICITY — The delegates agreed that, though fear of exposure is the most potent weapon in cases of discrimination in industry and in places of public resort, publicity should be handled judiciously. All agencies felt that there is a definite need for positive publicity as a means of education for the public as a whole.

LEGISLATIVE METHODS — With respect to state legislative procedure, the consensus seemed to be that it is advisable to work on one civil rights bill at a time rather than to push omnibus legislation. It was agreed that such projects as elimination of segregation in the National Guard units of the several states can only be accomplished by coordinated pressure on Washington from the states.

Administrative Problems and Techniques of Local Official Agencies

PROBLEMS — The local official agency is responsible for improving community conditions for all groups in its given area. Discussion of approaches and techniques to fulfill this function centered around such questions as the following: (1) Should the agency work directly through staff contact within a problem situation or indirectly through influencing the agencies responsible for rendering services in the given area? (2) Should the agency's approach be an overall one, or should it be selective; if the latter, how are areas selected? (3) What is the nature of the local official agency's relations with other agencies? (4) How do these relations differ as between public and private agencies? (5) How does the agency achieve and retain status?

SCOPE OF AGENCIES

One participant listed the functions of his agency as collecting information, education and action; and emphasized cooperation with existing organizations. One agency concentrated on securing fair employment practice legislation. Another concentrated on reducing discrimination in city official agencies. One program of limited scope influenced the policies of direct service agencies. On the other hand, agencies reported such direct functions as administration of a fair employment practice ordinance and operation of a youth program.

ACHIEVING STATUS

The agencies have attempted to gain and maintain status in different ways. Some suggested that status can be gained by rendering some service which is not directly related to the field of group relations. The composition of the board is an important factor in the attainment of community status. All emphasized the method of achieving wide public appeal through program content and activities.

Administrative Problems and Techniques of Citizens' Community Councils

PROBLEMS Problems discussed included: the importance of having affiliates and of developing good relations between affiliates and the council; the possible tension that may exist between official and unofficial citizens' councils and the duty of the unofficial council to both protect and prod the official body; methods of selecting significant projects and securing the interest of the affiliates; and techniques of educating the affiliates toward some form of coordinated activity.

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE It was suggested that a citizens' council must offer all constituent agencies a definite function, a chance to share in council publicity, and a chance to dissociate themselves from council activities in which they have no particular interest without withdrawing from or weakening the council itself. The group expressed the need to have on hand statements of policy from the national organizations with whose local branches citizens' councils must work.

CITIZENS' PARTICIPATION The question of recruiting volunteer laymen to serve on council committees was raised. It was agreed that it is often helpful to have prospective volunteers sign up for a limited number of interests only and to call on these only when their particular interest is involved. The creation of ad hoc committees to deal with special issues was suggested.

FINANCING The group discussed the NAIRO preliminary report on the financing of local private agencies, noting that only six per cent of the agencies report that they receive funds from foundations, whereas a larger percentage report receiving funds from Community Chests. It was pointed out that it may be desirable for agencies to appeal more directly to the public for their support.

NEED FOR RESEARCH

To date little sociological research in race relations has been relevant to the programs and action needs of local councils. There is a great need for economic research in race relations; students and non-intergroup relations organizations can do a great deal of useful work if their efforts are coordinated by the councils.

Methods and Techniques of Eliminating Discriminatory Practices in Local Government

SCOPE OF SESSION LIMITED

Because of the limited period of time available to this particular session, comments were restricted to the police department as a representative agency which can be effective in reducing discrimination. Participants reported upon their experiences with local police departments and related agencies in various cities such as Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Evanston, Toledo, Denver, and Philadelphia.

POLICE TRAINING COURSES

Police training courses provide an effective measure to reduce potential and actual friction between the police department and other institutions in local communities. Various deficiencies of the police were pointed out: unfaithful reporting of "incidents", the tendency of individual policemen to deal with problems according to their own view, unjust charges by police against minority groups, and the general failure of local police agencies to recognize and deal with these inadequacies.

Training courses should include material on human relations in general and also specific material on the relationship between the individual policeman and citizens. Methods suggested for removing police deficiencies are summarized below:

1. The use of sociologically accurate literature in police-training courses.

2. Stimulation of direct contact between local police departments and public agencies interested in the correction of discriminatory practices.

3. Attainment of adequate civil rights legislation in the states which do not now provide for the protection and equal treatment of minority groups by the police.

4. Wide distribution of publicity giving recognition to police departments which have improved relationships with minorities.

5. Making police departments aware of the political influence of minority groups and anti-discrimination agencies.

6. Exploration of the relatively new field of educating city employees generally.

Methods and Techniques of Eliminating Discriminatory Practices in Housing and Urban Redevelopment

DISCRIMINATION BOTH LEGAL AND INFORMAL

The elimination of discrimination in this area proceeds along two fronts - the legal and the extra-legal. While the attack on the legal front has already begun, extra-legal controls are as strong now as before the Supreme Court decision of May 3, 1948.

NEED TO DISPEL STEREOTYPES

The prospect of loosening up the segregated pattern lies largely in the possibility of dispelling certain stereotypes. One of these is the association of residential deterioration with Negro occupancy. The other is the idea that Negroes and whites cannot "live together."

In setting up interracial housing projects, the following conditions have been found essential by government agencies:

1. The original plan must be multi-racial.
2. Racial policy must be clearly enunciated at the beginning.
3. Families of all racial groups must be admitted simultaneously.
4. Routine management problems must be kept separate from problems involving racial issues.
5. Management must be multi-racial.

REDEVELOPMENT PROJECTS

It was pointed out that an interracial redevelopment project planned for Chicago is failing for the following reasons: fear of Negro expansion; a reaction of counter-racialism; activities of property owners in the areas to be affected; and the lack of cooperation and, in some cases, outright opposition of vested interests among the minority groups.

The following conditions were held to be important for the success of an anti-segregation movement in redevelopment projects: establishment within the Negro community of an organization which would oppose segregation, probably drawn primarily from tenants and labor union members; enunciation of a city policy recognizing minority needs; and development of participant elements within the ghetto.

DISCRIMINATION IN PRIVATE HOUSING

The need for emphasis upon private housing was pointed out. In Detroit, for example, the ratio between the units of private housing becoming available for Negro occupancy as over against public housing available to Negroes is 25 to 1. Interested agencies must examine and combat various schemes being substituted for restrictive covenants, including financial control devices.

Techniques of Adult Education and the Use of Mass Media

COMMUNITY EDUCATION PROGRAMS

A community education program is a combined operation of information, discussion and action involvement. Giving people a project for which they can actually work is the most effective means of identifying them emotionally as well as intellectually with the fight against prejudice and discrimination. A program of community education must be geared to the multiplicity of community situations, and planned in relation to the special interests of the people involved.

Emphasis should be placed on specific rather than vague issues. In planning a program for community education, it is important to differentiate between agitational efforts on a specific problem and long range educational techniques.

FIELD WORKERS SHOULD DO RESEARCH

Workers concerned with adult education must begin to do evaluations of their own activities, and must carry on more thorough follow-up procedures. Positive reactions arising in intergroup situations dissipate unless action based on accurately evaluated needs follows. People in the field should be actively involved in research, not leaving evaluation and exploration to those not having first-hand experience.

Citizens and Civil Rights

ORGANIZING FOR CIVIL RIGHTS LEGISLATION

The problems of organization, method, and practice for the agencies which are active in the fight for civil rights legislation and implementation were discussed. Although the large number of agencies with overlapping functions provoke one to think in terms of coordination, it is best to concentrate on the cooperation of agencies in name and in practice. The most effective job in intergroup relations is that which is strategic and well-planned; timing is important.

The needs which dominate all community action were examined. Certain organizational "musts" in preparing a community for civil rights implementation include: dissemination by the agency of a clearly articulated statement of its function; a determination of the amount of money necessary to do the job in a specified interval of time and the sources of such funds; and an estimate of the personnel required.

Other broad aims must be met. There must be adequate liaison between the agencies in the field. A maximum use must be made of the conventional symbols of education, and conservative citizens must be drawn into the civil rights movement. Finally, the agency may adopt certain useful methods from the world of business. Proper "packaging" may sell ideas and increase the reading public for publications on the activities and concerns of the agencies.

The meeting ended with a discussion of a possible program of action for agencies in states in which the legislatures will be meeting early in 1949. Action should be taken to facilitate the approach of these agencies to the public and to the legislatures themselves with regard to the passage of civil rights legislation.

The Role of Fair Employment Practices Officers, Consultants, and Race Relations Advisers in Federal Agencies

DEVELOPMENTS SUBSEQUENT TO ISSUANCE OF EXECUTIVE ORDER 9980

The situation regarding fair employment practices in the federal government has not developed to any great extent since the issuance of Executive Order 9980. According to the latest information available, developments are as follows:

1. A supplement concerning fair employment policies has been added to the Civil Service Personnel Manual.

2. Some fair employment officers have been designated in federal establishments.

3. A Fair Employment Board has been established in the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

4. The U. S. Civil Service Commission is waiting for a complete roster of fair employment officers to be submitted by the federal establishments.

PROBLEMS CONFRONTING FAIR EMPLOYMENT BOARD

A basic problem confronts the Fair Employment Board and fair employment officers in determining the proper function of these officers. Should their role be that of a judicial agency, acting on grievances as they are presented, or should they perform a more positive function, seeking to discover the existence of discrimination and to improve personnel practices in their agencies? Obviously, a positive approach is desirable. Moreover, immediate action should be taken by the Fair Employment Board to establish such a positive policy before crystalization of policies and procedures in the various agencies has taken place.

Interested citizens must be alerted to the danger of personnel officers being designated as fair employment officers and thus placed in the position of checking on their own practices.

IMPLEMENTATION OF THE ORDER

The Board has already requested that the agencies submit their orders before they are issued. These orders should be reviewed by the Board and criteria should be established for measuring their accuracy. Where the order submitted by any agency does not meet these standards, that agency should be requested to revise the order in accordance with policies and standards established by the Board.

In implementing a positive policy, the various agencies and the Board should make proper use of already available factual data on the current status of employment of minorities in the federal service. Collection of additional information for the purpose of eliminating discriminatory practices would not be inconsistent with the policy of encouraging agencies to eliminate references to race on application blanks. In all ways, consideration must be given to all categories of personnel affected by the order and not just to Negro personnel.

An important factor in the successful implementation of Executive Order 9980 will be the application of vigorous sanctions in early cases. Information both as to the policy and the procedure to be followed in securing redress should be disseminated to personnel on all levels of the various agencies. Another important consideration in the implementation of the order is the selection of proper personnel to handle grievances on all levels of administration.

The Fair Employment Board can aid in the implementation of the order by making a survey of segregation in government agencies and its compatibility with a merit system with particular reference to:

1. The existence of segregated units.
2. The supervision of mixed units.
3. The use of Negroes in "taboo" jobs such as positions involving supervision of white personnel or dealing with the white public.

"DISLOYALTY" CASES INVOLVING DISCRIMINATION

In regard to "disloyalty" cases which may also involve discrimination on the basis of race, color, creed, or national origin, it is advisable for the Fair Employment Board to exercise the power of review.

Health and Welfare: Providing Equal Treatment and Facilities

PROBLEMS The functional areas of health and welfare face important problems in their effort to eliminate segregation and discrimination, to set standards of service and operation high enough to meet normal needs, and to further the integration of minorities into community life.

The prevailing discriminatory practices involving treatment of patients and clients reduces the number and kinds of services available. In addition, differences in educational opportunity at all school levels and particularly in medical training and in social work training aggravate the problem of professional opportunity for minorities.

FACTORS IN DISCRIMINATION Economic factors reinforce the social forces operating in racial and religious discrimination in these areas. Too often discriminatory practices stem from the authority establishing the organizations, and are, unfortunately, reinforced by the lay and professional board members and the operating staffs.

CORRECTION OF DISCRIMINATORY PRACTICES Fair health practice laws and similar safeguards in the field of social work, such as control of tax exemption, grants-in-aid, and other forms of subsidy, would aid in the correction of discriminatory practices. Since medicine and many social work services are highly specialized, efforts to correct segregation and discrimination should first be directed to physicians, nurses, social workers and administrators. Ultimately, however, citizen understanding and support of necessary changes must be sought and obtained.

The Role of Religious Groups

RELIGIOUS BODIES ARE AWARE OF THEIR RESPONSIBILITY

The growing awareness of intergroup problems among religious organizations is reflected by their numerous recent resolutions supporting FEPC, opposing restrictive covenants and other discriminatory devices, and condemning racial segregation within their own groups.

DEFICIENCIES IN PRESENT PRACTICES

Despite the good work which has already been done, a study of Protestant churches and the Negro people conducted for the Federal Council of Churches shows that less than one per cent of the Negro population, of which ninety-nine per cent is Protestant, worship in the same congregation with whites. The claim of certain congregations that they practice segregation only because the laws of the state require it is frequently a rationalization.

POSITIVE PROGRAM

Religious bodies must incorporate race relations courses in their theological schools, must see that the student bodies and faculties of these schools are interracial, and must encourage interfaith and interracial seminars and summer camps among their young people. Religious groups must not be satisfied with mixed attendance, but must recognize the value of mixed membership and unsegregated practices in social affairs as well as worship services.

The segregated religious bodies, with their corresponding segregated welfare and service institutions, constitute one of the most vulnerable points in religious organization in the United States. When this point is brought clearly enough to the attention of religious leaders, they may begin the process of self-criticism and adjustment which can lead to the abolition of segregation and discrimination within their organizations and, further, to the alignment of religious groups with all others who are working for a more democratic America.

Education: Problems in Higher and Professional Education

EDUCATION IN A DEMOCRACY

To be effective in a democracy, education must not be restricted to any class, race, economic group, or supposedly "qualified" intellectual group. As the various educators arrive at a common understanding of the general purpose of education in a democratic society, it is increasingly likely that they will realize the inconsistencies of discriminatory practices prevailing in educational institutions.

INEQUALITY OF EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY

Major handicaps to equal education for all minority and underprivileged groups are existing social barriers, unequal training opportunities at the primary and secondary level, and discrimination in entrance requirements and facilities by professional and technical schools. The federal government can aid greatly in the elimination of discrimination in schools by withholding funds from state and regional institutions until nationally defined educational policies are followed.

PROMISING SIGNS

There are many promising signs in the field of education. The federal government is making surveys of teaching and educational facilities for minority groups. Catholic schools are opening their doors to Negro students. Many educational institutions have eliminated mention of race and religion from their application forms, and great numbers of teachers and educators are becoming increasingly incensed at practices in their own institutions. In many cases, students themselves, sometimes with the help of intelligent adult guidance, have motivated anti-discrimination policies.

The recent establishment of a fair educational practices commission in New York State provides for the rest of the states and the nation a tangible example of the kind of goal toward which all can work.

Integrating Minorities Into Employment

ANALYSIS OF EMPLOYMENT TRENDS

According to a report based on United States Employment Service records, the war-time gains of Negroes in industries and occupations are being held at a high level. During the war there was a shift from agricultural work to industry. Although one-third of all Negroes were employed in agriculture in 1940, only one-sixth were thus employed by 1947. In non-farming occupations, noticeable trends are as follows. Negroes have found substantially more employment in rubber and metal industries. Fewer Negroes are doing domestic work. Though fewer Negroes were employed in construction work during the war, there has been a subsequent rise in employment in that area. Despite these occupational gains, there are still a large number of Negroes in unskilled jobs, and there is more unemployment today among Negroes than among whites.

It was pointed out that these reports do not include data regarding minorities other than the Negro group, and that many others, especially Mexicans and Orientals, have increasingly serious employment problems.

STATE COMMISSIONS AGAINST DISCRIMINATION

Though the seven state commissions against discrimination have made progress in establishing fair employment practices, their effect has been less than many people anticipated.

A basic reason for their ineffectiveness lies in the unwillingness of persons experiencing discrimination to carry the case to the commissions. There is great need for private organizations to put major emphasis on servicing minorities in bringing complaints, so that the burden will not rest on individuals.

The work of the state commissions cannot be evaluated in terms of numbers of complaints handled. Any such evaluation is misleading, since in many cases settlement of a single complaint may have ramifications affecting the entire employment pattern in a given industry or business.

ROLE OF VOLUNTEER GROUPS

In addition to giving aid to state commissions against discrimination, community volunteer groups can perform a valuable service by keeping in close touch with practices in state and local, as well as federal, government.

UNION EDUCATIONAL EFFORTS

Many unions are making effective contributions to the movement against racial and religious discrimination in industry. Their approach to workers, usually based on the necessity for concerted action in the economic area, has often resulted in a decrease in prejudice in social relationships as well.

INDUSTRY ESTABLISHES ITS STANDARDS

In addition, certain major industrial firms are voluntarily taking steps in the direction of equalizing job opportunities within their own ranks. The International Harvester Company affords an excellent example of the methods by which an industry can set up its own fair employment standards and assist in the integration of minority workers into the workforce as a whole.

JOB TRAINING ESSENTIAL

A final major factor affecting the integration of minorities in industry is that of availability of job training. Training programs made available through the Veterans Administration and the Apprentice Training Division of the Department of Labor make it possible for minority groups to prepare themselves for skilled work, thus eventually to improve economic status.

The Role of Research in Intergroup Relations

RESEARCH CAN PROVIDE SERVICES

There is a great need for integration of research programs and agency action in the field of intergroup relations. Research technicians could be of greater service to the staffs of operating agencies by carrying on the following activities:

1. Locating relevant facts.
2. Assisting in the organization and interpretation of facts.
3. Evaluating action programs, even during their operation, in order to encourage experimentation and self-criticism.
4. Conducting surveys to discover possibilities for new or revised activities.
5. Conducting theoretical research in order to suggest new approaches to problems and to discover new techniques.

FIELD WORKERS USE RESEARCH

Workers in the field can make better use of research facilities than they do at present. They must know where to get qualified research people, and must accept some responsibility for encouraging pertinent research. They must be able to outline their needs so as to influence the direction and extent of research. More use must be made of legal research, and the facilities of law schools. Agencies should be cautious in their interpretation and dissemination of research findings.

ORIENTATION

Research can be better oriented to action needs in many ways.

New techniques for action research should be developed, with less emphasis being placed on historical research. Less emphasis should be placed on studies of attitudes and group characteristics, and more on studies of group structure and functions, on the influence of group membership on the individual, and on the study of group dynamics with particular reference to processes of change within the group.

There is need for study of the conditions under which intergroup contact will lead to amity, of methods of integration of minority members into the larger community without the loss of minority group identity, and of community self-survey techniques. We need to investigate ways of affecting changes in political relationships presently reinforcing inequalities and of improving our techniques of strategy.

DISSEMINATION OF RESEARCH

Finally, action people as well as research workers must assume greater responsibility for getting such publications as inventories of research and summaries and digests of recent research in intergroup relations into the hands of policy makers and action agency personnel.

GOALS AND PROSPECTS

At the closing session of the conference, Louis Wirth, President of the American Council on Race Relations, summarized the reports of the several sessions and made the following observations:

"Looking at the situation today as compared with last year, we may take some modest pride in accomplishment. The goals that lie before us are very much clearer than they were before. There is no use reciting the catechism of democratic ideals or engaging in hortatory remarks. We are all engaged in a common cause. We feel it in our hearts and should be guided toward our objectives by clear minds. These meetings were devoted to the discovery of methods for reaching these goals. Emphasis upon procedures, techniques, and methods of evaluation are the best signs that an emerging professional point of view is coming into being. There are two mutually complementary parts of our goal: there is the negative objective, the minimization or elimination of discrimination and segregation and of the many forms of prejudicial behavior which are not consistent with our fundamental beliefs and ideals. Our positive goal is the integration of all persons into all phases of community life. The techniques for achieving both of these goals may be exactly the same, but we can't afford to make the mistake of concentrating our energies exclusively on one or the other of these goals. If we are interested in only the elimination of discrimination and segregation, we are interested in only one half of the battle.

"We are now in a position more favorable than any one of us had a right to expect. Some of us have felt that we were at the end of an era. We are not at the end, and we may not even have reached the climax of that era. There are signs of growing interest in this field by non-professionals that is evidenced in part by the great number of our fellow citizens who, when engaged in activities or giving vent to utterances that may be interpreted as prejudicial, are quick to say, 'Don't accuse me of being prejudiced'. There was a time when the retention of these prejudices was normal, but they are now increasingly regarded as abnormal. This is evident in the field of politics, business, labor, religion, and social life. More and more people are sensitive to the problem and this sensitivity represents one of our greatest assets. Those representatives at this conference here from the South are examples of persons from all over the South who are sensitive to the discrepancy between our ideals and our performance. If we knew the full possibilities and the most appropriate methods of appealing to this sensitivity, we might make great progress.

"Looking at the political scene, one can't help but feel greatly encouraged by the results of the recent election. There must have been some conservative elements of the community who were sympathetic to our cause to pile up such a vote for a candidate on the Presidential ticket and for many others on state and local tickets who made the race on a clear-cut program of equal rights for all. Labor is aware of the current trends, a good sign of which is the fact that it is considered that a union is outmoded and archaic without a fundamental clause regarding non-discrimination in its constitution and in its contracts.

"The work in rural areas and with rural people has been neglected. The recent election returns show that rural America too can be enlisted in the effort to eliminate racial and religious discrimination and to establish equality of opportunity.

"Looking over the proceedings and the delegates here at this conference,

I am convinced that we have even greater opportunities than some of the most optimistic of us have suspected. The American people are with us. There are, of course, many who seem to be aligned against us at times. But most of them, I feel, are not so much in conflict with us as they are uninformed and apathetic. They, too, will assume their share of responsibility in lifting life to a higher level if we do all that we can do to interpret our objectives, to make clear the meaning of the problems and show the way to democratic solutions.

"Some organizations still feel that this problem can be dealt with on a segmental, sectional, sectarian basis. They feel that the problems of the various groups can be separated and exhibit hesitancy in seeing that the problem of minorities is one indivisible problem. I hope that the time will come when the supporters of such provincial policies will realize that their one little effort will be futile. The problem of minorities is a generic one and must be worked out on a generic basis for all persons in all phases of community life. Perhaps a new climate of opinion is in the making.

"We have heard a great deal recently about minorities and loyalties. Usually we confine ourselves in our discussions to racial and religious minorities. There is danger, however, that we may be transferring all of our venom to political minorities. Some of us have found another kind of scapegoat and have given help to political demagogues. It is time to say something positive about loyalty, not something merely negative. A positive program for developing loyalty to our system of government and our way of life requires that we make it possible for all to share in the expanding opportunities that our civilization affords, so that they will spontaneously embrace the values of our society and will be induced without coercion but with genuine enthusiasm to sacrifice equally in the collective and continuous effort to attain these values. Hence we should guard against the temptation to set aside any group in our communities as pariahs or as subversive elements without having more evidence to sustain such serious charges than the clichés spread by witch-hunters.

"We can be assured of one thing, if nothing else, that contrary to the opinions of many, we are not going backward on the great issues which the organizations at this conference have discussed. If we fail to appreciate the promises that the present juncture of national and international events have brought about, we may merely stand still. The opportunities that lie before us will not automatically translate themselves into actualities. If we do not use these opportunities of a favorable social and political climate wisely in the next few months we almost certainly will slide backwards, when we have an unprecendented opportunity to go forward on a wide front toward a better community, a better nation and a better world.

"We have found a new ally in our task; it is the American people. They have asserted themselves and said, 'these are the things we want', and despite the fact that there was what looked like a nation-wide conspiracy to side-track or even to outlaw the ideas and ideals for which those of you who are here today stand, the people said 'Yes!' If we don't want to betray those people, we should get busy and display the same courage they expressed in their votes a few weeks ago. If we do so, we can build a better America and a better world.

"I am sure that the morale that must sustain the American people in this long and difficult task is going to be built up in proportion to the services that we render. We need to have more knowledge which will make us better fitted to do our job. We need to develop a better and higher sense of kinship with one another which, if it were not for some recent activities, I might call 'comradeship'. Nothing in this work gives us a more firm resolution to move forward together than to know that there are others who share our goals and our methods of achieving them. The purpose of this conference was to learn one from another and to become acquainted with one another. We have renewed our faith in American democracy at these sessions. In that spirit let us continue our work until we meet again."

Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the following resolution was adopted:

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES

1949-3 RESOLVED: that the persons named on the following committees on the attached list of committees of NAIRO are herewith appointed to serve during 1949:

Committee on Federal Personnel Practices

Membership Committee

Nominating Committee

Committee on Professional Standards

Program Committee for 1949 Conference

Committee on Question of Establishing Professional Division

and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: that the persons so designated on the attached list of committees, serve as chairman of their respective committees, prepare reports of committee action and meetings and submit reports to the board through the office of the Secretariat as requested.

LEGISLATIVE REPORTING BY NAIRO

The Board reviewed the 1948 Conference recommendation that NAIRO "establish a clearing house service on legislation to keep state and local organizations and members of NAIRO informed through regular reports on the status of proposed and enacted federal and state legislation and litigation affecting minority groups". The activities of the NAIRO Secretariat to compile information and to report on current and future legislative developments and on court decisions were presented. These efforts included, in addition to systematic review of publications on the subject, cooperation with and compilation of information from other national agencies in the field of intergroup relations and from sources such as the Library of Congress, the Council of State Governments, and from the law schools. It was agreed that in cooperation with the services of ACRR these efforts be continued and that regular reporting by NAIRO be instituted and be made available to the membership as fully and as regularly as available resources would permit. The Executive Secretary was instructed to report to the Board at its next meeting on plans developed for reporting on legislation.

COPY

NAIRO MEMBERSHIP

It was agreed that beginning early in 1949, the number of individual and agency memberships in NAIRO be increased by every effective means at the disposal of the officers, the Board and the staff including -

(1) direct mail campaigns to agency executives and their staff,

(2) distribution of kits of materials and brochure describing NAIRO and its activities,

(3) sponsorship of a series of regional meetings in several sections of the country, and

(4) by similar techniques to be developed by the Membership Committee with the Secretariat of NAIRO.

It was observed that the present dues structure does not and will not yield sufficient income to support the present and proposed program of NAIRO. Consideration should, therefore, be given to revision of the dues structure at an appropriate future date. In some instances, it was pointed out, agency membership will have to be developed upon a subscription or fee for services basis.

PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

It was agreed that more information on the kinds and amounts of training and experience of professional, administrative and technical personnel now employed by agencies in the field of intergroup relations should be available. Such information should be compiled with additional suggestions and recommendations of those qualifications considered desirable or which should be required to improve standards of operation in the future. It was pointed out that such information could economically and effectively be compiled as part of a research project now being planned at the University of Chicago. The Committee on Professional Standards was instructed to explore this possibility and to undertake the compilation of the information required for dissemination to those concerned.

QUESTION OF A PROFESSIONAL DIVISION

The Membership Committee in its report to the annual meeting on November 19, 1948 suggested that consideration be given to the advisability of establishing a separate membership category or a division within the Association for full-time professional personnel employed by agencies, and that such a group concern itself primarily with professional problems, techniques and standards. Discussion of this suggestion involved consideration of the advantages of specialized concern for and analysis of professional problems and techniques to aid in the development of a professional consciousness on the part of those in the field or preparing for it, and ultimately to evolve more definite personnel qualifications and clearly defined standards of operation within agencies. The discussion also revealed some of the difficulties inherent in defining professional tasks and personnel and the danger in establishing a separate division or a group which might consider itself an elite and thus cause schism or separatism in a new association. It was pointed out that while specialization and increased concern with professional problems were clearly indicated such matters were the concern of the entire Association and might be effectively handled through special committees, careful program planning and scheduling of selected projects rather than by establishing differential in structure or membership.

COPY

These considerations and the problem or resolving the differences in opinion were referred to a Special Committee on Question of Establishing Professional Division of NAIRO with instruction to report at the next meeting of the Board.

FEDERAL PERSONNEL PRACTICES

The chairman of the Committee on Federal Personnel Practices, Frank W. Baldau, reported that to date the committee has determined through correspondence and conferences with federal officials and federal agency representatives what relationship might be established and what techniques might be employed to aid federal agencies in implementing the recent executive orders on discrimination. Further action is scheduled and a full report to the membership will be made.

PROGRAM FOR 1949 CONFERENCE

To aid the conference Program Committee it was suggested that -

(1) regional subcommittees or "commissions" on selected conference topics be designated by the Program Committee to develop parts of the program plans,

(2) the 1948 conference delegates be sent a questionnaire to solicit reactions to topics, conference mechanics, speakers and to compile suggestions for revisions, deletions, or additions to serve as a guide in developing the 1949 conference, and

(3) conference planning be initiated early in the year.

MINUTES OF FIRST MEETING OF MEMBERS

OF

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF INTERGROUP RELATIONS OFFICIALS

The first meeting of the Members of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF INTERGROUP RELATIONS OFFICIALS, an Illinois corporation not-for-profit, was held at International House, 1414 East 59th Street, Chicago, Illinois, on November 19, 1948, pursuant to the statutory notice given by LOUIS E. HOSCH, Acting Secretary, as evidenced by his affidavit. There being a quorum present, the meeting was called to order by GEORGE SCHERMER, acting as Chairman.

The Chairman reviewed activities preceding the incorporation, including reports on:

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

1. The development of the Association's purposes, organization and services, and membership structure;

2. The appointment of committees on constitution, membership and annual meeting; and

3. The activities of the Association's secretariat to implement the resolutions adopted at the 1947 conference.

Upon motion duly made and seconded, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

1948-1 RESOLVED: that the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials express its appreciation for the financial support, for the administrative services and for the staff assistance provided by the American Council on Race Relations, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: that the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials express its appreciation of the services of LOUIS E. HOSCH as Executive Secretary of NAIRO and to LOUIS WIRTH, President of the ACRR, for his assistance in the development of the Association and its program.

The Executive Secretary, LOUIS E. HOSCH, reported briefly upon the activities of the secretariat and on the intention of the ACRR to continue its services to NAIRO. Efforts are being made to secure additional financial assistance for the development of NAIRO and a complete report on the extent to which it has been necessary for ACRR to supplement the budget of NAIRO is to be submitted at the first meeting of the new board of directors of NAIRO.

The following reports of committees and on activities were made:

FREEDOM TRAIN STUDY

It was pointed out by JOHN SULLIVAN that the Freedom Train Study, a report which was distributed at the meeting, had provided NAIRO an opportunity to test the value of compiling and analyzing local experience from a variety of communities visited by the Train, in an effort to determine common problems and to point out some of the more effective methods developed by local communities for implementing the objectives of a national program such as that presented by the American Heritage Foundation by the visit of the Freedom Train.

LOCAL PRIVATE AGENCY FINANCING

In presenting the Association's preliminary examination of the financing of local private agencies in the field of intergroup relations, HOMER JACK, Executive Secretary of the Chicago Council Against Racial and Religious Discrimination, pointed out the necessity for more complete and detailed reporting to the NAIRO secretariat by local private agencies seeking adequate financial support, in order to provide a complete description of the resources available and the alternative methods of financing which might be made available to all agencies concerned with these problems. MAURICE B. FAGAN, Executive Director of the Philadelphia Jewish Community Relations Council, requested that as the NAIRO secretariat compiled and released additional information on this subject there be presented suggested ways and means for the implementation of local intergroup relations programs by effective use of borrowed personnel and the loaned services of interested local agencies with kindred purposes pending the solicitation of funds and prior to the establishment of financial resources for the specific purpose of a community-wide program of intergroup relations. The Chairman reported that the secretariat was proceeding, for report to the membership, with a more comprehensive study in cooperation with a research project sponsored by the University of Chicago Committee on Education, Training and Research in Race Relations and financed by the Anti-Defamation League Sigmund Livingston Fellowship for that purpose.

NAIRO MEMBERSHIP

The chairman of the Membership Committee, THOMAS H. WRIGHT, reported the activities of the committee to develop NAIRO membership and its plans for expanding both individual and agency memberships in 1949. The committee suggested the establishment of a separate membership or division within NAIRO to concern itself with professional problems, techniques and standards. After discussion of the need for and advisability of such specialization, the matter was referred to the board of directors of NAIRO for study and an early report to the entire membership.

ADOPTION OF BY-LAWS

The by-laws of NAIRO were reviewed and discussed by the members present. The resignation of the original temporary directors of the Association (LOUIS E. HOSCH, HOMER A. JACK, and MARTIN H. BICKHAM) were received and accepted with thanks for their services. The by-laws as developed and adopted by that original temporary Board of Directors were presented to the membership for approval. Upon motion duly made and seconded, the following resolution was adopted:

1948-2 RESOLVED: that the membership convened at this Second Annual meeting of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials, constituting a majority of the membership, approves and adopts the by-laws adopted by the first Board of Directors; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: that these by-laws shall govern the activities of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials until they may be amended as provided therein.

REPORT OF NOMINATING COMMITTEE

The Nominating Committee presented the following slate of officers, directors, and Nominating Committee for the terms specified:

(SEE ATTACHED)

1948-3 Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the Secretary was instructed to cast a ballot electing the officers, directors and the Nominating Committee whose names were so presented, for the terms specified. There being no further nominations, the ballot was so cast, and the officers, directors and Nominating Committee so named were declared elected.

There being no further business before the business meeting and upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the meeting was adjourned.

and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: that the persons so designated on the attached list of committees serve as chairman of their respective committees, prepare reports of committee action and meetings and submit reports to the Board through the office of the secretariat as requested.

LEGISLATIVE REPORTING BY NAIRO

The Board reviewed the 1948 Conference recommendation that NAIRO "establish a clearing house service on legislation to keep state and local organizations and members of NAIRO informed through regular reports on the status of proposed and enacted federal and state legislation and litigation affecting minority groups". The activities of the NAIRO secretariat to compile information and to report on current and future legislative developments and on court decisions were presented. These efforts included, in addition to systematic review of publications on the subject, compilation of information from other national agencies in the field of intergroup relations and from sources such as the Library of Congress, the Council of State Governments, and from the law schools. It was agreed that in cooperation with the services of ACRR these efforts be continued and that regular reporting by NAIRO be instituted and be made available to the membership as fully and as regularly as available resources would permit. The Executive Secretary was instructed to report to the Board at its next meeting on plans developed for reporting on legislation.

It was agreed that beginning early in 1949, the number of individual and agency memberships in NAIRO be increased by every effective means at the disposal of the officers, the Board and the staff including - NAIRO MEMBERSHIP

1. direct mail campaigns to agency executives and their staff;

2. distribution of kits of materials and brochure describing NAIRO and its activities;

3. sponsorship of a series of regional meetings in several sections of the country; and

4. by similar techniques to be developed by the Membership Committee with the secretariat of NAIRO.

It was observed that the present dues structure does not and will not yield sufficient income to support the present and proposed program of NAIRO. Consideration should, therefore, be given to revision of the dues structure at an appropriate future date. In some instances, it was pointed out, agency membership will have to be developed upon a subscription or fee-for-service basis.

It was agreed that more information on the kinds and amounts of training and experience of professional, administrative and technical personnel now employed by agencies in the field of intergroup relations should be available. Such information should be compiled with additional suggestions and recommendations of those qualifications considered desirable or which should be required to improve standards of operation in the future. It was pointed out that such information could economically and effectively be compiled as part of a research project now being planned at the University of Chicago. The Committee on Professional Standards was instructed to explore this possibility and to undertake the compilation of the information required for dissemination to those concerned. PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

The Membership Committee in its report to the annual meeting on November 19, 1948 suggested that consideration be given to the advisability of establishing a separate membership category or a division within the Association for full-time professional personnel employed by agencies, and that such a group concern itself primarily with professional problems, techniques and standards. Discussion of this suggestion involved consideration of the advantages of specialized concern for and analysis of professional problems and techniques to aid in the development of a professional consciousness on the part of those in the field or preparing for it, and ultimately to evolve more definite personnel qualifications and clearly defined standards of operation within agencies. The discussion also revealed some of the difficulties inherent in defining professional tasks and personnel and the danger in establishing a separate division or a group which might consider itself an elite' and thus cause schism or separatism in a new association. It was pointed out by several members of the Board that while specialization and increased concern with professional problems were QUESTION OF A PROFESSIONAL DIVISION clearly indicated, such matters were the concern of the entire Association and might be effectively handled through special committees, careful program planning and scheduling of selected projects rather than by establishing differential in structure or membership.

These considerations and the problem, or resolving the differences in opinion, were referred to a Special Committee on Question of Establishing Professional Division of NAIRO with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Board.

FEDERAL PERSONNEL PRACTICES

The chairman of the Committee on Federal Personnel Practices, Frank W. Baldau, reported that to date the committee has determined through correspondence and conferences with federal officials and federal agency representatives what relationship might be established and what techniques might be employed to aid federal agencies in implementing the recent executive orders on discrimination. Further action is scheduled and a full report to the membership will be made.

PROGRAM FOR 1949 CONFERENCE

To aid the conference Program Committee, it was suggested that -

1. regional subcommittees or "commissions" on selected conference topics be designated by the Program Committee to develop parts of the program plans;

2. the 1948 conference delegates be sent a questionnaire to solicit reactions to topics, conference mechanics, speakers, and to compile suggestions for revisions, deletions, or additions to serve as a guide in developing the 1949 conference; and

3. conference planning be initiated early in the year.

NEXT BOARD MEETING

The following dates were selected as tentative dates for the next Board meeting to be scheduled after a poll of the Board: January 14 and 15, or 21 and 22, or 28 and 29.

There being no further business before the meeting and upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the meeting was adjourned.

MINUTES OF MEETING

OF

OF

January 28-29, 1949

The meeting of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials was held at 4901 Ellis Avenue, Chicago 15, Illinois, on the 28th and 29th days of January, 1949, pursuant to call and notice by the Executive Secretary. The following members of the Board, constituting a quorum thereof were present:

Ruth Abernethy	Mike Masaoka
Rebecca C. Barton	George S. Mitchell
Marshall Bragdon	Helen L. Peterson
Maurice B. Fagan	Charles Posner
Louis E. Hosch	Thomas H. Wright

The President, Thomas H. Wright, presided and Louis E. Hosch served as Secretary. The agenda was approved as submitted.

1949-1 The minutes of the November 19-20 meeting of the Board were approved as submitted. APPROVAL OF MINUTES

The chairman of the Membership Committee, Ruth Abernethy, raised several questions of policy and procedure, and asked for guidance and suggestions from the Board. It was pointed out that in recruiting the Association membership, consideration should be given to: MEMBERSHIP PROBLEMS

1. the stated objectives and the initial program of NAIRO;
2. the original interest in and emphasis upon local and state problems at the "grass roots" in both public and private agencies; and

3. the expressed concern of NAIRO members with professional and technical problems and with advancing technical and professional knowledge, standards and practice.

There was considerable discussion of the several interpretations which might be given the definition of the two classes of membership as provided in existing by-laws. Concern was expressed by Thomas H. Wright that the membership was now broader in scope than was originally planned for and that inclusion of agency board members, university personnel engaged in intergroup relations research, and of laymen associated with agencies would not strengthen the Association. The advisability of continuing an agency membership class was questioned by Maurice B. Fagan, although he advocated broadening the scope of individual membership as contrasted to a membership limited to full-time paid professional personnel.

After lengthy discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of broadening or of limiting the interpretation of eligibility for membership in the Association and upon motion duly made, seconded, and carried, the following resolution was adopted:

1942-2 RESOLVED: that the Board of Directors of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials instruct the Association's Membership Committee that the Board's interpretation of existing by-laws of the Association on membership shall be as follows:

INSTRUCTION TO MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE

All agencies or divisions or departments of agencies, organizations, institutions, public or private, to a substantial degree engaged in any phase of intergroup relations or persons professionally or technically engaged to a substantial degree in intergroup relations, and

All officers, board members, and professional or technical personnel associated with agencies, organizations, institutions, public or private, whose program to a substantial degree is devoted to intergroup relations,

and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: that the Membership Committee review this interpretation, be guided accordingly and recommend to the Board whether or not an amendment to the membership provision of the present by-laws is indicated and should be laid before the membership at the next annual meeting, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: that the secretariat in interpreting eligibility for agency membership, the regional, district or local offices of national agencies shall be considered as separate agencies eligible for agency membership in their own right and not as agency members by virtue of national office membership.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PROFESSIONAL DIVISION

The chairman of the Committee on Question of Establishing Professional Division, Maurice B. Fagan, submitted a report which revealed that members of the Committee were evenly divided on the advisability of establishing a separate professional division at this time. But most of the Committee members were agreed that certain professional services should be developed immediately by the Association. A check list of suggested professional services which might be rendered by the Association was submitted.

COMMITTEE ON PROFESSIONAL SERVICES DESIGNATED

1949-3 Upon motion duly made, seconded, and carried, the Committee on Question of Professional Division was dissolved and the President was authorized to appoint a Committee on Professional Services with the following functions:

1. To determine what professional services are desired by the membership;

2. To review professional services suggested by the membership; and

3. To submit recommendations indicating the priority order in which services selected by the Committee are to be initiated by the secretariat.

The Committee on Professional Services was instructed to consider, among other services;

1. Dissemination of regular or special reports on -

   a. significant activities of personnel and of agencies in the field;

   b. trends in intergroup relations;

   c. new research findings and experiments;

   d. need for legislation and on legal problems; and

   e. success and failure with various techniques.

2. Development of statements on -

   a. personnel standards in the field of intergroup relations, providing job descriptions, personnel qualifications, and standards of performance;

   b. techniques of evaluation of methods and of agency programs; and

   c. relationships of professional personnel to one another, to laymen, and to other professional groups.

3. Development of more effective exchange of information and establishment of continuing relationships among professional and technical personnel through -

   a. special discussion sessions of primary interest to professional personnel, at the annual conference and on other appropriate occasions during the year at seminars, regional and state conferences;

   b. publication of a professional magazine, journal or yearbook which would deal with questions of public policy, controversial issues, practical application of techniques, appraisal of new and old techniques, literature in the field and emerging problems, and related subject matter; and

c. presentation at conferences, in articles, and by other appropriate means, a more comprehensive and clearer understanding of the role of the several types of agencies, programs and techniques currently employed and the inter-relationship among the agencies in the field.

COMMITTEE ON PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

Until such time as the Committee on Professional Standards is prepared to submit a report, the Board expressed the following observations for the guidance of that Committee:

The development of professional standards in the field of intergroup relations can be initiated immediately, but will involve a program including compilation and analysis of:

a. qualifications of personnel now employed or sought by agencies;

b. existing and emerging jobs and positions in public and private agencies; and

c. training resources available and required.

1. The initial undertaking in this three-fold task and the one of greatest interest to NAIRO at this point in the development of its total program is that of -

a. determining the training and experience qualifications of personnel now employed;

b. securing from those who now think of themselves as qualified professional and technicians, an evaluation of what education and experience were most helpful and useful to them, what they consider to be the deficiencies in their own preparation and that of their professional staff and what qualifications they would suggest as desirable preparation.

2. The second undertaking, which, like the first, will involve cooperation from members of NAIRO and from executives of agencies in the field, will involve -

a. compiling job descriptions of the duties and responsibilities of personnel in professional positions, along with the training and experience qualifications of personnel now assigned to those duties and suggested qualifications which might be required in the future for the same positions; and

b. securing statements from agency executives and from others, of new jobs which seem to be emerging and the qualifications required of personnel which might be needed in developing programs.

3. The third task, and one already initiated by the Committee on Education, Training, and Research in Race Relations of the University of Chicago, will involve -

a. compiling descriptions of the curricula of colleges and universities which offer training and preparation for personnel interested in the field of intergroup relations; and

b. securing estimates and evaluations of what is required to develop and to test significant hypothesis, theories, and techniques as a sound scientific foundation for policy, program and methods in the field of racial and cultural relations.

4. The Committee on Personnel Standards in undertaking these and related tasks was instructed -

a. to utilize the experience of the secretariat with the American Council on Race Relations Personnel Exchange and its record of several hundred registrants for positions in the field and to expand that registration to include NAIRO members thus providing more detailed information than is now available on the technical resources of the membership;

b. to cooperate with the Committee on Education, Training, and Research in Race Relations in its current study of professional personnel and training facilities; and

c. to make available to the membership as early as possible a summary of its findings and recommendations as criteria for the development of professional standards.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE

The chairman of the Program Committee, Marshall Bragdon, summarized the Committee's analysis of returns from the questionnaire sent to conference delegates to determine reactions and to secure suggestions for planning the next conference. Examination of that summary and the discussion which followed resulted in these instructions to the Program Committee:

1. Conference Arrangements

   a. Plan for meetings and housing of delegates in one hotel.

   b. Plan publicity before, during, and after conference.

   c. Schedule meetings in Chicago on October 27, 28, 29; or November 3, 4, 5; or 10, 11, 12; or 17, 18, 19.

2. Scheduling of Sessions

   a. Shorter length of sessions.

   b. Allow free time for social affairs.

   c. Allow more time for business session.

3. Session Techniques

   a. Use both panels and round tables.

   b. Brief opening general session on "Where Do We Stand?"

   c. Experiment with a "buzz session".

   d. Plan sessions for selected groups (i.e., for local officials, state officials, private agency executives, specialists in publicity, etc.)

4. Discussion Leaders

   a. Select discussion leaders but have no papers or speakers; use local agency personnel.

   b. Have discussion leaders prepare and circulate in advance of meeting a summary of situation to date.

5. Session Topics

   a. Canvass membership several times during year for suggestions.

   b. Designate session topics in question form.

   c. Have subcommittee work on topics in advance.

   d. Suggested topics included housing, intercultural education, civil rights, health, public relations, and program evaluation.

COMMITTEE ON FEDERAL PERSONNEL PRACTICES

The report of the chairman of the Committee on Federal Personnel Practices, Frank W. Baldau, described the Committee's preliminary examination of action taken to date by the U. S. Civil Service Commission, the Fair Employment Board, and the Federal Personnel Council. Interviews with officials of these agencies revealed that efforts to implement the President's Executive Order 9980 had thus far not proceeded much beyond the designation of fair employment officers, the publication of interim procedures for the guidance of federal agencies, and the compilation of rules and regulations promulgated by the federal establishments to carry out the Order.

The Board instructed the Committee on Federal Personnel Practices -

1. to continue its established relationships with the central federal personnel agencies and to extend its compilation of further information to the central administrative agencies and to the field offices of both types of agencies;

2. to prepare a release reporting to the membership and to the press the developments to date and in doing so avoid confusing the intent of the Executive Order with current fair employment practices issues;

3. to send copies of the release and excerpts from the Committee's report to national action agencies to solicit their cooperation and their reporting to NAIRO on related action being taken; and

4. to suggest ways and means by which local and state intergroup relations agencies might assist federal fair employment officers in dealing with problems of discrimination in the federal services.

REPORTS FROM EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

The Executive Secretary, Louis E. Hosch, reported on the following:

1. The development of a legislative reference service employing special release such as the January 10, 1949 Release No. 41 on "Legislation, Litigation and Public Policy" and the monthly publication REPORT of AGHR to report regularly to the membership on the progress of federal and state legislation. The assistance of a Committee on Legislation was requested and authority to appoint such a committee was granted to the President.

2. The actual and estimated income and expense of the unincorporated Association for the year 1948 through October, 1948 and for the incorporated Association for the balance of the year was submitted and showed a total expenditure of $15,750 for the year, of which a total of $12,391 was the ACHR subsidy to NAIRO.

3. The NAIRO project on Methods of Financing Local Private Intergroup Relations Agencies, following the pilot project of 1948 in this area, has been formulated, a schedule completed and distribution to over 600 agencies initiated.

SCHEDULING OF FUTURE MEETINGS

The discussion on scheduling of future meetings of the Board, Executive Committee, regional meetings, and committees emphasized the limited resources of NAIRO and of its officers and their agencies to finance frequent meetings or to support a program of promotion without continued subsidy. It was agreed that an Executive Committee meeting would be scheduled soon and that the next Board meeting would be held just prior to the fall annual meeting.

SUGGESTED AGENDA FOR EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

It was suggested that the following matters be considered by the Executive Committee at its next meeting:

1. Review of budgetary needs of the Association and arrangements for adequate financing of the budget, including consideration of graduated membership fees based on salary of members;

2. Consideration of techniques for expanding membership and securing wider publicity for the Association;

3. Re-examination of the implications of agency memberships; and

4. Determination of the number and kinds of NAIRO administrative and functional committees required and practical with resources available.

Upon motion duly made and seconded, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

1949-4 RESOLVED: that the Board of Directors of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials acknowledges its obligation to the Board of the American

Council on Race Relations for the generous support and financial assistance of the American Council in the establishment and development of NAIRO and its program, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: that the NAIRO Board of Directors express its recognition of the services of Louis E. Hosch as Executive Secretary of NAIRO and for the administrative and professional services of the staff of the American Council in the implementation of its program, services and conferences, and

FROM: Secretariat, National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials

DATE: April 7, 1949

SUBJECT: Federal Personnel Practices

At a recent conference of representatives of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials Committee on Federal Personnel Practices, Mr. Guy Moffett, Chairman of the Fair Employment Practices Board, U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C., requested that the committee supply his board with materials on the states' experiences with fair employment practice legislation. We are therefore requesting that you send direct to Mr. Moffett a file of materials which would be helpful to the board in developing its program.

Mr. Moffett is particularly anxious to have his board become better acquainted with what is "best practice". Therefore, we hope that you will send your materials with a covering letter which will single out those techniques and methods which have been developed by your state agency which in your opinion might be adapted in the federal government policies and procedures.

In addition, Mr. Moffett has requested through the Committee on Federal Personnel Practices that suggestions of state and local agencies of ways and means by which both state and local agencies might be helpful within the states and localities in implementing the presidential order, be presented to him also.

The Committee on Federal Personnel Practices is aware of a number of instances in which federal personnel practices have been at variance with established state and local standards. It would be helpful to the Fair Employment Board of the U. S. Civil Service Commission if the circumstances could be called to their attention in principle, and in general practice. At a later date it might prove feasible to develop some means of calling individual cases to the attention of proper authorities.

Will you please send us a copy of your covering letter to the Fair Employment Board for the information of the Committee on Federal Personnel Practices?

Dear Louis:

I think Gordon Lovejoy is right. The sociologists in the South ought to be members of NAIRO.

The secretary of the Southern Sociological Society is Leland B. Tate, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Virginia. He would probably be perfectly happy to send you his membership list, and they could be circularized by your office. It will help everybody if you build up an informed membership in the South.

Dear Dr. Hosch:

My reaction to the minutes of the Board of Directors is rather confused. I see the need for maintaining the original purpose of the organization, however not to broaden our base of membership would limit the number of persons from the South eligible for membership, and as you may well gather I am anxious to see NAIRO a truly national organization.

If we want to have a "grass roots" organization in the South it seems to me we must begin a publicity campaign aimed at winning approval from southern sociological groups. Many persons working therein may not fall within a strict interpretation of our laws, but if we do not start with them I do not know where we will start. I suggest you get Dr. George Mitchell's reaction to my suggestion.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Members, National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials

FROM: NAIRO Secretariat

SUBJECT: Legislative Reporting Service

NATIONAL LEGISLATIVE REPORTING — Because of the debilitating effect of the filibuster early in this congressional legislative session, the looked-for developments regarding civil rights have been limited and unimpressive. The comparative dearth of activity has, however, somewhat simplified the task of reporting as far as national legislation was concerned.

The chief sources continue to be the Congressional Quarterly, the Congressional Record, newspaper clippings and reports from other organizations.

STATE LEGISLATIVE REPORTING — The second phase of the project, state legislative reporting, has developed in an unexpectedly successful manner. Our correspondents have responded admirably with information regarding bills before their respective legislatures. Our rapport with most of our correspondents has reached such a stage that they report on the introduction of specific items of legislation and their progress through the legislative mill without prompting from us. Of course, we acknowledge and follow up every lead.

In the nature of this project, we cannot know if any specific report issued by us is exhaustive; although we do not rely entirely on our correspondents for information. Very valuable sources are newspapers and the reports of other agencies. An indication that our materials are being carefully read is evidenced in those cases of a few states where our reporting was incomplete by our immediately receiving corrected information from new sources.

The response to the Legislative Reporting Service has been exceedingly gratifying. Many agencies have used the insert to the March issue of REPORT as factual evidence in their own legislatures to show what is being accomplished in other states in the area of legislation to improve the status of minority groups. The national press has also been interested in the information gathered by our Legislative Reporting Service. Both the New York Times and the New York Herald Tribune have carried detailed articles citing our Legislative Reporting Service.

Other materials on state legislative developments which have occasioned encouraging response from the field include digests of the Fair Employment Practices laws as passed in Rhode Island, Washington, Oregon and New Mexico.

We also have mimeographed copies of the FEPC laws which are available on request.

Our files contain at least one copy of all the legislation reported by us. These copies have been made available to us by the legislative reference services of most of the states. Frequently, we get requests from organizations and individuals who wish to see a copy of legislation that has been introduced but not passed.

FEPC PROJECT — A project now is under way which has as its purpose the studying of the factors which went into FEPC campaigns in those states where such legislation has been introduced.

This study is expected to be in progress through the summer. The research work is being done by University of Chicago students.

Dear Miss Goldiamond:

When I wrote out to our various people, I had before me NAIRO's request for specific information. I did not ask for such information because I felt quite sure we would get only such a tiny dribble of it that it would be meaningless.

I worked on that problem at various times myself for other purposes, and I know how very hard it is to get what you want.

It seems to me, it is up to the Federal Government to collect the information about numbers of Negroes employed in the various local offices. They can get accurately and officially.

About all we can do is offer to help in specific cases that do come up.

Dear Mr. Mitchell:

In Mr. Hosch's absence, I want to acknowledge receipt of your memorandum of July 28 directed to officers of divisions and affiliated state committees. We are indeed happy to know that you have been able to make use of the NAIRO material on the implementation of the federal fair employment policies.

I wonder if it is possible for you and other persons active in the Southern Regional Council to compile information on specific cases of discrimination and segregation in federal offices in the South. It is our hope that we can compile a body of information to be used in impressing the Fair Employment Board with the necessity for a thorough survey of personnel operations under federal auspices and the need for revision of certain of their present procedures. (See enclosed memorandum on projected survey of personnel practices in federal offices throughout the country.) As you are well aware, material of this nature from the South is of the utmost importance in documentation of the points we may eventually raise with the Board.

You will note that the memorandum asked that information be made available to us before August 1. Since the issuance of this memo, we have decided to extend the termination date of the survey to October 15. If you can send material to us by that time, we shall be able to organize the information for use at a NAIRO conference session in November. Possibly the delegates to the conference will help us formulate plans for the presentation of the material to the Fair Employment Board.

I look forward to hearing from you in regard to this request.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Directors of Local Intergroup Agencies and NAIRO Members

FROM: Committee on Federal Personnel Practices, National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials

SUBJECT: Survey of Personnel Practices in Federal Offices Throughout the Country

The enclosed release, "Implementation of the Federal Fair Employment Policy", is designed to present factual information on a subject of crucial importance to all who are concerned with the elimination of discrimination in employment.

As you will note, the Fair Employment Board itself has not as yet initiated a study of the status of minorities in the Civil Service. In view of the need for exact information, we are suggesting that you assume the responsibility for reporting to the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials on federal personnel practices affecting minorities in your own community. The body of information thus compiled can then be presented to the Fair Employment Board in an attempt to impress the Board with the necessity for a thorough survey of personnel operations under federal auspices, and the need for revision of certain of their present procedures. May we have your cooperation in this undertaking?

On or before August 1, 1949, the NAIRO Committee on Federal Personnel Practices would like to hear from you on the following points:

(1) Approximate number of minority (Negro, Oriental, Mexican, Jewish, other) employees in relation to total employees in each federal office in your community.

(2) Evidence of segregation in federal offices in your community.

(3) Specific cases of failure to hire minority group members.

(4) Specific cases of failure to promote minority group members.

(5) The position of your agency on the question of whether segregation in federal service in itself constitutes discrimination (Cf. p. 12, para. 1).

If you cannot provide us with information on all of these questions, please answer as many of them as you can. We know you will agree that it is of eminent importance that we, as responsible citizens, do everything possible to aid in the implementation of Executive Order 9980.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Members of Committee on Federal Personnel Practices

FROM: NAIRO Secretariat
Betty Goldiamond, Secretary, Committee on Federal Personnel Practices

SUBJECT: Committee Activities and Plans

You will be interested to know that a number of persons who plan to attend the Third National Conference on Intergroup Relations have indicated that discussion of federal employment policies should have high priority on our agenda. Since the time for the conference is approaching, I want to inform you of the activities which have been carried on to date on behalf of the Committee on Federal Personnel Practices and to ask for your suggestions as to further desirable preparations.

In January, Frank Baldau, chairman of our committee, and Louis Hosch met in Washington with Fair Employment Board chairman Guy Moffett and Executive Secretary Ladell C. Lawhorn; Henry F. Hubbard, Executive Vice Chairman of the Federal Personnel Council; and James Mitchell, United States Civil Service Commissioner. As a result of the conferences held with these officials, the way was made ready for extensive correspondence about the plans and activities of the Fair Employment Board.

Information thus made available to NAIRO was used in the preparation of NAIRO Release No. 5, "Implementation of the Federal Fair Employment Policy". This publication was distributed to the thirteen hundred intergroup agencies in the country; to a number of other interested organizations; to libraries and research centers; and, through Henry Hubbard, to members of the Federal Personnel Council.

With this release, directors of all local intergroup agencies received a memo urging that they assume responsibility for reporting to NAIRO on federal personnel practices affecting minorities in their own communities. Response to this request has been encouraging; through this procedure we hope to receive information which will provide a factual basis for our planning at the time of the next meeting of our committee. It has been suggested that we may want to make a compilation of such material for presentation to the Fair Employment Board in an attempt to impress the Board with the necessity for a thorough survey of personnel operations under federal auspices, and the need for revision of certain of their present procedures.

Recently our office has directed a letter to each of the fair employment officers asking for copies of departmental regulations established pursuant to the Order; information about the number, type, and disposition of complaints; and copies of training materials. This material, when amplified by reports from interested national intergroup agencies and unions, should afford us the kind of detailed information which is necessary to constructive discussion.

If you have suggestions about additional materials which we should compile or secure, or advice as to methods for handling our contribution to the conference, please let me know as soon as possible.

Although we are looking forward to a committee meeting at the time of the conference, our definite plans will have to be delayed until the program committee has made its final decisions. Meanwhile, I hope to hear from you soon.

Dear Louis:

You have given me a bigger job than I can make time to do.

I owe every minute between now and November to the convulsive effort we are making to find money to see the Council itself through. In addition to that, we are just launching a new program with church women. In addition to that, I have my own annual meeting coming up November 9, and that takes, as you well know, oceans of planning and detail.

I really feel very badly about not taking an interesting and helpful job, but I couldn't do it and do these other things that I am already entirely committed to.

Wherefore, I return the memorandum and the list.

Dear George:

We have selected you to serve as chairman of the state private agency group meetings at our forthcoming Third National Conference on Intergroup Relations. We hesitate to ask you to assume this responsibility in addition to the burden of your own work, but it was the unanimous opinion that because of your wide experience with a number of state-wide private agencies, you would be the logical person to serve as chairman of this group.

In keeping with the Program Committee's general plan, we are trying to formulate an agenda for each one of the agency group meetings in keeping with the suggestions made by the responses from that particular group. Therefore, we analyzed the returns by agency. Since the number of responses from some of the groups were very small, it will be necessary for the chairmen to carry on correspondence immediately with the agencies in the group.

In order to facilitate such correspondence with the chairmen, we intend to send out a circular letter such as the one enclosed. That letter will start the people who expect to attend the conference to thinking about their problems and the agenda, but it will also be necessary I am sure, for you to write individually as chairman of the session, to the agency executives on the attached list, inviting them to offer specific suggestions on the priority topics and to present materials and problems at the sessions.

While we will prepare mimeographed materials such as a summary of our findings in financing and a report of the committee on personnel which will be pertinent to a discussion on that subject, those materials will probably be too general for your purposes.

I am sending a carbon copy of this letter to Louis Greenberg asking him to serve as vice chairman of your meetings. You two can plan the meeting together and alternate the sessions if you wish, or make any other arrangements you might think advisable.

Please let me know by return mail that you will accept this responsibility and send your suggestions regarding the form enclosed.

MINUTES OF MEETING
OF
NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF INTERGROUP RELATIONS OFFICIALS
APRIL 28--29, 1950

file with

The meeting of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials was held at 270 Broadway, New York City, on the 28th and 29th days of April, 1950, pursuant to call and notice by the Executive Secretary.

The following members of the Board were present:

Frank Baldau	George Mitchell
Joseph Coles	Thomasina Norford
Maurice Fagan	Frank Simpson
Louis E. Hosch	John Sullivan
Harold Lett	George L-P Weaver
Frank Loescher	Thomas Wright

consisting of a quorum thereof.

The President of the Association, Frank Baldau, presided on April 29th and Vice President Maurice Fagan presided on April 28th, and Louis E. Hosch served as Secretary. The following members of the Program Committee, in addition to Frank Loescher, attended the meeting: Edith Alexander, Eleanor Dungan and Isaiah Terman.

APPROVAL OF MINUTES — Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried the minutes of the meeting of the Board of January 6-7, 1950 as circulated to the Board and to the membership, were approved.

CURRENT ASSOCIATION PROBLEMS — The Board discussed the future of the Association in view of the Executive Secretary's report that the American Council on Race Relations was no longer able to subsidize the Association's activities to the extent it had in the past. The following problems were recognized:

1. The difficulties involved in securing effective action by the several committees of the Association by correspondence with only limited service from the Secretariat and the necessity for appointing in the future committees in a limited geographical area which would make meetings of committee members possible.

2. The dilemma of developing an expanded membership with dues at $10 a year and agency fee services in higher brackets, with only limited services to offer in return for dues and fees; and the need for those resources to supply such services. It was pointed out that this dilemma could be resolved only by a subsidy for a period of from three to five years.

3. The immediate problem facing the Association of financing and servicing the fall annual meeting was considered of priority importance to the problems of long-term Association financing.

A motion by Frank Loescher to authorize the Chairman to appoint a committee of three members of the Board to formulate specific suggestions for action to expand membership and to secure financial support for the Association's program failed for lack of a second.

COMMITTEE vs BOARD ACTIVITY — A review by the Executive Secretary of committee activities revealed that committee members were slow to respond or failed to reply to letters and that committee chairmen had not assumed the role of leadership and aggressive responsibility hoped for by the Board at its last meeting. This situation was viewed by the Board as requiring:

1. More frequent meetings of the Board of Directors during the year to consider important current problems, to formulate and submit to the membership proposed policy statements and specific suggestions of activities by the membership to implement such policy.

2. The appointment by the Board of "special commissions" to deal with current problems of strategic importance or the delegation to existing committees of the Association of responsibility for immediate study and reports to the membership on crisis problems.

3. A more positive stand on the part of the Association in situations where personnel standards were violated and the security of qualified members of the Association threatened by political forces or by groups organized to defeat the purposes of an effective intergroup relations program. It was believed that publicity given by the Association, and letters from its Secretariat similar to action taken recently in the Detroit situation would attract members and aid in the development of a professional association.

Discussion of long-term financing and membership was deferred because of: (1) the interest of a majority of the Board in the immediate crisis in housing and urban redevelopment programs, and immediate action on those problems as a means of attracting interest in the Association and (2) the hope that consideration of ways and means of financing the annual fall meeting might lead to the discovery of methods for longer term financing of the Association.

COMMISSION ON HOUSING — Accordingly, discussion of housing problems ensued and the Chairman was authorized to appoint a member of the Board to meet with the vice chairman of the Committee on Housing to formulate plans for calling a "special commission of experts" on problems of discrimination and segregation in housing.

The Chairman appointed Maurice Fagan to represent the Board in calling such a meeting which would have as its purpose the formulation of a statement of policy and procedure based in part on the findings of the Third National Conference on Intergroup Relations and the development of plans for the dissemination of the findings to the membership and to agencies concerned with discrimination in housing programs.

The representative of the Board was further instructed:

1. To confer with the Association's Committee on Housing regarding such a meeting.

2. To confer with the vice chairman of the Committee on Housing to determine the selected list of the ten or twelve experts on problems of discrimination and segregation in housing who should be called together.

3. To formulate an agenda for the meeting which is to be held within the next 60 to 90 days.

4. To invite the Association's Committee on Housing to participate, and

5. To develop plans in cooperation with the Association's Committee on Housing for the dissemination of the findings of the meeting of experts.

ANNUAL FALL CONFERENCE — Pursuant to the Board's decision to hold the annual meeting in New York City and the invitation extended by Mayor O'Dwyer through Edith Alexander, discussion by the Board turned to consideration of problems of administering the annual meeting and the fall conference.

The Executive Secretary called attention to the Secretariat's correspondence with New York officials and with the Program Committee regarding the necessity for raising approximately $1,000 to meet conference expenses and for establishing a local committee on arrangements to handle conference arrangements including room and meeting hall reservations, registration, publicity and conference reporting.

Edith Alexander reported that the board of the New York City Mayor's Committee on Unity had appointed a sub-committee of its board to serve as a Hospitality Committee for the conference. This Committee consists of:

Michael M. Nisselson, Chairman
Fannie Hurst
Celestine G. Mott
Benjamin Namm
Generoso Pope, Jr.
Chauncey L. Waddell
Edith M. Alexander, Secretary

This Committee plans to raise $1,000 for the conference, to secure appropriate meeting rooms and reservations for delegates, to arrange for appropriate publicity for the conference, to supply the Program Committee with student and agency staff reporters for the conference sessions and to cooperate with the Program Committee in the administration of the conference. Edith Alexander was appointed chairman of the NAIRO Conference Committee on Arrangements and the following are to serve with her: John B. Sullivan, vice chairman; Harold A. Lett, Frank T. Simpson, and Isaiah Terman.

Before the meeting adjourned it was determined that the Hotel New Yorker would probably supply meeting rooms free of charge and the dates for the fall meeting were determined as November 15, 16, 17.

It was agreed that the New York Committee on Arrangements would confer with the NAIRO Finance Committee and with members of the NAIRO Board regarding plans for financing the conference. The Board decided that a registration fee of $2.00 should be charged to all non-members of NAIRO registering at the conference.

The agenda for the three-day conference was determined as follows:

1st day

Morning	- General Session
Noon	- Luncheon of Conference Leaders
Afternoon	- Round Tables on Housing

2nd day

Morning	- Agency Group Meetings
Afternoon	- Subject Matter Round Table
Evening	- Dinner

3rd day

Morning	- Business Meeting - Report of Round Tables
Afternoon	- NAIRO Board Meeting

The following subjects were suggested to the Program Committee as discussion topics:

1. Housing Problems
2. Schools and Human Relations
3. Local Community Organization
4. Unemployment and Minority Groups
5. Implications of the 1950 Census
6. Needs in the Functional Areas (Health, etc.)
7. FEPC Administrative Techniques
8. Civil Rights in the South
9. Social Science and Practice in the Field
10. Religious Tensions

The following were suggested to the Program Committee as Conference techniques:

1. Demonstration of so-called "buzz sessions" and "group dynamics".

2. Selection of qualified discussion leaders and use of subject matter consultants in each round table.

3. Use of national agency personnel in round tables as consultants.

4. Use of "breakfast clinics" where small groups could discuss topics of special but limited interest.

Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried the President was authorized to appoint an Association Committee on Educational Opportunities to be concerned with the problems of discrimination and segregation in private institutions and public educational systems and to develop a statement of policy and procedure for the guidance of the membership and others concerned with education.

Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the Executive Secretary was instructed to advise the chairman of the Committee on Professional Standards that it was the consensus of the Board that, "in view of recent unwarranted charges against agencies and agency staff stemming from political sources, from newspapers, and from groups opposed to the objectives of intergroup relations agencies, the Association delegates to the Committee on Professional Standards responsibility for studying this problem and for recommending to the Board a procedure for handling such situations which will result in more adequate protection of professional personnel".

There being no further business, a motion carried that the meeting be adjourned.

ATTEST:

Louis E. Hosch, Executive Secretary

Frank W. Baldau, President

Maurice B. Fagan, Vice President

ADJOURNMENT

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF INTERGROUP RELATIONS OFFICIALS

Report of the Executive Secretary

November 1950

RESUME

Since NAIRO was established in November of 1947, the November 1950 annual meeting actually marks the end of the third year of activity.

The Association had its inception in the 1945 and 1946 meetings of the Council of Executives of Community Relations Boards, an informal and unincorporated group of officials of local governmental agencies concerned with race relations and minority group problems. These local officials recognized the necessity for regular clearance and exchange of experience among local official agencies and initiated an informal system of communication through correspondence, exchange of publications, and informal meetings.

The Council of Executives of Community Relations Boards, aware of the grass roots character of their activities, recognized the important implications of their official activities to the programs of other agencies, both public and private, operating on national, state, and local levels. Accordingly, in November of 1947 representatives of the Council of Executives met with officials of governors' and state legislative commissions concerned with problems of intergroup relations on the state level of government. These representatives of local and state official agencies later in 1947 convened with representatives of unofficial community-wide civic organizations concerned with similar continuing association to facilitate their common aims.

This joint committee of official and private agency representatives nominated a slate of officers, which was unanimously elected to serve the Association for the year 1947-48. The annual meeting of the Association, which by provision of the by-laws became the policy-making authority of NAIRO, authorized the establishment of a central headquarters, the appointment of appropriate committees, the employment of a staff, and the development of a program to implement the objectives of the Association.

A review of the development of the Association since 1947 reveals these significant facts:

1. Since its incorporation, the Association has been almost entirely dependent upon the American Council on Race Relations which served as the Association's Secretariat, provided an Executive Secretary, other professional and clerical staff, and provided a subsidy of approximately $13,000 a year in 1948 and 1949, and an almost equal amount in 1950 to finance its publications, conferences and committee activities and to facilitate continuing communication among its members. The critical significance of this annual subsidy is cogently revealed by the fact that NAIRO income from memberships and all other sources during 1948 was $1,359 and during 1949 was $1,050.

Since the estimated ACRR subsidy represents only actual cash expenditures and does not include other costs, the total costs of operating the Association are considerably higher, approximating $20,000 a year. (See attached proposed budget.) NAIRO income thus far as approximated 8% of cash expenditures and about 5% of actual costs of operating the Association.

2. The membership of the Association, totaling 268 individuals in October of 1950 drawn from about half the states in the Union, consists primarily of professional employees of voluntary agencies. A little over 75% (200) of the total membership are professional personnel, predominantly from local (92) and national (70) agencies. The remaining 25% (65) are professional employees of public agencies, with nearly half of that group (30) in local official agencies (see table below).

Analysis of Individual Membership, October 1950.

	Private	Public	Total
Federal or National agencies	70	13	83
State agencies	12	22	34
Local agencies	118	30	148
	200	65	265

Individual memberships, both active and associate, were increased from $2.50 per year to $10.00 per year in 1950; agency memberships were discontinued in 1950 and agency subscription fees substituted. Only a few of the 22 agency members of 1949 have subscribed in 1950.

3. The activities of the Association have centered almost entirely in its annual conferences and in the work of a few committees. The committee work of the Association, except for board meetings, has of necessity had to be carried on almost exclusively by correspondence. Functional committees of the Association could not afford to hold meetings because of the limited resources of the Association and because the small budgets of the agencies employing committee members did not permit travel. Recently the NAIRO board has attempted to facilitate committee meetings by appointing members more on a regional basis.

The Association has been handicapped by the lack of frequent committee meetings and opportunities to explore with the membership more than once a year the important problems facing the Association. The secretariat and committee chairmen have had to depend upon correspondence and inquiries to the field to compile information and to develop findings and recommendations for the guidance of the membership.

The secretariat, in an effort to supplement the work of Association committees, has attempted to comply with the directives of the board and the recommendations of the annual meetings by compiling information requested by the membership from a variety of sources.

In these efforts the secretariat has had the aid of operating agencies in the field and the assistance of professional personnel loaned to the secretariat by the American Council on Race Relations and the Committee on Education, Training and Research in Race Relations of the University of Chicago.

Materials on agency activities, new developments in the field, pending and enacted legislation, current litigation, program changes, new literature and knowledge, experience with various techniques, and related significant information have been disseminated regularly to the membership. This information was distributed through periodic NAIRO releases and memoranda to the membership; much of it was also distributed to non-members in agencies in the field as a promotional technique. Some news of significance to NAIRO members was disseminated monthly throughout the last three years through the facilities of ACRR Report.

PROSPECTS

In NAIRO, a significant and effective device has been developed for lifting the level of competence in the field of intergroup relations and for the efficient and rapid dissemination of information, exchange of materials and techniques, and for concerted action on a national scale.

The reports of the annual conferences of NAIRO, the minutes of its board and committee meetings, and the daily experience of the secretariat with requests for materials and assistance, are overwhelming evidence of the need for the continuation and further development of the Association.

The future of NAIRO cannot, in the opinion of your Executive Secretary, depend upon finding some other agency to finance its future activities. Nor can NAIRO depend upon locating one or two wealthy contributors who will pay the entire operating costs of the Association. The future of NAIRO will depend upon its developing a positive and definite program which will continue to hold its present membership and attract other professional personnel. Such a program must include more than an annual conference, correspondence among individuals, the handling of inquiries and exchange of materials.

The NAIRO program, in addition to these basic activities, should include:

1. Promulgation of a concise but definite platform or statement of policy on the continuing critical issues in the field of intergroup relations. Such a platform comprised of unequivocal principles and methods could serve as a guide and a point of departure for NAIRO members in every functional area of our daily activities -- employment, housing, education, legislation, public policy, religion, health and welfare. It would provide a basis for developing memberships by serving as an aid in recruiting to our ranks those who believe and behave as we do.

2. Planning and execution of a series of regional conferences throughout the year to bring together all the professional personnel from operating agencies to examine current practice and to explore improved techniques for dealing with current problems. Such meetings would provide opportunities for a wider membership participation and a greater professional self-consciousness.

3. Development of the professional aspects of the field of intergroup relations by:

a. Undertaking critical evaluation of the methods now employed by the operating agencies in the field, including their organizational structure, their techniques, publications, and operation;

b. Determining what personnel is now employed by agencies in the field, what professional qualifications are most useful, what qualifications are being sought, what training is required, and what professional standards are emerging;

c. Establishing a personnel exchange for the registration of professional personnel and for the use of operating agencies seeking qualified staff.

4. Establishment of a realistic and stable base of financial support. Prerequisite to this are:

a. Expanding the NAIRO membership and agency subscriptions to the optimum of potentialities. This cannot be done by a secretariat or a membership committee alone, but must be undertaken by regional or state committees with proper assistance from the secretariat.

b. Locating, with the aggressive assistance of the membership and through the operating agencies in the field, additional financial contributors to the NAIRO budget.

c. When it has been demonstrated that the NAIRO membership is seriously dedicated to its stated purposes and has accumulated the financial resources available from agencies and local communities, approaching several foundations for a subsidy for a period of several years.

The last three years have demonstrated that our members are engaged in a common cause. The few who started us on our way several years ago have been joined by others who are sensitive to the problems which we must help to solve to preserve our democratic way of life. NAIRO has already earned for itself a reputation as the national non-sectarian organization to which all groups from any community can bring their problems and expect an objective and honest answer.

It is up to the present membership to see that the Association continues to grow and develop, to meet continuing needs and to cope with the unfinished business of democracy.

Dear Mrs. Norford:

Notion: That people very high in the Civil Service Commission and the White House and the Charles Wilson outfit set up forthwith a small team to go out to cities where a lot of this new swelling governmental employment is going on and make it completely clear to the local boss people that they have got to behave on hiring.

We have all gone through this agony before. If you wait until the first rush of taking on the new people is over, the stubborn, reluctant white administrators will tell you they are already reducing forces, and many experienced white ex-employees are waiting for re-employment, and they themselves are of the best of will on this whole matter, and so on. This time, for goodness' sake, let's catch on, on the upswing.

The above informal message is my own language for something I was commissioned to impart to you as proposal from the Board meeting February 10 of NAIRO.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

Dear Maury:

On the AJC analysis of the McCarran Act, I would say the thing to do is let NAIRO send it out to its members and to its mailing list, but with something stuck on or attached to show that it is distributed by NAIRO "as information."

In future cases where you have any doubts, I think the procedure used in this one is all right. That is simply to ask a committee of a couple of Board members to add their advice to your own. It might be a good rule that if any Board member consulted objects, the item be not distributed.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM

TO: George Mitchell
Helen Peterson

FROM: Maurice B. Fagan

Will Maslow of the American Jewish Congress has offered to mail at his own expense the enclosed evaluation and analysis of The Internal Security Act of 1950 not only to all NAIRO members but to the 1287 intergroup relations agencies to which we are now sending NAIRO Reporter. (I assume you have already received a copy of NAIRO Reporter.)

Unfortunately, at the last Executive Committee meeting we failed to establish a method of determining which materials should be distributed either by us or at our request to our members and to our mailing list.

I am therefore calling upon both of you to act with me for the time being as a committee which will act on each such opportunity as it arises.

Maslow would like an answer from us as soon as possible and I, therefore, would like your judgment as to whether the enclosed article should be sent out. Does distribution of material indicate in any way our endorsement? Do you feel it necessary when such material is sent out to indicate that it is a "NAIRO service but that the article does not necessarily carry the approval or disapproval of NAIRO"?

Would you also at your convenience suggest what you feel would be the most suitable way of handling such materials in the future.

I believe we are in remarkably good shape at this time and feel that our national conference on November 14, 15 and 16 in Detroit will reveal the growth and new spirit that I see developing among many of our members and in the field in general.

Cordial personal regards.

Maury

THE INTERNAL SECURITY ACT OF 1950

(The McCarran Act)

An Evaluation and Analysis

COMMISSION ON LAW AND SOCIAL ACTION
AMERICAN JEWISH CONGRESS
15 EAST 84TH STREET
NEW YORK 28, N. Y.

The Internal Security Act of 1950

EVALUATION AND ANALYSIS

FOREWORD

When the McCarran bill and other legislation out of which the Internal Security Act of 1950 ultimately emerged were introduced, the American Jewish Congress together with scores of other civic organizations opposed their enactment. When the McCarran Bill was passed over President Truman's veto, the same organizations urged its repeal. In maintaining that position, the American Jewish Congress has acted in full conformity with its basic principles. We are firmly opposed to communism, fascism and all forms of totalitarianism as destructive of freedom and world peace. We have therefore recognized the need for internal security measures to safeguard us against those persons or movements which may act to subvert our democratic system and national security. But we have insisted that the obligation to oppose totalitarianism and all its methods is inseparable from the obligation to maintain our democratic freedoms. We have therefore opposed the enactment of any measures which go beyond what can reasonably be regarded as necessary for defense against sabotage and espionage and which are repugnant to the spirit and violative of the letter of the Constitution.

The McCarran Act was enacted in haste and in an atmosphere surcharged with emotion. Because the Act embodies five separate pieces of legislation, there has been a great deal of confusion and misunderstanding as to its actual provisions and content. Popular understanding of the measure has been further confused by the fact that certain of its sections legitimately strengthen the espionage and sabotage laws and were approved by President Truman in his veto message, a classic statement which should be better known. The Act in its entirety, however, contains so many unsatisfactory provisions that it is incapable of piecemeal amendment. We have therefore called for its outright repeal and the reenactment of its valid sections by separate legislation after public Congressional hearings.

The American Jewish Congress is publishing this analysis and evaluation of the Internal Security Act of 1950 as a contribution to public discussion and understanding. We hope that, out of such understanding, the movement for repeal of the Act will gather strength and that a legitimate and constitutional program for internal security can then be formulated, consonant with our national interests and national traditions. Such a development will reinforce the faith of Americans in our democratic system by arresting what President Truman has termed "unwarranted attacks on individuals" and "unwarranted infringement of their rights and liberties in the name of security."

SHAD POLIER
Chairman, Commission on Law and Social Action, American Jewish Congress

THE INTERNAL SECURITY ACT, POPULARLY known as the McCarran Act, was enacted over the President's veto on September 23, 1950. The Act is a consolidation of various bills, including the Mundt-Ferguson-Johnston bill, the Nixon bill and the Hobbs bill, each of which was vigorously opposed by civic and church groups across the country. The McCarran Act now incorporates many of their worst features in a single omnibus measure.

The principal subjects included within the new law are: (1) The registration of Communist organizations; (2) unlawful conspiracy; (3) exclusion, deportation and naturalization; (4) emergency detention; and (5) espionage and sabotage control. The major points in the Act are summarized below. A more detailed analysis of the text follows.

I. REGISTRATION OF COMMUNIST ORGANIZATIONS

The registration provisions of the McCarran Act (Sections 1-17) derive directly from the Mundt-Ferguson and Nixon bills. Briefly, they require all "Communist organizations" to register with the Attorney General within thirty days after the enactment of the law. "Communist organizations" are divided into two categories: "Communist-action" and "Communist-front." The looseness with which these groups are defined makes it possible for an organization to be designated as "Communist" solely because one of its policies or objectives is the same as that of admittedly Communist groups or governments. For example, any organization supporting FEPC legislation might, under the ambiguous provisions of the Act, be subject to registration if it is found that Communist groups also support FEPC. The result is that once avowedly Communist bodies have endorsed liberal or civil rights legislation, every other group can endorse such legislation only at its peril.

Moreover, the mere fact that liberal organizations might become classified as Communist-fronts and the fact that these organizations and their members run a real danger of continuous probes and investigations will be sufficient to discourage many people from engaging in any liberal activities whatever. In effect this would leave the Communist groups as the sole spokesmen for liberal and civil rights legislation in America. As a consequence the Communists would be aided in their spurious claim that they alone are concerned with civil liberties and the protection of minority groups.

The Act thus imposes harsh penalties on liberal non-Communist organizations without making any real contribution to the safety or security of this country. Because of the severe penalties resulting from membership in a registered organization (including loss of passports, exclusion from certain types of employment, and a requirement to label all publications as Communist-inspired), it is unlikely that organizations will register voluntarily and in fact none has yet done so. The Act sets out a lengthy and very extensive procedure which must be followed before an organization can be forced to register. It is estimated that such a contested procedure will take several years. And then, at the end of this long drawn-out procedure, all an organization need do to avoid the sanctions of the law is to dissolve even the day before a registration order becomes final and reappear with a new name, new officers and new directors. The same lengthy process will then have to be repeated to compel the "new" agency to register and this merry-go-round can be repeated indefinitely.

II. Unlawful Conspiracy

Section 4 of the law makes criminal a conspiracy or agreement to perform any act which would substantially contribute to the establishment within the United States of a foreign-dominated totalitarian dictatorship. This section provides the individual no guide whatever in determining whether his conduct is criminal. On its face, almost any action, no matter how innocently undertaken, may subsequently be condemned and penalized if it is found to have "substantially contributed" to foreign-controlled totalitarianism in this country. Taken literally, this section might make criminal such actions as strikes in essential industries or the defense by attorneys of Communists in civil or criminal proceedings. This section is, in effect, a dragnet which may be used by government agencies to haul in all those who espouse unpopular causes of any kind.

III. Exclusion, Deportation and Naturalization

A. Exclusion: The Act greatly enlarges the categories of those aliens who are to be excluded.

For the first time in our peacetime immigration laws the Act forbids the entry of aliens who seek to enter the United States to engage in activities which "would be prejudicial to the public interest." This language is so sweeping and indefinite that for all practical purposes, it hands over to consular officials and immigration officials an almost unlimited discretion in the exclusion of would-be immigrants, including those whose activities could in no way be considered as affecting national security or safety. Moreover, it must not be forgotten that these consular officials operate in foreign countries without right of appeal and subject to no public scrutiny of their decisions.

The Act also excludes those who are found likely to engage in "subversive" activities. For the first time, they may be excluded not on the basis of anything they may have done in the past but on the basis of what some government official thinks they may do in the future.

All aliens who at any time were members of totalitarian parties are denied entry. Although by its terms the Act excludes members of all totalitarian parties alike, regulations issued by the Attorney General permit the entry of "nominal" Nazis and Fascists while continuing to exclude all Communists. The Act thus implicitly accepts the notion that ex-Nazis and ex-Fascists are less repugnant to our democratic institutions than ex-Communists. This distinction is untenable. Totalitarianisms of the right must be as firmly condemned as totalitarianism of the left.

The Act also deprives aliens of the right to an administrative review which they received in the past when found ineligible to enter this country. The Attorney General now is not only granted the widest powers but also the authority to cut off any review of his exercise of such powers.

B. Deportation: Under Section 22, the Attorney General must deport any alien who, when he entered the United States, or at any time thereafter, "had a purpose to engage" or "engaged" in subversive activities.

As a result of these provisions, persons who may have joined radical organizations years ago—when it was permissible to do so without penalty—and who have long since repudiated their association with such groups, may now, nevertheless, find themselves subject to deportation. Since the Attorney General is without discretion under this section, deportation will be compelled, even if the government itself is satisfied that such persons have, for many years, maintained loyal, peaceful and useful residence in the United States.

Section 23 of the Act permits the Attorney General to deport aliens to any country willing to accept them with the exception that they may not be deported to any country in which they will be in danger of physical persecution. Until now, aliens were deportable only to countries of which they were citizens, or where they resided or were born, or, in general, where they had some prior connection. Under the McCarran Act, it will be possible for an alien to be deported to a country in which he may be subjected to racial or religious discrimination or where he may be used as a source of cheap labor.

In addition, both the deportation and exclusion sections strike a serious blow to our national security by divesting the Attorney General of discretion to grant refuge in the United States to former diplomatic personnel of Communist governments who reject Communism and wish to escape its reprisals. Many such persons have recently offered valuable assistance to this country in its struggle against totalitarianism. Under the McCarran Act, we may no longer avail ourselves of this assistance. The Attorney General now is inflexibly commanded to exclude or deport all such individuals as undesirable.

C. Naturalization: Sections 25-30 of the Act provide that no alien may be naturalized if within the preceding ten years he has been a member of a Communist-action organization or if he has been a member of a Communist-front organization and failed to resign within three months after the group was required to register. It has long been required of candidates for naturalization that they demonstrate "attachment" to the principles of the Constitution. In the light of this provision, it seems unreasonable to use membership in a listed group as anything other than presumptive evidence of a lack of attachment which might be rebutted by evidence establishing the alien's loyalty to American ideals and traditions.

The Act further provides that a person naturalized after January 1, 1951 may have his naturalization cancelled if within five years thereafter he becomes a member of a Communist group. Such sanctions do not apply to native-born citizens. Naturalized Americans are thus relegated to the category of second-rate citizens who may be penalized for acts which may be undertaken by native-born citizens without penalty.

For the first time, the Act requires that applicants for naturalization be able to read and write English as well as speak it. This section adds a further and unnecessary limitation to the privilege of naturalization which, undoubtedly, will operate to exclude many who might otherwise be fully qualified for American citizenship, and which certainly bears no relationship to the national security or welfare.

IV. Emergency Detention

In the event of Presidential proclamation of a "national emergency" brought about by invasion or rebellion, the Attorney General is in effect authorized by Section 102 to intern any person who, there is reason to believe, will engage in acts of espionage or sabotage. This section, providing as it does for a hearing and for a system of review of any decision to intern, if it had been properly drafted might have constituted a substantial improvement over the existing law. Before the McCarran Act, the President had the authority to detain citizens who he believed endangered our national defense. The most recent exercise of this authority occurred during the last war when persons of Japanese ancestry, including some 70,000 American citizens, were evacuated from the West Coast and interned without any hearing or the right of effective judicial review. The McCarran Act at least precludes this kind of summary detention. Unfortunately, however, these sections permit the detention Review Board empowered to pass upon detention, to consider evidence which would be excluded in any ordinary judicial or administrative proceedings. The admission of this evidence, in effect, denies the accused a fair hearing. Thus, whenever the Attorney General finds it necessary for alleged reasons of national security, he is permitted to submit to the Board a digest of the evidence supporting and justifying detention. He is permitted to withhold any information which he feels is dangerous to disclose. Withheld evidence may include such facts as the name of the informant, the source of the statements being used against the detainee or the circumstances under which they were made. By permitting the withholding of this kind of information, the detainee is seriously impeded in his efforts to disprove or contradict the evidence against him. Such procedure violates the rules of evidence which have been found under the Anglo-Saxon system of law to provide the staunchest guarantee of a fair and just hearing.

V. Espionage and Sabotage Control

Section 18 of the McCarran Act broadens existing statutes relating to the handling of defense information by penalizing the transmission, loss or negligent dealing with such data when the possessor of this information has reason to believe that it "could be used to the injury of the United States." Section 19 extends the statute of limitation for certain espionage offenses to ten years. Neither of these provisions is objectionable. Of all of the provisions of the Act, they alone make a genuine contribution to our internal security.

Conclusion

The undemocratic provisions of the McCarran Act cannot be justified as a means of improving our national defense or protecting our way of life. We cannot defend rights by destroying them. We cannot strengthen America in its struggle for freedom against the forces of Communism by adopting totalitarian short cuts to control the action and thoughts of citizens. These short cuts to security have become the hallmark of totalitarianism throughout the world.

We will cancel all that we seek to preserve if we sacrifice the liberties of our citizens in poorly conceived attempts to achieve national security. As President Truman declared, "No considerations of expediency can justify the enactment of such a bill as this, a bill which would greatly weaken our liberties and give aid and comfort to those who would destroy us."

An Analysis of the McCarran Act

I. Registration of Communist Organizations

The registration provisions of the McCarran Act (Section 1-17) derive directly from the Mundt-Ferguson and Nixon bills. Briefly, Sections 3 (a) (b) and (c) require all "Communist organizations" to register with the Attorney General within thirty days after the enactment of the law. "Communist organizations" are divided into two categories: "Communist-action" and "Communist-front."

A. Definitions

A "Communist-action" organization is defined as a group which is "substantially directed, dominated or controlled by a foreign Communist government or world Communist movement" and "which operates primarily to advance the objectives of the world Communist movement" (Section 3(3)). A "Communist-front" organization is one which is "substantially directed, dominated or controlled by a Communist-action organization and which is primarily operated for the purpose of giving aid and support to a Communist-action organization, a Communist foreign government, or a world Communist movement. . . ." (Section 3(4)).

Recognizing the vagueness of these definitions, Sections 13 (e) and (f) attempt to give them added meaning by setting forth additional criteria to be considered in determining whether an organization is within either of the two proscribed classes. Among the criteria for Communist-action groups are: the extent to which its policies are formulated to effectuate the policies of Communist governments or organization (13 (e) (1)); the extent to which its views and policies do not deviate from those of such foreign government or foreign organization (13 (e) (2)); the extent to which the organization resists efforts to disclose its membership and records and its members refuse to acknowledge membership therein or the extent to which an organization operates in secret (13 (e) (7)). Similarly, for Communist-front organizations one of the criteria to be considered is "the extent to which the positions taken or advanced by it from time to time on matters of policy do not deviate from those of any Communist-action organizations, Communist foreign government, or the world Communist movement. . . ." (13 (f) (4).

Although these sections purport to make the earlier definitions precise, they require that account need be taken only of "the extent to which" any organization has engaged in these proscribed activities without any specification of the degree of participation required to bring the organization within the purview of the law. Moreover, there is no indication that an organization must be implicated in all of these criteria, or in most, or in any combination, of them before it becomes subject to the sanctions of the Act. On the contrary, it appears that any group found to any extent to be involved in any one of these activities may be classified as a Communist organization. It is possible, for example, that an organization may be designated as a Communist-action group solely because of the non-deviation of some of its views from those of Communist governments or organizations. The result is that avowedly Communist bodies may be given a monopoly in the sponsorship or endorsement of all liberal legislation, including FEPC, federal aid to education and the like. Once backed by Communist groups, fear of possible subjection to registration under the law would make these issues too dangerous for non-Communists to support. This was recognized by President Truman in his veto message when he stated:

> This provision could easily be used to classify as a Communist-front organization any organization which is advocating a single policy or objective which is also being urged by the Communist Party or by a Communist foreign government. In fact, this may be the intended result. . . . It is not enough to say that this probably would not be done. The mere fact that it could be done shows clearly how the bill would open a Pandora's Box of opportunities for an official condemnation of organizations and individuals for perfectly honest opinions which happen to be stated also by Communists. . . .

B. Subversive Activities Control Board

If an organization fails to register voluntarily, the Attorney General may start proceedings before a five-man Subversive Activities Control Board (Section 12). This Board is empowered to determine, after hearings, whether an organization is a Communist organization. Its final decision may be appealed to the courts. Appointments to the Board were made by President Truman last October, and include Seth W. Richardson, Chairman, Charles M. LaFollette, Peter C. Brown, David Coddaire and Dr. Kathryn McHale.

C. Penalties

Any organization failing to obey a final court order requiring its registration may be fined up to $10,000. The officers of such organizations may be similarly fined or imprisoned for five years. In addition, any individual who knowingly becomes or remains a member of any Communist organization which has been ordered to register and has not done so, must himself register, and for failure to do so, may be fined $10,000 or imprisoned for five years. No penalty or prohibition can take effect, however, until after an organization has registered voluntarily or after a final order requiring registration has been entered by the courts (Section 15).

Members of Communist groups designated as Communist organizations by the Subversive Activities Control Board may not be employed by the Federal government (Section 5), and may not receive passports (Section 6). The organizations so designated are deprived of certain tax exemptions and deductions (Section 11) and must clearly identify the literature distributed or any broadcast sponsored by them as "Communist" (Section 11). In addition, members of Communist-action organizations may not be employed in defense plants (Section 5.)

D. Ineffectiveness of Registration Procedures

Because of the drastic consequences flowing from membership in a group required to register, it is unlikely that any organization will register voluntarily and in fact none has yet done so. Indeed, it is probable that the whole procedure of forced registration will prove futile. Because of the lengthy procedures involved in the hearings, (see Sections 12, 13, 14) compelling involuntary registration, will, in each case, take several years at least. Finally, at the end of this long drawn out process all an organization need do to avoid the sanctions of the law is to dissolve even the day before a registration order becomes final and reappear the following week with different officers and directors, and the same long drawn out procedures will have to be repeated. It should be noted that Section 2386 of Title 18 of the U. S. Code (the Smith Act), passed in 1940 provides for the registration with the Attorney General of certain subversive organizations and that these provisions although long in effect have had no success in compelling registration of organizations or in uncovering information important to our national defense.

The intrinsic evil in these provisions, however, lies less in their direct effects than in their ultimate derogation from the rights and freedoms which average Americans have long enjoyed. Registration procedures will be evaded simply by the dissolution of existing Communist and front organizations which, by this time anyway, have been so exposed that they retain little potential to attract innocents. In their stead, new groups will be created which may more readily deceive the unwary. More important, however, the mere fact that some organizations might become classified as Communist fronts and the fact that these organizations and their members run a real risk of continued investigations and prosecutions will be sufficient to discourage many people from joining or belonging to any liberal group whatever. The real danger is that, as President Truman put it, these sections inevitably will "result in penalizing the legitimate activities of people who are not Communists at all but loyal citizens."

II. Unlawful Conspiracy

Section 4 of the Act provides:

> It shall be unlawful for any person knowingly to combine, conspire or agree with any other person to perform any act which would substantially contribute to the establishment within the United States of a totalitarian dictatorship . . . the direction and control of which is to be vested in or exercised by or under the domination or control of any foreign government, foreign organization or foreign individual.

Although imposing criminal penalties, this section requires no showing of specific intent to conspire to injure or harm the United States in any manner whatever.

A committee of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, in considering this provision when it was part of the Mundt-Ferguson bill, stated:

> It is the unamimous view of this Committee that this bill should not be enacted so long as it contains these provisions. . . . They are so vague and uncertain that they may well be held to violate due process provisions of the 5th Amendment in not giving sufficient notice of what conduct is condemned. . . . The general language would operate to put unwarrantably broad powers in the hands of the Government to harass unpopular causes by prosecutions and, literally construed, would cover open advocacy of a kind which should not be prohibited.

As the American Civil Liberties Union points out, this section "provides no guide to a person whatsoever in judging whether his conduct would be criminal or not." Taken literally, it might make criminal strikes in essential industries or the defense by attorneys of Communists in civil or criminal proceedings. The section is, in any event, unnecessary because any conduct it may constitutionally punish already appears forbidden by other legislation including Title 18, U.S.C.A., Section 371, outlawing any conspiracy to commit an offense or to defraud the United States; Title 18, U.S.C.A., Section 794, outlawing any conspiracy to commit acts of espionage against the United States; Title 18, U.S.C.A., Section 2384, outlawing any conspiracy to commit seditious acts against the United States, and Title 22, U.S.C.A., Section 612, requiring agents of foreign countries to register with the Attorney General.

III. Exclusion, Deportation and Naturalization

A. Exclusion

The exclusion provisions of the McCarran Act (Section 22(1)) forbid entry into the United States of:

(a) Persons "Prejudicial to Public Interest."

Aliens are barred who seek to enter this country to engage in activities "which would be prejudicial to the public interest." This probably is the most sweeping of all the exclusionary provisions of the law. It denies entry not only to those who seek to impair the security of the United States but beyond that it prohibits any who in any way would "prejudice the public interest"—a phrase which might easily take on manifold and ambiguous meanings unrelated to any question of national safety. After granting this comprehensive authority to the Attorney General, the Act nevertheless goes on to specify additional grounds for exclusion. The Senate Committee Minority report on the McCarran Act (Senate Report 2369, Part 2, page 14) commented on this section:

> We strongly criticize the first category as being so sweeping as to make unnecessary any further definition of classes to be excluded. . . . Other provisions of the bill limiting the application of other categories are meaningless in the light of this sweeping exclusionary power.

There is no counterpart of the phrase "prejudicial to public interest" in regular immigration laws. The only precedent for its usage is a wartime temporary executive proclamation (Presidential Proclamation 2523, November 14, 1941). The McCarran Act incorporates this wartime directive into peacetime immigration laws and thus, for all practical purposes, hands over to immigration officials an unlimited range of discretion in the exclusion of would-be immigrants.

(b) Persons "Likely" to Engage in Subversive Activities

Entry is also forbidden to aliens who, there is reason to believe, will be likely to engage in "subversive" activities. This section is entirely new and changes the basis for denial of entry under our immigration laws. Until now the test has been merely whether an alien had already engaged in certain proscribed activities—a matter which could be proved or disproved. The test of admissibility from now on will not be predicated on anything which did, in fact occur, but merely on an administrative belief that it is likely that certain acts may occur at some undefined future time.

This clause will make it almost impossible successfully to contest a decision by the Immigration Service barring entry. It will be incomparably more difficult for the alien to prove that he will not perform certain activities at some time in the future than it formerly was for him to prove that he had never engaged in proscribed acts. This requirement in effect saddles prospective immigrants with an insurmountable burden of proof. Consular officers who now grant or deny visas in far off lands without public scrutiny are given such subjective standards by this new provision as to make their discretion virtually unlimited.

(c) Former Members of Totalitarian Parties

Entry finally is forbidden to aliens who at any time have been members of or affiliated with the Communist or any other totalitarian party in the United States or any foreign state or who have advocated the doctrines of world Communism or any other totalitarianism.

This section on its face excludes not only reformed Communists but also the so-called "nominal Nazis" and supporters of Franco and Peron. Because of pressures initiated by Senator McCarran, however, Attorney General McGrath has issued regulations exempting so-called nominal Nazis from exclusion under these provisions. In operation, therefore, the McCarran Act implicitly accepts the notion that ex-Nazis and ex-Fascists are less obnoxious and repugnant to our democratic institutions than ex-Communists. This distinction is untenable. Former adherents of all totalitarian philosophies must be dealt with alike. Totalitarianisms of the right must be as firmly condemned by our legal system as totalitarianism of the left.

Closely related to these sections is a provision which permits the Attorney General to authorize the exclusion from the United States without the usual administrative review before a Board of Special Inquiry of aliens excludable under any of the categories described above. Such exclusion without hearing may take place whenever the Attorney General is satisfied that the alien is excludable under any of these three categories on the basis of information of a confidential nature, the disclosure of which in his opinion would be prejudicial to the public interest, safety or security. Thus, the Attorney General is not only endowed with discretionary power of the widest latitude as earlier described, but also with the authority to cut off any review of his exercise of such powers. Until now, this authority had been available to the Attorney General only by Presidential Proclamation as an extraordinary wartime device.

B. Deportation

Under Section 22, the Attorney General must deport any alien who, when he entered the United States, "irrespective of the time of entry" or at any time thereafter, "had a purpose to engage" or "engaged" in subversive activities. President Truman has denounced these deportation sections as putting the Government "in the business of thought control."

1. Retroactivity

As a result of these provisions, it is possible that persons who joined a Communist organization years ago—when it was permissible to do so without penalty—but who long since have repudiated their association with Communist groups will now nevertheless find themselves subject to deportation. Since the Attorney General has no discretion under this section, deportation will be compelled even if the government itself is satisfied that such ex-Communists have for many years maintained a loyal, peaceful and useful residence in the United States.

This provision thus embodies an indefensible retroactivity providing a severe penalty, deportation, for acts which were not forbidden when originally undertaken. Questions of constitutionality apart, there can be no doubt as a matter of policy that the deportation provisions of the McCarran Act are unnecessarily harsh. Innocent individuals may in the past have engaged in activities which were legal at the time. To apply to them now a severe retroactive punishment will offer no additional protection to the United States and will work an unjustifiable hardship on law-abiding aliens who may have sunk their roots deep in this country.

2. Countries to Which Aliens Can Be Deported

Section 23 of the Act, taken over from the Hobbs Bill, permits the Attorney General to deport an alien to any country willing to accept him with the single exception that he may not be deported to any state in which he will be in danger of physical persecution. Under previously existing law, the country to which an alien might be deported was determined by the personal history of the alien himself. He was deportable either to the country of which he was a citizen, or where he resided or where he was born, or in general, where he had some prior connection.

Although undeniably we have the sovereign right to expel an alien, that right should be exercised humanely. Deportation under this new section may be to a non-native country where the language and customs are strange to the deportee. The reason for such countries' willingness to accept an unwilling stranger may not be humanitarian. It would be possible, for example, under this provision, for an alien to be deported to a country where he will be subjected to extreme racial or religious discrimination or to a country where he might be used as cheap or exploitable labor. Under this provision, the American ideal of asylum would be reversed and the United States might become an agent for delivering aliens to foreign governments for exploitation or discrimination.

3. Custody and Indefinite Parole

Section 23 permits aliens found subject to deportation to be detained in the custody of the Attorney General for a six month period pending departure from this country. If, after six months from the date a final deportation is handed down, the Attorney General cannot find a country willing to accept such alien, the latter may be released, but must report, at regular intervals, for medical and psychiatric examinations, and must furnish the Attorney General with whatever information he "may deem fit and proper." Not only do such regulations deprive the individual of his right of privacy and compel him to live in a state of "parole" for an indefinite period of time, but they invade his right against self incrimination guaranteed by the Fifth Amendment of the Federal Constitution.

4. Willful Failure to Depart

Section 23 of the Act for the first time makes it felonious for aliens against whom an order of deportation is outstanding and who belong to the "immoral" and "subversive" classes willfully to fail, or refuse to depart from the United States within a given period or to make temporary application for travel terms or to present themselves for deportation or for taking "any other action designed to prevent or hamper their departure." This provision clearly counters the express statement of the United States Supreme Court in the Wong Wing case, 163 U. S. 228 that "to declare a lawful residence within a country to be an infamous crime, punishable by deprivation of liberty and property, would be to pass out of the sphere of constitutional legislation."

5. Compulsory Exclusion and Deportation of Former Soviet Diplomats

Both the deportation and exclusion sections of the Act impart an element of rigidity into our immigration system detrimental to our national interest. They impair our security by depriving our Attorney General of discretionary authority to grant asylum in the United States to foreign diplomats who have repudiated Communism and wish to escape its reprisals. Many such individuals recently have given valuable assistance to this country in its struggle against expanding totalitarianism. Under the McCarran Act we may no longer avail ourselves of this assistance, since it is now mandatory for the Attorney General to exclude or deport all such persons as undesirable. Of these provisions the Senate Minority Report states:

> We think it obvious that the Attorney General should expressly be given discretionary power to allow aliens who have abandoned the Communist Party and perhaps have furnished valuable information to the Government to remain in the United States.

And President Truman similarly commented:

> It must be obvious to anyone that it is in our national interest to persuade people to renounce Communism and to encourage their defection from Communist forces. Many of these people are valuable to our intelligence operations. Yet under this bill the Government would lose the limited authority it now has to offer asylum in our country as the great incentive for such defection.

C. Naturalization

Sections 25 to 30 of the Internal Security Act greatly enlarge the category of aliens barred from naturalization. They provide that no person may become a citizen who is, or, within ten years preceding the filing of petition for naturalization, has been, a member of a Communist action organization, or who has advocated or belonged to any organization which advocates the economic or governmental doctrines of Communism or other forms of totalitarianism (Section 25(C)). These sections also provide that aliens who have within the preceding ten years been members of a Communist front organization shall be presumed to be persons not attached to the principles of the Constitution and unless they successfully rebut that presumption they shall be ineligible for naturalization. No such presumption arises, however, for an alien who withdrew from a Communist front group within three months after the organization registered or was ordered to register (Section 25(a)).

There must always be extreme circumspection in expanding instances in which aliens may be denied citizenship because of views which legally may be maintained by citizens. Nevertheless it might be argued (especially since other portions of this Act impose penalties even upon citizens for association with subversive groups) that membership in organizations required to register should be made a factor to be taken into account when the alien petitions for the privilege of naturalization. Traditionally, applicants for citizenship have been required to demonstrate "attachment" to the Constitution of the United States. In this connection it might be proper for membership in a registered group during a prescribed period immediately prior to the filing for naturalization (although the ten year period presently provided seems completely excessive) to constitute prima facie evidence of a lack of attachment.

Such membership, however, should constitute a mere presumption capable of being rebutted by the alien by evidence bearing on such factors as the nature of his membership in the group, his reasons for originally joining, the length of time he continued his membership and the reasons for his separation or resignation. In no case, however, either with respect to Communist front or Communist action groups should mere past membership constitute a flat prohibition against naturalization. It does not conduce to our national welfare to deprive persons of citizenship solely because of political beliefs which he no longer entertains or associations which he no longer continues.

Moreover, to protect innocent joiners an escape clause should be provided which would remove even the presumption with respect to all applicants for naturalization who have resigned from such organizations within three months after they had knowledge that it was Communist controlled or that it had been ordered to register. It is inadequate to provide, as in the present law, that persons who withdraw within three months after registration shall be exempted from this presumption. Section 9 of the Act requires that registration of a Communist organization be published only in the Federal Register, an official publication of limited circulation, rarely, if ever, seen by laymen. It is probable, therefore, that many members of registered groups will not be apprised, until after a considerable period has elapsed, that a final order requiring registration has been entered against their organizations. The critical factor, therefore, should be whether the alien resigned within three months of the time he became aware of the character of the organization of which he was a member.

For the first time in our naturalization laws the Act requires that applicants for naturalization be able to read and write English as well as speak it. There is no doubt that this unnecessary limitation will operate to exclude or deter from naturalization many who otherwise would be fully qualified for American citizenship. Clearly the provision bears no relationship to our national security or welfare.

The Act further provides that a person naturalized after January 1, 1951 may have his naturalization cancelled if within five years thereafter he becomes a member of any group which would have disqualified him from naturalization had he been a member of it at the time of his naturalization. By these provisions naturalized Americans became relegated to the category of "second class citizenship" with rights inferior to native born citizens. The Senate Minority Report declares that this section > presents an important question of whether naturalized citizens can or should be deprived of rights of association and expression which even this bill allows to other citizens. . . . We contend that the precious gift of American citizenship should not be revocable, even presumptively, merely on the basis of membership in an organization found to be a Communist front organization by administrative officers applying the loose and equivocal standards of Section 14 of the bill. Senate Report 2369, Part II, p. 19.

These provisions go counter to the tradition enunciated by the United States Supreme Court, that naturalization shall not be cancelled except upon "clear, unequivocal and convincing evidence." Schneiderman v. U.S., 320 U.S. 118.

IV. Emergency Detention

Section 102 of the McCarran Act authorizes the President to proclaim the existence of an "internal emergency" in the event of declaration of war, invasion or rebellion. In such an emergency the Attorney General may, in effect, intern any person "who(m) there is reasonable ground to believe . . . will probably engage in . . . acts of espionage or of sabotage."

After such detention the person arrested has the right to a hearing before a preliminary hearing officer. The decision of this hearing officer may be reviewed by a Detention Review Board and ultimately by the courts. But the Government is not required at such preliminary or Detention Board hearings to furnish information or evidence which would disclose the identity of informers or which the Attorney General believes "would be dangerous to national safety and security." The Board may also consider evidence whose public revelation would be dangerous to national security, which in effect means that such evidence may be withheld from the person detained or his counsel. The Act allows an appeal to the Courts but instead of a full review the courts must uphold the order of the Detention Board if it is supported by "reliable, substantial and probative evidence."

Since 1798, the Executive Department has had the authority, which it has frequently exercised, to restrain and regulate the conduct of enemy aliens during the time of war. 8 U.S.C. 21. This power has been sustained by the courts as a necessary incident of sovereignty and as a reasonable act of government to ward off internal attack. Moreover, this executive power has upon occasion been expanded to include detention of citizens who it is believed potentially endanger our national defense. During the last war, 100,000 persons of Japanese descent, 70,000 of whom were American citizens, were evacuated and interned without any hearing or the right of effective judicial review, solely on the basis of a Presidential executive order. Since this power exists and since it has been used and since it is likely that any future emergency would again bring about its exercise, the emergency detention sections of the McCarran Act, which provide for a system of administrative and judicial review, would have provided a salutary limitation on the arbitrary abuse of executive authority had they been drafted with complete regard for the requirements of fair hearing. They might then have provided some protection against a repetition of the Japanese evacuation in which internment occurred without charges, hearing or judicial review.

Unfortunately, however, by giving the Attorney General authority to withhold confidential evidence and testimony, the Act as presently written offers no meaningful insurance against improper imprisonment. Section 104(f) provides that in the event of Board or court review of any detention order, the Attorney General shall present his supporting evidence to the reviewing authority and to the detainee "to the fullest extent possible consistent with national security." Section 109(c) expressly states that in any cases arising from a petition for review, the Attorney General may not be required to furnish information the revelation of which "he believes would be dangerous to national safety and security." Finally, Section 109(g) goes further by permitting the Board "to consider under regulations designed to protect the national security any evidence of government agencies and officers the full text or content of which cannot be publicly revealed for reasons of national security, but which the Attorney General in his discretion offers to present." The section also provides that testimony taken before the Board shall be "reduced to writing and filed with the Board."

Taken in their context and given the most liberal possible interpretation, these sections permit the Detention Review Board, in passing upon detention, to consider evidence which would be excluded in any ordinary judicial or administrative proceedings. Admission of this evidence denies the accused a fair hearing. Section 109 authorizes the Attorney General, whenever he finds it necessary for reasons of national security, to submit to the Board a mere digest of the evidence supporting and justifying detention. He is permitted to withhold any information he feels is dangerous to disclose publicly. Withheld evidence may include such critical facts as the name of the informant, the source of the statements used against the detainee or the circumstances under which they were made. By permitting the withholding of these facts, the detainee may be seriously impeded in his efforts to disprove or contradict the evidence against him. His continued freedom will be adjudicated on the basis of the facts which he is not permitted to examine or to attack.

It may be conceded that in time of national stress a balance must be struck between exigencies of national defense and the rights of the individual. It may even be argued that such exigencies constitute sufficient reason for permitting the indefinite imprisonment of persons under this section on the sole ground that they might commit a crime, a test normally alien to our entire system of law. But under no circumstances can it be argued that the existence of an emergency justifies the detention of thousands of people without even informing them of the nature of the evidence against them or of the identity of their accusers.

V. Espionage and Sabotage Control

Only that part of the McCarran Act strengthening existing laws against sabotage and espionage makes a genuine contribution to our national security. Section 18 broadens the statutes relating to the handling of defense information by penalizing the transmission, loss or negligent handling of such information when the possessor has reason to believe it "could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of a foreign nation," or the withholding of such information when demanded by an officer or an employee of the United States entitled to receive it. Section 19 extends the statute of limitation for all non-capital espionage offenses to ten years.

Neither of these provisions is objectionable and both were endorsed by President Truman in his veto message.

MEMORANDUM

TO: NAIRO Executive Committee

FROM: Maury Fagan, President

It is most important that the Executive Committee meet for at least a full day at a very early date in order to think through the best ways of assuring NAIRO's permanence. You will recall that we were asked to determine whether we could obtain an Executive Secretary either on a professional or volunteer basis, what to do about a permanent office address for NAIRO, how to make NAIRO Reporter self-supporting, etc.

The Executive Committee meeting would also afford us an opportunity to meet with several members of the Program Committee in order to make final arrangements for our Annual Conference which will be held in Detroit November 14-16.

Will you, therefore, return the enclosed card indicating whether it will be possible for you to meet in New York City on Monday and Tuesday, July 16th and 17th, or Monday and Tuesday, September 10th and 11th. We will try, of course, to keep the meeting to one day, if possible, in order to keep expenses down to a minimum.

Returned 6/7/51 after consulting 9 SM by phone

Please don't feel that the items listed above constitute the complete agenda for the Executive Committee meeting. A complete agenda will be prepared later on the basis of all the needs that are brought to our attention.

Kind personal regards.

Dear Maury,

Complicated problem, that business of personnel requests.

Suggestion. Carry a notice in the REPORTER that an office (yours?) would receive such requests (being exclusively requests to be considered, or possibly also announcements of positions vacant) provided the requests conformed to stated limits on number of words, an the supply of correct information, and mimeo them for inclusion in the mailing of REPORTER to agency subscribers (only), for a fee of five dollars. The fiver would cover clerical costs and postage. Agencies would have to correspond directly with the individuals applying for jobs.

Another method would be for REPORTER to figure out a proper cost for Personals as ads, and run them.

I don't see how anybody's office could take on all the work of sorting the notices and trying to match people to jobs. That's a big one.

Best,

MEMORANDUM

TO: Executive Committee

FROM: Maury Fagan

Almost each week we receive a request for information and leads from persons wishing to become professionally employed in the field of intergroup relations. We have no means of taking care of such requests at this time and I would, therefore, appreciate your suggestions as to the best method of handling such requests.

Do you know of any NAIRO members who would be particularly qualified to serve on a committee to evolve and carry out a plan for operating a personnel exchange?

Rev. C. Emerson Smith
Room 202, 109 West Grace Street
Richmond, Virginia

Dear Emerson:

Here's a letter I've sent the various State Divisions and affiliates of the Council.

Maybe NAIRO has sent you some copies of the bulletin directly.

Anyway, I urge that the Virginia Department consider subscribing.

I vouch for NAIRO, and for the bulletin.

Sincerely,

Mr. A. D. Beittel
Talladega College
Talladega, Alabama

Dear Mr. Beittel:

Here are a ~~couple of copies of~~ Vol. I, No. 1 of a new monthly leaflet, put out by the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials.

It seems to me that it would be well for the Alabama Division to enter enough subscriptions for a copy to reach various of your officers. Subscription is three dollars a year, and may be sent in directly to the NAIRO at 276 Riverside Drive, New York 25.

A bulletin of this general order, but not as wide in coverage, was put out for some years by the American Council on Race Relations. When the American Council went under last year for lack of funds, the job of getting out a newsbulletin was taken up by NAIRO. It is a body of people working in the general field of human relations, governed by a Board of quite responsible people. The President for this year is Maurice Fagan, who works with the Jewish charities of Philadelphia. I have been a member of the Board for some years, and was last year elected a Vice President. You will see that the publication of the NAIRO Reporter is made possible by pooling information from nine or ten different organizations. Each of them has taken a block of subscriptions, to get the magazine started. If within a short time enough general subscriptions can be taken, the leaflet can continue, and grow.

It will help us all to be kept abreast in this way of what is happening in this field in the country as a whole.

Do consider what you will wish to do, and let me know. I am in hopes that the Council's various portions and affiliates will take out about fifty subscriptions.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

Civil Rights and the 82nd Congress

THE USUAL quota of civil rights bills has been introduced in Congress. They are given little chance of passage during the present session.

The strength of the anti-civil rights forces in both House and Senate was clearly demonstrated on the opening day of the Congress. In the Senate, Ernest W. McFarland (Arizona) and Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas), both opposed to cloture and to the civil rights program, were elected Senate Majority Leader and Senate Majority Whip respectively. In the House, a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats succeeded in repealing the "21-day rule," and by a vote of 244-179 restored the power of the Rules Committee to prevent any proposal it opposes from coming to a vote.

Last year, when a similar attempt was made to revoke the "21-day rule," President Truman twice publicly called for its retention and Speaker Rayburn took the floor in its behalf. This time, the President made no statement, the Speaker did not leave the rostrum. An analysis of the vote on this issue reveals that the balance of power in the closely divided House lay in the hands of the 51 newly elected Republican members; 44 of these voted to restore the Rules Committee's old authority.

Should the House once again pass an anti-poll tax, anti-lynch, or omnibus civil rights bill, it is likely to be pigeon-holed in the Senate Judiciary Sub-committee, of which James Eastland (D., Miss.) is Chairman. Graham A. Barden (D., N.C.), new Chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor, can be expected to exert similar influence to prevent consideration of FEPC by his committee. A majority of the members of the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, including the new committee chairman, James Murray (D., Mont.) on the other hand, have voted to report favorably in the past on FEPC and are likely to do so again.

Any attempt to bring FEPC to the Senate floor, however, may be expected to evoke a filibuster. Thirty-one of the men who voted against cloture on FEPC last year are members of the 82nd Congress and their ranks have been increased by the election of Frank Smathers (D., Florida) and Willis Smith (D., N.C.). Under the Hayden-Wherry rule, these 33 would be sufficient to prevent cloture even if every other member of the Senate should support such a motion.

To meet this situation, Wayne Morse (R., Oregon) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) introduced on January 18 S.Res. 41, which would permit cloture to be applied by a majority of those voting. Irving Ives (R., N.Y.) and Henry C. Lodge (R., Mass.) introduced another resolution—S.Res. 52—to impose cloture by majority of the Senate membership. In presenting his resolution, Senator Morse declared, "I happen to be one who believes that the putting into practice of the great civil rights guarantees of our system of government, as I see those rights, will forever be stymied until the procedures

With this first issue of NAIRO Reporter, the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials resumes the regular reporting of intergroup relations developments formerly provided by the American Council on Race Relations. NAIRO Reporter will attempt to present a complete and objective record of intergroup relations, trends, problems, research, programs and action. NAIRO Reporter will not attempt to propagandize for any particular viewpoint nor will it be a mere house organ.

An editorial board representing a cross-section of the individuals comprising NAIRO welcomes expressions of opinion, criticisms, suggestions and information considered worthy of being reported to the 1287 intergroup relations agencies in the United States.

The publication of NAIRO Reporter is being made possible for the present by the generosity of the American Jewish Committee, Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and the National Conference of Christians and Jews, who purchased a total of 1500 subscriptions. Its continuance after the first year, however, will depend upon the support which NAIRO Reporter succeeds in obtaining from those it is designed to serve.

NAIRO Reporter will be sent free of additional charge to each member of NAIRO. The first three issues will be sent free of charge to the 1287 intergroup relations agencies formerly serviced by the American Council on Race Relations. It is our earnest hope that each of the 1287 agencies will find NAIRO Reporter sufficiently helpful to warrant taking a paid subscription at $3 per year. Please mail checks directly to Frank S. Loescher, Treasurer, NAIRO, 260 S. 15th St., Philadelphia 2, Pa.

We hope that NAIRO Reporter will meet the need for comprehensive, reliable and objective reporting and that it will merit the confidence and support of all individuals and organizations who share with us the belief that this world holds nothing finer than man and no finer goal than brotherly living.

MAURICE B. FAGAN, President

FEP Campaigns in the States

Forty-four state legislatures will be in session during 1951. Information received at the time this issue of NAIRO Reporter went to press revealed that efforts to enact FEP laws were already underway in 17 states.

The campaigns in Indiana and Wisconsin are aimed at amending the existing FEP laws in those states by providing enforcement machinery. In the other states, the bills supported by the respective statewide citizens groups follow the pattern of the laws in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Washington, Oregon, Rhode Island and New Mexico in that they prohibit discrimination in employment because of race, color, creed, national origin or ancestry by employers, labor organizations and employment agencies and establish administrative bodies with authority to investigate complaints, hold public hearings and issue cease and desist orders which may be enforced in the courts.

A first step toward FEP legislation in Canada was taken February 10 when Premier Frost of Ontario declared that the Government intended to press a fair employment act modelled on New York's pioneer Ives-Quinn law "to assure to our people equality of rights to employment."

Since reports had not been received from all states by press time, the following recapitulation is not complete. It is hoped that more detailed information can be provided in succeeding issues.

Arizona: H.B. 15 introduced by Representative Kantus goes beyond most bills in that the Board's findings are declared to be "conclusive."

California: Bill introduced—no other information available.

Colorado: A comprehensive bill (H.B. 333) was introduced on February 14 by Earl Mann and Frank L. Hays, Republicans, and Elvin R. Caldwell, Democrat. A voluntary bill has been introduced in the Senate by Majority Leader Frank L. Gill (R.).

Upon the invitation of Governor Dan Thornton (R.), who called for an FEP law in his message to the legislature, Henry Spitz, General Counsel of the New York State Commission Against Discrimination, appeared before a joint session of the Legislature and presented the experience under the New York law.

The Colorado Committee for Equal Employment Opportunities, Suite 226, Empire Building, Denver 2, is spearheading the campaign. Judge Joseph C. Cook is Chairman; Mrs. Ruth Miller, Executive Secretary.

Illinois: FEP bills have been before the Illinois legislature in every session since 1943. In 1949, a bill passed the House only to fail by three votes of obtaining the constitutional majority necessary for passage in the Senate.

The Democratic Party platform contains an FEP plank and Democratic Governor Adlai E. Stevenson urged enactment of such legislation in his message to the General Assembly. The Republican Party, which has a strong majority in both branches of the legislature, has taken no stand on the issue.

On January 29, identical bills were introduced in both the House and Senate. The former (H.B. 73) has 25 sponsors (18 Democrats and 7 Republicans) and the latter (S.B. 67) 11 (10 Democrats and 1 Republican).

The campaign is being led by the Illinois Fair Employment Practice Committee, 130 N. Wells Street, Chicago 6. Albert J. Weiss is Executive Secretary. It is reported that commitments have been obtained for 68 of the necessary 77 House votes and 25 of the 26 votes needed in the Senate.

Indiana: A bill to amend the existing FEP law has been introduced under bipartisan sponsorship: Utterback (D.), Mackey (R.). The bill (H.B. 193) carries an annual appropriation of $50,000. (Bill passed the House, with amendments, on February 26 by a vote of 83-3.)

Both Republican and Democratic party platforms pledged an FEPC with enforcement powers. Political control in the state is divided, Governor Henry F. Schricker being a Democrat and the Republicans being in firm control of the legislature.

The Indiana Committee for Fair Employment, Box 702, Indianapolis, is heading the campaign.

Iowa: Bill introduced—no further information available.

Kansas: The report of the temporary commission created by the 1949 legislature to investigate employment discrimination is still being awaited. Meanwhile, a comprehensive FEP bill was introduced February 13 by Representative Myles Stevens (R.) of Kansas City. The Kansas Citizens Committee for Fair Employment Practices, Box 502, Manhattan, is coordinating the campaign.

Michigan: Two FEP bills have been introduced. H.B. 6, introduced on January 9 by House Majority Leader Montgomery (R.), applies to discrimination in hiring only; does not cover discrimination by labor organizations or by employment agencies; fails to provide any administrative machinery; and places sole reliance for enforcement upon criminal prosecution. The other bill (H.B. 122), introduced February 7 by Representative Louis C. Crampton (R.), is a comprehensive bill.

Governor G. Mennen Williams has strongly urged enactment of an FEP law. However, Governor Williams is the sole Democrat among the State Executive Officers and both houses of the legislature are overwhelmingly Republican. Accordingly, the Michigan Committee on Civil Rights is seeking to have a bill introduced under bipartisan sponsorship. Chairman of the Committee is the Most Reverend Francis J. Haas, Bishop of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Olive R. Beasley is Executive Secretary. Headquarters of the Committee are at 803 Washington Boulevard Building, Detroit.

Minnesota: Governor Luther W. Youngdahl (R.), in his inaugural address on January 3, pleaded "with all my heart and soul" for passage of an FEP law as "a devastating blow to the armor of the forces of darkness."

A bill to carry out the Governor's recommendation was introduced in both houses of the Republican controlled legislature on January 17. Sponsors of the Senate bill (Senate File 69) are Mullin, Rosenmeir and Vukelich; House sponsors (House File 74) include Representatives Peterson, Langley, Oberg, Dirlan and Chilgren. The bill creates a 9-member unpaid Commission with authority to eliminate discrimination "by conference, conciliation and persuasion." Upon the failure of this procedure, the Commission may request the Governor to appoint a 3-man Board of Review to hold hearings on the case at issue. Orders of the Review Board are enforceable in the courts.

The Minnesota Poll of Public Opinion reflects a marked rise in pro-FEP sentiment during the past two years. In January, 1949, 55% of those interviewed felt that the state should take no action in this field; an identical poll published in the Minneapolis Tribune on January 7, 1951, revealed that 72% of those interviewed expressed support of a state FEP law.

Chairman of the Minnesota FEPC Council is George W. Jensen, 25 North 3rd St., Minneapolis.

Missouri: An FEP bill (H.B. 207) was introduced before the General Assembly on February 6 by Representatives J. McKinley Neal of Kansas City and John W. Green and Leroy Tyus of St. Louis. All three are Democrats. The bill would make discrimination a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum of one year in jail and a fine of $500. In addition to discrimination because of race, creed or color, the bill forbids discrimination on account of "marital status, political or organizational affiliations, other than those advocating the overthrow of the United States government by force."

The bill applies to discrimination by the state and its political subdivision or "any private corporation." In the absence of specific definitions, it would appear that private corporations would be subject to the act regardless of the number of employees but that partnerships or individually owned enterprises would not be covered. No reference is made to discrimination by labor organizations or employment agencies.

Montana: H.B. 58, a comprehensive bill, has been introduced by Representatives Cook, Tripp, Holtz, Karlberg and Hess.

Dr. Wirth Joins NAIRO Board

Dr. Louis Wirth, Professor of Sociology and Chairman of the Committee on Education, Training and Research in Race Relations at the University of Chicago, has been elected to the NAIRO Board, where he replaces Louis E. Hosch, who has taken an assignment overseas with the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization.

Nebraska: The last session of Nebraska's unicameral legislature unanimously adopted a resolution stating that "legislation should be enacted to regulate fair employment practices in this state" and created a Legislative Council Committee on Unfair Employment Practices to study the problem. The report of this committee (Legislative Council Report 31, September, 1950) found that "discrimination does exist in Nebraska, that this discrimination amounts to unfair employment practices and that every effort to eliminate such discrimination should be made by legislative enactment."

An FEP bill (L.B. 69) has been introduced in this session by Senator John Adams of Omaha. As originally introduced, the bill applied to all employers in the state. A number of amendments have been made since which limit the bill's coverage to employers of more than ten, provide exemptions for non-profit fraternal, agricultural, educational and religious organizations, strengthen the educational provisions, and eliminate all penalties, while retaining provisions for court enforcement. The Adams bill, like the Connecticut act, defines discrimination so as to include segregation.

Headquarters of the Nebraska Citizens' Committee for Fair Employment Practices are at 1530 S. 22nd Street, Lincoln. Dr. Leroy T. Laase, head of the Speech Department at the University of Nebraska, is chairman of the Committee.

Ohio: Attempts to enact an FEP law have been made in the last three sessions of the Ohio legislature. In 1949, a bill with enforcement provisions passed the House; the Senate passed a "voluntary" bill and then rejected the report of the conference committee by a vote of 17-13. Governor Lausche and the Democratic party are committed to a bill with enforcement features. The Republican party, which is in firm control of the legislature, has promised "earnest consideration of all issues."

A bill supported by the Ohio Committee for Fair Employment Practice Legislation has been introduced under bipartisan sponsorship. Sponsors in the Senate (S.B. 26) are Joseph Nutt (R.) and Charles Carney (D.); House sponsors (H.B. 15) are Fess (R.), Schwartz (R.), O'Neil (D.) and Yoder (D.). A somewhat unusual feature of this bill is that the exemption granted to religious organizations applies only "when religious background is essential to the proper functioning of the employee in such employment." Two other FEP bills have been introduced: H.B. 6 (Damas and Avellone) is a comprehensive measure, H.B. 49 (A. G. Herman) is a voluntary "educational" bill.

The Ohio Committee for FEP Legislation is located at 241 Chester-Twelfth Building, Cleveland 14. Lockwood Thompson is Chairman.

Pennsylvania: Like Ohio, Pennsylvania is engaged in its fourth FEP campaign. The State Council for a Pennsylvania FEPC has been meeting regularly since the defeat of FEPC in June 1949 and has had two staff persons in its employ since July 1, 1950. Clarence E. Pickett is chairman of the Council and Richard A. Stimson, formerly with the Connecticut Interracial Commission, is Executive Secretary. The main office of the Council is at 212 N. 3rd Street, Harrisburg. The Council also maintains offices at 260 S. 15th Street in Philadelphia and 519 City-County Building in Pittsburgh.

Republican Governor John S. Fine is strongly committed to an FEP law and the bill introduced on February 5 by Representative Lewis H. Mintess (H.B. 55) has been presented as an administration measure. The bill follows the pattern of existing statutes and vests administration of the act in a commission of three to be appointed by the Governor within the Department of Labor and Industry. A comprehensive bill (S.B. 26) also has been introduced in the Senate by Albert R. Pechan.

Utah: Bill pending; no further information available, except that its enactment is being pressed by the Fair Employment Practices Committee of Utah, 260 E. First St., Salt Lake City (H. G. Ivins, Chairman; Gail Martin, Executive Director).

West Virginia: Comprehensive bill introduced February 8 by Senator Reed (R.). No further information available.

Wisconsin: Amendments to the existing non-enforceable bill have been sponsored by the Governor's Commission on Human Rights. They would empower the Industrial Commission to hold hearings and issue cease and desist orders. Further information is not available.

Other State Legislation

California: Upon the recommendation of Governor Earl Warren, a bill was introduced in the Assembly (A.B. 1902) creating a Commission on Political and Economic Equality, with a budget of $50,000, to "study conditions and to conduct hearings involving discrimination in the political and economic field" and to "develop a program of education for better relations between groups."

Connecticut: A fair educational practices bill (H.B. 1130) has been introduced in the House of Representatives by the Republican majority leader, Shapiro. A companion Senate bill (S.B. 413) has been introduced by Borden (R.). This bill is more comprehensive than the fair educational practices acts now in effect in New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts, in that it is applicable to schools at all levels, including trade and business schools, and applies to use of all school facilities as well as to admissions. Another Senate bill (S.B. 262) has been introduced by Longo (D.).

The existing Connecticut law prohibiting discrimination in public housing would be made applicable to publicly assisted housing by a pending bill (S.B. 34).

Georgia: On January 31, Governor Herman Talmadge signed a bill outlawing the wearing of masks or hoods by persons over 16 years of age, except at traditional festivals, and banning the burning of crosses on private property without the owner's consent.

Georgia's record budget of $207,505,708, adopted February 15, contains a provision to withhold all state funds from the public schools and the state university system, both white and colored, if any court should order the admission of Negroes to a white educational institution. Under the provision, funds are to be withheld from all public schools if any public school is required to admit a Negro, and from all units of the university system if any unit is required to admit a Negro. If any white school voluntarily admits a Negro, that school only is to be denied state monies.

Maryland: The final vestige of statutory segregation will be expunged from state's laws June 1. Twenty-three years of effort finally came to a successful conclusion on February 15, when the General Assembly repealed a 45-year-old statute requiring racial segregation on intrastate railroads and steamboats. An almost complete dead letter for years, the law has been enforced only on the Chesapeake Bay ferry system, which will itself pass into limbo when a bridge now building is completed.

Missouri: A bill to abolish segregation in public education at the elementary school level was introduced in the House in late January. Sponsors are four Negro members of the legislature: Victor Lay, John W. Green, Leroy Tyus and McKinley Neal.

New York: Senator Mahoney (D.) of New York City and Assemblyman Austin (R.) of Brooklyn introduced a bill to give the State Commission Against Discrimination—which administers the state FEP law—the same jurisdiction over places of public accommodation that it now has over employment. Passage of this bill—similar to one that died in Senate committee last year—would give New York's SCAD jurisdiction like that now exercised by Connecticut's Interracial Commission, Massachusetts' Commission Against Discrimination and New Jersey's Civil Rights Commission.

Oregon: The House has passed a bill (H.B. 46) which would make it unlawful for any vocational, professional or trade school licensed under the laws of the State of Oregon to discriminate in admission or in giving instruction on the ground of race, color, religion or national origin; and provide for revocation of license as a penalty for violation. The primary purpose of this bill is to correct a situation under which Negroes are unable to obtain the training necessary to get a beauty parlor license because all four schools of "cosmetic therapy" in the state refuse to accept Negro applicants.

South Carolina: The poll tax was abolished February 13, when the General Assembly ratified a Constitutional Amendment approved by popular vote last year.

Tennessee: A bill which, according to its sponsor, would effectively kill the poll tax has been adopted by both houses of the legislature with only one dissenting vote. The Governor said, "I'll sign anything that relieves the poll tax."

(Remaining poll tax states are Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.)

Here and There:

Probably the first Negro child ever to attend a public school in company with white children in the State of Virginia, which has a law requiring segregation, was admitted to the Quantico Marine Base school for children of base personnel early in February. Ethel Britt, 14, daughter of a master sergeant at the base, was enrolled in the Quantico School in what the base commander called "routine procedure". The base is federal property, and the school is maintained entirely by federal funds under federal authority. County Superintendent of Schools R. Worth Peters of Prince William County, in which the base is located, said the county exercised no authority over the Marine school.

Fifty citizens of Boston have been named by Mayor John B. Hynes of that city to serve on the Boston Committee on Civic Improvement. Creation of the Committee followed a period of inter-religious tension punctuated by a series of disturbances in the Hyde Park-Dorchester area of Boston. D. Leo Daly, assistant superintendent of Boston schools, has been named director of the Committee, the stated purposes of which are:

1. To help reduce tension incidents to the barest minimum;
2. To foster good will among various groups;
3. To recommend an effective educational program;
4. To search out the causes for tensions;
5. To examine into a method of eradicating these causes;
6. To espouse a method of discouraging vandalism on the part of juvenile offenders.

In announcing the annual Community Human Relations Award of the NCCJ for 1951 to South Bend, Indiana, Dr. Clinchy, NCCJ President, praised the recipient city highly. According to a "press fact sheet" on the award distributed by NCCJ: "There is no segregation in South Bend schools, at any level, public or parochial"; there is "no segregation whatever in public transportation; in health, welfare, and hospital services, there is no segregation or apparent discrimination; local hotels have gradually discarded discriminatory practices; in public recreation, there is no segregation or discrimination; it is not unusual to find sections wherein white and Negro families are quite evenly distributed, and this in middle-class neighborhoods; no discrimination or segregation is practiced by any local church."

The National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses, which voluntarily disbanded early in February, is said to be the first major Negro organization in the interracial field to go out of existence because the problems which gave rise to it were solved. A spokesman for the Association said that full integration of Negroes into the nursing profession is rapidly being achieved and that barriers in most nursing groups have been removed.

Negro opposition to the appointment of Millard F. Caldwell, former Florida Governor, as chief of the national civil defense organization was voiced by Clarence Mitchell, Director of the Washington Bureau of the NAACP at a Senate committee hearing.

In charging Mr. Caldwell with anti-Negro prejudice, Mr. Mitchell declared, "His record shows that he stands for limitation of our right to vote." He added that when Mr. Caldwell was Governor of Florida he carried his prejudice to the "ridiculous depth of omitting salutations in official correspondence to colored people" rather than use the customary "Mr."

"If a bomb drops," Mr. Mitchell said, "we do not want regulations that require citizens to run ten blocks to a separate racial shelter when one marked for 'white only' is just around the corner."

Mr. Caldwell, whose appointment since has been confirmed by the Senate, denied prejudice, adding, "I reserve the right to address any person . . . in such manner as I please and in accordance with my own views."

MEMORANDUM

TO: Edith Alexander, Frank Baldau, Marshall Bragdon, Joseph Bustard, Edward Howden, Mildred Mahoney, Irene Miller, George Mitchell, Helen Peterson, David Sawyer, Samuel Scheiner, Myron Schwartz and Frank Simpson

FROM: Maury Fagan, President

Dr. Lohman is extremely anxious to receive a specific reply as to whether your community would be interested in sending one or more police officers either to the proposed 4-week Seminar at Chicago University or to a two-week Seminar which was described in my letter to you of April 24th. If possible, will you reply by return mail to Dr. Joseph Lohman, University of Chicago, Department of Sociology, 4901 Ellis Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and send me a copy of your reply. Three cities have already indicated a desire to participate and will supply seven police officers. If the Seminar is to be held, there must be approximately 20 in the group.

If you need any additional information, feel free to telephone or write Dr. Lohman directly.

Kind regards.

Dear Maury:

I have to be near Philadelphia anyway for a couple of speeches July 18 and 19. So if the meeting of the Executive Committee of NAIRO should happen to come July 17 or 20, that would be extra easy on my budget. But I would be free before that or any time in September you might set it.

I think NAIRO is going to have to go to some big foundation for a sizable sum of money to do again what the American Council was doing and do it even better.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell

MEMORANDUM

TO: George Mitchell
Helen Peterson

FROM: Maurice B. Fagan

I struck a little snag when it came to the final arrangements for distributing the American Jewish Congress' analysis of the McCarran Internal Security Law. The AJC was perfectly willing to mail the analysis to our total membership and mailing list of some 1400 and to do so at its own expense. However, it would have been necessary to have given them our mailing list or to have taken care of the entire mailing ourselves.

When I checked with Arnold Aronson who had a copy of our mailing list, he raised a strong objection to the propriety of giving out our mailing list to any group. I then proposed to the AJC that we get the mailing out and that they stand the expense, which they weren't willing to do. It therefore is quite unlikely that we will mail the analysis.

This question of making our mailing list available is increasingly being raised as I indicated to you a few days ago. It is again raised by the American Journal of Sociology in a letter to me dated May 2nd in which it asks for our mailing list in order to promote a monograph entitled "The Moral Integration of American Cities". In exchange for our list the American Journal of Sociology offers to make its list of 4,000 available to us for similar purposes. Apparently, therefore, some groups do make their lists available. I wish both of you would give me your best judgment as soon as possible.

We should schedule a meeting of the Executive Committee either in late summer or early in September and probably in New York or the east because so many of our members have been put to the big expense of going out west in the past. How do you feel about the date and place of meeting? Would you like to meet in New York or here in Philadelphia at the Fellowship Commission Building and would late summer or early September be better for you? Should I suggest that the program and arrangements committees for the national conference also meet with us at that time?

It has been a fascinating thing to watch the many opportunities NAIRO has for being of tremendous service to the entire field of intergroup relations but at the same time somewhat discouraging to find out how unprepared we are to take advantage of such opportunities. The future of NAIRO and, in particular, how to service our own members in the field more adequately in the absence of a permanent secretary is perhaps the major problem which should be discussed at our next Executive Committee in addition, of course, to the details of the national conference.

At your convenience will you share with me your thoughts and recommendations for meeting the problems which will come with the regular change of officers, mailing address, etc.

Regular contact and communication with you is one of the real pleasures that has come with my election.

Cordial personal regards.

TO: Executive Committee

FROM: Maury Fagan

Constance Roach, Organization Relations Officer of the UNESCO Relations Staff, sent the following self-explanatory letter to me as President of NAIRO:

> "Thank you for your letter of May 25 concerning the representation of the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials at the Third National Conference.
> Since the conference is a national conference, invitations are issued to national organizations. However, in several instances, we have asked such national organizations to suggest the names of individuals who would be interested in coming and who would have a good deal to contribute to the conference. If you would like to submit a list of names to us, representative of the intergroup relations agencies throughout the country, we would be glad to extend to them an individual invitation.
> We would be happy to have the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials designate two representatives. We are also adding your name to our list of individuals to receive invitations."

Would you be interested in attending the Third National Conference of UNESCO at Hunter College, New York City on September 9 through 13, 1951? If so, please let me know as soon as possible. Do you want to suggest the names of any other persons in the field?

Kind regards.

David Danzig of the American Jewish Committee has suggested that NAIRO might look into the possibility of having some of the local private agencies connected with NAIRO included in Community Chests where their individual financial needs indicate that there is such a need. He suggested that possibly a sub-committee might determine in the first instance whether such affiliation is desirable and, if so, how NAIRO might be helpful if such help is desired from us.

How do you feel about the suggestion and do you feel we should discuss it at our next Executive Committee meeting?

Kind regards.

The Statler has got the wrong dope. I am coming, and they have saved me a room and have so notified me.

All right to put me down in a session.

Mrs. Whitby knows that I am going to talk twice on next Sunday at Plymouth Congregational Church. I'm skiddish about the morning preaching but sure of my ground in the evening forum. Shoo me some listeners for the evening meeting.

Dear George:

We just checked with the Statler Hotel to see whether or not you had sent in a room reservation for the NAIRO Conference next week. We find that you have not. We sincerely hope that you are coming.

We in Detroit have not had much to do with the planning of the program. That has been in the hands of Felix Gentile and Maury Fagan. However since we are handling all financial and physical arrangements we had to get busy on the loose ends of the program in order to get something ready for the printer. We have just arbitrarily decided to make some last minute shifts in program assignments and one of the things we have done is to list you as Chairman of the afternoon session on Wednesday, November 14 at 2 P.M. The responsibility will not be heavy. It will involve introducing a series of speakers who will talk on housing, education, employment, armed forces and other civil rights.

We have done this on the assumption that you will be coming. We will miss you very much in case you do not come. Until the last few days we were rather nervous about the program and the arrangements but it all looks good now. We think it will be one of the best conferences we have had. We are planning some good entertainment for our visiting delegates. If for no other reason we want you to come to enjoy Detroit hospitality.

Sincerely,

George

I would appreciate receiving at your earliest possible convenience copies of any official statements of policy by your Police Department with respect to the handling of racial and religious tensions, violence, etc., together with copies of any manual or instructions which have been issued to implement the policy.

Will you also advise me as to whether your Police Training School incorporates any work on human relations and whether and how it involves community agencies in its training program.

Is there any public relations program between the Police Department and community relations agencies such as ours? In particular, we are interested in how police develop better relationships in the various neighborhoods of your city between the police precinct and the local leadership and organizations in the neighborhood of the police precincts.

Whatever information or suggestions you can give that you feel would be helpful will be most appreciated.

Kind personal regards.

MEMORANDUM

To: Newly Appointed Committee Members

From: Harold A. Lett, President

I am taking this means of informing you of your appointment to committee duty.

The handicaps under which we are working, will require of you a kind of devotion to NAIRO which will urge you immediately to enter upon the tasks assigned. Will the Chairman begin his plans immediately to set each committee member to his particular job? Will each committee member take his responsibility so seriously that he will prod his Chairman, if need be? You see, I have not the facilities to do an individual follow-up job on 90 different assignments, as well as attend to other business of the office. Our success or failure in attracting financial help may rest largely upon the operations of our working committees.

MEMBERSHIP has a seriously important job--we need money and members! PROGRAM and FINANCE have their definite assignments which dare not be neglected. STANDARDS and PERSONNEL REGISTRY are new committees, the former with a long-term job and the latter being expected to get up some kind of machinery for very early use. Each of the others is extremely important, otherwise the Board would have discontinued them. RESEARCH and POLICE CONFERENCE X(a) and X(b) will work directly under master-committee X, chaired by Wirth, to help implement the plans of the "boss" committee.

We have begun the new year with a bang! The Board meeting was a "dinger" (filched from H.S.T.). We have decided to meet in Washington, D. C.--the Willard Hotel--November 12-14, 1952; and in Menneapolis in November, 1953. I'm confident that these two ensuing years will prove our ability to live and grow as a full-fledged, professionsl association, mature in every respect, as shown by our ready acceptance of responsibility and our efficiency in serving the national community. Good luck in tackling your job.

Dear Harold:

My apologies for taking so long to go over the Ford Foundation application. Here are my changes at last. I was out of town when your letter came, and I confess to having put off the job in the last few days, because on first reading the manuscript looked like it needed a deuce of a lot of changes. But what it really needs is not patches, but a new plot. And I don't know how we can get a whole new job done.

I would pass it, patched in the way I have, with other people's patchings too. And pass it the more readily because I greatly doubt that this, or any other document, is going to be what would get us the money. The Foundation would have to make up its mind from private conversation and inquiry.

So I say send it in, more or less as is.

Sincerely,

George S. Mitchell
Executive Director

Subject: Formal Application to Ford Foundation

Ed Howden's draft of the application to Ford Foundation came on Monday. I am sending a copy of it to you Air Mail Special Delivery for very drastic editing on your part so that it can be re-drafted at the earliest possible moment.

I have not had an opportunity myself to study it very carefully but at the very outset, I did find things with which to be dissatisfied. The opening paragraph immediately sounds a negative note. Rather than establish what we are, we start out by saying what we are not. This may be important but certainly not as an opening note. On Page 4, third paragraph, I get the impression that in selling our need for financial assistance, we cast grave doubts upon our maturity and ability to justify such help. On Page 5, there is more of the negative emphasis. I am merely trying to say that we want to be very sure of the impressiveness of our appeal before this application is submitted.

I am sure you are sufficiently impressed with the seriousness of immediate action in the preparation and submission of this application that you will make provisions for an immediate editing and its prompt return to me for re-drafting purposes. I then, will send a copy of the amended application to you with instructions to Ed Howden to make immediate contact and arrangements for follow-up.

Please give this immediate attention, even if it calls for sacrifice on your part.

Dear George:

I am enclosing a copy of the application which is being sent to Ed Howden today by Air Mail. I am asking Ed to submit this statement as soon as possible and to arrange for a follow-up conference as soon as it can be obtained.

In this connection, I have informed him as all others of the constituency of the Finance Committee under Frank's chairmanship, but have asked Ed to proceed by virtue of the original contacts he had made on the West Coast. In the meantime, I have suggested to him to let us know as early as possible if he will need the presence of other committee members, suggesting that he call upon Tom Wright as the one person nearest Ed's scene of action. As you know of course, this statement represents my version of the combined thinking of all of you who have submitted your ideas. May I say how grateful I am at the promptness with which you have responded to my appeal and for the great amount of help your response gave. I hope you are satisfied with the results. Should you see the need for any really important change or correction, will you send your ideas immediately to Ed Howden by Air Mail, Special Delivery or by wire. Also, if you have any ideas of contacts that may be made in the east or mid-west that would supplement Ed's activities in the west, let me have the benefit of your thinking.

Sincerely,

Harold A. Lett

NAIRO

It is with the hope and belief that the Trustees of the Ford Foundation will be interested in aiding in the development of a sound, constructive organization for professionals engaged in the important field of intergroup relations, that the officers of NAIRO present this petition. The National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials is the only common meeting ground in the Nation for professional workers and policy-makers who guide the destinies of more than 1,000 intergroup relations agencies, public and private, operating on local state and national levels. One common purpose of these agencies and their leaders is to achieve that kind of national unity which is possible only when mutual understanding, respect and helpfulness are exemplified between the various racial, religious and ethnic groups in our great country.

WHAT IS NAIRO?

The National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials is a free association of individuals, not of agencies or organizations, whose primary interests are in the field of intergroup relations as expressed through professional employment, policy-making responsibility, or scientific eminence and authority. It was established in 1947 in Chicago, Illinois, and is incorporated under the statutes of the Commonwealth of Illinois. The formation of NAIRO grew out of an early recognition of a serious need to bring together on a plane of mutual professional interest the growing number of public officials being assigned to intergroup relations departments in municipal and state governments, as well as the expanding group of leaders in private agency work in this field, that exchange of information, experience and techniques might enhance the effectiveness of all.

WHO CONSTITUTE NAIRO MEMBERSHIP?

Consistent with the purposes as originally set forth, NAIRO members are to be found in 71 cities of 30 states, the District of Columbia and Canada. They are employed staff members, board members and scholars identified with official state and municipal departments or agencies, with so-called private agencies on all levels, and with specialized fields of study in educational institutions throughout the country. They represent persons from many racial, religious and cultural elements who are concerned with the problems of minorities in every section of America. Their training and/or experiences represent a rich melding of the skills of the educator, with the knowledge and techniques of practitioners in the several social science disciplines, these in turn being leavened by the practical know-how of the political office-holder. The very diversity of NAIRO membership is the greatest proof of the need for a common meeting ground where the combined skills of people of stature and unquestioned influence in their respective spheres may be more effectively sharpened and utilized. If NAIRO were not already in existence, from every section of the country would be heard demands for the creation of such a medium as it represents.

WHAT HAS NAIRO ACCOMPLISHED?

1. One highlight in the development of NAIRO's program has been the holding of five annual, national conferences in which emphasis has been given to review and analysis of practical application of knowledge bearing directly or indirectly upon the field of intergroup relations. These programs fit aptly into the definition of interest as enunciated in the Report of the Study for the Ford Foundation on Policy and Program, where emphasis was placed upon the need for "increasing the use of the knowledge of human behaviour - - - - by planners, administrators, and policy makers in government, business and community affairs."(1) Attached copies of NAIRO conference programs will give concrete evidence of the degree to which the substance and leadership in these conferences have contributed directly to the raising of professional standards of performance, improving operating techniques and increasing ability to use all resources including the valuable tool, research.
